CLARENCE G. McDAVITT, Jr.

NEW CASHIER OF WINCHESTER NATIONAL BANK

Clarence G. McDavitt, Jr., starts today upon his duties as cashier of the Winchester National Bank. He comes to Winchester well qualified for the position which he will hold. Born in New Jersey, he has been a resident of Newton, Mass., for the past 18 years, where he attended the Newton schools. He graduated from Dartmouth College after an illustrious career upon the gridiron and track, and is well known to Dartmouth men. After graduation he was connected for some time with the Chatham Phoenix National Bank of New York City, where he served in the credit and other departments. He returned to Newton to become assistant cashier of the Newton National Bank, upon its organization, and was an important factor in building up the deposits of that bank to over $1,000,000 in less than a year. Recently, he has been conducting an investment service, as Investment Counselor, with considerable success. He is a young man with a personality that inspires friendliness and confidence in those with whom he comes in contact.

With his well-rounded and varied experience and qualifications, Mr. McDavitt brings to Winchester the assurance of rendering competent and cordial banking service upon the most modern lines to the thousands of depositors of the Winchester National Bank. He is anxious that the depositors and friends of the bank shall take the first opportunity to come to the bank, in order that he may make their acquaintance.

Mr. McDavitt will move from Newton in the near future and make his home in Winchester, where he already has many friends. His father, Clarence G. McDavitt, is well known as Vice-President of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

TO BE MARRIED SATURDAY EVENING AT BOSTON COLLEGE

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Lyons, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of Chestnut Hill, to James Joseph Fitzgerald Jr. son of Mr. James Fitzgerald of Oak street, will be solemnized Saturday evening in the chapel at Boston College.

While Winchester was not as gaily lighted during this Christmas season as in former years, there were nevertheless many attractive places about town. Especially beautiful was the display at St. Mary's Parochial Schol where four large electrically lighted trees flanked an illuminated marble statue, the whole outlined against the background of the school and surrounded with snow, making the picture a charming one.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES

A Christmas party—what does that mean. A Christmas tree, colored lights, bags of candy, gifts in gay wrappings, carols and music, sleigh bells and last but not least Santa Claus, himself, as master of ceremonies—all of these with delicious refreshments afterward make the Christmas party at the Nurses' Home of the Winchester Hospital on Monday evening, Dec. 22, one to be remembered.

The Nurses' Committee for the Christmas party, Miss Ota Thompson, Miss Dorothy Doucette and Miss Saran Norton, had arranged for an entertainment for the nurses and their guests before the arrival of Santa Claus. Miss Emma Revoire and Miss Anna Susan Revoire sang together in their usual delightful manner. Miss Dorothy Doucette gave an amusing sketch of a small boy at school. Miss Mary Logan delighted the audience with her singing and Miss Marion Hats entertained the group both with her piano selections and as accompanist for the evening.

The candy bags on the tree were made by the ladies at the Home for Aged People in Winchester and were filled with pop corn and candy presented to the nurses.

Santa Claus (somehow reminding everyone of the chief of staff) soon arrived to the accompaniment of jingle bells on the piano and the sound of sleigh bells in the distance. He had a busy hour distributing presents and was ably assisted by the committee of the evening and some of the faculty. Many gifts and appropriate jokes were plucked from the tree for the recipients in the audience.

Mr. Harold S. Fuller, president of the hospital, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Ordway, Mrs. Stillman P. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth Jr., Mrs. Herbert W. Kelley, and Dr. Clarence E. Ordway, coming later in the evening, were present as guests.

The assistants and helpers at the hospital had their tree and party in the special nurses' room on Dec. 23. The jokes and large number of gifts exchanged gave Santa Claus (Mr. James Gordon) a busy evening. This tree was enjoyed very much by everyone who attended.

The superintendent of the Winchester Hospital is very grateful to all those who by their generous gifts of money and time and energy made Christmas at the hospital a delightful occasion for both patients and nurses. Because of these gifts, it was possible to procure a bus to take the entire school of nurses who were off duty into Beacon Hill on Christmas eve, where they formed groups and sang carols together as they went along. Sandwiches, coffee and sundaes were obtained at Seifer's before their return. In Winchester they sang carols at the homes of Mr. Fuller and Dr. Ordway.

The George Washington School children made gay little boxes and sent them filled with candy for all the patients and nurses in the hospital. The patients received theirs on their breakfast trays and the nurses at dinner. Dainty Christmas menus contributed by a friend of the hospital and jolly little favors decorated the dinner trays of the patients.

Twenty-five pounds of pecans were received from Mr. Hurt of Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Harlan P. Kelsey of the Kelsey-Highlands Nursery sent 12 little spruce trees in birch bog pots with scarlet saucers for Christmas trimmings. The girl scouts provided two little table trees trimmed and set up for the children's wards and the Metcalf Union of the Unitarian Church sent table trees decorated for the women's ward and for the men's ward.

Dr. Martin D. Sheehan of Stoneham, before he left for his South American trip, planned and ordered two beautiful wreaths, one for the front door of the hospital and one for the door of the nurses' home.

The faculty and nurses appreciate very much the devotion of their glee club instructor, Mr. Barkeley of Quincy, who gave from his busy Christmas Day, time to come from Quincy to Winchester and help lead the nurses in their carol singing from 6 to 6:30. Christmas morning. The nurses sang their carols in the hospital at that hour and gave to some patients who had been in the hospital rather a long period an extra measure of carol singing.

Just before the carols for 15 minutes, Mr. Benjamin P. Browne, minister of the Baptist Church, held a short service in the entrance hall of the hospital. A Christmas carol, the Lord's Prayer, a prayer by Mr. Browne and a short talk comprised this service.

There were many visitors to the hospital on Christmas afternoon. The rule "no children under 12" was waived, so that several patients were rejoiced to have a visit from their younger children.

The youngest of all were the Christmas twins, a boy and girl born at the hospital late in the afternoon.

The New Year's dance of the Training School was held at the Unitarian Church on Dec. 29. The chaperons for the dance were Mrs. George X. Proctor, Mrs. Harold S. Fuller, Mrs. Herbert W. Kelley, Mrs. Henry B. Sawyer and Mrs. Alexander S. MacDonald and the nurses' committee were Miss Dorothy Sherborne, Miss Lucy Anderson Miss Alice Spear, Miss Barbara McCurdy and Miss Ann Cox.

It was a delightful party and Christmas festivity was again echoed in the decorations and the colors of the refreshments. Great credit it due the committees who worked so hard to make this affair such a success.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry Price of Scarsdale, N. Y., are the parents of a daughter, Patricia, born Dec. 13.

WATER DEPARTMENT EMPLOYEES ENJOYED CHRISTMAS PARTY

A most enjoyable Christmas party was staged by the employees of the Water Department at the shop on Lake street at the close of the working day Christmas Eve.

Luncheon was served by Callahan, local caterer, with Foreman William A. Nowell acting as toastmaster. Supt. Harry W. Dotten was taken completely by surprise when Mr. Nowell presented him, on behalf of the gathering, with a fine Telechron clock as a token of the regard in which he is held by his associates. Foreman John A. Hall was presented with a signet ring and Miss Marjorie Mobbs, clerk at the Lake street shop, received a handsome brooch. Miss Martha W. Green, Water Registrar, and Miss Elizabeth Duncan, clerk at the Town Hall office of the Water Department, were given boxes of candy.

CANDLELIGHT NEW YEAR'S SERVICE

The first service in the Sunday evening series for 1931 at the First Baptist Church will feature an original candlelight benediction. A special group of young people under the direction of Miss Eda Knowlton will present in symbolic mood a lighted candle to every worshipper at the service. The pastor, Rev. Benjamin P. Browne will speak on "The Light of the Present World."

John Percival, a baritone of distinction, will be heard in several appropriate selections.

Next Sunday evening Rev. Henry H. Stafford of the New Old South Church, Boston, will be the preacher. Rev. Raymond Calkins of Cambridge is also one o fthe January preachers to be heard at these Winchester Sunday evening hours.

Another attractive service in this series will include an hour of musical worship when Miss Virginia Warren, soprano, of Paris and Winchester, will be heard in sacred solos and Mr. Whittemore, formerly accompanist for Emma Eames, will give a brief organ recital.

PATROLMEN NOONAN AND O'CONNELL CHOSEN

Named New Police Sergeants by Selectmen Monday Evening

Patrolmen John H. Noonan and Edward W. O'Connell were promoted to the rank of sergeant in the Police Department by the Board of Selectmen at its meeting last Monday evening. In the recent civil service examination for sergeant, taken by most of the patrolmen in the local department, Officer Noonan headed the list with a mark of 84.88 per cent. Officer O'Connell was second with 83.15 per cent. Both men made excellent showings in the examination for chief of the department, held during the past summer and resulting in the selection of Senior Sergeant William H. Rogers as head of the local police force.

The appointment of Chief Rogers created a vacancy, necessitating the selection of a new sergeant, and the second sergeant was appointed, upon the recommendation of the Chief, so that a ranking officer can be in charge of the station at all times.

Both new sergeants are Winchester boys, born and bred. Officer Noonan was born Aug. 13, 1895, and attended the Winchester Schools, being a member of the class of 1914 at Winchester High. He was appointed a patrolman Nov. 22, 1920, and went on duty Dec. 1 of the same year, his appointment being confirmed June 6, 1921. During the World War Sergeant Noonan was a corporal in the 23rd Regular Cavalry, stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, but operating at many army posts throughout the country. He is a member of Winchester Post, 97, A. L., and of Winchester Lodge, 1115, B. P. O. E. He is married and makes his home at 7 Prime avenue. Sergeant Noonan is best known to residents of the town as a traffic officer, having been on duty in the center during the day time for the past four years. His efficient handling of traffic has aroused favorable comment, alike from citizens and officials.

Sergeant O'Connell was born Dec. 8, 1898, and finished his schooling with the high school class of 1918. He was appointed a patrolman March 22, 1922, and went on duty April 1, his appointment being confirmed Oct. 1 of the same year. He served for 22 months with the rank of corporal in Motor Transport Company G of the Massachusetts National Guard. Sergeant O'Connell makes his home at 66 Sylvester avenue, is married and has four children. He is a member of Winchester Council, K. of C. In addition to the duties of patrolman, Sergeant O'Connell has served as motorcycle unit, and Oct. 5, 1924, while acting in this capacity, was credited with the arrest of James Nelson, notorious burglar, who was sentenced to State's Prison for breaking and entering a Bacon street home. Nelson was surprised on the third floor of the house by Patrolman Daniel Kelley, and leaped from a window to the piazza roof and thence to the ground. He was overtaken by Officer O'Connell at the Country Club.

SAMUEL STOWELL SYMMES, JR

Samuel Stowell Symmes, Jr., son of Samuel S. and Mirriam Rice (Johnson) Symmes, of 7 Sanborn street, died suddenly Wednesday morning, Dec. 31, while at work in the barn on his father's farm. He had gone as usual to attend to his morning duties, but was so long in returning that his mother became alarmed and with a neighbor, Albert V. Wilson of Main street, went to see what had delayed him. On their way they were joined by Dr. Harold A. Gale, who fortunately had been making a professional call in the immediate neighborhood.

When they arrived at the barn they found that the young man had been stricken ill, and had collapsed on a pile of hay. He was beyond medical aid when he was discovered.

Mr. Symmes had never enjoyed good health, but following an illness just before Christmas, had been feeling unusually well, and was in especially good spirits on the morning of his death. Two years ago he underwent an operation, performed by a prominent New York surgeon in the hopes of relieving him of severe illnesses with which he had been regularly afflicted, but the operation did not prove to be successful.

Mr. Symmes was born on Christmas day 33 years ago. He was the ninth in direct line from Rev. Zachariah Symmes, to whom were granted the 500 acres in what was then Charlestown which was later to become Waterfield, South Woburn and then Winchester. The young man was born on a part of the original grant.

He attended the Winchester schools and Huntington School in Boston, but poor health prevented the completion of his education. He had been for some years associated with his father in the milk business, carrying on patiently and bearing without complaint an affliction which was an especially heavy one for a young and otherwise robust man. He took the keenest interest in the events of Winchester's recent Tercentenary celebration and was able to attend during that time the reception given to Mayor Collis of Winchester, Eng., at which his father was a speaker.

Surviving, besides his parents are two brothers, Lawrence of New York City and Russell Symmes of Nashua, N. H.; and a sister, Mrs. Walter P. Keyes of this town.

The funeral is to be held this Friday afternoon at the late residence, with the Rev George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. Interment is to be in the Symmes family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

BENJAMIN M CAMPBELL

Benjamin M. Campell, a veteran of the Civil War and Past Commander of Dahlgren Post, No. 2, G. A. R., of South Boston, died last Friday evening, Dec. 26, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jennie E. Farrell, 6 Sargent road, after a three weeks' illness. During the past winter he became ill while in Florida, and returning to Winchester during the latter part of July, grew steadily worse until the end.

Mr. Campbell was born in Salem 87 years ago, the son of Joseph and Mary C. (Yell) Campbell. In his youth his parents moved to Boston and he spent the greater part of his life in that city, receiving his education in the Boston schools. As a young man he engaged in the teaming business and later was, until his retirement 15 years ago, in the employ of the City of Boston in the Department of Bridges. He came to make his home with his daughter two years ago.

Sept. 17, 1861, he enlisted in Co. K of the 19th Massachusetts, serving throughout the Civil War and seeing action in such famous engagements as Ball Run, Little Round Top, the Seven Days' Retreat, Antietam and Gettysburg. He was honorably discharged Sept. 17, 1864. He was a charter member of Dahlgren Post, G. A. R., of which he was past commander, he was a member of Rabboni Lodge of Masons in Dorchester and of St. Petersburg Lodge of Elks.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Arthur H. Farrell, and by two grandsons.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the Farrell home, the Grand Army service being exemplified by George Hall of Dorchester, past commander of Dahlgren Post. The Episcopal ritual was read by Rev. Truman Heminway, rector of the Church of the Epiphany. Interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Dorchester.

MRS. LYDIA B. WEBSTER

Mrs. Lydia B. Webster, 91, widow of James B. Webster, died Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 31, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harold F. Simon, 38 Church street, after a long illness. Eighteen months ago she sustained a broken hip and had been bed ridden since that time.

Mrs. Webster was a native of South Berwick, Me., and came of a distinguished line. Her parents were Isaac and Mary (Butler) Smith and she was a direct descendent on her mother's side from Mehitable Goodwin, who in 1690 was captured by the Indians and taken from South Berwick to Quebec, where she was held prisoner for five years. Her father's people were among the original settlers of Sandwich, N. H., and he, as a member of the Lowell firm of Smith & King, built the engines for the old Boston & Lowell Railroad after the imported English model "Johnnie Bull." Her father's firm also built a part of the old canal which ran from Lowell to Boston through Winchester.

After living for a time in Lowell, Mrs. Webster moved to East Boston, where she completed her education and taught school for a number of years. Following her marriage she made her home in Malden where Mr. Webster was founder and a member of the firm of Lord & Webster, wholesale hay and grain merchants. For the past 12 years she made her home in Winchester with her daughter, who is her only survivor.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, with the Rev. B. W. Hook, former pastor of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church, officiating. Interment will be in the family lot at Mt. Auburn.

WHEN GRIEF IS HEALED

(Written for The Winchester Star)

Winchester is full of grief,
Sorrow o'er sorrows roll,
And the far hope that brings relief
Doth sometimes pierce the soul.
The Sabbaths peaceful bound
Bears mercy's holy seal,
A balm of Gilead for the wound
That man is weak to heal.

THE ATLANTIC NATIONAL, BOSTON'S OLDEST COMMERCIAL BANK

With the coming of 1931, the Atlantic National Bank of Boston enters upon its 103rd year of service to the community. The Atlantic, Boston's oldest commercial bank, was established in 1828 with an original capital of $500,000. Steady growth together with mergers of other banks with the Atlantic have brought total resources of this institution to about $175,000,000 making it one of the foremost banks in New England.

Besides the main office at 10 Post Office Square, the bank maintains 12 other offices at various centers throughout the city. Many Winchester people who have occasion to visit Boston frequently have found it convenient to carry their accounts at the Canal Street Office, 98 Canal street, because of its close proximity to the North Station. Others, particularly the women, find that the Tremont street office, 144 Tremont street, between Temple place and West street, makes banking for them merely a pleasant incident to a tour of the down shopping district. adv.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The event which was, of course, destined and which has been eagerly awaited by the millions who listen-in to Amos 'n' Andy, is at hand. The first all-talking motion picture to be made by the greatest stars of radio will be shown at the University for four days starting Sunday. "Check and Double Check" present Amos 'n' Andy and their Fresh Air Taxicab Company of America Incorpolated, as well as the Kingfish, Lightnin' and the other characters of the radio. A brilliant cast of players is seen in support of Amos 'n' Andy, including Irene Rich, Ralf Harolde and Charles Morton.

"Outward Bound" the companion feature with Leslie Howard, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Helen Chandler, Beryl Mercer and other famous actors, is an adaptation of the Sutton Vane play by the same name, which set New York and London agoo several seasons ago.

"The Bat Whispers" which starts Thursday for three days features Chester Morris. In the cast are Una Merkel, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Ben Bard, Maurde Eburne and William Bakewell. It is said to be one of the most startling thrillers ever presented on the talking screen.

Walter Huston and Kay Francis have the chief roles in "The Virtuous Sin" the companion feature. It is the story of a married woman whose romance with a war-embittered Russian army officer forms the dramatic crux of a thrilling adventure.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

The natural attitude of the human soul is an expectant one. A better time coming is an inheritance of which Winchester's most miserable cannot be despoiled, and which Winchester's most favored have need of. The healthy heart feels that it has not yet learned to enjoy its blessings to the full, nor yet received the best blessings that are meant for it. Youth looks onward to the successes it is to win, the ties it is to form, its future acquisition of knowledge, of affection, of honor or of wealth or usefulness; and when these hopes fade away, either in fulfillment or disappointment, others succeed them; and when the whole procession is closed and earth and time can offer no more, the poor wayfarer can at least sit down and reflect on God's blessings.

As long as there is life there is hope. We can bear adversity so long as there is hope of deliverance. We can suffer patiently in the expectation of a relief and a soothing to come. We can let the sun go down in darkness as long as we can turn and wait for its rising again in the East.

THE NEW PRISON AT NORFOLK

To the Editor of the Herald:

I thank you most heartily for your editorial comments on Monday concerning the new prison at Norfolk. The prominent position which you gave this editorial insured its being read by a very large number of people. So few of your readers have understood what has already been done at Norfolk and what is expected to be done there in the future that your editorial was most timely. While a large part of the work has been done by inmates at a great saving of expense to the state and a great benefit to the workers, there are certain buildings that should be done by contract without the aid of inmate labor.

I hope that an appropriation will now be made so that a considerable number of these buildings may be constructed in 1931, and the remainder in 1932. With a large number of skilled workmen out of employment, with building materials the lowest for several years, this would seem to be the time to do the work, so that as soon as possible the prison at Charlestown may be permanently closed.

There is still much work that can be done to advantage by the inmates inside the wall. Besides, the state owns about 1000 acres of wild land adjacent to the prison which can be cleared and improved the same as has been done at Bridgewater and Concord, and by using this land, the cost of provisioning the men can be considerably reduced, compared with what it now costs at Charlestown.

It is most interesting and encouraging to learn that the Rockefeller Foundation is to give $10,000 per year for the next five years to carry on the case work, so called, in which Commissioner Stearns and Mr. Gill are so much interested. This work is attracting most favorable attention from those who are trying to find out some of the causes of crime in our land, seeking, if possible, to discover a way in which to remove them—at least in part.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

Packed with all the steel-fisted action of the original story, "The Silver Horde," the famous Rex Beach novel, comes to the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday for a seven day engagement. Jack Oakie's new comedy hit "Sea Legs" will be the second attraction on the program opening on Saturday. In "The Silver Horde" Evelyn Brent is seen as Cherry Malotte, with Louis Wolheim, Joel McRae, Blanch Sweet, Jean Arthur and Raymond Hatton in important roles. "The Silver Horde" is considered the most powerful of all Rex Beach stories. The novel concerns an epic struggle among the sledge-fisted Alaskan salmon fishermen, highlighted by an unsual romance.

In "Sea Legs," Jack Oakie has a great supporting cast including Lillian Roth, Harry Green, Eugene Palette and "Tom" Ricketts to help him in getting the laughs. "Sea Legs" is an out-and-out laughing matter, without a serious moment to halt the hilarity. Its plot is built about the humorous wise-cracks written by the master of American slang, George Marion, Jr., and slung to good advantage by Oakie.

"The Bad Man," closes its run at the Mystic on Friday. "For the Love of Lil" with Jack Mulhall, Sally Starr and Elliott Nugent as the stars, is the second feature on the current bill.

The world gives it admiration not to those who do what nobody else attempts, but to those who do best what others do well.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE

Never in the history of the Somerville Theatre has the writer seen the equal of "The Desert Song" produced at this local playhouse. Not only was the production far above what one might expect, but the singing and acting were a surprise to the Monday night audience, who lingered several minutes after the final curtain and applauded a production worthy of Boston or any other large city.

Sally Serrand, Prima Donna, who played Margo, gave Somerville Theatre patrons a voice of silver. With this wonderful voice go a charming personality and a mannerism of sweetness that are not always found in a singer. Jaon Danton, another of the New York cast, as Azuri, Ben Ali's favorite, came in for her share of the glory. Richard Argyle, of the original company as Captain Paul exploited a splendid baritone voice and was convincing as the jealous lover. Milton Karniel, as Hassi, another of the original cast gave a fine bass solo, rendered in a dramatic way his good-bye to the Red Shadow, at the end of the desert. Felice Sera solo dancer, formerly with Albertina Rasche Company, gave the Somerville audience, dancing the like of which they have never witnessed. Her dancing alone is worth a trip to the Somerville Theatre. Frank Farrara, as Sid El Kar, has a voice of quality and sweetness. Needless to say "Billy" Dale has the best comedy role he has yet had in Somerville and he made the most of it. Mary Young as Clementine, the Spanish lady aided greatly to the big comedy scene with "Billy" Dale. Frank Thomas as General Birabeau was a picture in his French uniform. Dorothy Rees as Susan, gave her best work since her appearance in Somerville. Malcolm MacLeod as Ali Ben Ali was a picture.

Now the surprise to the general public. One does not expect a singing voice of excellent quality in a dramatic actor. Walter Greaza was a surprise. Not only has he an excellent singing voice, but his understanding of music, plus his good acting enabled him to give a perfect performance of "The Red Shadow" which he did Monday night. Al Luttringer deserves credit for giving Somerville patrons the biggest and best thing ever offered on the Somerville Theatre stage.

So excellent the performance, so big the production, Mr. Luttringer has decided to keep "The Desert Song" on a second week. Those who have not secured their seats this week may now order for next week. There is no raise of prices for this mammouth production.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in "Min and Bill" and "Half Shot at Sunrise," with Wheeler and Woolsey, will be the double feature program which opens a seven day engagement at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. "Min and Bill," which marks the first co-starring appearance of Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, is an adaption of the popular novel "Dark Star." The story is a dramatic tale of the conflict between foster-mother and natural mother for the control of a child, laid among the sordid surroundings of a fishing village. Miss Dressler, as the keeper of a disreputable waterfront dive, is seen in her first character role since "Anna Christie" and Beery as the sea-captain, likewise plays his first straight role since "The Big House."

In "Half Shot at Sunrise" Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey break out in another laugh riot that is even better than their first starring success "The Cuckoos." As two wayward soldier lads who take the war anything but serious, Wheeler and Woolsey give a good imitation of what France was't like in war time. A. W. O. L. in Paris, "Bob" and "Bert" go through a series of comedy situations that are side-splitting to the audience. "Half Shot at Sunrise" has no plot to speak of but it certainly is funny and those who enjoyed "The Cuckoos" will get a big laugh out of this new hit.

Harold Lloyd's new comedy "Feet First" has been drawing capacity audiences to the Granada where it will be shown through Friday of this week. "The Office Wife" with Dorothy Mackaill and Lewis Stone as the stars, is the second attraction on the current bill.

FROM MR. CRAUGHWELL

To the Editor of the Star:

Some folks believe that the members of the Finance Committee should be elected instead of being appointed. I for one firmly believe that the present method of appointing members to the Finance Committee is far superior to electing members to that very important committee. Why? Because the Moderator and the chairman of the Finance Committee have abundant opportunity to ascertain the qualifications of the folks who desire to become members of the Finance Committee. If we elect the members to the Finance Committee from the various precincts, there is a possibility that some popular persons will be elected who have no conception whatsoever in regard to municipal finance. We appoint our Town Engineer, Superintendent of Streets, Superintendent of Schools, Chief of the Police, Lieutenant, Sergeants and Patrolmen, and Chief of the Fire Department, Inspector of Milk, and Wires;—as for the Fence Viewers, they are on both sides of the fence. Hence on next Monday night your humble servant shall vote to follow the same procedure that has functioned so efficiently for years; namely the appointment of the members of the Finance Committee.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

PARLIAMENT PONDERS LOSS OF SKULL

Announcement in the British Parliament that "the skull of Sultan Mkwawa" cannot be found recalls the frantic hunt for news of this former African potentate when, in the Versailles Treaty, Germany solemnly promised to hand the relic over to the British Government. Although the agreement was that the skull be delivered within six months, this provision of the Treaty has never been complied with, and it is now explained that the spull cannot be found in Germany and that it is believed to have been buried in Africa.

Magical Properties Ascribed to Relic

The skull of Mkwawa was important enough to be mentioned in a world treaty, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, because it was believed by his tribesmen to have magical properties. By returning it for tribal veneration it would be possible for the new government to enjoy the good graces of Mkwawa's people.

The skull came from what is now Tanganyika Territory, a British mandated area. Before the World War it was German East Africa, one of the most promising of the German colonial possessions. It was during the period of German control that the skull was removed from possession of Mkwawa's tribesmen.

Germans Collected Many Skulls from Area

Possibility that the skull may have lost its identity in a wealth of anthropological specimens rather than have been lost physically, is disclosed by a report of Adolphus Frederick, Duke of Mecklenburg, in regard to his scientific studies in German East Africa in 1907-08. In writing of the work of his expedition the Duke stated that 1017 skulls and about 1000 ethnographica were collected.

There are many "sultans" in Tanganyika Territory; for since the coming of Mohammedanism every petty ruler assumes the title. The religion has made great headway especially along the coastal regions where it was introduced hundreds of years ago by Arab traders and colonists.

CHANGING THE PLANT GEOGRAPHY OF THE UNITED STATES

Award to Dr. David Fairchild, botanist and agriculture explorer, of the George Robert White medal, highest horticultural honor in America, bestowed by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, oldest and most distinguished society of its kind in the country, calls attention to the vast changes in the plant geography of the United States.

Thirty-three years ago, Dr. Fairchild organized the work in the Department of Agriculture which crystallized in the Office of Foreign Plant Introduction, has introduced into the United States more than 80,000 separate species and varieties of useful plants, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

These new plants have added to the beauty and variety of the public parks and private gardens from coast to coast, and have enhanced the value of agricultural products by millions of dollars annually.

Corn "Fair and Good"

From the days of the Pilgrims, America's first plant explorers, who found "Indian baskets, filled with corn, some whereof was in ears, fair and good, of divers colors," until today when any train or airplane ride, or walk through city parks or country-side reveals immigrant plant life, the plant geography of the United States has been vastly and continually transformed.

But it was not until the young man from one of the country's first great agricultural colleges, that of the State of Kansas, became identified with the Department of Agriculture, in Washington, and was called upon by Secretary James Wilson to organize the work of foreign plant introduction that the government engaged, systematically and scientifically, in this basic work of economic agriculture.

Seek Plants in Jungle and Desert

Dr. Fairchild engaged in his first searches for new plants to introduce as the agricultural explorer attached to the expeditions of Barbour Lathrop. Then, and since, he and his associates have penetrated jungles, marshes and deserts to discover plants which would yield new food and fruits for the American table, raw materials for American factories, or would add new color and form to our gardens.

In 1906 after eight years of foreign exploration he resumed charge of the Office of Foreign Plant Introduction, an office which has engaged in one of the most adventurous, romantic and useful tasks of any government bureau. He now is attached to it as a special agricultural explorer, with his office in Washington, and a winter home in Coconut Grove, Fla., where in the large Federal Plant Introduction Garden and in his own private garden he experiments with the many useful, exotic tropical plants, shrubs, trees and flowers he collects on his pilgrimages to distant parts of the earth.

The Magellans of Plant Exploration

Under his supervision or with his co-operation more than 30 expeditions have been sent out, with such explorers as Frank Meyer, T. H. Kearney, W. T. Swingle, Mark Carleton, Joseph F. Rock, Neils Hansen, Wilson Popenoe and P. H. Dorsett as leaders. They have brought back plants, shrubs, trees, vegetables, grains and forage crops which have beautified or made more valuable hundreds of thousands of acres of gardens, parks and farm lands of the country.

Among these introductions were the dry land elm, brought by Meyer from China, now thriving from Louisiana to the Canadian border; superior varieties of the Chinese and Japanese persimmons, once a curiosity, now frequent in American market stalls; the popular sorts of the avocado (Alligator Pear) which Popenoe found after two years' search among the mountains of Guatemala; the Pistachio nut of the Levant, and the soy bean of the Orient, now grown on three million acres of land all over the United States.

The Office of Foreign Plant Introduction under Dr. Fairchild's direction has accumulated the most extensive collection of original field descriptions of useful crop plants in existence, the largest seed collection of economic plant species, and the greatest collection of photographs of useful plants in the world.

Sorghum, Dates and Bamboo

Of the plants which Dr. Fairchild personally collected, one of the most important is probably the Feterita sorghum from the Sudan, an important grain and forage crop for Arizona and California, several million dollars worth of which is now being grown annually.

He also brought in the Persian Gulf dates from Baghdad and the tung oil tree introduction from China, whose nuts furnish the "wood oil" of the paint and varnish industry.

It is largely through the initiative of Dr. Fairchild that groves of the oriental bamboo have been established in America.

Tropical Plants in Demand

More and more do industry, medicine, and food purveyors look to the tropics for sources of supply—such tropical crops as rubber, which makes possible the automobile; quinine, which is man's first line of defense against malaria; and coffee which is to Brazil what cotton is to our Southern States. Therefore in recent years Dr. Fairchild and his associates have explored into the more remote tropic jungles and forests. His quest for new plants has led him through the Dutch East Indies and the South Sea Isles into Siam, New Guinea and Ceylon, along the border land of the Persian Gulf, and has extended, in southern latitudes, to the interiors of New Zealand and Australia.

Auto Hospital on Wheels

Stranded autoists in France are being given first aid by an auto hospital on wheels which travels the highways. The car is equipped with tools to repair disabled cars. To carry out the idea the top of the car is decorated with the head and flowing veil of a nurse. The ambulance for autos is decorated by a manufacturer to advertise his product.

According to current literature this is a good time to build. Now everyone knows that we are going to have a new schoolhouse. Some people may stave it off for a while, but they cannot delay it forever. Therefore just what would you rather do—Go down to this town meeting and vote for a school on a site which has met with enthusiastic approval on two occasions, and save a lot of money; or vote against it and then spend twice or three times as much in a year or so? Use the grey matter you have been endowed with and remember, we still have a few atheists who are trying to improve the world.

The owner, editor, business manager, office boy and all the rest of it that we include in our semi-annual statement of publication, had a Christmas party down on the Cape over the week-end. In view of the results, now it is over, the statement seems superfluous, for everyone apparently knew it. It was a good party and the storm kept the coast guards busy seeking warm and comfortable firesides, and old Santa Claus himself found the weather too tough for traveling—so he just accepted our meager hospitality for a couple of days and loosened up a bit and did himself proud—and we all had a good time. We do not wish to over-step, but if it is to be done, now is the time to do it—so we thank a whole lot of friends we did not know we have, together with those we always knew about, for a whole lot of contributions to our happiness.

The STAR is moved to inform publicly those advertisers who failed to secure service in our last issue that it was "not our fault." The STAR contributed just as lavishly to the festive season as anyone else. We estimate a loss of about $50 in new advertising. We sympathize with those who sent us legal notices and who must again go to the courts and take up their assignments. When it is impossible to guarantee a less than a week service to Boston without special stamps, why imagine any better service at Christmas time? Mail sent from Boston Dec. 20 and 22 came in as late as Dec. 29. No one is to blame—it just can't be done. So do not blame us. We are foolish enough to print the STAR each Friday morning, and while we would like to wait and include all the ads—which do help wonderfully on the pay roll—we hate to take on any more arguments with the old fogeys who want what they want when they want it—which in our case is this self same Friday's paper. If we don't get your ads and we don't get your copy, we can't print it—and we would like the money just as much as you want the advertising. So just to show you how we feel we go right ahead and wish you a "Happy New Year"—and bring it out yourself the next issue.

There is an interesting point in connection with the article on Sunday sports, appearing in the warrant for next Monday's special Town Meeting, concerning which there seems to be some misunderstanding. The opinion seems to be prevalent that if the town accepts the Sunday Sports bill, that games cannot be played on Manchester Field because of the fact that this playground is too near a church to permit of sports on its surface. The same notion prevails in connection with Leonard Field. The STAR finds nothing in the Sunday Sports Bill which will forbid sports on either of these playgrounds, and quotes herewith the article which specifies where Sunday Sports shall be played.

"Such sports or games shall take place on such playgrounds, parks or other places as may be designated for that purpose in a license or permit issued by the city council, with the approval of the mayor, or by the Selectmen; provided that if, under any statute or ordinance, a public playground or park is placed under the exclusive charge and authority of any other officials they shall, for that playground or park, be the licensing authority; and provided that no sport or game shall be permitted in a place, other than a public playground or park, within one thousand feet of any regular place of worship." (Sec. 22 of Chap. 406, Acts and Resolves of Mass. 1928.)

Manchester Field and Leonard Field are certainly public playgrounds, and we can't see why games can't be played there if the Sunday Sports bill is accepted by the town. We hope the point will be cleared up thoroughly at Monday's meeting so that if the Town does vote for Sunday sports, it will do so knowing exactly where they will be played.

GREETINGS FROM THE MAYORESS

The following letter from the Mayoress of Winchester, England is self explanatory.

The Abbey House,
Winchester
Dec. 14, 1930

My dear Mrs. Meyer:

May I take the liberty of asking you to kindly convey to your members of the "Florence Crittenton League," my warmest greetings for Christmas and the New Year and will you again accept my heartfelt thanks for the great welcome which was extended to my husband and I, when we accepted your very kind invitation? The beautiful Silver Vase has been greatly admired, and may I again say "thank you" for it, together with the splendid inscription on it and the most beautiful bouquets!

My husband and I were greatly touched by the splendid reception you all gave us.

The work you all are doing is indeed "great," and is a real work of mercy and loving-kindness. I only wish that I could have spent more time with you and learned more about the "league" and its wonderful results!

We have had a very full time since we returned, but it gives us so much pleasure to be able to convey to our people here, the sincere kindliness you all feel toward us English folk.

All here ask me to send kindly greetings from them to you all. We want to cement our friendships, do we not?

With every kind thought, believe me,

Yours sincerely,
Siss Collis

SPENDING HOLIDAYS HERE

Among those spending holidays home is one who is very fortunate. He is John S. Blank, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Blank of 321 Highland avenue. He is serving as Cadet Officer on a U. S. Mail liner of the American Scantic service which he has been attached to for a year and a half, during which time this will be the first holiday of any kind he has spent on land.

He is one of the few, if any, seafarers of this town and though under the poll tax age has seen the best part of four or five year at sea. His travels have taken him from Labrador to the West Indies, all the British Isles, Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Russia, Poland, Denmark, Germany, Holland, France, Italy, Sicily, Turkey, Greece, Roumania and North and West Africa. He also was one of the crew of the ill-fated schoolship "Albatross" and was stranded in Hamburg with eight other Winchester boys in 1928.

WINCHESTER YOUNG MAN TO PREACH

Gordon E. Gillett of this town is to preach next Sunday at 7 o'clock, Jan. 4 at the Grace Episcopal Church, Everett.

Mr. Gillett has been active in the young people's work in Winchester and Everett. He has served as president of the Young Peoples' Interchurch Federation, as an officer of the Junior Service League of the Church of the Epiphany and of the Young Peoples' Society of the First Congregational Church.

He is now president of the Servers Guild of Grace Church, Everett. Organizer and leader of the Young Peoples' Fellowship and has recently organized an Episcopalian Club at Bowdoin College, this club has 105 members, including the President of the College.

He has preached in Winchester, Everett, Sanbornville, N. H., Brunswick, Me., and at Lisbon Falls, Me. It is anticipated that his many friends will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this youthful preacher.

NEW YEAR ENTERED QUIETLY

Winchester's official welcome to 1931 was a quiet one, according to officials of the police and fire departments. Not a single arrest for drunkenness or undue boisterousness was reported, and there were no false alarms. Patrolmen stated that there were on the whole considerably fewer individual parties about town, but the usual parties were held at the Calumet and Country Clubs. Watch night meetings were conducted at the Crawford Memorial Church with a New Year's Eve prayer meeting at the First Baptist Church. Many Winchester revellers joined in the merrymaking in Boston, attending midnight shows and returning to town early New Year's Day.

MARY CUTTER REACHES QUARTER-FINALS

William Gilpatric Won Semi-Final Doubles Match in New York

Two Winchester tennis players, Mary Cutter and "Billy" Gilpatric, waged their way into the final rounds of the indoor nationals for junior girls and boys which are being played at Longwood and in New York this week.

Mary, after winning her preliminary matches, defeated Helen Jones of Swampscott in the quarter final round of the junior girls' singles play at Longwood Wednesday, 10—8, 1—6, 6—2, and meets Hilda Beenm of Malden today. "Billy" paired with Eugene Sullivan of Brookline, won a semi-final match in boys' doubles on Wednesday in New York from Sidney Fried and Lloyd D. Ribner, 2—6, 6—3, 8—6. The little Winchester boy was put out of the singles competition in the third round after a great fight with Sidney Weinstein of DeWitt Clinton High School, N. Y. by the score of 6—3, 6—3.

In the junior doubles for girls Mary Cutter and Lucy Fowle are still playing, the former with Helen Fulton of Chicago and Lucy, with Sally Jones of Brookline.

Among the other Winchester players who participated in the tournament were Elisabeth Packer, Betty Gilbert, Deborah Gilbert, Frances Poinier, Martha Boyden, Grace Cutter and Betty Proctor.

WELCOMED NEW YEAR AT CALUMET CLUB

Nineteen thirty-one received an enthusiastic welcome at the annual New Year's party, staged New Year's eve at the Calumet Club. A large attendance of members and their ladies aided in making the occasion memorable. There was plenty of life to the party which moved swiftly in an atmosphere of complete good fellowship.

Balloons, streamers and lights of all kinds made the club hall a most attractive place, and a high class cabaret singing and dancing bill was presented by teams of professional performers from one of the big vaudeville chains. There was general dancing to the syncopating strains of Lewis' saxophone band.

Promptly at 12 o'clock Steward Fred Scholl served one of his delicious midnight suppers, and at the stroke of midnight 1931 was given a noisy and hearty welcome. There were favors and noise-makers for every one, and every one entered completely into the spirit of the occasion. Dancing followed the dinner and was interspersed with vaudeville acts until 2 o'clock New Year's morning. W. Allan Wilde, chairman of the club's entertainment committee, was in charge of arrangements.

MASONIC BODIES HELD NEW YEAR'S PARTY

Two hundred and fifty Masons gathered in Masonic Apartments New Year's Day from 11 until 1 p. m. for the annual New Year's party, sponsored by William Parkman and Mystic Valley Lodges and Winchester Royal Arch Chapter.

An excellent entertainment program was rendered by a quartette of Gypsy Maidens and there were vocal selections by Albert O. Wilson, accompanied by Harry W. Stevens and by Wade Booth. Community singing was led by Dr. J. Churchill Hindes as only he can lead it. Light refreshments were served and those who wished to smoked. The 1 o'clock toast to the Grand Master was offered by Worshipful R. W. E. Hopper. The committee in charge of arrangements was headed by Worshipful John Hart Taylor, who as Master of William Parkman, welcomed the guests to the party.

ADDRESSED ADVERTISING CLUB

Lieutenant Fogg, Well Known Aviator Was Former Winchester Boy

Adventures while flying motion-picture films and motion-picture camera men between New York and Greenly Island were described Tuesday by Lieut. Robert S. Fogg, aeronautical advisor of the Norwood-Canton airport project, in an address this afternoon before members of the Advertising Club of Boston. Louis Gibbs, president of the club, presided at the luncheon meeting which was held at the Hotel Statler.

Lloyd Clark, manager of the Norwood-Canton airport project, was another speaker and described the work that has been done in the development of a student flying field on the Canton side and the plans for development of the terminal airport on the Norwood side of the 1298-acre tract.

In his talk Lieutenant Fogg said, "This Greenly Island expedition was not exactly a tea party, but it was obvious that once I got started from Murray Bay for Greenly my ship would outfly any of our competitive planes that had been hired by the other newsreed groups. The scoop was what we were after and the scoop was what we got." Fogg told humorously of his experiences in shipping a set of airplane skis to Quebec from Concord, N. H. by train. "No baggage car being on the train, we had to buy a berth for the skis. They had a good rest on the trip."

The Fire Department was called at 4:12 Wednesday afternoon to put out a slight fire at the office of the Arlington Gas Light Company. The trouble was caused by men who were working around pipes in a partition and was inconsequential.

State Fire Marshall John W. Reth has notified the Selectmen that on and after Dec. 1, 1930, the use and storage of gasoline as fuel in connection with stoves or other domestic appliances in any building, used in any part for habitation can only be under permit to be issued by the Fire Department and under such terms and conditions as he may prescribe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Goerner of Providence, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bonney and Robert Bonney of Flushing, N. Y. were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. H. Taylor.

A LaSalle sadan, owned by Mrs. Cecil Cummings of Ravenscroft road, which was stolen from Winchester Wednesday afternoon, was recovered New Year's Day in Belmont by the police of that town.

MRS. ELLA WRIGHT WHITTINGTON

Mrs. Ella Wright Whittington, widow of George A. Whittington, died suddenly Dec. 2 at the Winchester Hospital, after an illness of only a few days. She was 58 years old.

Mrs. Whittington was a native of Walpole, N. H. and the daughter of Lucius D. and Mary (Watkins) Wright. Her Winchester home was at 12 Woodside road and she had been a resident of the town for the past 25 years, enjoying a wide circle of friends.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. F. C. Pearce of Weston and Mrs. Edgar J. Sherman, 2d of Rockport. There are also four grandchildren. Mr. Whittington died during the past summer.

Funeral services were conducted at the late residence last Sunday afternoon by the Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, of which the deceased had been a member. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

An Artist of Life

In reviewing an acquaintance of more than 20 years with the late Mrs. George A. Whittington of this town, the title thought predominates.

Possessed of inner vision which saw life's picture as a whole, she contributed high courage and lofty purpose to giving it color and texture.

Although a woman of keenest intellect and rare humor, she will live longest in the hearts of those who knew her because she made the homely tasks of life so beautiful by the grace she gave them, it was simply art in living.

She knew and none better, there must be valleys to have the hills.

To her loving friends she has left a generous legacy of her life's principles which she possessed so abundantly, Faith, Hope and Charity.

Her race is run
The day is done
Her star is in the ascendant

WINCHESTER YOUNG MAN ESCAPED INJURY IN AIRPLANE ACCIDENT

Elvin Deal of Yale street had a narrow escape from serious injury Sunday when the airplane in which he was riding landed on deep snow at the Fitchburg-Leominster airport and turned over. Albert P. Smith of Boston, formerly of this town, was with Deal in the plane which was piloted by Clement J. McMahon of Arlington. Smith was treated at the Binbank Hospital for slight cuts and bruises. Deal was only slightly shaken up.

Attaches at the airport attempted to signal the pilot not to land his ship but the signals were mistaken for a landing at the other end of the field. The plane circled and came down and the wheels stuck in the snow, throwing the ship over. The men extricated themselves before aid arrived.

The party went to Fitchburg from the Boston airport. A broken propeller was the only damage to the ship.

REMOVED TO HOSPITAL FOLLOWING CRASH

A collision between a Dodge automobile and a Mack truck on Main street at 4:35 last Friday afternoon resulted in injuries to Samuel Dengele of 14 Jefferson street, Rockland, Me.

According to the police Dengele's car was following another car and heading south on Main street while the Mack truck was going north and was passing another truck. The Dodge was wrecked and was removed to the Central Garage.

Dengele was taken to the police station by Charles Bamburg of 178 Ballard road, Woburn, Peter Hembmarters he was removed to the Winchester Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy for cuts also it the face and on the left leg. The Mack truck was only slightly damaged.

Airplane Types

The monoplane type of airplane, with a single span, produces more lift for the same wing area than the biplane or two-wing type. A monoplane may not have quite the same wing area as a biplane, yet the lift might be equal. For this reason the monoplane is considered to be more efficient. With its single wing span the monoplane gets all the lift possible from the air. The wings of the biplane, on the other hand, interfere with each other. This is also true of machines with three or more sets of wings, such as the triplane and the quadruplane.

Malicious Mischief

Sabotage is malicious damage, such as the wrecking of machinery or industrial plants by strikers or dissatisfied workers. It is of French derivation, and came from the practice of workmen in France throwing missiles into machinery to put it out of order.

CHRISTMAS AROUND THE GLOBE

Christmas, most universal of holidays, finds housewives and shoppers busy in many lands.

While the people of other countries do not exchange as many gifts as do Americans, the Christmas dinner basket is as heavily laden in Melbourne, Madrid and Oslo as it is in Miami, Minneapolis and Los Angeles, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

An Eating Day

In England, home of many of our culinary treats, the plum pudding still is the climax of the Christmas dinner. Piping hot, it is carried into the dinning room at the end of the meal, burning brandy flames licking the sprig of holly that always adorns its rounded top.

Proud English cooks devote more time to purchasing pudding ingredients than they do to any other part of the dinner.

Goose, once the English piece de resistance, has been supplanted in many English homes by the American turkey, although goose is still popular. Potatoes, the inevitable sprouts, Cheddar, Cheshire and Stilton cheese, spices, fruit, wines and dances fill the rest of the market basket.

Boxing Day

Almost the only gift-giving in England takes place the day following Christmas, a bank holiday known as "Boxing Day." This, although its name may suggest prize-fighting to Americans, is the traditional time to reward servants, and to distribute boxes of small coins to the poor.

Spanish markets present a bewildering selection of good things. Gaily decorated shops offer nuts from Granada, fresh dates from Tangier, luscious oranges from Andalusia, and long sausages tied in bright ribbons. Turkeys for sale "on the hoof" are driven through the streets by peasants from the country. Toy pedlers call their wares from door to door.

Spanish children, however, must wait until the Feast of the Three Kings, in January, to receive their "Christmas presents." Christmas dinner in Spain consists of almond soup, truffled turkey with roasted chestnuts, and Spanish sweetmeats and chocolate. Odors of dishes fried in vegetable oil, saffron and garlic permeate the narrow streets.

Christmas a Business

Christmas is a "business" in the mountains of Germany. All year the peasants of the rural districts carve wooden animals, which, with the mechanical toys of German industrial towns, go forth to gladden the hearts of the world's youth. But Germany feeds plenty for its own children, and with the bulging market basket, the German parent always brings home an arm-load of toys for the Christmas tree.

In Paris the "reveillon," or Christmas eve supper, is the gayest Yuletide event. Overindulgence in it may account for the general air of gloom that overhangs the Parisian Christmas Day. Oysters and ecrevisse, an appetizing crawfish, make up the first course. After that there are many courses each taken in a different restaurant, each accompanied by a different kind of wine. A cup of coffee at home, at breakfast time, generally ends the celebration. Halles market resembles a busy American department store the week before Christmas—crowds of buyers jostling peasants in smocks from the country.

Gingerbread Goats and Pigs

Sweden has special Christmas markets in which, by ancient custom, peasants may sell their wares in the public squares. Most picturesque are the booths in which gingerbread cookies are sold. Every Swedish Christmas tree must have its gingerbread Julbocken (Yule goats) and Julgrisen (Yule pigs).

These little cakes are reminders of the old days when the Thunder God Thor's goats and the Sun God Frey's pigs were sacred. For Christmas dinner the three chief Swedish dainties are lusk-fish, prepared by heating the fish for several days in wood ashes, rice sweetened and flavored with cinnamon and roast goose.

Mexicans do not have a Christmas tree, but Mexican parents search the markets for little trinkets, sweets, nuts, and toys for the Pinate—bowl shaped jars made of coarse, red earthenware. These jars are suspended from the ceiling on cords. On Christmas the children of the household, blindfolded, try to strike them with sticks. The Pinates are made to break easily; a mere touch usually suffices to shower the lucky youngster with gifts.

Where Christmas Is Mid-Summer Holiday

South of the equator Christmas is a summer holiday. Ice stalls, provided with chairs and benches, attract crowds of perspiring pleasure-seekers in Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

In Lima, Peru, the streets take on the appearance of a carnival, with much gay laughter jostling crowds, and playing of guitars and castanets. On Christmas morning markets are held in the principal plazas of the towns. Gay red ponchos, fowl, pigs, nuts, and other edibles are displayed on straw mats spread on the ground.

An Expedition's Christmas

Christmas was hot but enjoyable at the National Geographic Society Observatory in desert Southwest Africa two years ago. Ice cream from the observatory refrigerator was the most popular dish when the temperature was hovering around 100 degrees in the shade. Guests from Keetmanshoop, 60 miles away, did the shopping, bringing a turkey with them.

In place of holly, mistletoe and eggnog, the seeker of decorative greens in Australia finds a white flower on the market stalls which, upon withering, leaves a distinctive terra-cotta red center. This the Christmas lesh, forms a decorative hedge in suburban areas. The white flowers appear at the height of the Australian summer, our Christmas time.

CIRENAICA: HOME OF CLASSICAL "PATENT MEDICINE" SCENE OF COLONIZING PROJECT

Announcement has been made in Rome of the successful transfer of some 80,000 Arabs with household equipment camels and herds from the desert regions of Italian-owned Cirenaica to the more hospitable coastal plain.

This North Africa area was called Cirene by the ancients, and to them its name was synonymous with medicine, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

From its historic port, Appolonia (Marsa Susa), was shipped a famous cure for all ills ranging from croup and raw wounds produced by whipping to bites by mad dogs. This miraculous herb, silphium, became so valuable that it was worth more than its weight in silver. Later, under Roman dominion, Cirene's citizens destroyed every living plant to avoid an excessive tax. This unfortunate killing of the goose that laid the golden egg stopped the stream of drug-laden galleys that enriched the independent city.

May Again be "Bread Basket of Rome"

Situated on a bold promontory protruding into the crystal clear waters of the Mediterranean, Cirenaica is a dry, parched land with scarcely a stream or creek. A shelf of limestone hills, resembling a gigantic backbone, but hardly justifying the Arab epithet "Green Mountains," stretch across the base of the foreland. Between this ridge and the blue sea, a fringe of fertile fields 60 to 70 miles wide, lying dormant for centuries, now teems with Italian colonists and migrating Arabs. With the help of modern irrigation methods it is hoped this region again will merit its historical nickname, "bread basket of Rome."

Southward is the vast Libyan Desert, rocky and barren, gradually, farther inland, becoming a sea of orange-colored sand. Green, palm-studded oases with a deep well of cool pure water in the heart of each, called by the Bedouins "Isles of the Blest," form the southern border of Cirenaica proper. Straying across the hot desert, they are like stepping-stones suited to seven league boots. These oases are ports for camel caravans which plod slowly south towards Cufra, the trading center of the warlike and fanatical Senussi.

Camels, Donkeys and Motorcycles

Visitors to Cirenaica usually sail from Brindisi on steamers laden to capacity with Italian officers and their families bound for Bengasi, the principal seaport and capital. Because of a rocky bottom which prevents dredging in the mole-inclosed harbor, passengers disembark into small boats which bob precariously on the gentle swell, characteristic of these coastal waters.

First impression of Bengasi is of a bit of Europe transplanted. Since 1911 when Cirenaica was occupied by the Italians a new town on modern lines has been built alongside the old Arab section. Wide avenues shaded by date palms and lined with neat houses patterned after Moorish architecture border a public park planted with imported tropical plants and shrubs. Donkeys carrying nondescript loads, from hooded Arabs to bundles of firewood larger than themselves, and camels "pad padding" along, vie with motorcycles and automobiles for right of way. Lovely, dark-hued debutantes fresh from Rome and Paris and proud army officers resplendent in the white tropical uniforms of Italy stroll along wide sidewalks in striking contrast to slow-moving barefoot Arabs scurrying red-fezzed boys and veiled, Moslem women ornamented with gold coins.

Where Camels Take a Drink

While hundreds of miles of hard surfaced roads have been built, the automobile, in outlying sections, still follows caravan trails used for centuries. A group of camels being watered beside the trail is an amusing sight. The camel-eer draws rain-caught water in goat skin bags from a well and dumps it on the rocks. The camels then fight and snarl to suck this odorous, yellow fluid from the puddles each one as it fills swelling like a beech. Without the camel, life in the desert regions would be difficult. He not only provides transportation, but milk, meat when mutton is absent, and wool for tents, ropes and grain sacks.

From time immemorial sponge and tunny fishing have been the chief industries along the coast of Cirenaica. Greek divers swim down, holding a rock, pluck a sponge from the bottom and then upon releasing the weight, float to the surface. The Cirenaican variety being especially fine it is sometimes transplanted to other parts of the Mediterranean. In ancient days, it is said, sponges were put in Greek helmets as "shock absorbers" for the warriors.

The principal agricultural and food crop is barley, quantities of which are exported to the netherland and Scotland. Henna, olives vegetables, fruit and grapes are raised in the more fertile regions while dates, figs and skins brought in by caravans from the south are shipped to Italy, the last to be made into gloves and shoes.

A Beautiful Venus Found

All that remains of the splendor that was Cirene are a few marble foundations, columns and monuments unearthed by archeologists. The lovely nude statue, Venus of Cirene was found in the ruins after a heavy rain storm. This graceful figure is considered by many, even though headless, one of the finest bits of Greek sculpture ever brought to light.

There are several strange animals resident in the Cirenaican. One is the pug-nosed jerboa, a rat-like animal whose tail is longer than its body when erect it leaps in great bounds longer than a galloping horse's stride. The yellowish Libyan wildcat is an ancestor of our own domesticated "tabbies." In the pouch of this civet cat, a fatty substance of musky odor is found which when blended with other scents, helps make the rarest perfumes.

LISBON: AIR PORT OF MODERN MAGELLAN

Arrival of the giant seaplane DO-X at Lisbon recalls that America's NC-4 landed there after the first successful flight across the Atlantic in 1919.

Then the Lisbonese hailed the transatlantic flyer, Commander Read, as a second Vasco da Gama, for blazing an air route to the New World with Lisbon as the natural jumping off place, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Harbor a Maritime Panorama

Seaplanes seem incongruous when landing in the swift flowing Tagus River, Lisbon's port. The scurrying of many small craft, unfolds a panorama of Portugal's history. An ancient Phoenician vessel with curious upturned stern, in reality only another Portuguese fishing smack, cuts disdainfully across the bow of a sleek incoming liner. Flat, oar-propelled boats noticeably like Roman galleys glide swiftly along with the ten-knot current. Dumpy craft remind one of Spain's mighty Armada whose gay, high-peaped galleons and caravels congregated before swarming out to be annihilated by England's Drake. Over there is a black derelict, once a proud clipper ship, the fastest thing afloat, now only a coal hulk.

Lisbon's natural setting on 11 hills and its man-made creations make it one of the most beautiful cities of the world. Approaching by its front door, the sea, it is hard to believe that most of this vast pile of terraced buildings, from lordly palace to humble tenement, was erected after the terrible earthquake of 1755. Followed by fire and giant tidal wave, that national catastrophe laid waste the city, especially those historical landmarks remaining from the days when Portugal was in its heyday, and killed from 30,000 to 40,000 people.

Crossroads of Steamship Lanes

Sailing up the river, a crossroads of ocean steamship lanes, visitors see first the white tower of Belem. Built soon after da Gama's discovery of the sea route to India, this landmark with small Indian turrets at each corner has been Lisbon's gateway for 400 years.

Passengers land in small boats from steamers anchored off the landing stage which is always choked with sardine batoeux. Climbing a short flight of steps, they literally jump into Portugal with both feet.

Black Horse Square, as sailors familiarly call this landing place, known to natives as Praca do Commercio, is to Lisbon what the new Arlington Memorial Bridge will be to Washington, D. C. It is the state entrance to Lisbon's city plan, laid out nearly 200 years ago, after the great earthquake, by Portugal's L'Enfant, Pombal.

Newsboys Also Lottery Agents

Barefoot fisherwomen in somber dresses and gay handkerchiefs parade by with flat baskets of fish on their heads and newsboys call out in musical notes the latest edition, or cry "Tomorrow the wheel turns" to sell Lottery tickets. Fishermen haul out their nets on to the sloping embankment.

Passing under a towering memorial arch one enters Rua Augusta, a modern street bustling with quaint contrasts in traffic. Street cars and automobiles mingle with long-horned oxen bearing huge carved wooden yokes which seem heavier than the loads they animals are hauling. Donkeys with baskets strapped on vegetables, fruit, kerosene tins, chickens and water, trot along, oblivious to the raucous noise. Sometimes women, wearing odd, round, flat hats called "Coroa" ride sideways on these diminutive beasts.

The center of Lisbon's social life is the Rocio, or, as sailors have facetiously termed it, "Rolly Poly Square" because of the dizzy sensation engendered by walking across its peculiar mosaic pavements of curved, undulating design.

Ancient Structures Give Oriental Touch

Ever in the background the visitor notices evidences of Lisbon's past glory. In one section where the earthquake damage was less Moorish palaces and buildings a thousand years old still stand. Streets so narrow that a man's outstretched arms touch both side walls, and pedestrians jump into doorways to miss being struck by a fast-moving street car, lead steeply down to the Tagus. During winter's rainy season, green grass grows in furrows on the roofs and narrow lanes between the tiles, only to disappear on the approach of the hot, dry summer.

A fascinating street car ride traverses the edge of the Tagus through busy fish markets and boat slips to Belem, scene of da Gama's departure and empous return from India. On the spot where the discoverer spent his last night before sailing was erected the magnificent Convent dos Jeronymos de Blem and church by King Emmanuel I, where both Emmanuel and da Gama are buried. The convent, with its beautiful cloister of Gothic, Indian and Moorish architecture, is now an orphanage for unfortunate boys.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS PLAY

Juniors and Seniors to Present Farce by Anatole France

Anatole France, that famous Parisien whose minutiae style earned for him the Nobel prize for literature, a place in the French Academy, and the love of thousands of readers in every walk of life, was at the peak of his skill when he wrote that sparkling gem of comedy, that gay scintillating farce entitled, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife." This sprightly little drama has been frequently played by brilliant professionals, among whom O. P. Heggie, now appearing in sound pictures, is prominent.

It is well known that the success of any dramatic venture depends as much, if not more, on the ability of the actors as on that of the author. You will be pleased to learn that a most admirable cast has been selected and is being coached by Miss Marion Bailey, genial and popular member of the Winchester High School English Department. Miss Bailey is a dramatic artist of great ability and wide experience who has had outstanding success in her past efforts, and who is sure to continue with an even greater triumph in the 1931 edition of the class play. The students of the high school, who have long been noted for their dramatic prowess, are going bigger and better than ever with this, their latest and finest production. Prominent in the cast are Catherine Chamberlin playing the feminine lead, Stanley Osgood in the title role, Robert Lampee, an able and popular thespian, Mabel Tompkins, Caroline Nichols, Richard Riley, Francis Felt and Daniel West.

So start the New Year right by attending the two-act play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," which will be presented by the Junior and Senior Classes of the Winchester High School on Saturday evening, Jan. 17, 1931 at 8:15 p. m. in the Town Hall.

LEGIONNAIRES HEARD CAPTAIN PARKER

"There are one million and a quarter licensed operators of automobiles in Massachusetts, and an average of 55,000 licenses are revoked yearly. Many of those whose licences are suspended for one reason or another come to my office, and of those with whom I have talked none has ever been wrong. The accident or what not is always the other fellow's fault, and since I have been Registrar, I have met only six operators who have been driving more than 25 miles an hour just previous to an accident."

So said Capt. George A. Parker, Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Massachusetts, who was the guest speaker last evening at the regular meeting of Winchester Post, 37, American Legion. One of the largest gatherings in recent years attended the meeting which was opened with a brief business session at which Post Commander Wade L. Grindle presided. Reports of the wrestling and Legion show committees were heard.

Captain Parker was introduced by Commander Grindle and spoke interestingly and with many a touch of humor about the problems which his office is constantly called upon to meet. He got a real laugh when he expressed the fervent hope that the man who has Registration No. 1 will outlive him or continue to drive a car during his incumbency as Registrar, for he hates to think what will happen when he has to assign number 1 again.

Following Captain Parker's address interesting motion pictures were shown of the Tercentenary Celebration in Winchester and of the Harvard—Yale game. The Tercentenary films was explained by Commander Grindle and "Bob" Guild, old Harvard fullback and coach, picked out the highlights in the gridiron reels.

At the conclusion of the motion pictures one of "Monk" Carroll's famous clam chowders was served and thoroughly enjoyed.

The Fire Department was called at 9:50 o'clock Wednesday evening to put out a chimney fire at the home of Mr. Charles A. Wilbur, 63 Swan road.

CHORAL SOCIETY IN FIRST CONCERT JAN. 27

To Present Fine Program—George Boynton, Tenor, Guest Artist

Under the direction of J. Albert Wilson and with George Boynton, tenor, as guest artist, the Winchester Choral Society of 100 voices will sing the first concert of its 1930-31 season Tuesday evening, Jan. 27 in the Town Hall. The Society has been rehearsing regularly since early fall and with the addition of several fine voices to its personel of a year ago, expects to eclipse its previous efforts which aroused such favorable comment last season.

Mr. Wilson has selected the music for his society's third concert with great care, considering not alone the musical excellence of the compositions chosen, but also their tunefulness and general appeal. The Society will sing two numbers with Mr. Boynton and there will also be selections for men's voices which have proved so popular at past concerts.

The guest artist, Mr. Boynton, is considered one of New England's leading tenors. He has appeared as soloist with the Handel and Hayden and also with the Apollo Club, besides singing extensively for the radio. He is no stranger to Winchester music lovers, having sung the tenor solo passages in the "Seven Last Words" when Dubois' great Lenten cantata was presented on last Palm Sunday in the First Congregational Church. Previously Mr. Boynton appeared several times in Oratorio at the Church of the Epiphany, singing with Mr. Kidder in the notable presentation of Spohr's "Calvary," given by the Epiphany Choir under Mr. Wilson's direction in 1927.

While the Winchester Choral Society has unloubtedly gained much ground in a musical sense this season, its financial condition is a source of some concern to its officers and directors. Many of those who last year supported the Society as associate members have not as yet sent in their subscription for membership this season. The Society's directors believe this largely due to oversight and wish to take this opportunity to remind those who have not yet sent in their subscriptions to do so as soon as possible. The single item, music has practically exhausted the Society's meager financial resources, and unless immediate and effective steps are taken to replenish the treasury, the directors fear that it will be impossible to continue. The chorus has made a most impressive beginning and is believed by competent critics to possess a real future. It would be unfortunate to have the Society disband for lack of financial support.

Associate memberships cost but $4 yearly, and include two tickets for each of the two concerts which the Society gives in Winchester. The directors feel that the Society is giving its associate members real value for their money and believe that all local music lovers will wish to assist in placing the new organization in the forefront of choruses in New England. Checks for associate membership dues may be sent to the Society's treasurer, Miss Margaret Randall, 19 Everell road, to the president, Mrs. William H. Gilpatric 27 Cabot street, or any member will be glad to receive them.

FITZGERALD—LYONS

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Lyons, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of Chestnut Hill, to James Joseph Fitzgerald, Jr., son of Dr. James J. Fitzgerald of this town, took place last Saturday evening in St. Ignatius Chapel, Boston College, with Rev. Thomas A. Fay, S.J., officiating.

Miss Lyons was attended by Miss Katherine McHugh of Winchester, and Nicholas Fitzgerald of Winchester was his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gaffney on Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, and at its conclusion Mr. Fitzgerald and his bride left to spend their honeymoon in Bermuda.

The bride is a graduate of Mt. St. Mary's School at Hooksett, N. H., and of Sargent School in the class of 1927. Mr. Fitzgerald prepared for college at Winchester High School and at Huntington School. He was graduated in 1929 from the Engineering Department of Tufts College where he was a member of the football, baseball and basketball teams and of the Delta Upsilon fraternity. Mr. Fitzgerald made an enviable reputation as a football player while at Tufts and was mentioned many times for all Eastern honors as a tackle. He is engaged in the contracting business with his father in Winchester and with his bride will make his home here in Stetson Hall.

NEW OLD SOUTH CHURCH PASTOR TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Russell Henry Stafford, D.D. successor of the famous Dr. George A. Gordon, in the pastorate of the historic New Old South Church, Copley Square, Boston, will be the special preacher Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at the First Baptist Church. "If I Had Only One Sermon to Preach" will be Dr. Stafford's theme. Dr. Stafford is one of the prophetic voices of our times, every inch a great man.

Mrs. Hope Gregory Bird of Boston and West Newton Hill is the guest soloist for the evening. Mrs. Bird sings the "Song of Thanksgiving" by Allerton and "The Prayer Perfect" words by James Whitcomb Riley and music by Stetson.

The program promises an evening hour of unusual worth and attractiveness. The general public is cordially invited to this service.

MELROSE HIGH WON FROM WINCHESTER

Winchester showed an improved scoring punch in its game with Melrose Wednesday afternoon in the local gymnasium, but was unable to keep the visiting sharpshooters in check, and was defeated 46—31.

Melrose had a 6 point lead at the quarter, 14—8 and ran its advantage to a 21—12 count at the half. D'Entremont and Ritchie were the high scorers for Melrose, the former tallying 17 points and Ritchie 10. Lundblad and Mobbs each scored 10 points for Winchester.

Between the halves of the first team game, the Melrose seconds defeated the Winchester seconds, 27—14.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY TO CONDUCT WHIST PARTY

American Legion Auxiliary to Post No. 97, will hold a whist party Monday evening, Jan. 12 at 8 o'clock in the Legion House.

LEGION ANNOUNCES WRESTLING CARD

"Farmer" McLeod in Feature Bout With John Poddubny

Past Comdr. W. Allan Wilde announced yesterday that the feature bout of the wrestling carnival, to be staged by Winchester Post, A. L., in the Town Hall next Thursday evening, Jan. 15, at 8 o'clock, will bring together George "Farmer" McLeod, famous heavyweight contender, and John Poddubny, nephew of the famous Ivan Poddubny, champion of all the Russians in the days of the Imperial Empire.

This bout is announced as a "natural," and was originally signed by Paul Bowser for one of his regular Arena shows. Owing to the illness of McLeod the match had to be postponed, but both men welcomed the chance to hook up anywhere at any time so the Arena's loss is Winchester's gain. There is little love lost between the wrestlers and their bout promises to be replete with fireworks. It will go to a finish.

The remainder of the card looks like a good one. After the usual amateur bouts, which will bring together some of the successful competitors in the recent A. A. U. wrestling meets, including the finalist and semi-finalist in the heavyweight class, Paddy Mack and Billy Rudy will go on for the first of the money matches.

Mack is the boy who was billed to face Spears here in the last carnival, but was prevented by illness from appearing. He is anxious to show in Winchester as is Rudy, a local performer, who is willing to tackle the experienced Mack as a stepping stone to the big time. This bout will go 30 minutes or to one fall.

The second professional match, also a one fall proposition with a 45 minute time limit, will see the return of the popular "Swede" Arnold, who appeared at the Legion's last show, this time against Nina Darnoldi, a spectacular Italian, reputed to be a classy performer.

With such a bill patrons of the show are assured of an evening of fine sport and with the popular prices prevailing the Post looks for another full house.

The choice seats in the front row of the ringside section, on the stage and in the front row of the balcony are $1.50 each, all of which are reserved. The reserved seats in the ringside section, none of which are more than six rows back from the ring itself and the balcony seats back of the first row, are $1.00 each, and because of the interest which has been shown in these bouts by the younger generation of the town, special students' tickets will be offered at the box office for boys of school age only, at 50c each.

The Legion management has been forced to announce that the gate crashing which has been so prevalent at past shows will have to be discontinued. The wrestlers have forced the veterans to this stand and fair-minded fans will have no objection to a tightening of the general admission privilege. The wrestlers have the option of taking 50 per cent of the house, and when they see a packed hall, and yet are told the gross receipts are far behind what the crowd would seem to warrant they are dissatisfied, and believe they are being given the short end. Right or wrong, such a feeling among the pachyderms is going to make it hard to get headliners here, and the Legion, anxious to give the home folks the best is forced to shut down hard on the dead-heads. The hall at next Thursday evening's bouts will be well policed and any one trying to crash the gate is likely to find himself in a bit of trouble.

There are many fans who will welcome this move. No one cares to pay for the privilege of enjoying a show and have seated beside him one who is taking in the same bill without cost.

The Legion is depending upon these wrestling shows to enable its welfare committee to carry on in an adequate manner, and all should embrace the opportunity to assist.

Tickets for this show may be obtained at Hevey's Pharmacy, Winchester News and Pratt's Drug Store, at the corner of Washington and Swanton streets, or from any member of the committee. Telephone reservations may be made by telephoning the American Legion clubhouse any evening.

PATROLMAN DONAGHEY RE-ELECTED

At the annual meeting of the Winchester Police Department's Relief Association, held Wednesday afternoon at Police Headquarters Patrolman James P. Donaghey was elected to succeed himself as president of the organization. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted, and it was voted to hold the annual ball of the department on the evening of Easter Monday in the Town Hall.

Other officers chosen for the coming year were Patrolman James E. Farrell, vice president; Patrolman Charles J. Harrold, secretary; and Sergt. John H. Noonan, treasurer. Chief William H. Rogers, Lieut. John A. Harrold and Patrolman Daniel P. Kelley were named trustees.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

Vice Regent DeCourcy was host at her home to the business meeting of last evening. Following the business session she presided at a most delightful buffet lunch.

Plans were made for a mid-winter social and whist to be held on Thursday evening, Jan. 22 under the direction of Monitor Quigley, Financial Secretary Mary Dinneen, Recording Secretary Mary Harlon; Mrs. Kennedy and Miss Mae O'Leary.

SCHOOL VOTED AND MOVIES REJECTED

Special Town Meeting Wants Finance Committee Left Alone and Will Consider Sunday Sports

Notwithstanding the severe storm, the interest aroused over the subjects to be considered brought out a good gathering of town meeting members at the special meeting last Monday night. The much discussed Junior High School, revamping the Finance Committee, Sunday sports and movies, presented an interesting meeting which was enough to cause most of the members to give up their warm fireside and brave the cold and jolting rain.

Prediction of a short meeting was made, but for a time during the middle of the evening, after the Junior High had been settled, it looked as though a postponed session would be needed. A vote upon the question revealed the determination of the majority to see it through, and after a recess the remaining four articles were disposed of.

The school came first on the list and I was voted with 2s and 27 ds ayeters. The discussion occupied over two hours, much of this time being taken by an effort to substitute or amend. When this phase was settled the question was quickly disposed of.

Chairman Edward A. Tucker of the School Committee presented the motion for a new Junior High School on the so-called Main street lot, and before the opening of the discussion, Moderator Hayward appointed Messrs. Joseph A. Dolben, Robert F. Guild, Ralph T. Hale and George T. Davidson as tellers. The proposition was identical with similar proposals except that $5000 was cut from the sum requested through lowering of present day costs.

Chairman Carr of the Finance Committee reported "favorable action" by that body. He stated that the burden of expense would not be largely felt owing to increased valuation and that an increase of $1.05 on the tax rate would cover this sum, set at $385,000.

WINCHESTER WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held at Association Hall, Wednesday, Jan. 7 at 2:30 p. m. The meeting opened with the salute to the flag after which Mr. Norman A. Arnold, tenor who sings in the Varsity quartet rendered a delightful group of songs. The secretary's report was then read followed by the report of the education committee given by Mrs. Thompson. She told us about some of the new bills about to be introduced at the State House and about the two women judges who have been appointed recently Mr. Arnold then gave another group of songs.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Jennie Loitman Barron whose subject was "Being a Republican." She took up the position of women yesterday, today and tomorrow. She told how the progress of women did not really begin until the 19th century. That women had no equal rights over their children until 1902. A women couldn't own property or make a will and there were only seven trades open to women whereas all but two are open to women now. Mrs. Barron has worked for suffrage for many years and she explained how important politics are in the life of the family giving them the proper laws and proper things for the community. Since 1917 women have entered politics, gone into public office and are doing remarkably well. They are a powerful potential force keeping track of the laws that govern them. For the future, women can organize for country welfare through party welfare, through Republican policies, standing back of their candidates in office at all times.

We should work for jury service for women here in Massachusetts, nearly all the states have it and we certainly should also. We should work for uniform marriage and divorce laws all over the country, health certificates before marriage and above all for peace and the abolition or war.

Mr. Arnold then closed with another group of songs that were greatly enjoyed. A New Year's tea was delightfully served by the members of the board.

FROM THE U. S. VETERANS' HOSPITAL AT BEDFORD

This letter of appreciation from one of the patients at the hospital was received by one of the regular Friday visitors and drivers of Cabot street. It shows the wonderful work which is being done by the members of the Veterans' Welfare Group of this town.

Dear Mrs. ——:

I beg to offer to you and your organization my most heartfelt thanks for your untiring kindness in your great work in the hospital which you have all accomplished. These great sacrifices of your own time and expense. We cannot express how much we appreciate all the kind things which are done for us all through the year and then on Christmas we all received nice gifts and cards and best wishes to gladden our hearts.

We all join in wishing for all of you the richest blessings which the Greater Powers only can provide. May God bless you one and all.

Sincerely,
Edgar T. Barnhill

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Winchester Chapter

At the annual meeting of the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross, the following officers were re-elected:

Chairman—Mrs. Bowen Tufts
1st Vice Chairman Mrs. A. W. Loftus
2nd Vice Chairman Mrs. A. W. Barton
Treasurer Mr. W. H. Frost
Secretary Mrs. Carl Hilton

Executive Committee is composed of Chairman, 1st Vice Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer.

Chairman of Home Service Mr. W. Hevey
Chairman on Publicity Mrs. T. Dreier
Chairman on Roll Call To be appointed
Chairman on Production Mrs. A. Bond
Chairman on Junior Red Cross Mr. J. J. Quinn

School Leaders Miss Bronson, Miss Pratt, Miss Davis.

Chairman of Disaster Relief Mr. Arthur Barry.

Directors Appointed by Chairman Mrs. Ralph Sparks, Mrs. Waldo Bond, Mrs. T. T. Smith, Mrs. M. R. Bowe, Mrs. Robert Emery, Mrs. Harry Nichols, Mrs. Marcus May, Mrs. Frederick Sigsbee.

The chairman wishes to thank the officers and directors for their co-operation and loyal support. It has been a year full of accomplishment and splendid service. The work done by the past chairmen has increased and been handled most efficiently. The funds expended have been wisely and capably assigned to really worthy cases. I think we can be quite proud of our expenditures, all of which brings me back to our successful roll call for which I thank the people of Winchester most sincerely. Our investigator and visitor Mrs. Wilson will continue her services with us and we are greatly indebted to her for her sincere and splendid service to our Chapter.

This fall the Winchester Chapter sent 50 Christmas bags containing useful gifts to the boys in service. This week's mail is bringing a flood of "thank you" notes from the Schofield Barracks at Honolulu, all of them expressing great thanks and appreciation and an invitation from many to the chairman to continue the correspondence! Loneliness seems to be their chief difficulty in this "paradise of the Southern Seas." I take this opportunity to thank the Winchester Star again for their many courtesies and kindness in our publicity work.

We hope to continue our service here in Winchester as efficiently as we can, and are prepared with sympathy and we hope the New Year brings to us all a more prosperous and happy future.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Bowen Tufts

REFERENDUM ON FOUR ARTICLES

As the Star went to press it was reported that the town is to be obliged to vote again upon four of the articles passed upon by the recent special town meeting.

Referendum papers are in circulation for the article upon moving pictures, for the article upon building a junior high school on the Main street lot, for the article seeking to build an addition to the present high school building, and for that which would substitute the election of the Finance Committee members for the present appointed system.

The necessary signatures will have to be filed with the Town Clerk before 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and many think that names will not be as easy to get in some instances as those sponsoring the referenda seem to believe.

MOTHERS' WINDOW TO BE UNVEILED IN FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, SUNDAY AT 3:30 P. M.

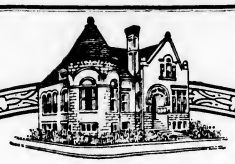

A new three lancet window, which has just been placed in the chancel of the Ripley Memorial Chapel, will be unveiled Sunday afternoon, at 3:30.

The window, which is the gift of the church, in honor of the mothers of the church, was designed and executed by Reynolds Francis and Robinstock of Boston. It consists of eight medallions and a rosette. The central medallion is of the Mother and Child, and all the other medallions typify some phase of motherhood.

At the service of dedication, Dr. Chidley will speak on "Between Two Generations."

The Art Committee of the church, consisting of Mr. C. Edward Newell, Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase and Mrs. D. C. Bennett, have given unusual thought to the theme for this window, and it is considered by the manufacturers to be one of the finest windows they have ever produced.

The Building Commissioner has issued a permit for the week ending Thursday, Jan. 8 to Albert P. Rounds of Stoneham—excavation only for dwelling on lot 156 Forest street.

THE ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK GIVES EMPLOYMENT TO 884 PEOPLE

Few realize the size of the personnel required to handle the business of a large banking institution. For every teller or attendant in sight, there are scores of others behind the scenes who are keeping the intricate machinery of the bank running smoothly. Not including its subsidiaries, The Atlantic Corporation of the Securities Safe Deposit Company, the Atlantic National Bank organization numbers 884 individuals.

Some of the Atlantic's officials and clerks are residents of Winchester and graduates of the Winchester High School. Many other Winchester people are numbered among the bank's customers. Those who have business in Boston find that it saves time to bank at the Canal street office, 98 Canal street. Others, particularly the women, find it very agreeable to bank at the Tremont street office, 144 Tremont street, between Temple place and West street, because of its central location in the downtown shopping district.—Advertisement.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

We are holding the next dance at the Calumet Club on Friday evening, Jan. 16. We have been able to secure "Frankie" Flynn's orchestra; this is the outfit which met with such favor at the spring dances last season at W. B. C.

The December dance was even more of a success than the one we held in November. So if they continue in this way, monthly, everything will be O. K. We trust that it is understood that these dances are open to all couples, who enjoy dancing and not just to members of the Calumet and Winchester Boat Clubs. Come on and bring your friends.

FRANCIS C. CONLON

Francis C. Conlon, widely known in athletic circles throughout the Mystic Valley, died suddenly Sunday, Jan. 4, at his home, 24 Border street after a week's illness.

Mr. Conlon was born 38 years ago in Woburn, the son of Mrs. Mary A. and the late Patrick D. Conlon. He attended the Woburn schools and was graduated from Woburn High School with the class of 1912, making for himself an enviable reputation as an athlete. He was a particularly fine baseball player as a schoolboy, many good judges of the game rating him as more promising than his brother, Arthur, who captained the Harvard nine and later played professionally as a member of the Boston National League team. Frank or "Cribb" as he was known to sports followers, kept in close touch with baseball after his playing days were over as an umpire, working during the summer in local semi-professional games, and during the spring as arbitor in the Mystic Valley Interscholastic League.

He is survived by his mother, a sister, Miss Mary Conlon of Winchester; and by three brothers, Thomas J. of Winchester, Dennis P. of Woburn and Arthur J. Conlon of Dorchester.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church. Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke was celebrant, Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach, deacon; and Rev. Fr. Eugene Maguire, chaplain at the House of the Angel Guardian, subdeacon. Four cousins of the deceased, Charles and James Mawn, John and Dennis Frcelan, all of Woburn; served as bearers with Thomas P. McGowan and Leo R. McKinnon, also of Woburn. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, where the prayers at the grave were read by Father Clarke.

The Charron Studio of Dancing in Arlington offers in addition to expert instruction in all types of stage and interpretative dancing the opportunity to appear professionally, according to the progress of pupils. The Charron Kiddies appear each week at the Saturday matinee of the Regent Theatre in Arlington and the Charron Revue holds the record for appearing one solid year at one of Boston's leading Hotel Roof Gardens. Miss Irene Marie Charron, proprietor of the Charron Studio, is a college and conservatory graduate, and has studied in Europe under Leo Staats, Ballet Master of the Paris Opera.

MRS. A. GRACE BURNS

Within two days of her husband's funeral, Mrs. A. Grace Burns, wife of ex-Mayor Charles A. Burns of Somerville, died Sunday morning, Jan. 4, at her home, 27 Lawson road, after a short illness.

Mrs. Burns was born in Rhode Island March 24, 1878, the daughter of Charles Henry and Ann Frances (Arnold) Chappelle. Following her marriage to Mr. Burns she made her home for many years in Somerville while her husband was a member and president of the Board of Aldermen, later serving as Mayor of the city for three terms. She came to Winchester in 1923.

Mrs. Burns was a member of The Fortnightly Women's Club, of the Florence Crittenton League and of the Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church. Besides her mother, Mrs. Ann Chappelle, who is living in Los Angeles, Cal., the deceased is survived by two daughters, Miss Sally Burns of Winchester and Mrs. E. B. McIntire of Salem, and by one son, R. A. Burns of Cambridge.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the late residence with Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating.

GROVE STREET HOME ENTERED LAST FRIDAY

Police Headquarters was notified last Friday evening that the home of Mr. Edwin M. Nelson at 28 Grove street had been entered sometime during the afternoon or early evening.

Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy was sent to investigate and learned that the Nelsons had left their home about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. When their son arrived at the house about 7 o'clock he found that an entrance had been forced and that the drawers had been taken from the sideboard. Apparently nothing was missing.

MARY CUTTER LOST IN SEMI-FINAL TO HILDA BOEHM

With Helen Fulton Defeated in Doubles Final by Malden Twins

Winchester's Mary Cutter was eliminated from the girls' indoor national singles tournament at Longwood last Friday by the top seeded Hilda Boehm of Malden, dropping her semi-final match to the famous "twin" in straight sets, 6—3, 6—3. Both girls played a net game, and the Malden girl's advantage came with her ability to manoeuver Mary out of position to score winning placements. It was a rubber match for the two girls, each having won from the other on two previous occasions.

Miss Boehm was subsequently defeated in the final round of the tourney by Katherine Winthrop of Hamilton, seeded No. 4 in the draw.

In the doubles Mary Cutter teamed with Helen Fulton of Chicago, winning her way into the semi-finals at the expense of Rosaline Badarraco and Carlotte Baker. The semi-final round saw Mary and Helen defeating Helen Jones and Virginia Arnold, 6—1, 6—3, only to lose in the championship match to the redoubtable Boehm twins, Hilda and Helen, in straight sets, 6—4, 8—6.

"Billy" Gilpatric, Winchester's entrant in the boys' national doubles tourney, staged in New York, was defeated on the holiday along with his partner, Eugene Sullivan of Brookline, in the championship round by Joseph Abrams of DeWitt Clinton High School, New York, and J. M. Freudenheim of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., 6—4, 6—3. "Billy" made a good showing in the boys' singles tourney, besides playing in the doubles, but was unable to work his way into the final rounds of the tournament.

SCHOOL VOTED AND MOVIES REJECTED

The opposition was voiced by Mr. W. L. Tuck, who spoke several times, Mrs. A. L. Woodside, Mr. Edward F. Kenerson, Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald and Messrs. Larned and Laraway, the latter gentlemen outlining their position more or less indefinitely. In general, the opposition to the proposed school wanted no school at all, or else a combination of Junior and Senior High School effected by building an addition to the present High School.

At times the issue became much confused, owing to the endeavor to twist the original motion into a vote for increased High School accommodations, and after Moderator Hayward gave up trying to straighten out a motion by Mrs. Woodside, Town Counsel Pike was called into conference. When this motion was finally presented, it was voted down 138 to 28 and when the original motion, calling for the erection of the school, was acted upon, it was voted 138 to 27.

At this time, it was stated that 169 of the 240 town meeting members were in attendance. Of the voting members, a two-thirds vote called for 106, so the school was voted with a good majority.

Besides those already mentioned as speaking, Messrs. Cullen, Farnham, Farnsworth, Snyder, Twombly and Maguire were heard.

Following the school vote the following committee vote was passed:

MOVED: That a committee is hereby established to be known as the Junior High School Building Committee, and hereinafter called "the Committee", to consist of five citizens, qualified voters of the town, one of whom shall be a member of the School Committee chosen by it, the others to be appointed by the Moderator.

No member of the Committee shall have any financial interest, directly or indirectly in the work hereby committed to it, or in any contract relating thereto.

If the member chosen by the School Committee shall cease to be a member of the School Committee, he shall cease to be a member of "the Committee." If a vacancy thus occurs, or if from any other cause the School Committee member shall cease to be a member of "the Committee," the vacancy shall be filled by choice of the School Committee. Other vacancies shall be promptly filled by the remaining members of the Committee.

The Committee is hereby authorized and empowered to procure, determine and approve plans for and to construct, equip and furnish a school house upon the land, the acquisition of which has been authorized at this meeting, for the accommodation of the public school pupils of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, and for such purpose to expend so much of the money appropriated therefor as may be necessary, and to make and execute, on behalf of the town, all contracts pertaining to the same, and, in so far as it may be lawful and proper, shall provide therein that in the employment of labor thereunder preference shall be given to citizens of Winchester.

The Committee shall keep a record of its proceedings, and on completion of the work under its charge, file a report in writing in the office of the Town Clerk, with a detailed statement of receipts and expenditures in relation thereto.

The school was settled at 10:10 p. m., and Moderator Hayward offered the suggestion that when the meeting adjourned it be to Friday evening. This met with opposition and it was decided not to adjourn, but to continue until the warrant was completed.

Article 2 called for an increase in the personel of the Library Trustees from three to six, and following the statement of Mr. Edgar J. Rich that the increase would result in a better library, the move was made.

Article 3 called for new and radical changes in the election and duties of the Finance Committee. Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald was sponsor of the article, and she received the support of Mr. Tuck and Mrs. Woodside to her long and intricate motion. The change was opposed by Messrs. Carr, Rowe and Ives, the latter gentleman correcting some of Mr. Tuck's assertions. Moderator Hayward also took opportunity at this point to assure the voters of his intentions to deal fairly with the Town and disclaimed any intention of "putting anything over." Out of 119 votes, the motion was lost 27 to 113.

Article 4 applied to Sunday sports, the motion presented by Mr. Glendon asking for the Town's acceptance of the act allowing such. Mr. J. Albert Horn, sponsor of the article, spoke to the motion and the Finance Committee reported that it felt that each voter should decide for himself what his attitude should be in the matter.

There was considerable discussion. In general the voters were inclined to favor the adoption of the act, although questionable features left considerable doubt in the minds of many regarding various points. The sentiment appeared to be that provided the semi-professional games were under the supervision of the Selectmen or Park Board there was no reason why the act should not be accepted.

In view of the questionable features of the act a motion to refer the matter to a committee of five to be appointed by the Moderator and to report at the annual town meeting in March was voted unanimously.

Article 5 applied to the movies, a motion being introduced by Mr. Cullen calling for an expression of approval that a license for movies be granted to Mr. George A. Daly. There was no discussion and the vote was overwhelmingly against this procedure. After the motion was killed the statement was made that all that had been desired was accomplished and that this matter would now go on a referendum ballot and Mr. Daly would receive his license.

The meeting adjourned at 11:15.

WINCHESTER LOST AT READING

Winchester High School's basketball team opened its interscholastic season at Reading last Friday evening, dropping a Middlesex League game to Reading High, 36—16. The locals seemed lost on the big Reading floor, and at no time threatened the home team's advantage.

Reading scored first and led at the quarter, 8—2. The score at half time was 14—6 with Winchester trailing. The locals were finding it very hard to work the ball through the Reading defense and into scoring position. Pierce and Gale were high scorers for Reading. Lundblad was the only Winchester player to sink more than one basket, and one of his goals was most unusual, being made directly from a tap-off at the foul line.

Between the halves of the first team game the Winchester seconds defeated the Reading seconds, 28—12, with Kewalton and Seaver starring.

MISSION UNION

The annual meeting of the Mission Union will be held Tuesday, Jan. 13 from 10 until 1 o'clock with the Board meeting at 11. A request is made for used Christmas and post card, soap and pencils for a box to be sent to India.

The annual dues are payable at this time. Those bringing guests for luncheon are asked to notify Mrs. Edward Tucker 1253 or Mrs. Maurice C. Brown 0138 before Monday evening.

Winchester sports followers were interested and pleased to learn of the appointment of Rufus H. "Rufe" Reid ex-high school football mentor, to succeed "Art" French as head coach of the Harvard Freshman eleven. Reid won his way into the hearts of Winchester fans when he was handling football and baseball at Winchester High back in 1921-1923, and all will be glad to learn that he is back in the harness "old after a spell in at Brown.

Doubtless one of the reasons many at Monday's special town meeting favored the postponing of action upon the acceptance of the Sunday Sports Bill by Winchester until the annual meeting in March was because of a rather definite uncertainty as to just who will have the power to grant permits for Sunday sports on the town's playgrounds if the act is accepted. So far as Leonard Field and the Loring avenue and Palmer street playgrounds are concerned the issue is clear. These fields can only be used under permits granted by the Winchester Park Board. It is not likely, however, that any of these fields will be used for semi-professional games, should the town accept the Sunday Sports Bill. Manchester Field is the playground best adapted to athletics on a large scale, and because of its central location will very likely be the field upon which organized Sunday sports will be played, if they are played here. Previous to Monday's meeting and after the session the opinion was prevalent that the Metropolitan District Commission will have the power to grant permits for the playing of games upon Manchester Field, if the Sunday Sports Bill is passed here, and all sorts of objections to such a contingency were raised. The Star believes that no one wants any outside agency to specify who shall use the town playgrounds for Sunday sports, if Winchester votes to permit such sports. In quest of information, we approached Chairman Davidson of the Park Board who stated that the M. D. C. has no authority to issue permits for playing games on Manchester Field, for that area of the playground on which games can be played is directly under the control of the town. The control of Manchester Field is deeded on lease by the M. D. C. from the State to the Town of Winchester through its Board of Selectmen, there having been no local Park Board in existence when the original grant was made. The lease runs for no definite time and may be terminated either by the State or Town in 30 days. Under present conditions, which Chairman Davidson has no reason to believe will be altered, at least by the State, the issuing of permits for Sunday sports on Manchester Field, should the town vote to legalize such sports, will be entirely in the hands of the town. Since the advent of the Park Board the Selectmen have turned the management of the playground over to its members, and the Park Board has granted permits for the use of Manchester Field for athletics in recent years. Should Sunday Sports be adopted here, Chairman Davidson believes that permits from both Selectmen and Park Board will be necessary before games can be played at Manchester Field on the Sabbath. At all events no outside agency is going to be able to grant permits for Sunday sports on any playgrounds in Winchester.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The Constitution and the Flag

It is not true that all young people in the United States are violating the prohibition law, nor is it true that all want the 18th Amendment repealed or modified.

It is true that thoughtless people do not realize the connection between law observance and law enforcement. Law observance is not a political question; it is not a subject for propaganda. It is a question of loyalty to the constitution and to the flag—its symbol. When we entered the World War thousands of young men and women volunteered for service. The psychology of the moment encouraged participation in the war. A new war is on—a war against the now illegal liquor traffic. The enemy threatens constitutional government itself. The 18th Amendment was not the result of years of consideration and after many methods of dealing with the liquor traffic had been tried. The people were aroused to action under the slogan, "Down with the Saloon," which was to them symbolical of all evils connected with the drink traffic.

Prohibition was the nation's defense against the saloon. Legalized liquor traffic would open the way for the return of the saloon, but the proponents of repeal say it must not come back. What assurance have we that that prohibition will be any more strictly obeyed than the present prohibition laws? Shall laws be changed at the demand of law-breakers? The repeal of the 18th Amendment would immediately increase the consumption of intoxicating liquors. It would divert money now being used for the home to the purchase of liquor. It would restore the liquor traffic to political power. It would increase degeneracy and popularize drinking at all hours and in all places. Let us rally to defend the Constitution, as we rallied to defend the flag in time of war.

COUNTRY CLUB SPONSORED ICE CARNIVAL

A most successful ice carnival for children was staged at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon, the skating rink being decorated with gay colored balloons and banked with Christmas trees.

There were sports for the youngsters, all of which were interesting and well contested. Winners were as follows:

Girls' Relay Skating Race—Frances Kelley and Jean Farnsworth.

Potato Race for Girls—Katherine Blanchard.

Barrell Race for Boys—Frederick Bates.

Relay Race for Boys—Howard Morrison and Frederick Bate.

While the sports were in progress there were exhibitions of pair skating by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Walsh of Brae Burn and by Miss Chellice Cook of Bouve School, the Club professional, who paired with Mr. James W. Russell. Fancy skating exhibitions were also given by Messrs. Trafford Hicks and Carl Woods of the Winchester Country Club and by James Tower, Richard Hapgood, former National Junior champion; and "Bud" Hill, present Junior title holder.

Two teams of prep school boys were chosen and an exciting hockey match of three 13 minute periods played, before team I was able to nose out a victory, 1—0. B. S. Teel, A. D. Dickson, Jr., K. T. Young, Jr., C. A. Reed, A. A. Kidder, Jr., R. H. Boutwell, Jr., F. A. Benham, K. M. Leghorn, and R. Leghorn composed the winning combination and the losers comprised W. D. Bott, Charles White, H. E. Cousins, W. C. Carr, T. N. Godfrey, R. C. Clifford, R. C. Tompkins, H. L. LeRoyer and W. Jackson. The winning team was awarded a unique cup, fashioned from an old war shell which is to remain at the club and be contested for annually, it being expected that this first carnival will become an annual event.

Not the least interesting of the events last Saturday was the curling match which a team captained by Kenneth Young won from a combination led by Charles LeRoyer.

The lineups were as follows:

Team B—Edward Notley, Geoffrey Neilley, Alfred White and Charles LeRoyer (skip).

After the sports a buffet luncheon was served for everyone in the clubhouse, and in the evening there was general skating on the club rink which was lighted with floodlights.

The committee in charge of arrangements comprised Mrs. Harold Turner of Arlington and Mrs. Kenneth Young and Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth, both of Winchester. There was a large crowd and everyone present was most enthusiastic.

Collector of Taxes Nathaniel M. Nichols reports that at the close of the year his collections are almost identical with those of the previous year, only about a thousand dollars outstanding.

The Fire Department was notified by telephone yesterday afternoon at 4:57 of a fire at the home of Mr. T. W. Aldrich on Warren street. The trouble was caused by a radio wire which ignited a sofa. The damage was not extensive.

At 7:45 last evening the Fire Department was called to put out a chimney fire in the old Brown block now owned by William H. Hevey.

Mr. Alfred D. Radley of this town will be the speaker Saturday afternoon at the bridge, given in the Hotel Statler under the auspices of the Boston Division, Women's Organization for Reform of National Prohibition. His subject will be a discussion of Judge Clark's recent ruling that the prohibition amendment to the Constitution was not properly ratified.

The employees of the Park Department are busy at present trying to flood the Loring avenue playground so that the youngsters in that vicinity will have a safe place to skate.

High Total—Mrs. Browning with 171.

On Saturday evening, Jan. 31, a wrestling match will be the attraction at the club. It is reported that a very fine card has been arranged, notice of which will be made later.

The entertainment committee have planned a number of interesting programs for Saturday night smokers for the ensuing year, the first of which will take place on Saturday, Jan. 10 at which time the members will have the pleasure of hearing one of the most interesting club speakers available in Boston in the person of Mr. James R. Wood, President of the James R. Wood Detective Agency, who has not only had a wide experience in unravelling mysterious murder cases but who has unusual ability in telling of his experiences in a very gripping, interesting way.

It is a well-known fact that truth is sometimes stranger than fiction and the members of the Club are assured of a very interesting evening in hearing Mr. Wood reconstruct a typical murder case as well as to tell of his many interesting experiences in the professional detective field over a number of years. Bring your friends. Don't forget the date, Saturday evening, Jan. 10.

Ladies' afternoon bowling is held every Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 sharp.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

It would appear that "Home, Sweet Home" is soothing music to Winchester Rotarians. On Jan. 8 the club held its first meeting in home quarters since Dec. 18. All but two members were present and these two had already made up for their absence. Which is another way of saying that the club held a 100 per cent meeting on Jan. 8.

It is interesting to note that Rotary Club, No. 3400 has just been established at Dixon, Calif., in District No. 2. Thirty four hundred clubs are a great many clubs and it is very gratifying to know that the Second District, where Rotary got its first substantial growth outside of its home city, is still enthusiastic in its support of the movement.

To come home to our own District it may be said that another club is already being organized and three or four more are under survey. Already one of the larger districts of Rotary, it seems evident that the 31st is not standing still.

To be still more specific, there is the Rotary Club of Winchester. In view of the preceding statements does it not behoove this club to be as active as possible in the work of Rotary extension? We believe that the general sentiment of the club strongly favors this. Furthermore we believe that satisfactory results are bound to follow if members persist in the constructive endeavors in which many of them are now engaged.

The speaker at the meeting of Jan. 8 was Mr. Erskine P. Clark, representing Estey, Stuart & Co. of Boston. Mr. Clark spoke in regard to the present situation in the bond market and predicted an improvement in the trend of business and finance. Figures bear out the statement that the present upheaval is not so violent as that of 1921. In the opinion of those well informed, there will soon be a gradual recovery of the prosperity to which we are accustomed.

No member should deny himself the pleasure of attending our meeting on Jan. 15. President Loring wishes to shake hands with each and every one. Attendance for Dec. 31—85.71 per cent.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The Finance Committee of the Winchester Council Girl Scouts held a delightful luncheon bridge at the home of Mrs. John Joy, treasurer on Wednesday. One hundred and forty ladies were served a delicious luncheon and spent the afternoon playing any game the individual table chose. Souvenirs were presented each table. The members of the Finance Committee are Mrs. John Joy, chairman; Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth and Mrs. Curtis Nash. They were assisted by Council members.

The Metropolitan Division courses for Scout leadership have started this week. Anyone wishing to attend any of these classes may get in touch with Commissioner Hall, telephone Winchester 0687. An opportunity is being given for a leader to enter any class from tenderfoot to first class and learn the particular part of the work she most needs. This is an excellent chance for beginners.

Scout troops met on Thursday after a three weeks' vacation and good conscientious work will follow now in preparation for a February rally.

Scout Anita Wilson has been chosen as a speaker at the Girls' conference to be held in Malden in February. Frances Guam is on the working committee of the conference. Eight Scouts will be chosen as delegates at an early date. Notice will be published in the paper so all Winchester people wishing to attend this interesting meeting of Scouts all over the district may go and see how our girls are being prepared to conduct large conferences and bring their own ideas in regard to how and what they should be doing. The subject of this conference is loyalty. They chose their own topic.

Miss Torrop, Superintendent of the Winchester Hospital is arranging a course for our Scouts in home nursing and first aid to be started Jan. 17.

MYSTIC LAKE BATH HOUSE TO BE CONSIDERED

As the result of long continued effort on the part of Senator Warren and certain Representative colleagues in the House, the construction of a public bath-house, for the benefit of the cities and towns in the Mystic Valley, was authorized at the last session of the Legislature and an appropriation of $50,000 obtained for this purpose; the act provided that the bath-house be located on the Southerly shore of the upper Mystic Lake in the town of Winchester (see Chapter 254 of the Acts of 1930).

When this legislation became known in the towns and cities benefited, a question arose in the minds of some citizens, as to whether or not the Metropolitan District Commission had selected a location which, from all viewpoints, was the most desireable, and it was suggested that the location selected be given futher consideration before any move was made to carry out the act.

Representative Crockwell of Medford then filed a bill providing for a relocation of the bath-house at the foot of the Lower Mystic Lake, and this bill will be in order for a hearing by the incoming Legislature.

Senator Warren has also filed a bill which would relocate the hath-house at a point, on the Mystic River, easterly of the bridge leading from Medford street in Arlington to High street in Medford, the exact location to be determined by the District Commission. This bill would also provide for the construction of a swimming pool.

The next Legislature will decide whether it is best to allow the present location to stand, or provide a new location in the Lower Mystic Lake as suggested in Representative Crockwell's bill, or adopt the provisions in the bill of Senator Warren which would take the bath-house away from the lakes and locate it on the river between Arlington and Medford.

No discussion is attempted at this time as to the merits of these several locations, as the object of this item of news is merely to inform the public as to what is taking place in reference to a matter of interest to this community; however it is well to bear in mind in further considering any new location that, after years of effort, a substantial appropriation has been obtained for a much needed public improvement, which when constructed, will provide a place that is bound to give health and happiness to many of the inhabitants of the Mystic Valley.

MEN'S BUSINESS SUITS

Many men really believe that Dry Cleansing a man's suit shortens its life. Truly this is not so—as a matter of absolute fact, proper cleaning lengthens the life of the suit. Too many suits are "pressed only" that should be cleaned before pressing. Pressing a suit when it is soiled is very bad for it; but there is a great difference in cleansing. Your suit should be returned with colors bright, snappy—no odor and no oil left in it to collect soil the first day you wear it.

You will find it difficult to get the kind of cleaning and pressing we do on men's suits at the price—$1.50. Forty-eight-hour service and daily collection and delivery.

It is of interest in connection with the presentation last Sunday of a handsome silver vase by the First Congregational Church to Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hamilton of Wedge Pond road in recognition of their 30 years of preparing the communion for the church, that the services of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton extended over parts of four pastorates: namely those of Rev. D. Augustine Newton, Rev. Frank W. Hodgedon, the ad interim pastorate of Dr. Cyrus Richardson, and the whole of Dr. Howard J. Chidley's pastorate to date. In their 30 years of service Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have never missed a communion Sunday. Four hundred people took communion at closing service of the work of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Ours is a sad world, because a sinning and half-developed world. Man, in his present state, seems to stand between two worlds, of one of which crude vestiges still cling to him, and another to which he is aspiring, and in the incompleteness lies the sadness.

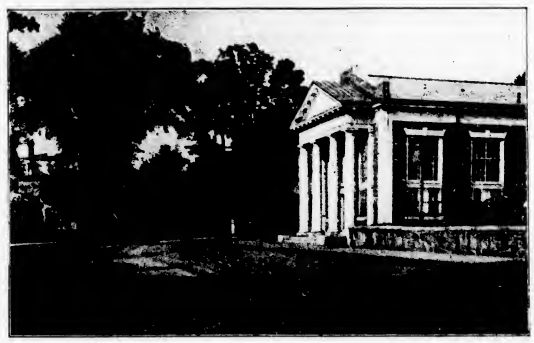

There are plenty of folk here in Winchester who need spiritual comfort in the face of the world's appalling injustice. "Fret not thyself because of evil doers * * * because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass * * * For yet a little while and the wicked shall not be * * * The little that a righteous man hath is better than the riches of many wicked."

There are a lot of folk here in Winchester who need comfort in the face of their defeats. There is much needless woe right here in Winchester because men have measured their course by a wrong standard of values. When crashes come that seem irretrievable, and everything seems "lost," the spiritual estimate of life casts up a new inventory and proves the most precious things to be still in keeping. The comfort of this accounting is always a very potient balm.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

A Winchester philosopher muses that free speech is the right to let the rest of the world know you are all wrong.

It is unfair to say that politicians are never truthful. There are politicians even here in conservative Winchester who would do anything to get elected.

A Winchester man says he couldn't get California on his radio the other night—it seemed to be blanketed. We'll bet if he couldn't get it it was blankety-blanketed.

Those Winchesterites who are able to dodge the automobile traffic may live long enough to see television established outside the headlines.

PRESENTED SILVER VASE UPON CONCLUDING 30 YEARS OF CHURCH SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hamilton were honored at the communion service of the First Congregational Church last Sunday morning when they concluded 30 years of preparation of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper for the church's communion worship.

Just before the service began Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were escorted by the Deacons of the church to the altar rail where the Pastor, Rev. Howard A. Chilley, D.D., after paying tribute to the faithfulness of their service, presented them with a handsome silver vase inscribed as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hamilton
In loving appreciation of thirty years of faithful service

First Congregational Church

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Friendly Society meets Tuesday, Jan. 13 in the Unitarian Parish House. After the business Board meeting at 11:30 a.m. luncheon will be served at 1 p.m. The chairmen in charge are Mrs. William T. Mason and Mr. Arthur S. Hollins. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Thomas G. Rees, president of the General Alliance, who will discuss, "The Unused Power of the Alliance." During the meeting the Winchester Trio, Hinds N. Worship, soprano; Gertrude N. Barnes, mezzo; Alice M. Abbott, contralto; and Nancy D. Alexander, accompanist, will present a program of songs.

A Windsor chair was stolen from the home of Mr. Arthur S. Kelley's mother some time last Saturday night.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Next Monday is the regular meeting of the Fortnightly with the Legislative Committee, Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, chairman, in charge of the program. Leonard W. Cronkhite, Rhodes Scholar, graduate of Brown University, trustee of the World Peace Foundation, and authority on international affairs, will be the speaker. For a number of years Mr. Cronkhite was president of the American Association of Rhodes Scholars, special agent for the Department of Labor during the World War, and secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Non-war con-truction. Mr. Cronkhite has, therefore, a splendid background for the discussion of his chosen theme, "The International Scene" and his business connections intensify this, for as an importer and exporter he is at all times in close touch with economic conditions. Educationally, economically, and politically he is in the best strategic position to obtain information on international matters which today are of absorbing interest. National and racial lines are no longer finely drawn; well-informed people are internationally minded; conferences on world commodities, world necessities, world utilities have brought nations closer together, bonded in one great effort for the common uplift, protection, and peace. Seen from Mr. Cronkhite's viewpoint, the kaleidoscope of internationalism will be full of interest and information. Music will be furnished by the Eroica Ensemble; Gertrude Hintlian, violinist; Inez M. Arzillo, 'cellist; May E. Shuman, pianist; and Lean Serdilio, soprano and director. Tea will be served at the close of the program.

On Monday afternoon, Jan. 5, the Literature Committee again offered a delightful and stimulating program. Mrs. Myrtle L. Hodge and Mrs. Anna Sargisson viewed Maeterlinck's "The Magic of the Stars" and Mrs. May C. Kennedy interpreted Thornton Wilder's "The Woman of Andros." Mrs. Hodge opened the afternoon's work with a resume of Maeterlinck's life in which she pictured the mystic, playwright, and philosopher as an open air type of person with simple tastes and a habit of profound thought. He is a symbolist and experimenter in dramatic forms, having created the "static drama" which is one of atmosphere and emotion rather than of action, "The Blue Bird" being an outstanding example. His writings can all be considered as data in his lifelong questioning of destiny.

Mrs. Sawson illustrated the content of his book by reading selections. Among the important subjects treated were the modifications of the scientific conception of the universe, the immensity of the present conception, the illimitability of time and space, the analogy between the infinitely large and the infinitely small, and the ever present quest for the explanation of man's destiny. All were agreed the book was a powerful stimulant to thought and everybody enjoyed the passages of beautiful prose.

Mrs. Kennedy briefly outlined the important events in the story of "The Woman of Andros" and then most charmingly interpreted the art of this little book. The volume is slighter in content but more distinctive in style than Wilder's former works. The actual descriptions of scenes and characters are very slight but the necessary facts to comprehend the natures of the characters are clearly given. Thornton Wilder is a man versatile in ability with a literary style of grace and distinction and a narrative method singularly fluid. In "The Woman of Andros" he tried to illustrate the subtle differences in feeling between the pre-Christian eras. In this book as well as in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" the author has given from an ancient setting a remote presentation of an ever present problem. His whole interest is the study of how men and women meet their fate. We could be almost indifferent as to what Wilder studies as long as he does it in such a superlatively beautiful way.

A group of interested members of the club visited the Boston Art Museum on Tuesday, Jan. 6 and were shown a choice and beautiful collection of early American portraits, furniture and silver, as well as objects of Chinese art.

PERHAPS IT'S A BARGAIN YOU WANT

PERHAPS you have felt for some time that there would some day be offered a real bargain in Winchester real estate, so good that you couldn't afford not to buy it, no matter perhaps how much you would like to sell your present home or wait for your lease to expire before making a new purchase. If your family is of such a size that you can utilize a 8's room house and if you would like to own a brand new modern home of Early New England Colonial type in a convenient location on high land that can be bought for $9000 with a small amount in cash, although the property is undoubtedly worth over $10,000, and which will cost to maintain less than $65 per month, this is it, and we would be glad to show the house and give complete details on request.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Friendly Society held its monthly meeting Tuesday, Jan. 13 in the Unitarian parish house. The Executive Board met at 11:30 a. m. The chairmen in charge of the 1 o'clock luncheon were Mrs. Lillian T. Mason and Mrs. Arthur S. Hollins. During the Alliance meeting following the luncheon the Winchester Trio sang three songs, Nursery, Rhymes, Homing, and I Passed By Your Window. The audience fully appreciated the singing of the Trio, Idabelle N. Winship, soprano; Alice M. Abbott, contralto; Gertrude N. Barnes, mezzo; Nancy D. Alexander, accompanist.

Mrs. Arthur G. Robbins, president then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Thomas G. Rees, president of the General Alliance, who spoke on "The United Power of the Alliance." She related interesting experiences of her visits to Alliance groups in various parts of the country and effectively pointed out means for Alliance members to use their power and influence in the work of the organization.

EPISCOPAL MEN'S CLUB

Epiphany Men's Club will hear Graydon Stetson, Boston banker and World Traveler, on Wednesday evening, Jan. 21 in the parish house. Mr. Stetson will take for his topic "Four Days in Russia," giving an account of a recent trip to the Soviet Republic, with particular observations on the cities of Leningrad and Moscow.

The club officers feel that this timely subject will provide a most interesting evening and have also arranged for dinner at 6:30 prepared by ladies of the Church Service League, under the direction of Mrs. John W. Johnson of Wildwood street as chairman.

TO HOLD HEARING ON BATH HOUSE

A hearing will be held Monday morning at 10:30 before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs in Room 370 at the State House on the bill which provides for the erection of a bath house and the granting of concessions at Sandy Beach on Mystic Lake. Residents of Winchester have made strenuous objections to the erection of a bath house at this point, and steps have been taken by Senator Warren and Representative Bateman to locate the structure elsewhere. It is to be hoped that those who oppose the proposition will make a strenuous effort to attend Monday's meeting in the State House.

TOWN TEAM TO DANCE TUESDAY

The second annual dancing party, sponsored by the members of the Winchester Town Team will be held on next Tuesday evening in Waterfield Hall from 8 until 12 o'clock.

A committee has been busily at work with the details of the dance, and promises those who attend a good time. Hennessy's Orchestra has been secured to furnish the music and a capacity crowd is expected by the Town Team management.

JOURNEY'S END

To be Presented by the American Legion

On Monday and Tuesday evenings, Feb. 16, 17, the local American Legion Post, No. 57 is presenting for the people of Winchester an entertainment of unusual merit when it will play "Journey's End" will be presented in the Town Hall. This is a World War play with a very strong dramatic appeal and is one particularly fitting for the American Legion to sponsor, the scene being in a dugout in the trenches on the Western front. This play was written originally for amateur production. Its strong appeal was evident from the start, and it was soon produced on the professional stage. After a strong run on both the stage and in the moving pictures, it is this year for the first time released for amateur production in this country.

The play committee under the leadership of "Ted" Godwin, chairman; Kingman Cass, and Vincent Clarke has been very fortunate in securing Mr. Frank E. Fowle of Malden as the coach for this play. Mr. Fowle is a coach of wide experience and has been unusually successful in his work in Belmont, Arlington, Newton and Winchester. He has only recently coached this same play "Journey's End" for the Belmont players who put it on for four evenings last December in Belmont where it was enthusiastically received. Incidentally this was the 5th production Mr. Fowle has coached for the Belmont Players.

This play will be produced here in Winchester with a strong cast including D. Tewksbury-Tilson as Lieutenant Raleigh, Robert Keezey and Otis Alley of the high school faculty as Lieutenant Hibbert, and Lieutenant Trotter respectively. Theodore Godwin plays the part of Captain Stanhope with Whitelaw Wright as Captain Hardy, Allen Wilde as Lieutenant Osborn, Gerald Hills as Private Mason, Fred Cameron as the Sargent Major and William Mobbs as the Colonel.

The demand for good tickets for this event is so great that the Legion has decided to run the play for two nights, Feb. 16-17. Tickets are now on sale and in order to be a sured of good seats tickets should be ordered soon. The ticket committee as announced by Commander Melville last week is composed of George L. Barton, chairman, Swan road; Norman L. Colbugn, 4 Sheffield road; William H. Hevey, 40 Canal street; George Warren Johnston, 5 Myrtle street; Geoffrey Notley, 63 Yale street; Richard Parkhurst, 30 Grove street; Lucius Smith, 28 Park avenue and Frank Zaffina, 14 Hill street. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the committee or by calling Winchester Legion Headquarters 1270-W any evening after 7:30.

With a stirring play, put on by a strong all Legion cast and directed by an unusually successful coach, the Legion is bringing to the people of Winchester an entertainment that few will want to miss.

ANNUAL SERVICE OF LIGHTS AT EPIPHANY CHURCH

The annual Service of Lights, in honor of the Feast of the Epiphany, was observed last Sunday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany which takes its name from this particular season of the church year.

The impressive ceremonial was well attended and it was noticeable that there were many children in the congregation.

At the conclusion of the service the Rector, Rev. Truman Heminway took one of the altar candles and lighted the candles of the Church Wardens, Donald Heath and Merton L. Grush, and of Vestrymen Samuel Best, Alton Jackson, Ralph Garner, William K. Denison, Robert Sibley and George Kimball. The church officers went among the choir and members of the congregation, lighting the candles of every one in the church. This done, the lights were switched off and the deep nave of the church was entirely illuminated by the tiny candle flames.

The Epiphany hymns, "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning" and "How Bright Appears the Morning Star" were sung by the vested choir of the church under the direction of the new organist and choirmaster, Enos Hobb. Rev. Mr. Heminway preached upon "The Epiphany" or the "Manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles."

CANDIDATES ANNOUNCED FOR NEW LIBRARY TRUSTEES

In accordance with the vote passed at the recent town meeting increasing the number of Library Trustees from three to six, the following candidates have consented to allow their names to be placed upon the ballot at the coming March election for the office: Mr. Ralph T. Hale, chairman of the committee in charge of the erection of the new library building; Mr. M. Walker Jones, secretary of this committee, and Mr. Herbert S. Underwood, the veteran Boston newspaperman.

In addition to these new trustees the town will vote to fill one vacancy on the old board, Mr. Edgar J. Rich coming up for re-election.

Papers for these candidates are now being circulated.

WADLEIGH P. T. A.

The Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association will hold its next meeting Jan. 21 at 8 o'clock in the High School hall. The speaker of the evening, Dr. Jesse B. Davis is to have for his subject, "Junior High School Curriculum."

PLANS FOR CHORAL SOCIETY CONCERT COMPLETE

President Carolyn D. Gilpatric of the Winchester Choral Society announced this week that tickets for the concert which the society is to give on the evening of Tuesday, Jan. 27, in the Town Hall are now being sent out to associate members of the organization who as usual will occupy two reserved sections in the center of the hall.

Associate members who have neglected to renew their subscription are urged to do so immediately with any who wish to become associate members. It is absolutely necessary for the society's officers to know the exact number of associates in order to provide for their tickets and includes their names in the list of members in the program.

Those who are not associate members of the society may secure tickets from Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols, 29 Crescent road, tel. Win. 0762-W. It is suggested that those who wish tickets should telephone early since the number available for those who are not associate members is limited.

Large audiences greeted the society in its appearances a year ago, and this season with a larger chorus including many fine new voices its concerts will be even more worth while. Music for the society's first concert, Jan. 27, touches a high plane of excellence, and those who do not attend will deprive them-elves of a musical treat.

As stated in last week's Star the guest artist is to be George Boynton, tenor soloist of Trinity Church, Boston, and an experienced singer in concert and oratorio. The chorus will be under the direction of J. Albert Wilson, to whom much of a major portion of credit for the remarkable progress which the society has made during its brief existence. Miss Mary H. French, whose artistic accompaniments have so much pleasure a year ago, will again be at the piano.

YOUNG WINCHESTER NAVAL OFFICER COMMENDED

Lieut. Harry Henchberger Risked Life to Save Seaman

Lieut. (jg) Harry Henchberger, U. S. N., son of Mr. Andrew E. Henchberger of Myrtle terrace, has been commended by the Navy Department at Washington through the Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, for his heroism in jumping overboard and swimming to the rescue of a seaman who was in danger of drowning in the waters of Mare Island Straight.

In his letter of commendation to Lieutenant Henchberger, Secretary Adams says in part:

"It has come to the attention of the Department that while the U. S. S. Evans was moored in Mare Island Straight you jumped overboard and swam to the rescue of Morris Melvin Black, seaman, second class, U. S. N., who had slipped overboard on return from liberty with the threat of drowning himself.

"It is a source of gratification to the Department to note your disregard of personal danger in the cold water and heavy tide running at the time and desires to commend you upon the initiative and courage you displayed which reflects credit upon the Naval Service.

"A copy of this letter will be filed with your record in the Department . . . ."

Lieutenant Henchberger was a member of the class of E-21 at the Winchester High School and was appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis in that year by Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger. During his high school days he was active in football and basketball and was popular with his schoolmates.

WINCHESTER BUSINESS MAN OBSERVED 77TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. Daniel W. Hawes of the firm of Kelley & Hawes Co. observed his 77th birthday anniversary on Wednesday, Jan. 14, a family dinner party being given in his honor, after which he and his guests attended the travel talk given at the First Congregational Church by Dr. C. E. Ovdway.

Mr. Hawes spent the greater part of his birthday anniversary at business as usual. He is one of the few veterans among Winchester's business men and has witnessed many sweeping changes about the center, including that which has gradually effected his own business, replacing the horse drawn vehicles of the old livery stable days with powerful up-to-date motor equipment. Despite his long years in the harness, so to speak, Mr. Hawes is daily on the job and is still able to tire out most younger men who try to follow in his footsteps.

JAN. 31 MOTOR EXCISE DEAD LINE

Tax Collector Nathaniel M. Nichols announced this week that under the latest Motor Excise Law no one can ask the Assessors for an abatement on 1930 motor excises after Jan. 31. The law provides that abatements must be asked for within six months or before Jan. 31.

THE REFERENDUM SITUATION

"Are we going to have a referendum?" That seems to be the question uppermost in everyone's mind just at present, and so far as official information goes in the matter, no one's guess seems to be as good as that of even the most astute local politician. For the petitions seeking referenda on three of the four questions dealt with at the recently held special town meeting have been definitely thrown out by the Selectmen and the remaining petition was submitted in such form as to make it a moot question whether it can be accepted by the authorities.

One of the referenda, that calling for a committee to be appointed to look into the advisability of adding to the present high school building, was rejected because the authorities ruled that there was nothing for referendum involved in that particular question.

The petition seeking a referendum upon the vote of the limited town meeting defeating a motion to elect the members of the Finance Committee struck a snag in that it was not filed within the time limit prescribed by the Town Counsel for the filing of referenda petitions. The hour set was 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the close of the legal working day at the Town Hall. The Finance Committee petition was not filed until some time after 5 o'clock last Saturday evening. The other petitions were all filed before the hour set.

The petition seeking to set aside the loss of a motion made at the Town Meeting to grant a motion picture license to George A. Daley was filed, rejected, it is reported, because it lacked the requisite number of names, which are not open to question, necessary to have the issue placed upon the ballot.

The petition, seeking to set aside the vote of the Town Meeting to erect a junior high school upon the so-called Main street site apparently has plenty of signatures, in excess of the number necessary, but it is also rumored that there are irregularities in connection with it which have raised a question as to whether it can be accepted by the Selectmen to be placed on the ballot.

The matter has got to be decided by the Board of Selectmen, not later than its meeting next Monday evening, since a decision is necessary within 10 days of the filing of the petition. If this school petition is accepted, a ballot vote upon the question involved will be necessary within 14 days.

It is understood that the School Committee has retained former Selectman Joseph W. Worthen to look after its interests, and the Board of Selectmen is being advised by Town Counsel Addison R. Bixby. No definite announcement as to what is likely to happen could be secured as the STAR goes to press, but that every one in town is interested is putting it mildly.

FALLING TROLLEY WIRE CAUSED EXCITEMENT IN CENTER

Considerable excitement was occasioned in the center about 6:30 yesterday morning when about 50 feet of trolley wire with its guard cage fell upon a south-bound electric car passing through the square. Flames burst out in all directions and for a few minutes onlookers thought they were witnessing a display of fireworks.

The passengers made haste to quit the car, doing so without injury. Conductor George Taylor succeeded in roping the live wire and getting it off the ground until a repair crew could put in an appearance. Traffic was badly tied up and it was some time before Patrolman John Murray, Joseph Derro, James Farrell and John Hanlon got things running smoothly. Buses were run from Medford to Winchester and from Winchester to Woburn to care for the street railway passengers. The repair crew was busy in the center the best part of the day.

MRS. ANNIE CHRISTAIN

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Christain were held yesterday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. John McMinamin, 58 Hemingway street. A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Mary's Church and interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Christain was for many years a resident of Stoneham, where she was a member of the Catholic Daughters of America and of the Stoneham Women's Catholic Club. She was 78 years of age and had been for some time in poor health. There are no immediate survivors.

"FARMER" McLEOD WINNER AT LEGION WRESTLING SHOW

George "Farmer" McLeod defeated John Poddubiny in the main bout of the wrestling tourney, staged last night in the Town Hall by Winchester Post, A. L. McLeod pinned his man with a dying body scissors after 34 minutes of grappling, during which time the honors were fairly even. The squat Poddubiny used a dirty mare to keep McLeod on the mat much of the time, and both men did a lot of cuffing and kneeing, but neither seemed in any particular danger previous to the fall.

The semi-final bout brought together Lee Wyckoff ex-University of St. Louis football star, substituting for "Sailor" Arnold, and Nina Darnoldi, a huge blonde Italian. Wyckoff won in 26 minutes and 22 seconds with a flying tackle and head butt. Darnoldi apparently knowing little of wrestling as she is termed in this country."

The opening bout of the evening between "Paddy" Mack and "Billy" Rudy, middleweights, was a humdinger, going 30 minutes to a draw. Rudy was introduced as a Billerica product, and got plenty of encouragement from the crowd. For a real roughhouse slam-bang battle this bout has not been equalled at any Legion show, both boys seeming to be more intent upon roughing each other than they were upon gaining a fall. Just about everything went, and if the boys couldn't get at each other they took a crack at Ralph Dixon, the long suffering referee. Both boys were given a great hand when they left the ring, after shaking hands twice.

Three exhibition amateur bouts were staged to start the journey. Albert Norden wrestling Harry Stenquist in the 135-pound class, John Roder and Axel DeCamp going on in the 155-lb. class, and "Jack" Callahan and the veteran "Gus" Hakenson contesting as light heavyweights.

Just before the start of the money bouts "Farmer" McLeod demonstrated and explained several of the more popular holds, being assisted by "Paddy" Mack. The announcer was former Coundr. W. Allan Wilde of Winchester Post.

RED CROSS RELIEF IN DROUGHT AREA

"Greatly increased demands during last 10 days have made imperative immediate campaign for Red Cross Relief Fund to meet emergency situation through parts of 21 States in drought stricken area—minimum ten million dollars needed to prevent untold suffering and actual starvation by thousands of families—polution water supply caused by dying cattle added to winter hardships in some sections —President Hoover in proclamation tomorrow will urge immediate and generous response—confident your people will not fail meet their share this humanitarian need but because of general conditions desire impress you necessity most vigorous possible campaign-success our efforts will be regarded as test of Red Cross by President and entire nation and we must not fail—your chapter quota 2400 dollars—report action taken. Signed, John Barton Payne.

Winchester success-fully conducted the recent Roll Call Drive by slightly exceeding its quota of 2000 memberships, but now we are called upon to raise an additional $2400 toward this emergency relief. May we have your support and co-operation to meet this humanitarian need.

Mrs. Bowen Tufts, chairman Red Cross Charter, has re-organized the captains of the previous Roll Call who will assist her in soliciting the funds. If you are not called upon, do not wait for a solicitor but send your donation whether large or small to Mr. William E. Priest, Winchester Savings Bank.

PAINFULLY INJURED IN FALL

Miss Edna Hanlon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanlon of Cutting street, was painfully injured Monday afternoon when she fell while on her way to her home from the high school where she is a member of the sophomore class.

Miss Hanlon slipped on some ice, which was hidden under the snow, while going down the walk which leads from the school building to Main street opposite the Unitarian Church. She was assisted into an automobile by Mrs. Edward H. Kenerson of Brooks street and Mr. Edward Allen of the Winchester News Company, and taken to the office of Dr. D. C. Dennett where X-ray pictures disclosed that two bones in the left leg just above the ankle-joint were broken and badly splintered.

Miss Honlon was taken to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital where the bones were set by Dr. Francis Newton, incidentally a former Winchester boy, the son of Rev. D. Augustine Newton, formerly for many years pastor of the First Congregational Church. The ankle and leg were placed in a plaster cast and it will be some time before Miss Hanlon is able to get about again. This enforced lay-off is by no means a pleasant prospect for the young lady, who is active in athletics, having been a regular member of the second varsity field hockey team at high school, as well as being sergeant of the Girl Scouts' drum and bugle corps.

Brown's Letters, Inc. announce that the contract for building the new Cooperative Bank Building has been awarded to John M. Tobin of Boston. Fells Plumbing & Heating Company is to do the plumbing and MacFarland & Abbott of Boston, the electrical work.

Mrs. Bowen Tufts,
Winchester, Mass.

Demands from suffering families throughout drought area for Red Cross relief have trebled during last few days making imperative immediate campaign for very large fund to meet this emergency situation existing in 21 States. Earnestly urge you do everything in your power to assist local chapter to reach its quota.

WINCHESTER WON FROM BELMONT

Winchester High School's basketball team won its first interscholastic victory of the season and its first game in the Middlesex League championship race last Friday evening in the local gymnasium, defeating Belmont High, 29 to 11.

Coach Mansfield's charges showed a great improvement over their Reading and Melrose efforts, fighting all the way and never permitting the visitors to get started.

"Ollie" Lee was Winchester's big star, cagging 6 baskets from the floor. "Stutz" DiMinico tossed in 4 baskets from scrimmage to aid the local cause.

Belmont made a game out of it during the first half which ended in Winchester's favor, 13 to 9. After intermission, however, the locals came very fast and with Lee running wild ran up 16 points for a one sided win. So closely did the Winchester boys cover that Belmont was able to sink but a single basket during the entire second half.

Between the halves of the first team game the Winchester second team won from the Belmont seconds, 21 to 12, after leading at the half, 8 to 5.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The University Theatre beginning Sunday, will offer "Kismet" starring Otis Skinner. "Kismet" based on Mr. Skinner's triumph on the stage, is one of the most elaborate productions ever made. Over 4500 people appear in the picture and the cast of principals supporting Mr. Skinner includes Loretta Young, David Manners, Mary Duncan, Sidney Blackmer, Ford Sterling, Edmund Breese and Montagu Love.

"Fast and Loose" the companion picture is Miriam Hopkins, Carole Lombard and Frank Morgan is altogether a smart, sophisticated comedy drama of young people, young ideas and young indiscretions.

"The Cat Creeps" described as one of the greatest mystery stories in the history of the stage or motion pictures and adapted from John Willard's famous play "The Cat and the Canary" will start Thursday. This thrilling production presents an all-star cast headed by Helen Twelvetrees and includes Raymond Hackett, Neil Hamilton, Lilyan Tashman, Jean Hersholt, Montagu Love and Theodore Von Eltz. "The Cat Creeps" abounds with mystery and suspense, and its entire action deals with the hair-raising events of a single night in a great mansion which has not been occupied for 20 years.

"Derelict" the companion feature starring George Bancroft is real drama, filmed on a spectacular scale. Mountainous ships battling monster seas; terrific tropical storms; a rescue at sea; two vessels crashing head-on in a dense fog, and through it all the drama that Bancroft lights with William Boyd, with the woman and with himself.

MYSTIC VALLEY LODGE, A. F. & A. M.

The monthly meeting of Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., which was held Thursday evening, Jan. 8 was one of especial interest to the officers and members of the Lodge, the occasion being marked by a fraternal visit from Rt. Wor. Harris M. Richmond, who has just recently been appointed District Deputy Grand Master of the Somerville 6th Masonic District by M. W. Herbert W. Dean Grand Master of Masons in Massachusetts.

Mr. Richmond was one of the organizers of Mystic Valley Lodge, when it was instituted in 1920, and served for two terms as its Master. He has been Treasurer of the Lodge for a number of years and has also been very active in the work of Masonry throughout the District. His appointment, now, as District Deputy Grand Master is a well deserved recognition of the service which he has rendered to Masonry and is also a compliment to Mystic Valley Lodge.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The regular meeting of the Fortnightly was held in the Town Hall on Monday, Jan. 12 with the president, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden in the chair. After the routine business the afternoon was placed in the hands of Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, chairman of the Legislative Committee. The program was opened by a selection by the Eroica Ensemble, Miss Shuman, pianist; Miss Arzillo, 'cellist; and Miss Hintlian, violinist.

Mr. Leonard W. Cronkhite, whose subject for the afternoon was "The International Scene," was introduced by Mrs. Thompson as an observer of international affairs, an importer and exporter for a number of years, president of the American Association of Rhodes Scholars and trustee of the World Peace Foundation. Mr. Cronkhite, in reviewing the period beginning with the great War, asked the audience to picture first the blood and carnage, white gowned nurses, the dead, the enigma of the countries today, Russia, and the perplexed figure of Europe attempting to set her house in order. He called special attention to the pioneer American, assuming the role of hero, misguided and goaded by politicians, diplomats and statesmen, as yet unconscious of the fact that the power of the world lies in his hand, and the objective of the entire world today, the promised land of peace. Mr. Cronkhite feels that the world created by the march of civilization today, with the radio, telephone, and automobile, does not contribute anything to clear thinking and reflection. The problems confronting the world today, happiness, the freedom of democracy, and peace, require the maximum amount of thought and reflection.

The first lesson the speaker feels should be learned in the study of internationalism is that the world is one whether we like it or not. The United States today could not prosecute a perfectly, good, up-to-date war without asking commodities from 20 other countries. In spite of ourselves we become international in viewpoint. One of the best ways to get at the international problem is to have the mental golden rule, and he suggested that thought be given as to how each and every one of us would act if we were in the position of the nations of Europe. Twenty-eight nations crowded nations together naturally present problems.

Mr. Cronkhite compared the world to an immense wheel, the hub representing war and the rim the international chain of ideals, each contributing to the final suppression of war. These ideals toward which the world is slowly struggling are the disarmament of the nations and because this can never be equalized, the necessity of mutual guarantees of protection, the submission of international problems to arbitration (any nation not willing to do this being considered an aggressor), and the establishment and continuation of the World Court which shall modify the existing rules of international behaviour as well as solve disputes. Although this rim of protection is not yet finished, we have gone far enough to know that another war would not be regarded simply as a polite misfortune but as an international crime.

In answering a question from the floor as to whether or not the time had come to recognize Russia, the speaker said that the United States will recognize any government that can maintain itself and will discharge its international obligations. Russia has not fulfilled the latter part of the bargain and in addition is experimenting on a new social system which raises grave doubts as to the degree of Russia's ability to work out this political doctrine without forcing it on the rest of the world. Therefore it is extremely doubtful if the time has come to recognize Russia.

Answering another question as to the immediate result should the United States become a member of the World Court, Mr. Cronkhite said that the immediate result would be almost nothing but it would be of tremendous importance in ultimate ways; that results cannot forthcome immediately but that even though the World Court cannot solve the problem of war and the League cannot, they will have a great influence toward peace.

The afternoon program closed with a violin solo by Miss Hintlian, a 'cello solo by Miss Arzillo, and a trio by the ensemble. Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. William W. Little, chairman of the social committee.

Method of Ratification of the 18th Amendment by Morris Sheppard

With the exception of a statement in a speech by a member of the House of Representatives criticising the method of ratifying the proposed 18th Amendment by state legislatures instead of state conventions; but not questioning the right of Congress to designate either method, the matter of ratifying an amendment to the Constitution by state conventions did not arise in the debate in Congress, while the submission of the 18th amendment was under submission. The Congressman above mentioned, cited the fact that the state convention method had been voted down by the House three years before, when the prohibition amendment was under discussion. Time and again during the debate prior to the submission of the 18th amendment in 1917, opponents of the amendment cited the fact that it would become valid when passed by both Houses of Congress by a two-thirds vote and ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the States. This being the manner in which all other amendments to the Constitution were declared legal.

CRONHIMER—BEGIEN

Miss Barbara Begien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frederick Begien of Ridgefield road, and Fred Cronhimer of Fitchburg, organist and choirmaster at Christ Church in that city, were married Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany. The ceremony was performed in a setting of palms and evergreen by Rev. Truman Heminway, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, who was assisted by the rector of Christ Church in Fitchburg, Rev. A. Vincent Bennett. The wedding music was played by Francis Snow, organist of Trinity Church, Boston, and Master Arnold Fellows, boy soprano of Christ Church, was soloist.

Miss Begien was attended by Miss Eleanor Boyd of Winchester as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Hart and Miss Janice Whittaker, both of Winchester; Miss Elinor Conant of North Woodstock, N. H., cousin of the bride; and Mrs. Elsie C. Abell of New York City, sister of the bridegroom.

Mr. Cronhimer had for his best man Fred E. Jones of Lawrence. Ushers were Norman Begien of Winchester, N. H., brother of the bride; and Frederick Peabody, Rev. George A. Palmer and George Wellington, all of Fitchburg.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin, Princess style, with a cap-shaped veil of Duchess lace. Her shower bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her honor attendant was gowned in light pink satin and carried radiant roses and the bridesmaids wore frocks of light blue satin and carried butterfly roses.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, who assisted in receiving with the parents of the bridegroom. The wedding journey is to take Mr. Cronhimer and his bride to Washington, D. C., and New York City. Upon their return they are to make their home in the Hastings Apartments in Fitchburg.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Gunston Hall in Washington, D. C. Mr. Cronhimer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cronhimer of Lawrence, is a graduate of Lawrence High School. He is instructor of music in the Ashburnham School for Boys and before becoming organist and choirmaster at Christ Church in Fitchburg, held the same position at the Church of the Epiphany.

MID-SEASON RECITAL OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATED STUDIOS

The mid-season recital by pupils of the Winchester Branch of the National Associated Studios of Music was given at the studios of Pearl Bates Morton, Waterfield Building, Friday evening, Jan. 9 at 8 o'clock.

The program consisted of solos by various pupils representing the piano, violin, violincello, clarinet, saxophone, and trumpet departments. The type of composition selected and performance of each pupil reflected great credit on the part of both teacher and student, and showed the high standard of training the Association maintains.

A new feature of the recital this season was the ensemble group composed of the various students studying orchestra instruments, and conducted by Mr. Harold Doyle. Ensemble and orchestral playing is an essential factor in the training of all music students, and it is also a source of inspiration to the children as well as the parents.

The second semester of the school begins Feb. 2. During this term another recital will be given.

Richard E. Newman of 19 Middlesex street, Woburn, notified the police last Saturday afternoon that as he was driving his Ford coupe east on Fletcher street the machine skidded on the ice and struck a tree at the corner of Fletcher and Wildwood streets. The car was badly damaged and had to be towed away. Newman was not injured.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH RECEIVED GIFT IN MEMORY OF HENRY L. CHAPMAN

New "Mothers' Window" Unveiled in Chapel During Afternoon

Six angel corbels, supporting the six roof beams of the Ripley Memorial Chapel, have been presented to the First Congregational Church by the Young People's Society in memory of Henry Leland Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Chapman of 7 Salisbury street and a former president of the society, who died Feb. 15, 1927.

The corbels, which are of handsome design, bear shields blending with the colors of the Florentine roof and add greatly to the appearance of the attractive chapel.

A brief service of commemoration was held last Sunday in connection with the gift of the corbels at the senior department session of the Sunday School. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor, spoke in memory of Henry Chapman, stressing his brilliant intellect, his literary taste, his wide reading, moral courage and alert interest in life, even during his long illness.

Sunday afternoon was also a notable occasion at the First Congregational Church, witnessing as it did the unveiling and dedication of the new "Mothers' Window," placed in the Ripley Memorial Chapel as the gift of members of the church and congregation in memory of individual mothers.

The window, which is of three-lancet design with rosette, bears the inscription "In Honor and Memory of All Mothers." Of beautifully stained glass in reds and blues it consists of eight medallions, representing from left to right and from the bottom upward, the Annunciation, Christ Blessing Little Children, Christ Crowning His Mother In Heaven, the Nativity, Madonna and Child, the Meeting of Mary and Elizabeth, Christ in the Carpenter Shop and Madonna and Child, Seated. At the top is a rosette of two angels, bearing a crown, the whole set in limestone. The entire window is of most attractive and the central lancet has unusual beauty.

Mr. C. Edward Newell, Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase and Mrs. D. C. Dennett, the Art Committee of the Church, gave much thought to the theme for this window, which is considered by its manufacturers to be one of the finest windows they have produced.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

Members of the Winchester Chapter of the Guild gathered in Fortnightly Hall on Jan. 13 for the regular meeting and sewing. Hostesses for the afternoon were four members, Mrs. Wm. J. Cronghwell, Mrs. Alleu L. Beausang, Mrs. Harold Castonguay and Mrs. James N. Clark. The announcement that there are now about 72 members of the Guild residing in Winchester was received with great pleasure.

The sewing circle is continuing its good work under the direction of Mrs. Louis Chevalier, chairman. Plans are in the making for a bridge party on Feb. 10, the details of which are to be announced later and the proceeds will be used to finance the sewing circle. The next meeting of the Guild will be on Tuesday, Jan. 27 at 2:30 p. m. at Fortnightly Hall.

PERMIT FOR BILLBOARD DENIED

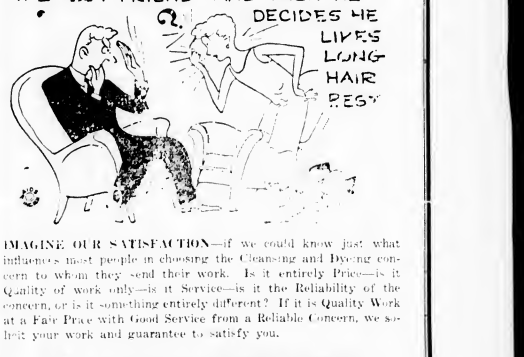

Town Counsel Addison B. Pike has been informed that the Department of Public Works has refused permission to the advertising firm of Donnelly & Sons to erect a 50 foot billboard at 535-537 Main street on the so-called Norris Block in the center.

Permission was denied because of objection to the billboard made by the Board of Selectmen through Town Counsel Pike and Building Commissioner Maurice Dinneen. The Town has a specific ordinance prohibiting such signs, and there were other violations of local building and health ordinances involved.

There is no questioning the fact that the Town at large is strongly behind Mr. Dinneen in his determination to prevent the community's attractiveness from being marred by unsightly billboards.

Police Chief William H. Rogers stated this week, and in no uncertain terms, that his department will make it decidedly unpleasant for any one whom it can connect with the removing of safety ladders from the shores of ponds about town. The community will be solidly behind the police in their intention to prosecute this particular form of lawlessness. One can't term it mischief. Every one able to move a ladder knows what these ladders are at the ponds for, and also knows that the saving of a life or several lives may depend upon their being instantly available. Any one who would steal a life saving ladder or remove one from the place where it is expected to be found, either with malicious intent or through a mistaken idea of a joke deserves no sympathy and will get none.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A service of memory of Clara A. Bridgman was conducted by the Rev. Truman Hennaway at the Church of the Epiphany on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Bridgman whose death occurred in Washington, D. C., on Friday, Jan. 9 after a brief illness of bronchial pneumonia, had been often a visitor in the home of her sister, Amy Bridgman, and was here, as always, a devoted attendant at the Episcopal Church. The service used was that of Commemoration prepared by Dr. Souter prefaced by prayer and the following word of personal tribute:

Those who were privileged to know Clara Bridgman have long been aware of the clear depths of her religious life and the vitality of her faith. Her years of consecrated philanthropy attested this. It was also apparent when, under the stress of severe illness, her mind became confused and wandering. Across it drifted visions of the infant Christ, phrases from the Psalter and hymns. "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire," were among the last broken words from her lips, and, a moment later, the corollary: "Prayer is what I live by."

She went forth in the morning and, as if with precision, her always keen literary appreciation had preserved in her prayer book this poem:

A MORNING THOUGHT

What if some morning, when the stars were shining,
And the dawn whitened, and the east was clear,
Strange peace and rest fell on me from the one Nine,
Of a homeward Spirit standing near?

And I should fall to him as he stood beside me,
To whom my Faith-most friendly Faith and fair,
Built of old and dear through sun and hail—now
Lavished at once, yielded to secure me,

Throughout the Coming here, leaving and serving
Not one of truth, and arcane friendship
Should crisply smile on me the gentle angel
And take my hand and say, "My name is Death!"

WHERE IS THE REPUBLIC OF LATVIA?

That was a question which stumped the police and newspaper men, who hadn't had the advantage of a junior high school education, when a letter was received at Headquarters this week from the New York office of the Consul General of the Republic of Latvia, seeking information as to the whereabouts of one August Melder who at one time lived in Winchester.

The letter stated that Mr. Melder had recently died, and that the Consul General of Latvia was desirous of learning his last known address. He was said to have been a chauffeur in Winchester in 1911.

Chief Rogers got onto the job and after considerable effort located a lady who was acquainted with another who had worked as a domestic in a small Vermont town last summer where August Melder was also employed. That was the best the local authorities could do in the matter of locating a man who had not been in Winchester so far as could be learned for 20 years.

After advising the Latvian Consul of his findings, Chief Rogers again turned his attention to the local problems with which his department is called upon to grapple.

Nomination papers, in addition to others mentioned are in circulation for Harry W. Stevens and Harris S. Richardson for Selectmen, for Nathaniel M. Nichols and Paul G. Eberle for Collector of Taxes, for John F. Cassidy for Assessor and for William P. Callahan and William E. Ramsdell for Selectmen. Messrs. Stevens, Richardson, Cassidy and Nichols are candidates for re-election.

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

Over 150 members and friends attended the smoker at the club on Saturday evening, one of the best entertainments of the winter rewarding them for their good turn-out. The speaker was Mr. James E. Wood, president of the James E. Wood Detective Agency of Boston, a man who has had a wide experience in unraveling many mysterious murder cases. Detective Wood had a very gripping and interesting way in telling of his experiences, illustrating his talk with numerous pictures connected with big murder cases. Lunch was served at the close of the talk.

Calumet came home from Woburn Monday evening with 4 points from Towanda in the Mystic Valley League, six of which were captured by the two bowling teams. The local boys were also victorious in pool and cowboy pool.

HIGH SCHOOL SECRETARY INJURED IN PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Miss Gunhild Nelson of Pine street, secretary to Principal Wade L. Grindle at the Winchester High School, was the victim of a most unusual accident while on her way home from the high school building Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Nelson was standing near the railroad gates at Railroad avenue, waiting for the north bound express to pass through the center, shortly before 5:30 o'clock. As the train went by something struck her on the side of the head, inflicting a painful wound.

The young lady was taken in the police automobile by Patrolman James P. Donaghey and Dr. H. N. Bernard to the Winchester Hospital where she was treated by Dr. Roger M. Burgoyne. She sustained a cut over her eye which necessitated a stitch to close, but was not thought to be seriously injured, and was later removed to her home.

What hit Miss Nelson is not known. The police are of the opinion that something may have fallen or been thrown from the train causing the accident. Nothing was recovered which is known to have been responsible.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

Three absentees, one guest and four visitors constitute the attendance record for the meeting of Jan. 15.

As an example of the respect which Rotary commands in foreign nations, it is interesting to note that the President of the Rotary Club of Bangkok, Siam is Prince Purachatra, brother of the Emperor of Siam. The Prince has recently been a guest of the Rotary Club of Shanghai, China.

The Rotary Club of Chehalis in the State of Washington has developed an unusual department in the production of boys' work activities. A check is kept on all boys discharged from the Washington State Training School and the Rotary Club in each boy's home town is requested to offer a helping hand to the boy, so that he may get a fresh start in life. It would seem that a very great deal of good should result from this.

In our own district it appears that the excellent practice of holding intercity meets is stronger than ever, this season. Our club was recently in guest position to the Rotary Club of Cambridge and for next month the Rotary Club of Melrose has extended an invitation which we have voted to accept. There is pleasure and profit in store for every Rotarian who can attend such meetings and we shall expect a large attendance of our members at Melrose on Feb. 19. Other announcements of this meeting will appear later.

The speaker at our meeting of last Thursday was Mr. S. L. Pond of Woburn. Air-mail pilot on the Boston-New York line. Mr. Pond gave us a thrilling talk about his experiences in the air from the time when he first took off. The commercial use of air vehicles in this country dates back but a very few years, but its development has been rapid. Even now all adverse conditions have been overcome, except bad weather. In this connection it is stated that weather conditions on the Boston-New York line are with one exception, the worst in the country.

At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Pond was showered with questions.

There will be another interesting meeting on the 22nd. Don't miss it. Attendance for Jan. 8—100 per cent.

STONEHAM THEATRE

"All Quiet on the Western Front"

Tuesday and Wednesday at the Stoneham Theatre with a special matinee at 3:15 and evening at 7:45. Wednesday at 2:15 and 7:45.

At last the motion picture of the greatest book "All Quiet on the Western Front" has been completed. The critics say it is the greatest motion picture ever made. This wonderful Universal production of Remarque's famous novel has required a year's painstaking labor and expenditures of more than $1,000,000. For example, miles of actual trenches had to be dug and fortified for sweeping battle scenes. It is not only the story of the "other side," it is the story of every army. It is the story of youth in love with life, in love with love, laughing, sinning, repenting, dying. You will love its daring drama, its faithfulness, its utter truth. You, who were soldiers, will see yourselves once again marching over the shell-torn roads of France, mud-covered, weary, with the din of battle ringing in your ears. Don't fail to see this wonderful picture.

Michael Grant has been acting as Superintendent of Streets during the absence of Parker Holbrook, who has been in attendance at the Road Builders' Convention in St. Louis.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Lucille Skilling, of Lloyd street, formerly a member of the Physical Education Department of the Winchester Public Schools, was sufficiently recovered from her recent severe illness to leave Saturday for New York City where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Curtis Caldwell.

Last week-end was a good one for skating and ice boating and all the ponds in and about Winchester were busy places both Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The ice boat skippers would have liked a bit more wind, but the skaters seemed happy enough.

Mrs. Frank Winn of Euclid avenue is reported as recovering nicely from a broken ankle which she sustained while skating with members of her family last week at Long Pond.

A resident of Irving street complained on Tuesday to the police that a "peeping Tom" had been seen looking in his kitchen window the night previous. The householder stated that the same thing had happened on several occasions.

THE SILLY, HATLESS BOYS

(From the Worcester Telegram)

Last spring it was reported that there was an unusually large number of young men and boys in Boston and vicinity suffering from earaches and ear ailments. It was further reported that some physicians believed that much of the trouble resulted from the fad of going hatless, even in the coldest and stormiest weather.

Now it may be that those reports were not accurate. It may be that the number of cases of head colds and complications among the young men in the Boston area was not unusually large. It may be that physicians of high standing did not attribute such increased trouble, to the hatless fad. It may even be that Boston youths didn't go outdoors at all last winter. It may even be that there is no such city as Boston anyway.

There have been no reports that Admiral Byrd and his men, down there in the freezing Antarctic, have been going around without any hats or without any head-covering. There have been no reports that the British soldiers in India have given up the custom of wearing pith helmets in the burning sun, and that they have decided that it would be more comfortable and more healthful to go bareheaded at all times, even on the hottest of the scorching hot days.

Possibly Admiral Byrd and the British soldiers in India are behind the times. Possibly the wearing of hats in any kind of weather is far less healthful than going bareheaded. Possibly boys ought to become accustomed to going hatless on all occasions now, in order that a completely hatless generation may follow. Possibly so—but until physicians and scientists advise people to go hatless, it seems reasonable to assume that the hatless fad, in our New England winters is a bit silly.

ANNUAL SHOW OF UNITARIAN MEN'S CLUB

Large Audience Thoroughly Enjoyed Unique Entertainment

The members of the Men's Club of the Unitarian Church staged a very successful evening of music and frolic in Metcalf Hall last Friday evening, before a large and enthusiastic audience. The program consisted of two parts, a musical banquet followed by a song shop revue. The scene of the former was at the banquet of the Men's Club, which was in progress at a table well decorated with balloons, while the diners all wore fancy caps and made merry with noise-makers.

Some consternation was caused by the absence of the official toastmaster and Kenneth M. Pratt was summoned from the audience as an apparent reluctant pinch-hitter. At that moment D. Earl Osgood burst through the entrance to the hall stenciling with a very angry traffic officer who loudly alleged that his car had been driven through the town with wild recklessness. A break-up of the show seemed certain until the member of the force turned out to be George B. Cummings, whose acting was startlingly realistic.

Speeches were made by Mr. Ralph Hale, who concentrated on the Einstein theory, Harry Goddard, who successfully made his maiden effort at after-dinner speaking, Kenneth Pratt, Admiral of the Frog Pond Navy and Keeper of the Abejona, and George Cummings, who spoke on Dress Reform. Solo numbers were given by Messrs. Tilson, Miller, Joslin, McLeod and Livingstone. The four colored waiters provided excellent service at the banquet and also assisted in the entertainment with solo numbers by Arthur Hall, George Byford and "Ed" Merrill. An amusing interruption came when "Ted" von Rosenvinge appeared as a Chinese laundry man and tried to collect money due from Harry Goddard. His song, "Chinese Laundry Blue?" was hilariously received.

The scene of the second part was a song shop. The walls were completely covered with sheet music covers, giving a very novel appearance. Herbert Miller made an ideal jester, opening the scene with the song, "Sing a Happy Little Thing," and introducing the numbers that followed. Solo numbers were given by Messrs. Hill, McLeod and Byford, the latter appearing in old-fashioned costume. "Ted" von Rosenvinge again starred in another one of his original songs "Why, Oh, Why Do My Bills Seem Larger This Year?" This was the comedy hit of the evening and brought roars of laughter from the audience, as his suit fell from him piece by piece.

Messrs. McLeod, Hill, Byford and Joslin were a well-balanced quartet, singing "When the Ocean Played at Twilight," but even dear old Siwash would hardly have claimed those rollicking college boys, Messrs. Miller, Hall, Goddard and von Rosenvinge, though the audience shook with delight while they presented their specialty, "How We Love Our College."

The outstanding number of the evening, however, was the song "I Remember You from Somewhere," with Messrs. Tilson and Hale as the principals. The former entered the shop with a very buxom maiden possessing all the demureness of the pre-war period disguised in the person of the versatile Mr. Hale. Followed the makings of a quintet which would have made the original "Florodora" girls sit up and rub their eyes. Kenneth Pratt and Robert Livingstone were a couple of peaches and James Joslin and Arthur Hollins made one wonder how their mothers could have let them out with such dapper John Held-like Villians as Harry Goddard, George Cummings, H. A. Hall and William Miller.

Mr. George F. Madden of Wollaston, who so successfully produced last year's show, arranged and coached the entire evening's performance and acted as conductor. He was assisted by his wife, Mrs. Alma A. Madden, who also presided at the piano. The committee in charge of all arrangements was headed by Mr. D. Earle Osgood as chairman, and comprised Charles H. Watkins, Edward H. Merrill and Ralph T. Hale.

The program was as follows:

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS PRESENT "SICK-A-BED"

Classy, clean and clever farce comedy, made up as an assortment of mirthful and interesting characters, consisting of an African lion hunter; quack doctors; a real doctor; a furious hubby; a revengeful wife; a "fixing" friend; a faithful Jap valet; process servers; police officers; hospital nurses; persistent janitor; all laugh builders—go to make "Sick-A-Bed" one of the brightest farces Erlanger produced.

On his return from Africa, where he has been hunting big game, Reginald Jay finds himself confronted with the unwelcome prospect of being the star witness in a divorce case involving two of his dearest friends. Another of his friends, "the fixer," decides that the only way to keep Reginald neutral is to put him to bed. With the aid of a couple of fake doctors, who declare that Reginald is desperately ill, this is done.

Everything goes well until the hospital staff decides to amputate several of Reggie's arms and legs. A pretty nurse enters on the scene and saves the situation, to "Reggie's" entire satisfaction.

Walter Greaza will be seen in his first comedy role since joining the Somerville Players. Alma Baker will be seen in the character made famous by "the" Mary Boland, the pretty nurse. Dorothy Lowell, a surprise role. Fern Chandler, "especially engaged," as the trouble making wife who starts the fire works—Mr. Dale, the man who tries to put them out; Mr. McLeod and Joseph Thayer as a pair of quack doctors; Henry Cross-sen, "the fixer;" Harry Lowell, from the Emerald Isle; Frank Farrara, his co-worker, from the Isle of Japan and Frank Thomas as a bona fide M. D. Several other characters complete the cast.

Crime is rounding out a big week at the Somerville Theatre, and "Sick-A-Bed" will be the offering during the week of Jan. 19.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The third dance in our winter series will be held tonight at the Calumet Club. "Frankie" Flynn's Orchestra will provide the music, which should be good news to those who attended the dances at the club last spring. With the price so reasonable and the hall so centrally located we have a right to look for a good crowd.

Claim Odd Championship

A married couple of Atlanta, Ga., claims the dual championship for broken bones. Mrs. W. L. Stallings has suffered eight major bonebreaks—shoulder, two arms, two collar bones, two legs and a hip. Stallings has fractured his skull, thumb, vertebrae, two collar bones, shoulder, crushed chest, fractured leg, wrist, six ribs, right side and six ribs, left side. He asserts the only members still unfractured are his right leg and left arm.

The date of the first bridge across the Thames at London has been established as A. D. 43. There is some controversy as to whether this was Roman or Briton.

PROHIBITION IS DOOMED, DECLARES DR. BRUCE

"The prohibition law is doomed," declared Dr. H. Addington Bruce, noted psychologist, speaking before the Winchester High School Parent-Teacher Association, Monday night on the subject "Home Life and the Crime Problem." This emphatic assertion was occasioned by a question submitted to the speaker as to how far the lack of enforcement of the Volstead Act is a factor in the present crime wave.

"Prohibition is not enforced because it cannot be enforced," Dr. Bruce added. The neurotic, the person restless and discontented, has several alternatives. He may suffer nervous breakdown, become insane, or turn to crime. The least harmful mode of escape is to make use of alcohol. The method of attacking our increase in insanity and crime should be used in attacking the acknowledged evils of alcohol. It is a question of education and not of law. This education is to be found in our schools and churches and, most important of all, in our homes.

"The United States leads the world in crime. The present day actions of gangsters, highwaymen and racketeers put to blush the hired assasins of the middle ages. We have not, as yet, frankly faced the problem of grappling with the real causes of crime. These causes, Dr. Bruce pointed out, are; first, the abnormal shift of the population from the country to the city; second, the overemphasis given to material goods; third, the unfortunate narrowing of life's activities to business pursuits and pleasure seeking.

"Divorces have increased in the United States in the last 30 years, from eight to 17 out of 100 marriages. Investigation has shown that of our criminals today, 50 per cent come from homes broken up by death, desertion, or divorce. The lack of harmony in a home unaffected by any of these three is another great factor in the making of criminals.

"From the home that is well-balanced and not given over entirely to the modern tendencies of acquiring too many of the material goods and seeking all its pleasures in the artificial methods of radio, movies, and other pleasures that must be bought, we find few criminals emerging. A well balanced home furnishes the best in music, books, art and above all good conversation. The decline in the art of conversation is a contributing factor to present day evils. By conversation is not meant mere chatter.

"The child brought up in a well balanced home finds life satisfying. The man and woman who are satisfied with life are not of the material from which the criminal is made.

"The crime wave of today is not as important as that of tomorrow. It is the potential criminal who demands our attention. The real solution lies in the home. Until the problem receives the frank attention of parents it will not be solved."

That the discussion of the situation by Dr. Bruce was fully appreciated by his audience was attested to by the generous applause accorded him when he concluded. He showed clearly an exceptional grasp of the many factors involved. No one could deny that he has the fundamentals of the serious problem closely at hand.

The audience enjoyed a program of music by the high school orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Stanley Slomensky. The selections rendered were: Petite Suite by Gluck; Springtime Waltz and Hungarian Dance No. 7 by Brahms.

The orchestra for the evening was made up of the following high school pupils:

Piano—Virginia Danforth, Samuel Mann
Violins—Arlan Monraban, Constance Purrington, Margery Dutch, Katherine Sanford, Helen Mintz, Martha Johnson, Betty Erickson, Judson Cross
Clarinets—Charles Mann, Albert Bagley, Harry Mintz
Cornets—Henry Fitts, Charles Dolloff, Albert Haskell
Saxophones—William Sawyer, Frank Haley, Sargent Hill
Trombone—Robert Ditten
Drums—William McIntire

Mr. Leonard O. Waters, president of the Association presided. The secretary, Miss Darling, and the treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Butler read their respective reports. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the Hospitality Committee.

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

Starting Saturday, Jan. 17 the Strand Theatre will present one of the best double feature programs ever seen in Malden. John Barrymore is the star.

"Moby Dick," one of the greatest sea stories of all times with a local setting at New Bedford, Mass., is the unusual attraction in which John Barrymore is starred. "Moby Dick" is a combination of romance and adventure that inevitably stirs the blood of every person who sees the picture. Joan Bennett, who plays opposite Mr. Barrymore is captivating and Lloyd Hughes as the jealous brother is at his best.

Magnificent photography and amazing sound reproduction adds to the value of this entertainment. It seems to the present writer that nothing equalling the storm at sea has ever been attempted. For sheer energy of action, thrill of sequence and force of melodrama, "Moby Dick" has seldom had an equal.

"Just Imagine," the second attraction starring El Brendel, is the successor to "Sunny Side Up" and is said to be even better. "Just Imagine" is laid in a 1980 setting, when the world has changed materially in virtually every element except romance. The love interest, which centers about Maureen O'Sullivan and John Garrick, tells of the romance of the "Lindbergh of 1980" in a gripping and sustained fashion.

REMINISCENCES OF DAYS GONE BY

First Installment of a Series of Chatty Articles by Former Superintendents Henry C. Robinson and William Merritt

REMINISCENCES of railroading a half century or more ago on the lines that now comprise the Boston and Maine system of 2200 miles have been written for the Employees' Magazine by two retired superintendents of the Boston and Maine, who were in the thick of things when operating facilities and methods were far from the present-day advanced status.

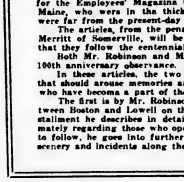

The articles, from the pens of Henry C. Robinson of Winchester, and William Merritt of Somerville, will be printed serially. They are particularly timely in that they follow the centennial observance of our railroad.

Both Mr. Robinson and Mr. Merritt were guests of honor at Lowell for the 100th anniversary observance.

In these articles, the two former superintendents bring out intimate details that should arouse memories among the old timers and prove interesting to those who have become a part of the railroad in the years that followed.

The first is by Mr. Robinson. He conducts a mythical trip "in the 1860's" between Boston and Lowell on the old Boston and Lowell Railroad. In this first installment he describes in detail the old Boston and Lowell depot and chats intimately regarding those who operated it three generations ago. In the installments to follow, he goes into further detail regarding the equipment, then tells of the scenery and incidents along the line as the train made its trip to Lowell.

By Henry C. Robinson

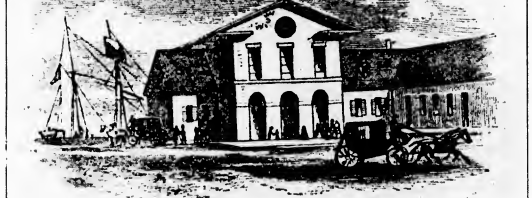

IT HAS been suggested that an account of conditions on the Boston and Lowell Railroad as they existed 60 years ago might be of interest, and as there is probably no one else living to write up such an account, that and the suggestion are my apologies for making an attempt to record conditions as they were.

Probably on no other railroad of equal length, and perhaps on no other road have there been in 60 years the number of changes equal to or exceeding those made on the Boston and Lowell road; of the 28 station buildings in service in 1868-70 only three are now standing. Three stations have been discontinued and three have been added; of the 28 stations (including the Boston Depot) the locations of nine have been materially changed and the names of 14 have been changed.

At the time to which this paper refers the road was known as the Boston, Lowell and Nashua Railroad and consisted of

Double track, Boston to Nashua*
Single track, Nashua to Greenfield†
Single track, Stony Brook Branch†
Single track, Lowell and Lawrence Branch†
Single track, Salem and Lowell Branch†

THE FIRST BOSTON AND LOWELL STATION

Single track, Stoneham Branch†
Single track, Woburn Branch†; about 115 miles in all.

It is thought that the most interesting method will be to take a trip, mentally, by an extra train, and this narrative will, therefore, take this form. You are, therefore, cordially invited to make one of a party for an observation trip, Boston to Lowell, gathering in front of the depot on Causeway street, corner of Nashua street, Boston. The day chosen for the trip will, of course, be one of those ideally perfect days in, say, September. The trip is likely to be a slow one, for stops will be frequent and some may be long.

While waiting the arrival of late comers a sketchy description of the Boston depot surroundings may be interesting. To the east of the depot, beyond a rather narrow driveway, is the Eastern Railroad depot—a brick building of two stories in height with a three-story tower midway of the front wall, and to the west of this is the entrance to the head house and train shed. Across Causeway street, on the corner of Friend street, is the plant of the Blake Steam Pump Company, and such a noise comes from the open windows—equal to that of a boiler factory. On the opposite corner of Nashua street is another iron plant (name forgotten); these with the rattle of horse-drawn vehicles—principally wagons, and trucks drawn by one, two, three, and a few by four horses—over the street cobbles, keep up a never-ending noise. Occasionally a horse car of the Metropolitan Street Railway draws up in front of the depot and, after stopping, starts again and swings up Portland street. More frequently there passes the Hawthorne coaches in their trips from Charlestown, over Warren bridge, into Causeway street to Leverett street to Green street, through Bowdoin Square to Court street, to Washington street and so to the Norfolk House, returning over the same route.

Turning our attention to the depot from which the trip begins. A two-story brick building with a low slanting roof is seen, the west wall of the head house and the train house being on the inside line of the easterly sidewalk of Nashua street, and the Causeway street front sits back a few feet from the sidewalk. Between this and the building is a covered portico midway of the building. The floor of the portico and the four or five steps leading thereto are of stone.

It is considered that all of those going on the trip have arrived, but let us first make an inspection of the depot. We climb the portico steps and enter the head house by wide double doors into a passageway leading directly to the train shed. On the right of the passageway is the men's waiting room, finished in dark, gloomy colors, the door to the room being well towards the farther end of the passageway. Sheathing comes up about four feet, above which are windows. The other side of the passage is sheathed to the ceiling and painted dark to harmonize with the waiting room finish. Toward the farther end of the passageway a door opens on the left at the foot of a stairway leading to the rooms of the officials on the second floor. The general manager, George Stack; the attorney, John H. George; the treasurer, C. E. A. Bartlett; the superintendent, John B. Winslow; the paymaster, J. W. Whitaker; the purchasing agent, F. H. Nourse; and the chief engineer, Mathew Oliver. The freight agent's office, J. S. Lincoln, is on Minot street at the southerly end of the outward freight house. The passenger and ticket agent, B. F. Kendrick, is located in the Main street station at Nashua, as is also the clerk, Theo. Wood, of the Nashua and Lowell Railroad, who also has the title of auditor.

Beyond the door leading to the stairway is the ticket office, one selling window looking out into the train shed; another window at right angles to this one opens into the largest of the ladies' waiting rooms. There are two rooms for the use of ladies—the larger one looking out on Nashua street being the general room, the smaller a retiring room looking out on Causeway street, both being in charge of Miss Rebecca Carmichael as housekeeper. In the angle formed by the north end of the ladies' rooms and the Nashua street wall is the news stand and restaurant, narrow and perhaps 30 feet in length. The counter is divided into sections, each section being walled with rectangular glass windows which are raised during business hours. In one section is displayed newspapers and magazines in another a show case contains boxes of cigars, etc. two cigarettes, by the way). The other sections have show cases containing sandwiches, pies, doughnuts, etc. Behind the counter there is scant room for three or four small tables for the convenience of hungry travelers—tables seating three persons. The writer cannot recall any kitchen facilities, but there must have been something of the sort, for quickly cooked dishes were served—undoubtedly the pot of Boston baked beans was always available, as were coffee and tea. Glass jars on wall shelves held candies in various forms.

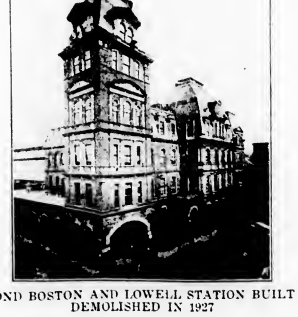

Our attention is now turned to the train shed, a wooden flooring perhaps 30 feet in width and of a length to accommodate four or five passenger cars of the length then in use. Two tracks on the right serve this platform, the track nearest the platform serving practically all of the 34 trains (17 in each direction) leaving and arriving, the easterly track being almost wholly used as a shifting and storage track. On the left hand side of the platform, doors some 20 feet apart open out onto the Nashua street sidewalk; between the doorways and some three feet from the wall are pipe railings, behind which all hack drivers are required to stand when soliciting passengers on the arrival of inbound trains. They were also required to wear in a conspicuous place, usually on their head gear, a heavy contrivance of leather on which were displayed in metal the name of the company they represented and the license number.

The two tracks originally installed being inadequate to accommodate the increased train service, an additional track with platform facilities was installed at the north of the original train house to serve which a wide doorway was cut in the north wall. In this extension was located the baggage room, in charge of that later veteran employee, John Carmichael.

An apology is due our guide about the depot for not having introduced him before. It is none other than Mr. James L. Locke, the depot master—a most courteous gentleman who, while showing evidences of Scotch thrift, is most solicitous about the comfort and convenience of those with whom he comes in contact, and radiates authority. By the way, he is also proprietor of the news stand and restaurant.

These articles are published through the courtesy of the Boston & Maine Railroad Employees Magazine, which has kindly supplied the text and illustrations. Mr. Henry C. Robinson, through a lifetime residence in Winchester, is widely known among our citizens and his "Reminiscences" are hence of more than usual interest.—Ed.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Morocco," with Gary Cooper and Marlene Dietrich, and Winnie Lightner's new comedy hit "The Life of the Party," will make up the double bill that opens a seven day engagement at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. In "Morocco" is a love story that is vital, soul-stirring and real with a ruthless fervor that dwarfs all other emotions. Cooper a soldier in the French Foreign Legion; Miss Dietrich, a woman of mystery, a cabaret singer, who scorns all men. These two meet against the colorful background of "Morocco" and fall in love. Adolph Menjou, the dapper sophisticate, is the third member of the intriguing triangle that develops when Miss Dietrich whirls her charms into the opening scenes. Marlene Dietrich, the Continental star, makes her first appearance in "Morocco" and the critics pronounce her one of the biggest "finds" in screen history.

In "The Life of the Party," Winnie Lightner returns to the gold digger character—the type of role for which she is famous, while the all-star supporting cast contains such famous players as Irene Delroy, Jack Whiting and Charles Butterworth.

"Sin Takes A Holiday," with charming Constance Bennett as the star, heads the double bill which concludes its run at the Granada on Friday. Miss Bennett is a great favorite, especially with the ladies who like to see her in sophisticated roles. Joe E. Brown in "Top Speed," a comedy riot, is the second attraction on the current bill.

Medieval Defense

The portcullis of medieval times was hung so as to slide up and down in groves with counterbalances. They were made of strong-framed grating of oaks, the lower points shod with iron. Sometimes they were made entirely of metal. The drawbridge was raised by chains and counterweights attached to levers projecting from the wall at a proper distance above it. The levers were elevated by heavy weights attached to their inner extremities, the wall forming the fulcrum.

A cynical customer from Cincinnati, declares that "Faith is a fallacy." "Brother," rebukes the Marion Star, "If men had no faith in one another, we'd all have to live within our incomes."

In 1784 Judge Tapping Reeve established the first law school in his home at Litchfield, Conn. Plans have been made to preserve the historic building, which still stands there, and to make of it a public memorial.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

"Bright Lights" an all-Technicolor production, starring Dorothy Mackaill will be the major attraction on the double bill which opens a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theatre in Malden on Saturday. In addition to Miss Mackaill the picture presents Frank Fay, Inez Courtney, Noah Beery and Daphne Pollard in important roles. Miss Mackaill appears as a New York revue star who has come up to the top from the lowest of African dives. Frank Fay, her barker in her hula days is now her master of ceremonies and very much in love with her in spite of her hectic past. Its thrills and exotic color mingle with the tense dramatic moments when she decides to leave her partner at last, and wed a rich man's son.

"Scarlet Pages," with an all-star cast including Marian Nixon, Grant Withers, Elsie Ferguson and John Halliday, will be the second attraction on the Mystic program for Saturday. This picture brings back an old favorite, Miss Elsie Ferguson, who a few years ago was the rage of the theatrical world.

Bert Lytell in "Brothers," heads the bill which closes its run at the Mystic on Friday. Mr. Lytell plays the parts of twin brothers in the picture and his acting is said to be the finest to reach the screen. "See America Thirst," a comedy of feature length, with Harry Langdon and Bessie Love as the featured players, is the second attraction on the current bill.

"Adopted" Family

When her master sold all of her young kittens the angora cat of Karl Schober, a farmer of Goesing, Australia, scoured the fields round about until she had collected three young rabbits. These she adopted and fed with her own milk.

"HUNTING FOR FATHER"

First Congregational Church, Sunday Morning at 10:30

Next Sunday morning at the usual hour of morning service, at the First Congregational Church, Dr. Chidley will preach a special sermon on "Hunting for Father."

In this sermon, Dr. Chidley will deal with certain traits in people who are seeking substitutes for the outgrown word of childhood, in the state, social conventions and religion. He will give illuminating illustrations of how people fight against growing up, and seeking false securities in life to the detriment of their characters.

This sermon ought to help people to understand certain background characteristics that crop out in their thinking and acting, and help them to adjust themselves to a grown-up world. It should be of interest to high school students, also.

The public is invited.

PARISH MEETING ACCEPTS RECTOR'S RESIGNATION

A special meeting of the Parish of the Epiphany, held Tuesday evening in the Parish House, accepted with regret the resignation of the rector, Rev. Truman Heminway, recently tendered by him to the vestry of the church.

Donald Heath, senior warden of the church, presided at the meeting which authorized the vestry to choose and elect a successor to Rev. Mr. Heminway. Assisting the vestry in the selection is a committee composed of three members of the vestry, three women of the church, to be chosen by the Service League; and three men of the parish, to be chosen by the Men's Club.

Rev. Mr. Heminway is to remain in Winchester until June and will be granted the usual leave of absence by the parish. He leaves the Epiphany with certain definite work in mind, but is unable at the time to make his plans public.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

We had another one of those nice parties at the Calumet Club last Friday night. Thirty-six couples enjoyed the dance very much. The music was just as good as advertised—which means something.

All you "guys" who couldn't or didn't show up missed something and at the price we feel it's pretty nearly a hand out.

WINCHESTER PEOPLE INVITED

The Winchester Red Cross cordially invites all who are interested in its activities to attend a luncheon at the Winchester Country Club, Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 12:30 p. m. Miss Mabel Boardman, National Secretary, will be the guest speaker. Tickets $1.

Kindly notify Mrs. Emerson at the Country Club, Win. 1182, if you plan to attend.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The January Council meeting of the Winchester Girl Scouts was held at Mrs. Arthur Loftus' home in Rangeley, 18 members being present. The mid-winter rally was postponed until an early date in March. The following Scouts will represent Winchester Scouts at the Girls' Conference in Malden the 6th, 7th and 8th of February: Scouts Ruth Hathaway, Priscilla Armstrong, Phillippa Kelley, Marguerite Nash, Doris MacElwain, Charlotte Haartz, Janet Nichols, Mary Elizabeth Hall.

A group of Scouts attended the Arlington Scouts own last Sunday in Robbins' Memorial Hall, upon invitation of the Arlington Council. Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott was the speaker, and her subject "The Four Wishes" proved an interesting talk to the girls. Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Mrs. Symmes and Commissioner Hall attended.

On Thursday, Jan. 29, the officers, which includes Captains, Lieutenants, Brown Owls, Tawny Owls and Commissioners will be the guests of Mrs. Walter Wadsworth, chairman of the Advisory Board, and her niece, Miss MacElwain, at a dinner party.

The Winchester Hospital nurse for Home Nurse and First Aid will be started on Saturday by Miss Torrop, for the Scouts who have signed for this course, in preparation for their first class badge.

Instruction in horsemanship will begin on Friday evening for the Scouts who have been riding, and wish to pass the badge requirements.

WINCHESTER BOY TO MAKE TRIP WITH HOCKEY CLUB

Gordon Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Smith of Cambridge street, sailed Wednesday night on the S.S. Bremen with the Boston Hockey Club to participate in the world hockey tournament at Krynica, Poland, next month as a representative of the United States. The hockey club was enabled to make the trip to Poland through the co-operation of C. F. Adams, owner of the Boston Bruins, who permitted the amateur players to take up a collection at the Bruins-Ottowa game in the Boston Garden Tuesday evening, waiving his no collection rule for the second time in six years. During the two intermissions members of the Hockey Club circulated among the Garden patrons and collected $1647.26.

Mr. Adams made a personal plea to the fans at the garden, and practically underwrote the trip when he promised to make up whatever sum was lacking to defray the expenses of the trip after the collections were taken. As he had previously contributed $3500, an amount similar to that given by the A. A. U., it can easily be seen that Mr. Adams was especially desirous of seeing the Hockey Club get a chance to prove its metal abroad.

The amount raised at the garden proved more than enough to meet the deficit and a happy crowd of hockey players left Boston Wednesday afternoon for New York on the first lap of their long trip to Krynica. The squad will arrive in Bremen Jan. 29 and will go at once to Cracow, the city nearest the site of the tournament which will begin Feb. 1. After the tournament there will be exhibition games at Berlin, Vienna, Brussells, Paris and London. It is expected that the whole trip will last about a month.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

Last Monday morning at the State House a large gathering of people from Medford, Arlington and Winchester demanded the repeal of a law in which the Metropolitan District Commission was ordered to construct a bath house at Sandy Beach on Mystic Lake. A bath house is much needed in the opinion of all the speakers at the meeting, but its location seemed to be desired elsewhere. The trend of opinion seemed to be that a public bath house could best be located where the total effect of the salt water is decidedly beneficial.

As the State owns a large acreage of flat land below what is known as Craddock Bridge in Medford, the location seems to be favorable for one or more bath houses as time shall prove their need.

TO HOLD REFERENDUM ON SCHOOL QUESTION

Once again the town is to have the opportunity to express its collective opinion upon the proposal of the School Committee to erect a new junior high school upon the lot on Main street adjacent to the Unitarian Church. A third referendum upon this proposition is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 3, in the Town Hall, the Selectmen having voted to allow the petition presented to them following the recently held special town meeting session, at which it was voted to build a new school building on the so-called Main street site.

Already the limited town meeting members have voted twice to build a new school at this location and each time the proposition has been submitted to a referendum and has failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote. On the second occasion the new school failed by a very narrow margin, and at the recently held special town meeting the proposition was voted by a convincing majority.

A large delegation attended Monday's meeting of the Selectmen. Those responsible for the referendum petition on the school were represented by Attorney James Clark and came prepared to wage a strenuous fight to have the petition allowed. Unfortunately for those who looked forward to a hot session the Selectmen stole this delegation's thunder by announcing that the school petition had been allowed and that the referendum would be held on Feb. 3.

The Selectmen remained obdurate in their decision to exclude the other referendum questions from the ballot, and the only objection to their action voiced was that of the group seeking a motion picture license for George A. Daly. The "movie" advocates were represented by Attorney Philip Gallagher of Woburn, ex-Mayor of the tanning city, who presented several affidavits to prove that certain registered voters, whose signatures had been questioned, actually signed the referendum petition. The Selectmen found however that the petition still lacked sufficient legal signatures, within the meaning of the law, and refused to reverse their original decision to throw out the paper. There was no objection voiced at the meeting to the decision to throw out the petitions for referenda on the proposal to elect the Finance Committee and to build an addition on the high school building.

What the next move in the "movie" war will be is open to conjecture. There are reports about that those favoring the granting of a motion picture license will appeal to the courts in an effort to force the Selectmen into granting their referendum petition. A previous attempt on the part of Mr. Daly to make the Selectmen call a referendum on the matter of granting a motion picture license ended in the court's upholding the refusal of the Selectmen. Under the law governing Winchester the town cannot vote either to grant or deny a license for moving pictures this specific power being vested solely in the Board of Selectmen.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

At the meeting of Jan. 22 three absentees were registered, two of whom had already made up attendance, leaving one to be accounted for.

We missed our genial neighbor, "Jim" at this meeting. "Jim" is on the sick list but we expect that he will be on hand to receive an extra cordial greeting next week.

President Loring read for us a draft of six resolutions which will be presented for action at the annual convention of Rotary International at Vienna next June. Any of our members who have suggestions to make in regard to these resolutions should confer with President Loring at once.

We listened to a most interesting talk on "Safety on Our Highways" by Officer Andrews of the State Highway Police. This is a part of the campaign which is being promoted by the Governors' Safety Council with the object of reducing traffic accidents in this Commonwealth. Officer Andrews proved to be a very effective speaker and gave a vivid presentation of many of the hazards which are ever present on the road.

In the last resort it is a matter of dependence on the good judgement of the driver, and of his careful attention to the ordinary traffic regulations.

Negligent and incompetent drivers must be eliminated if real safety is to be attained. The Commonwealth is doing all in its power to perfect the physical condition of our highways and the Safety Council is making real headway in spreading amongst our citizens a knowledge of what constitutes dangerous driving conditions. Results are evident in the decrease in number of accidents and in the good standing of Massachusetts among other comparable localities.

Adjournment to Jan. 29.

WINCHESTER CHORAL SOCIETY'S CONCERT POSTPONED

The concert which the Winchester Choral Society was to have given in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, Jan. 27, has been postponed until Tuesday evening, Feb. 10, the change in dates having been made necessary by the serious illness of the Society's director, J. Albert Wilson.

Mr. Wilson contracted a severe cold last week, but attended to his duties as organist and choirmaster at the First Congregational Church last Sunday morning, played for an extra musical service during the afternoon and played a third service at the First Baptist Church in Arlington in the evening. Monday his condition was much worse and fearing pneumonia, his physician ordered him to bed, forcing the cancellation of all engagements.

As a result, President Carolyn D. Gilpatric announced the postponement of the society's concert as stated above. The program on Feb. 10 will be the same as that originally planned. The chorus will be assisted by George Boynton, tenor soloist of Trinity Church, Boston, who has kindly arranged his own engagements to meet the unavoidable change in the society's plans. Mr. Wilson's condition is reported as much improved and it is expected that the society will resume its rehearsals on Tuesday evening as usual.

Much credit is due Monitor Quigley, Financial Secretary Dineen Recording Secretary Hanlon; Mrs. Ann Kennedy and Miss Mae O'Leary for the wonderful mid-winter social and whist which they conducted Thursday evening, Jan. 22.

The affair was a success both socially and financially, and the proceeds were turned over to the charitable fund.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY EXTENSION SERVICE

Report of the Director

The following is a report of the work of the Middlesex County Extension Service as developed in the town of Winchester for the year 1930.

In agriculture, several farm visits were made especially to those interested in fruits and vegetables.

A campaign to eradicate rat from farm and home buildings was carried on a country-wide basis and a great many of the poison baits were distributed in the Town.

The Homemakers' program was developed during the year by four mothers' associations. A series of five meetings on meat-table preparation were attended by 77 women. Thirteen homemakers were enrolled in the project to improve home grounds and these in turn passed on the information to a great many others. In addition to the regular monthly meetings of the above groups, three demonstrations were given to the Highland Mothers' Association and one to the Forthnightly Club, with a total attendance of 162. One meeting was held with the Woman Association, at which time the work of the Extension Service was explained. Many home visits were made to assist individual housewives with special problems.

Ninety-one boys and girls were enrolled in the 4-H club work; 55 in the garden club; 33 in the canning club and three in the poultry club. Evelyn Brown was awarded a medal by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society for excellent club work. Kenneth Benson won prizes at the National Canning Exhibit held in Chicago and stood third in the country-wide canning contest. Charles Eshbach was county delegate to the State camp at the Massachusetts Agricultural College. Through the co-operation of Richardson's Market, a store exhibit was put on, showing the season's work of the canning club. The garden club exhibited in a window of Henry Duncan's Hardware store.

Many local people took part in the several county-wide meetings held during the year such as the country picnic at Wayside Inn, Sudbury and the Homemakers' Day at Lexington.

Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell of this town, whose Boston office is at 5 Bay State road, delivered the free public lecture at the Harvard Medical School last Sunday afternoon, speaking on contagious diseases of the skin. In Dr. Blaisdell's opinion door knobs, hand rails, street car straps even the customary handshake, may be responsible for the spreading of such diseases. Leather gloves, woolen mittens, dirty athletic clothes in dark lockers are also unquestionably sources of infection. The doctor voiced the possibility of the handshake becoming taboo and replaced by the old Roman arm grasp or the nose rub of the savages.

Many Winchester friends of Helen Edlefson Barr tuned in on the Fleischman Yeast hour last evening to enjoy their favorite soprano, who appeared as guest artist with Rudy Valee and his Connecticut Yankees.

MISS AVERY'S FIFTH LECTURE

Miss Avery's chief subject in her lecture of Jan. 14 was "Child Welfare." There is, she said, at present, a falling birthrate all over the country. It is a curious fact that low wages create a high birthrate and high wages create a low one. The American born children of foreign stock have smaller families than their parents. But they have a much higher standard of living and owing to this fact they are often unable to get what they want in their own homes and so are driven to the streets for their recreation. And this living on the streets is of course dangerous and apt to lead to trouble.

There are four States of the Union that do not require birth registrations and of the rest several that register differently, so it is difficult to know just how many children are born each year.

The first child conference in this country was held by Theodore Roosevelt in 1909 and at this time the Children's Bureau was formed. The second was held in 1919 by Woodrow Wilson and as a result of this $100,000 was given to Wilson to use for the benefit of children, and another result was the Shepard-Towner Bill. It is a startling and deplorable fact that the United States is 24th from the top of the list among civilized nations whose mothers die in childbirth. The third conference was called in 1929 by Herbert Hoover and was attended by 1200 delegates sitting three days. Of course it is too soon to feel the results of the last conference but it laid great stress on the illegitimate and the mentally defective child.

In her summary of the year 1930 Miss Avery spoke of it as being called the "unhappy year." International relations during the year have been none to good but never has there been more efforts by statesmen for co-operation, and the test of a year is not the problem but the efforts to meet that problem.

Economically 1930 saw the bottom of the world depression and 1931 must be better.

From the scientific standpoint one remarkable fact stands out and that is that science has given us religion. All the great scientists of today have felt the spiritual source behind the scientific discoveries and so science has given the world religion again.

On Jan. 28 Miss Avery will continue her economic survey of the year 1930 and will also speak about the All-India Congress.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS IN ANNUAL CLASS PLAY

Notable Production of Farce-Comedy by Anatole France

For the second consecutive year, under the direction of Marion W. Bailey, of the Winchester High School faculty, the annual Junior-Senior Play, presented before an appreciative and enthusiastic audience Saturday evening, Jan. 17, realized the admirable ideals of the dramatic group of which Miss Bailey is the guiding spirit, in both the matter of choice of play and the sure sensitive, and skillful interpretation. From the first rather unusual scene in Anatole France's grotesque farce-comedy, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," to the final rib-tickling climax of the last scene the audience expressed themselves as in full sympathy with the spirit of the play. The comedy, divided into two acts of several short scenes, is a clever satire on that ever-up-to-date theme the ingenuity of woman. The simple yet effective stage setting, the oddly attractive costumes, the quick scene changes, the artistic attention to details of grouping, postures, and coloring throughout, together with that intangible feeling which an audience sometimes receives that the players have somehow identified themselves with their individual parts, all combined to mark this performance as one of unusual excellence.

From the moment that Monsieur Botal, excellently played by Stanley Osgood, is presented to the audience as a judge whose single burdock in an otherwise tranquil life is his wife's inability to speak, to the final scene where, completely cured of her disability, she flies into a paroxism of madness at his suddenly acquired deafness to her words and actually bites him, the audience was chuckling continuously. Too much can not be said in praise of the excellent interpretation of the character of this harassed judge, Monsieur Botal, by Stanley Osgood, a high school junior. An abundance of emotional emphasis colored his performance. Yet at no single moment was his difficult role overdone. His work throughout suggested a happy combination of intelligent training and a considerable degree of natural ability.

Perhaps next most worthy of individual mention in a cast so uniformly well chosen was Master Simon Collins, played by Daniel West, another high school junior. His initial appearance upon the stage as the famous French specialist was the signal for a burst of spontaneous laughter from all over the house. Daniel West was funny. His cavernous mouth, his preposterous nose, his mincing manner of speech, his hesitations his glances, his suggestion of a scarcely suppressed roughishness beneath the sober demands of his profession, the exhibition of his enormous surgical instruments—all combined to add a touch of mediaeval humor to his scenes which added to the delight of the audience.

Katherine Chamberlin, as the wife of Monsieur Botal, at first dumb but later extremely talkative, was charming in the difficult role of a wordless wife, amusing in the succeeding role of a talkative one, and convincing in the final role of a desperate wife at the climax. These three principals were splendidly supported by Robert Lampee, as Master Adam Fumee, a clever lawyer; Francis Felt, as Master Jean Mangier, a grotesque surgeon and barber; Norman Hill, as Master DeLaurier, an apothecary; Carolyn Nichols, as Mademoiselle De La Garandiere, an interesting orphan; Mabel Tompkins, as Alison, Monsieur Botal's dynamic servant; Richard Riley, as Giles, Monsieur Botal's misunderstood secretary, Winthrop Andrews, John Johnson, and Henry Fitts, as attendants. The excellence of their performance was a fine commitment to the work of Miss Marion Bailey, as director of dramatics at Winchester High School.

The play proved to be a splendid success not only as an entertainment but also financially, realizing a substantial profit to both the Junior and Senior classes. Most of this success is due to an efficient play committee representing both classes under the direction of Miss Knowlton of the high school faculty and to the voluntary help contributed to the work by Miss Helen Bronson.

Between the two acts of the play the annual award of prizes for the poster contest and for the ticket-selling contest were awarded by Ralph Ambrose, chairman of the Class Play Committee. The first prize for the best poster was awarded to Miss Virginia Besse of the sophomore class, second prize to Kenneth Campbell of the sophomore class, and third prize to Miss Jean King of the senior class. First prize for selling the most tickets was awarded to Sterling Macdonald of the junior class, and second prize to Priscilla Chamberlin of the sophomore class.

About 15 artistic posters were prepared for the contest under the direction of Miss Dorothy Shurtleff, supervisor of art, while a number of plain posters were provided by Sheldon Hamilton a junior, under the direction of Mr. Otis W. Leary, instructor in mechanical drawing and printing.

The high school orchestra, directed by Stanley Slominski, gave several fine selections before the play and during the intermission between the acts.

It is significant to note that altogether between 80 and 90 high school boys and girls contributed actively in one way or another in making this annual dramatic presentation a real success.

WINCHESTER GAVE LEXINGTON FIRST MIDDLESEX LEAGUE DEFEAT

Winchester High School's basketball team gave Lexington High its first defeat of the Middlesex League season Wednesday afternoon in the local gymnasium, winning a slam-bang battle from the visitors, 26—21.

The Minuteboys brought a big rangy club to Winchester and were very confident of the outcome, the more so because of the ease with which they had beaten Wakefield, a team which whipped Winchester badly last Friday night.

Lexington went right out in front, and four baskets in quick succession sunk from back court, gave the visitors an 8 point lead. Winchester at once altered its defense to cope with Lexington's sharp shooting tactics, but the quarter ended with the Minuteboys on the long end of an 8—2 count which was run to 15—10 at half time.

"Ollie" Lee had left the game during the second quarter, his place being taken by long "Eddie" Hitchborn. The latter showed up well, until a couple of rather questionable personal fouls sent him from the fray during the third period.

Lee went back into action, and his lay-off seemed to do him plenty of good. Winchester sneaked up on Lexington and finally had a 3 point lead, only to see the vistors sink a flock of foul shots to even things again.

Lexington was playing a man-for-man defense and a very rugged man-for-man defense at that. Little "Stutz" DeMarco and Capt. "Kingfish" Smith were taking plenty of roughing, but gamely stayed with their big opponents.

As the battle wore along to a close "Ollie" Lee sank three baskets to make Winchester's lead secure. The Lexington boys were greatly chagrined at their defeat and took their trimming with very poor grace. There was nothing fluky about the locals' win, and Coach Mansfield's charges deserve plenty of credit for their fine showing against what has been conceded to be the best club on the Middlesex circuit.

One of the visitor's goals should be written into "the book." Lundblad, Winchester's left guard, had gotten the ball under the Winchester net and was attempting to pass the length of the floor to Lee who was under the Lexington basket. Oscar's bullet pass struck Potter on the head, and the ball was deflected, bouncing up and through the Winchester hoop, giving Lexington a soft two points and Potter credit for a basket.

Between the halves of the first team game the Winchester seconds defeated the Lexington seconds, 22—12 with Seaver scoring 16 points for Winchester.

"Dixiana," the mighty screen spectacle, with Bebe Daniels, Everett Marshall, Wheeler and Woolsey and a supporting cast of over 5000, is the special feature which opens a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. Bebe Daniels was a sensation in "Rio Rita," and this popular favorite is said to be even better in "Dixiana." Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the comedy team, who have made a name for themselves with their work in "The Cuckoos" and "Half Shot at Sunrise" are the featured comedy members of "Dixiana." "Dixiana" moves so fast that it is hard to keep up with the action.

"Madonna of the Streets," with Evelyn Brent and Robert Ames as the stars, is the second attraction on the Mystic program which opens on Saturday. Miss Brent is cast as an unscrupulous woman, a character who went to every extreme to satisfy her own selfish desires, and her phenomenal change of character and outlook on life when she falls in love with a man whose every thought, deed and action is noble. Against the varying backgrounds of the Barbary Coast luxurious San Francisco dwellings and waterfront dives this interesting tale is unfolded.

"Bright Lights," a picture filmed entirely in Technicolor, with Dorothy Mackaill as the star, is the main feature on the double bill which closes its run at the Mystic on Friday. "Scarlet Pages," with Elsie Ferguson, Grant Withers and Marian Nixon as the stars is the second attraction on the current bill.

UNIVERSITY THEATER

All of Marilyn Miller's art as an actress, a dancer, and a singer come to the fore in "Sunny" the famous musical comedy which comes to the University at Cambridge for four days starting Sunday. The plot of "Sunny" bubbles over with humor, romance, and tom foolery, and gives complete play to all of Miss Miller's varied accomplishments as well as to her beauty and her vivid personality. One of the strongest casts of the year has been assembled including Joe Donahue, Lawrence Gray, O. P. Heggie and Clyde Cook.

"Renegades" the companion feature, is a gripping story of love, sacrifice and heroism in the wilds of Morocco, with four members of the famous Foreign Legion and an alluring woman an spy as the principal characters. Warner Baxter sheds his habiliments of a border bandit for those of a French soldier in the leading role and fascinating Myrna Loy as the woman. It is a close adaptation of Andre Armandy's realistic novel, "Les Renegats."

In "Just Imagine," the great DeSylva, Brown and Henderson movietone musical comedy which starts Thursday, Mars supplies the background, for the first time in pictures, for some of the most important sequences of the production. They have pictured the Martians as an exotic race of people, ruled over by a beautiful woman with giant slaves always at hand to do their bidding. The cast includes El Brendel, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Garrick, Frank Albertson and Kenneth Thompson.

"Madonna of the Streets" the companion feature starring Evelyn Brent, is adapted from the famous story, "The Ragged Messenger" by W. B. Maxwell. An important supporting cast includes Robert Ames, Josephine Dunn and Ivan Linow.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Will Rogers in "Lightning" and Marilyn Miller in "Sunny," will be the two great attractions that open a seven day engagement at the Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. Will Rogers establishes himself as monarch of screen comedians in "Lightning." It is a clean, wholesome drama, packed with laughs and typical Rogers' wise cracks. Mr. Rogers' supporting cast includes Louise Dresser, Joel McCrae, Sharon Lynn and Jason Robards.

"Sunny," in which Marilyn Miller stars, is a talking screen version of the celebrated stage success in which Miss Miller appeared for three years on Broadway. It is built around the personality of Miss Miller, who as a bareback rider in a circus at Southampton is loved by all, but who loves Tom, played by Lawrence Gray, whom she had met in past years. He is in society and is just sailing from Southampton with his fiancee. The story then moves on in a delightful manner that is half-serious and half-tomfoolery, to a transatlantic liner where most of the action takes place. Miss Miller does a few dances, for which she is famous, and also sings several numbers. In addition to Lawrence Gray, the supporting cast includes Inez Courtney, O. P. Heggie and Clyde Cook. "Morocco," starring Gary Cooper and Marlene Dietrich, is the main feature on the program which closes its run at the Granada on Friday. Winnie Lightner in "The Life of the Party" is the second attraction on the current bill.

THE WHITE SISTER AT THE SOMERVILLE THEATRE

Beginning Monday, Jan. 26, the Somerville Players will present for the first time here, "The White Sister."

In the leading parts, roles made famous by Viola Allen and William Farnum on the occasion of the original production of the play, Alma Baker and Walter Creaza will be seen. "Billy" Dale, Frank Thomas, Frank Farrara, Malcolm MacLeod, Henry Crosson, Dorothy Ives, Rachel May Clarke, Phoebe Francis—all are well cast. One of the great favorites, Frank Thomas, will be seen in a part well within his powers, a heavy dramatic role, the Monsignor.

It will be very interesting to see this strong company in a play entirely different than anything it has yet presented. "The White Sister," with its scenes laid abroad, is the best of drama and calls for the finest of acting and direction. The scenery is elaborate and from the brush of Wilbur Williams. The direction is as always, by "Al" Luttringer, and if we are to judge by the productions made by Mr. Luttringer since he assumed charge of the Somerville Players, another perfect presentation is in store for the Somerville Theatre patrons. "The White Sister" offers a perfect combination—a great play, a splendid company to interpret it and a director to mold the whole into a living thing.

The company is rounding out a very successful week with "Sick-A-Bed," a funny farce—clean and snappy.

MOTOR CARAVAN TO CROSS LEAST KNOWN ASIA

Plans for one of the most comprehensive and most completely equipped expeditions of modern times was disclosed recently when Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, announced that the Society will co-operate with Georges-Marie Haardt, of Paris, in sending out eight caterpillar cars, with scientists in a dozen fields, to span 5000 miles of least-known Asia, from Beyrouth (Beirut), Syria, to Peiping (Peking) China, and then return across 8000 miles more of a southern route.

M. Haardt came from Paris to Washington to complete arrangements with the Society to send a representative with the expedition, whose other personnel will be entirely French, and which will have the approval of the French Government and specific missions from France's Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Large Personnel of Scientists

The patron of the expedition in France is Andre Citroen, lifelong friend of M. Haardt, and benefactor of many scientific projects, who also gave his support to M. Haardt's famous expedition which traversed Africa and first crossed the Sahara Desert in motor cars.

The Trans-Asiatic Expedition, with the National Geographic Society cooperating, will take the field in March, with its eight caterpillar cars each carrying a trailer, conveying a personnel of 35 men, including specialists in geography, archeology, ornithology, botany, geology, anthropology and other branches of science.

It plans to start from France's westernmost Asiatic territory, in Syria traverse Iraq Persia, Russian Turkestan, Sinkiang, and China, turning south at Peiping for the long trail down to French India-China. Thence, from Saigon, it will return through Siam, Burma, India, Baluchistan, Persia and Arabia. In that journey it will traverse areas which have been little visited by Europeans since Marco Polo's time, skirt some of the world's highest mountains lofty plateaus, cross the vast Gobi and A'a Shan deserts, and come upon tribes and racial remnants of ancient Asiatic peoples whose habits and habitats are virtually unknown.

Will Make Picture and Sound Records

Two cars will be devoted to the taking of one of the most comprehensive geographic vocal motion picture records ever made. This phase of the expedition, requiring special scientific and technical experimentation, is being conducted by Pathe-Natan, Paris. The scenic wonders of innermost Asia, the customs and the costumes of its peoples will be photographed, both by the black-and-white and the color camera; and native dialects, songs, chants, and rituals will be preserved in sound records.

Each trailer will carry tents, cots, camp chairs, and a camp table for the personnel assigned to its car. One of the cars will be an auto-kitchen, equipped for quick service when the explorers halt for a meal.

The expedition will carry a radio sending station which at all times will keep it in touch with Paris; and this sending station will be utilized by the National Geographic Society's representative in filing dispatches to the Society's headquarters in Washington which, in accord with the Society's invariable custom, will be released simultaneously to all press associations and newspapers desiring news of the expedition's progress.

Among the technical studies to be made by members of the expedition will be those dealing with meteorology of areas which now are blank spaces on world weather maps. Magnetic observations will be made. An artist will supplement photographic studies with sketches of ethnographic value. Another will specialize in collecting objects of ethnological interest since the expedition will be traversing areas where some of the earliest phases of mankind's history transpired.

Georges-Marie Haardt, leader of the expedition, has been called the "motor car Livingstone of France," because of the amazing expedition he previously led through 15 000 miles of deserts and jungles in Africa. Upon that trip he used caterpillar tractors and automobiles; taking eight months to go from Algeria across the Sahara, around Lake Chad, and through the Belgian Congo to Mozambique. Some of his cars were then transported to Madagascar and he explored the interior of that island.

Upon another expedition he made the first crossing of the Sahara with automobiles, thus first demonstrating the possibilities of mechanical conveyance in desert areas.

In the broad scope of its investigations dealing with many fields of science, in the length of its proposed route, aggregating some 13 500 miles, and in the modern aspects of its equipment, utilizing motor transport, the natural color photography, the radio, sound recording moving pictures, and various other new devices tht expedition is unique—in fact it would not have been possible a few years ago. It will be in the field at least a year, perhaps 18 months.

After repeatedly voting to build a new Junior High School and after repeatedly voting to refuse to petition the Selectmen to allow movies the people have at last a chance to act upon one of these questions without being hampered by the other. For the first time the Town votes upon the Junior High School without being obliged to vote upon movies! That this situation occurs is no fault of the movie promotor. Although his petition was thrown out for gross irregularity, he awaited upon the Selectmen at their Monday night's meeting accompanied by his counsel (a well known lawyer from the neighboring city of Woburn) and at least three signed affidavits of persons whose names were appended to his papers. Notwithstanding and nevertheless, the Selectmen could not see their way clear to including his petition upon the referendum ballot. And that another referendum ballot upon the school is necessary seems due directly to movies, for the report was current before the town hall was cold from the special meeting which voted the school and downed the movies, that a referendum would be called at once for the pictures. Now we hear of further reports to the effect that movies will be included in every warrant the Town considers—until Mr. Daley gets his permit. Furthermore it is reported that he serves notice that he will make Winchester so sick of referendum votes that it will be glad to change its form of town government—and when this is done he will receive his movie permit. All of which moves one to offer every hope that at the coming vote upon the Junior High School, now already voted close to half a dozen times, the sentiment will be so strong that when movies are again considered they will stand alone and not as goods of barter to give Winchester children an education.

Winchester has repeatedly signified its disapproval of the erection of a movie theatre here. If it is to have its form of town government changed and be forced to vote by ballot, (with all the additional cost this entails) upon every question passed upon at town meeting, it will face a condition which will force every fair minded citizen to oppose movies if it is the last thing he does. Winchester people are observing. They have noted movie conditions in other places and they know this town cannot support a theatre which would be a credit to the community. They want no run-down movie house festering upon them through the future. Neither do they want this question continually forced upon them in their consideration of every town affair.

This is undoubtedly a case where the horse may be led to water—but to make him drink is another matter entirely.

Go down to the Town Hall and vote on Tuesday, Feb. 3.

The town will be glad to learn that the Selectmen have decided to do something about changing the layout at the junction of Washington and Winthrop streets with the Parkway. This corner has been one of the worst in town with respect to automobile accidents, and it is high time something should be done to make the intersection as safe for traffic as possible.

VOTE FOR FAIR PLAY AND DEMOCRACY

There is a small minority in this town that is not willing to abide by the fundamental democratic principle that the majority shall rule, that the policy and acts of the people shall be determined by a majority vote of the citizens. They seek to dethrone democracy, to nullify the will of the people. Three times in town meeting the community has manifested its desire in regard to the school question by a majority of more than two to one, and twice at the polls by a large majority—five times in all, making it clear beyond the shadow of a doubt, what it wants. The rule or ruin policy of the minority has defeated the will of the people because it happens that a two thirds majority at the polls is necessary to win when a bond issue is involved. Twice by hard work, the minority, championed by a quartet, have been able to keep the majority vote just under the two thirds number necessary to legalize a bond issue. This was done by referenda after the measure had been carried three times by more than a two thirds vote in town meetings. The minority having been badly defeated by a third town meeting has now forced a third referendum upon the people at much trouble and expense to all. Knowing in advance the desire of the electorate they are not willing to abide by the democratic principle that the majority shall rule. A lack of good sportsmanship, a disrespect for democracy, a disregard of fair play and the public welfare, has made the minority time and again endeavor to frustrate the desire of the community. At the coming referendum the citizens of Winchester should vote in overwhelming majority for fair play and good sportsmanship. A government will not long remain free if the majority cannot rule.

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

Starting Saturday the feature attraction at the Strand Theatre, Malden, will be "War Nurse" with Robert Montgomery and June Walker. "War Nurse" does for the women of the war what "The Big Parade" did for the men. There are not many actual battle scenes in the picture as most of the action takes place behind the lines in a hospital and while the soldiers are on leave from the front.

Dramatic, particularly during the bombing of a hospital, and accurate, the story tells vividly of the woman's side of the war. An excellent cast includes June Walker, Robert Montgomery, Robert Ames and Anita Page. Comedy relief is provided in abundance by such well known favorites as Zazu Pitts and Marie Prevost.

Edmund Lowe in a brand new characterization as a nervous young husband driven to distraction through misplaced doubts of his pretty wife, will be the second attraction at the Strand in his latest Fox Movietone comedy "Part Time Wife." Leila Hyams is the source of Lowe's trouble.

On Friday evening, Jan. 30 the Strand Theatre management takes great pleasure in announcing that there will be a special preview showing of the $4,000,000 air spectacle, "Hell's Angels." As perhaps many people know some of the theatres in Boston have been running these midnight previews for several months with great success. Now with such a magnificent picture as "Hell's Angels" Malden will have one of these. In order that people in the surrounding towns might be sure of obtaining seats for this extravaganza of the air, the entire orchestra will be reserved and tickets may be obtained at any time. The show will start promptly at 11:30 p. m. with special short subjects and "Hell's Angels" will follow at 12 midnight. The picture will run the entire week and will be shown continuously every day.

Fireman J. Edward Noonan, who was injured while fighting a fire in the old Grothe plant in Woburn, returned to duty at the Central Fire Station this week, after being confined to his home for seven weeks, nursing a torn knee cartilege. The knee is still stiff and bothers Fireman Noonan considerably.

Mrs. Edward M. Nelson of 28 Grove street notified the police Wednesday evening that sometime during the day the lock on the rear door of the house had been pushed in and the lock broken. It is only a short time ago that the Nelson home was broken into.

Winchester Lodge of Elks is planning to hold one of its popular 'Old Timers' Nights" on Tuesday evening, Feb. 3. P. E. R. Fred H. School is in charge of the committee on arrangements which is the same thing as saying that the party will be worth while. A large attendance is expected, and a fine program is assured.

Largely attended precinct meetings are being held throughout the town in the interests of the proposal to build a new junior high school on the Main street lot. The sentiment of the many men are attending these meetings and evincing a keen interest in the project.

THE MOST FAMOUS BATTLE-FIELD IN THE WORLD

Armageddon is the world's most famous battlefield, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. In the Book of Revelations St. John the Divine predicts the Kings of the earth and of the whole world, are to be gathered here in the last great conflict. Armageddon has made its way into our language as a synonym for the fight to end fighting.

Economic Warfare Today

Many battles have been fought at Armageddon, and in turn the dust of marching hordes of Assyrians, Egyptians, Greeks, Romans, Arabs, Crusaders, French, Turks, and English has risen from its sunparched plain. But the Battle of the Centuries must still be ahead. Today groups of Jewish colonists, by settling these fertile fields, wage a silent but constant economic warfare with the local Arabs.

It was at Armageddon that the army of Necho, King of Egypt, overwhelmed Josiah, King of Judah, about 609 B. C. Napoleon followed the Crusaders' trail by way of Armageddon and lost the only battle of his Syrian campaign at Acre, near-by. Lord Allenby, commander of the British forces in the Near East, fought one of the final battles of the World War (appropriately enough, it was thought at the time) at Armageddon, when he vanquished a Turkish army gathered on the plain.

The Plain of Megiddo, as Armageddon is called in Palestine today, is a wedge-shaped triangle a few miles south of Nazareth, and is perched in a mountain saddle about midway between the sunken valley of the Jordan and the Mediterranean Sea. It is the plain over which Jesus gazed when the people of Nazareth took him up on the hill to cast him down. The dazzling white walls of the little town rise from one of the little valleys which run northward into the Galilean Hills.

The main road between Haifa and Jerusalem crosses the Kishon River at the point where the head of Armageddon widens toward the interior. The railroad line from Haifa to Damascus bisects the plain.

Victory in a Rain Cloud

The land is both fertile and muddy. The blackish soil consists of decomposed volcanic rock, which, in rainy weather, attains the sticky consistency of gumbo soup, making travel off the main roads impossible. Frequent references have been made by military leaders and historians to the muddy characters of the field. Defeat or victory has often been balanced on a rain-cloud. At other times the plain is swept by choking clouds of dust.

Although the plain is lower than the surrounding barren hills there are low ridges across it, and these ridges are used by the modern highway. All the rock for this road had to be brought from the near-by limestone hills, while basalt for the surface had to be transported from the Jordan Valley. As the site of the ancient fortified town of Armageddon, from which the battlefield took its name, is not on the main road and was isolated during the rainy season, an American financier recently built a branch road from Tell el Kassis to the tell, or mound, on which the archeologists are at work.

Walls 28 Feet Thick

The site of the town of Armageddon is about midway along the southern side of the triangle. In Biblical days it was a place of considerable strategic importance, but the modern Arab settlement, El-Lejjun, is a rather sorry remnant of an illustrious past.

The place lay at or near the crossing of two great trade routes; that from Egypt to the East via Damascus, and the caravan routes from the desert to Acre on the Mediterranean. A castle dating from the 12th century B. C. with walls 28 feet thick, attests the importance of the place.

STRANGE FORMS OF NATURE'S FIREWORKS

When St. Elmo's fire flashed from the spars and mastheads of ships in San Francisco Bay recently sailors took it as an omen of bad tidings.

St. Elmo's fire, or Corpse Candles, as it is sometimes called, is a common bit of Nature's fireworks in the Tropics. It is "news" only when it appears as far north as San Francisco, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Patron Saint of Sailors

Extremely dry weather and accumulations of atmospheric electricity at different levels are the conditions needed for a night display of this most eerie of Nature's strange lights. Masts and spars of ships, and sometimes steeple tops and mountain peaks, act as "brushes" somewhat like the brushes on an electric motor. They carry electricity of a different level and power than that of the air about them, and at the point of discharge emit a purplish, glowing spark, and a crackling or fizzing noise—similar to that of a faulty motor.

Sometimes before a storm ships are aglow with carnival-like displays of these sputtering firebolts. The name of St. Elmo is an Italian corruption of St. Erasmus, patron saint of Mediterranean sailors. In Europe St. Elmo's fire is considered a visible sign of his guardianship, rather than a portent of evil.

Northern and Southern Lights

Most beautiful of Nature's pyrotechnics are the Auroras; the Aurora Borealis in the northern hemisphere and the Aurora Australis, its southern hemisphere equivalent. Each is better known under its common names, Northern Lights or Southern Lights.

Scientists are still at odds concerning the origin of the coronas, rays, arcs, criss-crosses and other discharges of red, green, yellow and blue lights that brighten the skies in the neighborhood of Hudson Bay and the Norway coast. Mother Earth's Fourth of July comes twice a year, in mid-March and mid-September.

It has been observed, however, that the earth is at these times directly opposite the sun spot zones. Accordingly it is advanced that the Auroras are the result of electric disturbances set up by sun spots. Very bright displays of Northern Lights are almost always accompanied by a magnetic storm, disrupting telegraph cable and radio currents. Observers of Aurora displays report that some of them have a crackling sound, like the rustling of silk.

Underwater Fireworks

Phosphorescence in the sea, Neptune's fire water, has nothing to do with the substance that goes into the manufacture of matches, despite a remarkable resemblance and an obvious derivation of name.

For, although sea water contains salts of phosphorus, called phosphates, it has no free, uncombined quantities of the element. Luminescence, the name preferred by recent investigators, is a more appropriate term. The light is largely the result of the oxidizing, or burning, of minute particles of dead animal and vegetable matter, the oxygen being derived from small amounts dissolved in sea water.

In addition, there is a phosphorescence, or luminescence, of living organisms. Several varieties of protozoans, tiny single-cell plants that float on the surface of the water, diffuse the dull glow called "milky sea" in the Far East, or "white water" of the Gulf of Aden. Certain forms of bacteria are also luminescent, and are often visible on sand and on fish cast up by the sea. This glow is not due to decay, for when decay sets in the luminescence ceases.

Some forms of sea fire are highly incandescent, giving off an intense, almost white, light. It is difficult to believe that one would not have one's fingers burned by touching it. Others are golden yellow, blue, and even red, and green, giving weird, uncanny effects on dark nights.

Lightning Without Thunder

One of the strange forms of Nature's fireworks familiar to everyone is heat lightning. Heat lightning is not lightning at all, except in a reflected sense. This soundless spectacle usually follows a flash of real lightning so far away that the sound cannot be heard nor the actual flash seen. The light is projected, like a movie, on a high strata of clouds.

Growth of Trees

Trees grow faster in spring than in summer, the springtime cells appearing larger and lighter in color than the layer of cells added to the tree trunk in summer.

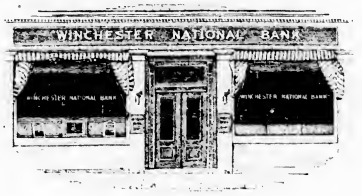

This May, or May Not, End Income-Tax Worry

A Lebanon man says he worried a good deal over making out his income-tax return, until he finally hit upon a simple formula, which he now offers free of charge to any who may be perplexed in the future.

He listed as dependents one blond wife, a sedan car, three goldfish, and two children. He then multiplied his grandfather's age by six and seven-eighths, subtracting his telephone number. Next he added the size of his hat and subtracted the number of his car. After these preliminaries, the rest was easy.

Deducting $7,000 for keeping his wife a blond for the whole year, he divided the remainder by the number of lodges he belonged to, multiplied by the number of electric lights in the house, divided by the size of his collar.

This gave his gross income, which, after dividing by his chest measurement, and subtracting his blood-pressure, gave the net amount owed to the government.—Lebanon (N. H.) Paper.

SVERDRUP ISLANDS: CANADA'S NEWEST TERRITORY

Swedish assent to Canada's claim to the Sverdrup Islands, on the edge of the Arctic Ocean, removes another shaded patch (the map-maker's way of indicating disputed territory) from the maps of the world. It adds 65,000 square miles to Canada's domain, but not a person to its population.

Axel Heiberg Island, the largest of the Sverdrup group, is a familiar name to American explorers, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Seen on First Arctic Flights

Admiral (then Commander) Richard E. Byrd saw its ice-capped mountains and glaciers from the Navy planes of the MacMillan Arctic Expedition in 1925. This expedition, which was sponsored by the National Geographic Society with the U. S. Navy co-operating, marked the first use of the airplane in Arctic exploration. Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, and Donald B. MacMillan also visited its shores afoot.

The Sverdrup group consists of seven sprawly, barren expanses of uninhabited land situated from 600 to 800 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The combined area of the group, which includes Axel Heiburg, Amund Ringnes, Ellef Ringnes, King Christian, Meighen, Cornwall, and Lougheed islands, is about equal to that of the State of Missouri. The nearest habitation is Etah, an Eskimo settlement on Greenland, 300 miles to the east, from which Sverdrups are separated by the 5090-foot mountains of Ellesmere Island.

The commercial importance of Canada's new possessions is largely unknown. Uncxplored until 1900, they have remained in virtual obscurity. The beaten paths of Polar exploration followed the easy water routes of Baffin Bay and Smith Sound, along the coast of Greenland.

A Mystery of the Polar Sea

Cape Hubbard, Axel Heiberg's northernmost tip, was discovered by Peary in 1906. It became famous as a lookout point of one of the greatest of Arctic mysteries. From the water's edge Cape Hubbard rises in three great sweeping steps, like a giant amphitheater. On the summit of the third peak Peary looked far to the west over the Arctic ice and saw what he thought was land.

So began the saga of Crockerland, which instigated the MacMillan Expedition of 1914. MacMillan, too, plainly made out the outlines here of a huge range of mountains far out over the jagged sea ice. Yet MacMillan, after a tortuous 150-mile journey on the ice in the direction of "Crockerland" came no closer to it than Peary. For the farther MacMillan went in its direction the fainter the land appeared. But on his return to Cape Hubbard MacMillan again saw its mocking, alluring visage.

The mystery was cleared up in 1926 by the North Pole dirigible flight made by Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile Expedition, and in 1928 here Captain George H. Wilkins, who, with Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson, flew from Alaska to Spitsbergen, passing directly over the mythical "Crockerland," skirting the shores of Axel Heiberg and Grant Land. The members of both of these expeditions reported no traces of land beyond the archipelago of known islands. "Crockerland" was an Arctic mirage.

Coal on Amund Ringnes

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, who visited the shores of several of the islands of the Sverdrup group in 1915-16, reported coal on Amund Ringnes Island. Most of the rest of the outcroppings consist of sandstone, slate, and limestone, of little potential worth.

Cape Hubbard is a veritable Cape Horn of the North. Heavy winds from the Arctic Ocean beat through Nansen Sound, which separates it from the mountainous Grant Land to the north, bringing low-hanging clouds, fog and, during the summer months, chilling rain squalls.

Even when the air is clear, however, Arctic birds break the silence with their chattering. In the short summer mosses, patches of grass and even flowers add soft touches of color to the stern and rocky hillsides. Wide gravel beaches offer airplane landing fields for future air lines, when pilots find a way to steer a safe path through the heavy fogs which blanket the surrounding mountains much of the time.

Flies Near the North Pole

Strange though it may seem, big blue flies are one of the chief summertime annoyances to explorers in this region, only 400 miles from the North Pole. On sultry, windless days they swarm over everything, especially if any meat is exposed.

Along the ice foot of the islands seals sun themselves, while far up in the hills musk oxen, wolves, caribou, hares and Arctic foxes are numerous. Great flocks of the glaucous gulls, or "big burgomasters," sweep along the faces of the vertical cliffs. The polar bear is still the lord of the ice floes.

LA ROCHELLE: ONCE FRANCE'S PREMIER PORT

When the giant seaplane DO-X was forced down recently by engine trouble and came to anchor off La Rochelle, it took refuge near what was once France's chief maritime city.

Nearly 300 years ago vessels sailed from La Rochelle carrying immigrants and provisions to the French colonies in the New World, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Today, La Rochelle is famous only for the beauty and color of its tower-guarded and land-locked fishing harbor.

Sent Out Privateers

For many years La Rochelle from its central location on France's southwest coast waged a relentless war to maintain free worship after espousing the cause of the Huguenots. Its privateers were the scourge of the sea from Points Du Raz south to Finisterre. Cardinal Richelieu becoming exasperated, laid siege to the city, and despite a heroic resistance, forced its surrender in 1628. The dike which he constructed outside the harbor entrance proved of irreparable damage and eventually caused the silting up of the port. This, together with the revocation of the Edict of Nantes which brought about renewal of the persecution of the Huguenots caused the decline of La Rochelle as an important seaport. Not, however before a number of its seekers after religious freedom had emigrated to America to found New Rochelle in Westchester County, New York.

The harbor, a little antique port which time forgot, has a setting suggesting the theater. Its oval basin might be called the stage and the narrow ships' entrance between two towers, tall and grim, the backdrop. Gay fishing vessels with their crews passing in and out are like actors entering from the wings. Around the stage is the audience: artists busy with brush and easel, women in quaint Breton costumes with pointed lace cans bargaining for fish. Longshoremen handling sea stores, and many curious idlers and tourists standing around fascinated by the drama of sea life being unfolded.

Blue Fish Nets Add to Color

What a variety of color is reflected in the still waters! Little smub-nosed vessels with hulls of rainbow colors varying from bright green to red and even white, reddish sails hanging limply with patches of harmonious colors and wooden-shod sailors in blue or henna jumpers. Even the fish nets drying from mast heads, ordinarily so dull, must here, add their touch of light blue color to the revered ensemble.

Standing guard in the background is the tower of La Rochelle cathedral and a fortified spirelike lighthouse which reminds one that there existed as early as 1445 such aids to navigation. Bordering the basin is a tree-lined park called Cours Wilson, a playground for children and a lovers' lane for young people. Near-by is held the fish market, one of the most important in western France, where the daily catch is sold.

The town of La Rochelle itself is in keeping with the quaint old world port. Crowding its narrow streets are quaintly facaded houses whose architecture is part French and part English bringing to mind the fact that this region was ruled by England for nearly 85 years. Gargoyles resembling lions and dolphins leer down at one from beneath red roofs. Medallions of famous sailors adorn doorways and windows. Grosse Horloge, one of the tower gates which used to be part of the city's wall, still straddles a busy street; but trucks, push carts, motor traffic and peasants pass beneath oblivious of its historical significance.

Along the coast north of La Rochelle, are clusters of low lying houses whose inhabitants are not ordinary fishermen. Rather they are animal husbandmen of the waters. In their "parks"—small ponds near the winter's edge—they plant and harvest oysters and mussels.

World Slow to Acclaim Possessors of Genius

If some of those long dead authors whose works are now universally honored could come back today they would conclude either that the world's sense of values have been completely upset or that they had been disgracefully cheated of their dues.

The Golden Book Magazine discloses the early history of some of the famous manuscripts which recently have sold for fabulous sums to wealthy collectors, and the result is a startling contrast in literary values.

For example, the manuscript of Poe's poem, "The Raven," was sold for $2000.00. But the poet himself sold it for $10 to the American Whig Review, after other publishers had refused it. In fact, the poem was held in so little regard that more than a year passed between its writing and publication. But its appearance made the author the outstanding poet of the day.

When Edward Fitzgerald translated "The Rubaiyat" in the 1850s he could not find a publisher, although one magazine held the poem for two years before rejecting it. Fitzgerald then published it himself. But instead of the $1.25 a copy which he had hoped to get, the price dropped to two cents before it began to sell. A first edition was sold in 1925 for $8500.

Beauty Definition

Beauty is nothing else but a just accord and mutual harmony of the members, animated by a healthful constitution.—Dryden.

REMINISCENCES OF DAYS GONE BY

Second Installment of a Series of Chatty Articles by Former Superintendent Henry C. Robinson

IN the first installment, printed in the August magazine, Mr. Robinson started a mythical trip "in the 1870's" between Boston and Lowell on the old Boston and Lowell Railroad. He described in detail the old Boston and Lowell Depot.

This installment describes the passenger equipment in those days and gets the train started for Lowell. The installments to follow each week until the series is completed, will describe the "trip" in further detail.

By HENRY C. ROBINSON

H. C. ROBINSON

Engines are not allowed in the train shed, all incoming trains are switched into the depot, controlled by the conductor or a qualified brakeman using hand brakes.

While we have been inspecting the depot, the train placed at our disposal has backed in on the spur track. It might be of interest to look over the car and engine before we leave, for after leaving there will be no time to do this and we shall probably be too tired when the next opportunity occurs, for there is a busy day ahead of us.

As we approach the car, we see two men standing near it. They are dressed in ordinary clothing bearing strongly evidence of having been purchased ready made and at a moderate cost. Conductors getting $80 a month and brakemen $1.25 to $1.50 a day of any odd hour's length can afford only the cheaper grades of clothing. One of the men wears a soft felt hat and the other a stiff crowned one. On nearer approach it is noticed that one wears on the lapel of his coat an oval soft metal badge on which in black letters is the word "Conductor," the other man wears on the left lapel of his coat a nickel plated badge on which is the word "Brakeman" in black letters. The day of uniforms for train employees had not arrived.

It was not an infrequent occurrence for commuters to express their appreciation of a courteous and popular conductor to contribute a sufficient sum of money to purchase and present him a "gold" badge, some of the badges being highly ornamented. One I remembered had on it raised Masonic emblems. The only employees to wear what might be termed as uniforms are the engineer and the fireman, and there has been no change in this uniform up to the present.

Let us first inspect the car placed at our service. You of today will broadly smile at the size and the construction—there is no monitor in the roof; the roof is crowned somewhat, presenting a close relationship to the roof of the present day Ford sedan. Just under the eaves and above the windows, which look oh! so small, are square holes in the sides of the car. These holes are about eight inches square and are for ventilation. Inside the casting is a hose, "thou" having but two positions, i.e., wholly open or wholly shut; even in the latter position it cannot be made air-tight—plenty of outside atmosphere will get in around the edges of the flap.

Our attention is next turned to the coupling device; the drawbar is of comparatively light construction which, on account of its resemblance there to, is called a "frog mouth"; of course it is for a link and pin hitch, for no other is known at this time. A sufficient distance from the end of the drawbar a hole is drilled capable of taking an inch and a quarter pin. The links are made of inch and a quarter iron and are about 12 or 14 inches in length. The link is customarily kept in the "coupler" car and as, when in the drawbar, the free end drops at an angle it is necessary for the man making the hitch to raise the free end to a position where it will enter the drawbar of the car to which coupling is to be made. This requires quick motions of the man coupling, or he will get his fingers, if not his whole hand, pinched or crushed. Of course the moving car is being controlled by a brakeman at the brake wheel, but all brakemen were not endowed with speed judgment, and maimed brakemen were in the majority. There is no standard height of drawbars, and occasionally the drawbars are of unequal height. This required a link with an offset in it, and then begins a hunt for the "missing link."

To take up a part of the slack of the link and also that in the drawbar spring square blocks of wood 12 to 15 inches in length, and perhaps 4 inches square, were hinged to the car platforms just over the drawbar head. When coupling was to be made, the blocks were thrown back onto the car platforms after coupling they were dropped back into normal position. Between the length of the link and the play in the drawbar spring, there was several inches' space between the coupled cars in spite of the blocks,—so much space the women and "timid souls" would not pass from car to car while the train was in motion.

The car assigned us is one of those in regular service: seats 44 passengers in summer time; in winter time two of the seats midway on one side are removed and a wood-burning stove is installed. A galvanized iron box behind the stove holds the supply of firewood. The door of the stove is secured by a locking apparatus to which the brakeman has a key. There are two reasons for locking the door—one as a fire preventative in case of derailment, and the other to prevent passengers from replenishing the fire. It is the duty of the brakeman to see that there is a sufficient supply of wood in the box, to keep the fire with an adequate supply of wood and the drafts and dampers properly adjusted.

The car is lighted, when artificial light is needed, by four kerosene lamps, two on a side, set in brass sockets bracketed to the side of the car above the windows. These lamps are "staggered" in order that the car may be evenly!!! lighted. In the commuting service there is a daily attempt to secure seats under or not far ahead of the lights, in order that the evening paper may be read, for reading is impossible a few seats away from the source of illumination. One also, during the cold weather, has to decide between a seat near the lights or a seat near the stove, where one can be warmed to overheating but doing without the evening paper. Sometimes the lamp smokes and blacks the chimney, reducing the illumination and adding materially to the ever-present odor of kerosene. Many times the lamp nearest the door is extinguished by some one opening the door, and then "brakey" has to come to the rescue and, with glove on one hand, remove the heated chimney, and with the other hand scratch a sulphur-headed match and relight the wick, only to have to repeat the process perhaps many times, to the annoyance of the persons he has to disturb and to the merriment of the others. Passengers at this period are not as critical or as fault-finding as would be the passengers of today. Many times the lights are laughingly compared to a "white bean." The dusk of the car compels the conductor to carry on his arm a lantern while collecting tickets and fares.

We have already over-stayed the time assigned to passenger car inspection and we move on to look over the engine. Mr. engineer and fireman have been watching us and rather anticipating a call, so we find them ready to receive us and with a smile on their faces, they give us a cordial greeting.

Compared with the car, the engine shines and you quickly learn how proud the engineer—yes, and the fireman, too—are of "her." The engineer will tell you, "Yes, sir, she's a dandy—runs like a sewing machine, and rides as easy as a cradle." "How much does she weigh?" "Oh, 24 tons—not quite so much as some of the newer engines—they weigh 30 tons. She's got 15 by 22 inch cylinders and carries 120 pounds of steam. She's just been through the shop. When in the shop, they changed her from a wood-burner to a coal burner." My! but how "she" shines?! Get near enough and you can see your reflection in the bell. The cab, the spokes of the driving wheels, the visible frame, the dome and the sand box are all painted in bright colors, and wherever there is a chance there is gilt scroll ornamentation. The outside boiler packet is "Simon pure" (genuine) Russia sheet iron, and where the sheets butt there is a brass band some three inches wide around the boiler, giving the impression that the whole boiler and its "innards" are held by these bands. Looking from the cab steps forward there is something queer—you can't tell what—and when you mention your undefinable impression, the engineer smiles and says, "Yes, she's an inside connection engine." "And what is that?" "Well, it is an engine whose cylinders are inside the frame, directly under the front end of the boiler. The connection rods run from the crosshead to a crank in the forward driving wheel axle. The links, eccentric rods and the stumps are between the connection rods and axle cranks." Another difference will be noted, and that is the smokestack. Instead of being low and straight, it stands up about 5 feet in height and having a diamond-shape top, which gives it the name of "Diamond Stack."

Most of our party know so little about engine accessories that little need by said here. The few who do will notice the absence of air-brake pumps on the outside of the boiler. In the cab will be found no air-brake apparatus with its two-inter range, no injector, no automatic oiler, no steam-heat governor with its gauge and no water glass to show the height of water in the boiler. This the engineer judges by his gauge cocks which he does frequently. Above the engineer as he sits on his seat is a large frame in which is a copy of the current time-table—a large flat sheet showing the trains, their running schedules and the rules.

Having inspected the equipment furnished us, let us now get on board for the trip. As we go up the steps, we notice a contrivance above the window in the end of the car and just under the roof. It is a sliding rod of square iron, the outer end being fastened to a circular shape some 3 or 4 inches in diameter. The conductor explains that when there is a passenger on the train for a flag station, this rod is slid out so that the circular part is several inches beyond the side of the car, which is a signal to the engineer to stop at the first flag station. On approaching each station at which the train is scheduled to stop only on signal, the engineer is required by rule to look back to see if the conductor's signal is or is not displayed. All passenger cars are equipped with this device, one end each end of the car and on opposite sides.

The first stop will be on the bridge just north of the drawbridge. Looking to the southwest, the Boston freight yard and freight houses are seen. Tied up at the wharf at the end of the nearer freight house is a two-masted schooner, from which coal is being unloaded by the use of horse-raised buckets. The bucket being hoisted to the level of a raised platform, it is unloaded and tipped, and the coal slides down an incline into a four-wheeled dump car at the foot of the incline. Here all the coal moved from Boston on the B. & L. is transferred from vessel to cars for movement to destination. The two large buildings originally for the storage of cotton destined to the mills in Lowell, the buildings being erected by the cotton-using corporations. Cotton used in the mills came from the South by vessels and only when the cotton crop was harvested, at which time the year's supply was bought. The facilities for promptly forwarding the cotton on its arrival at Boston or caring for it at Lowell were entirely inadequate, hence the building of facilities for storage and shipment from there as needed. Later the house were bought by the railroad and used as freight houses.

Our next stop is just north of Prison Point street, which we cross at grade. This crossing is protected by the then standard crossing gates—a long arm, long enough to extend the width of the street—two of these arms to each crossing. When no trams were due, the arms were across the right of way; on the approach of a train the free end of the arm was released from a catch and, by the crossing man, the arm was swung across the street.

More than 300 representative women, leading workers for observance and enforcement to the prohibition law, gathered at a luncheon in the beautiful ball room of the Kenmore Hotel on Jan. 16 to celebrate the 11th anniversary of the 18th amendment to the Constitution.

The guest of honor and chief speaker was Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the W. C. T. U. She spoke of the many benefits which has come to our country since the passing of the law and urged the women to greater activities along educational lines. Among the notable speakers at the guest table was Judge Emma Fall Schofield, who paid a glowing tribute to the women of the organization for their many years of loyal service. Winchester was well represented, having a "Winchester table." Mrs. George H. Hamilton, state vice-president at large, moved that the following telegrams be sent from the assembly to Herbert Hoover, President of the United States.

We believe that no President has more arduously striven to serve the American people than you. We want you to know we are with you in your work for public welfare and we pledge you our loyal support.

To Hon. Frederick H. Lurr, United States District Attorney. We wish to express to you our great appreciation for the conspicuous and loyal support you have given our great President Herbert Hoover, and also thank you for your splendid work for law enforcement.

FLYING DOWN TO RIO

We made moving pictures of our own shadow on the clouds below, as we climbed high over Victoria and flew south for Rio. For you can go "Rolling Down to Rio" now on big ferry boats of the sky, giant seaplanes that ply between the two Americas, writes Frederick Simpich, National Geographic Society correspondent with the party surveying air routes from Washington to Buenos Aires.

Skimming low to see the country, we came to the vast plantations on the rich, green plains about Campos. Horses and cattle by thousands grazed there; many herds stampeded when we roared a few yard above them. Peons, cutting sugar cane and loading it on big ox carts, waved their machetes at us. Over muddy roads plodding oxteams hauled the heavy cane carts to the smoking sugar mills, or "centrals" as it is known to all the world's cane workers. Field overseers in white suits sat about on sleek saddle horses.

On our whole flight from Washington, no stretch of scenery has been more graphic and absorbing. It was like a 100-mile panel or mural of "Country Life in Brazil," with farm folk gardening, feeding pigs, churning wood, milking or loafing. Children were at play, one group with a goat harnessed to a little wagon; at every farmhouse chickens ran for cover, thinking us a big hawk.

Then it rained. Water fell all about us. It shut out a world-famed view we had waited for—the flock of odd queer-shaped mountain rocks about Rio. These are a curiosity. They look almost artificial, as though on the earth, yet not of it. You fancy that some big David on another planet has of his sling to hurl these boulders through space at our world, with Rio as his bull's eye.

When a hole of light showed ahead, Pilot Hawkins gave the big Nyrba "line "all the motors had," and we fairly raced for that cloud break. And there was Rio, overcast, but visible, with its famous mountain, The Finger of God, reaching up and poking into low clouds.

A City of Many Parts

From the air you see Rio, not as one big city unit like Chicago; a big city, yes—with more than 1,500,000, but broken into kaleidoscopic parts that are tucked into valleys, set on points of land, spread in the graceful bends of beautiful blue bays, or clinging like Tibetan monasteries to steep, wooded hills. And boldly, split straight through the immense, opulent city, runs the famous Avenida Rio Branco.

It is Rio's main artery now. Few other cities on earth would have equal municipal courage to let engineers do what Rio let them do. "You need a long, fine wide avenue right through your crowded city," the planners said. Rio answered "O, K" and they tore down hundreds of buildings, and now here is Rio Branco, a thoroughfare plowed right through the old town and lined with dull modern houses; the occasional bits of the Middle Ages that still linger here and there in some old street whose houses peep and mutter at one another across the way? Such is the dark, crooked, villainously paved Rue de St. Romain, beside the cathedral.

Where Joan of Arc Lost

The deepest interest of the traveler in Rouen lies in the lonely tower of the city's former defenses, where Joan of Arc was tried for her life—and lost. The great, cone-topped cylinder is rugged and stalwart, a perfect (restored) picture of a defensive tower of medieval times, with its wooden boardings and machicolations. Near-by slabs, in the pavement and upon the wall of the Old Market, mark the spot where the heroic maid paid for her patriotism by passing through the fire. And upon the hill of Bon Secours, beyond the city, a huge memorial to her crowns the height and looks down upon the silver-bosomed Seine.

Above Rouen, the river sweeps away in great arcs to right and left past rich bottom-lands, checkered with cool, tender greens and warm russet browns. A whole archipelago of lovely little islands, seven of them, flecks the burnished mirror of the stream. Bushily they raise their green heads of balsamy pines and lacy poplars against the sky in delicate silhouettes, and the long tows of river barges glide slowly past them like so many swollen sea-serpents.

But perhaps the loveliest spot in all the winding miles of beauty along the river between Rouen and Paris is Petit Andely. Ragged and shattered-looking, the stony hill rears proudly up above placid river and sleepy town, and squarely upon its crest looms the ruin of Richard the Lion Heart's Castle Gallant—a great, bursted keep and a few bits of massive wall. Once the castle flaunted its menacing leopard standards against the blue and white and gold of the Frankish skies; but that was before Philippe-Auguste stormed and smashed it, and smashed the townsfolk while he was doing it.

Now, ghostly and wan, the stark ruin shimmers upon its hill, with never a single spear to glint from keep or barbican. The spears are still growing far below—the stout young poplars on river bank and island sentineling through golden days when the river is gleaming jade; in the fiery sunsets, when it mirrors back every sturdy limb and feathery frond; and all the silent blue nights, when the stars bend down to whisper and coquette and the ripples chuckle softly against the rich brown banks.

Le Havre to Rouen and on to Paris is a stream of delights, winding tortuously among little towns, farms, the ghostly ruins of former grandeur like Jumieges, and between chalky cliffs now and again, that rise hundreds of feet above the river, or, low and beetling, shelter astonishing cave communities, whose homes are bored right into the solid rock.

Splendid wooded peninsulas jut out into the stream, that widens below Rouen into as majestic a flood as the Hudson; and then the ancient pirate stronghold of itself comes into view, shrouded with the smoke of its factories and busy with the activities which have taken the place of the industries of 1000 years ago.

How can one describe this city of the pirates; how give a picture of the long quays beside the river, shining in the brilliant sunshine; the broad thoroughfares plowed right through the old town and lined with dull modern houses; the occasional bits of the Middle Ages that still linger here and there in some old street whose houses peep and mutter at one another across the way? Such is the dark, crooked, villainously paved Rue de St. Romain, beside the cathedral.

THE SEINE; FRANCE'S WATER HIGHWAY OF BEAUTY

The Seine, Paris' water highway to the sea, has been flooded until in places it has overflowed its banks, according to recent news dispatches. A bulletin from the Washington D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society describes some of the beauty spots to be seen along the river when it flows more gently.

Most Americans journeying to Paris become acquainted with the lovely views along France's most famous river very soon after they set foot on French soil, says the bulletin. Those who land at le Havre ride in a boat-train that parallels the Seine for almost the entire trip to Paris; while those arriving at Cherbourg and traveling by rail to the capital are in sight of the river for the last 50 miles of the journey. Less usual is the trip up the river by boat which gives an entirely different viewpoint for the Seine's beauties.

ALL FISHERMEN INVITED TO ATTEND FISHERMAN'S SUNDAY SERVICE

While so far as possible invitations for Fisherman's Sunday are to be sent to fishermen of Winchester, such an invitation is not necessary to make any follower of the immortal Isaac Walton eligible to attend this unique service. All men of Winchester who enjoy fishing are cordially invited and urged to attend the ninth annual Fisherman's Sunday which is to be held Feb. 15 in the First Congregational Church.

Dr. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church and himself an enthusiastic fisherman, will, as usual, preach a sermon of especial interest to those who love the great out-of-doors, and there will be a section of pews reserved at the front of the auditorium for the fishermen who attend.

From its inception, Fisherman's Sunday has gained in popularity and is now eagerly awaited by an ever increasing circle of sportsmen, many of whom come from a considerable distance from Winchester. Every fisherman or near fisherman is invited and reminded to save the date and place of the service, Sunday, Feb. 15, at 10:30 a. m. in the First Congregational Church.

REV. DR. FRANCIS L. BEAL

Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal, rector of St. James Episcopal Church, Teel Square, West Somerville, and a former resident of Winchester, died late last week Wednesday night, Jan. 14, at his home, 51 Curtis street, Somerville.

Dr. Beal was born in Cohasset Dec. 31, 1864, and was graduated from Cohasset High School in 1880. Previous to 1906 when he was created a deacon in the Episcopal Church he made his home for several years in Winchester, being employed as bookkeeper by Blanchard & Kendall, dealer in coal and lumber, whose business office was situated at the corner of Thompson street and Waterfield road.

While attending to his business duties, Dr. Beal took a full divinity course under a tutor, serving as rector of St. John's Church, Saugus, from 1902 to 1907.

In 1906 he was created a deacon by Bishop Lawrence, in the Church of the Epiphany. The next eyar he left Winchester to become rector of St. Paul's Church, Beachmont, which post he held for three years, becoming rector of the Church of the Ascension in East Cambridge in 1910 and continuing there until 1918. From 1918 until 1922 he was rector of St. Paul's Church, Peabody, from whence he came to his last parish in West Somerville.

During the World War, Dr. Beal sent two of his sons to France. One of them, Percy L. Beal, of the medical detachment of the 101st Engineers was decorated with the Croix de Guerre. The other son is Ralph H. Beal, who also was a member of the 101st Engineers.

Dr. Beal is survived by his wife, his three sons, Ralph, Percy and Lindsay, and a daughter, Miss Rachel Beal, and a grandchild.

Dr. Beal had been chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts, grand chaplain of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter, grand prelate of the Knights of Pythias of Massachusetts, chaplain of the Putnam Lodge, member of the Cambridge Royal Arch Chapter and Cambridge Council, Royal and Select Masters, and of the Cambridge Commandery. During his rectorship in East Cambridge, he was chaplain of the Middlesex County House of Correction and Jail.

Rt. Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, officiated at the funeral services which were held Monday afternoon at St. James Church. Bishop Sherrill was assisted by Rt. Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, suffragan bishop of Massachusetts, and delegations were present representing St. John's Church, Saugus; St. Paul's Church, Beachmont; Church of the Ascension, East Cambridge; St. Paul's Church, Peabody; Grand Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts, Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Massachusetts and several Masonic organizations of Cambridge with which the deceased had been affiliated. Singing was by the vested church choir and Dr. William M. Parks sang "O Rest in the Lord." There were many beautiful flowers. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, West Medford.

The School Committee, through the courtesy of Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn give us the use of the hall and the hall by the way is a delightful place to play in. The musical entertainment is given without cost.

If you know of any of the Lincoln Players we would be glad to have you come and hear us.

If not acquainted this would be a fine opportunity to hear your town orchestra play.

With the orchestra, Miss Martha Tibbetts, a talented Winchester girl, will give two solo dances in costume.

Our fine trumpeter, Mr. Guido Talone will play a solo with orchestra.

Mr. Fox, another member of the orchestra, will be heard in a duet with Mr. Talone. Mrs. Helen Hazel Smith another Winchester girl who plays the Cello beautifully, will be heard in a solo.

Miss Marion E. Smith, another of our girls who is developing a fine voice, will be heard in a group of songs. And last, but not least another Winchester boy, graduate of our High School and a fellow you can't keep down, wants to play a solo, Francis Gaffney.

This musical is rather unique in a way. It is more of a jolly good home party where all have a part to make merry.

You are cordially invited to the Wyman assembly hall, Friday evening, Jan. 30 at 8 o'clock to see and hear how good music is made and played by those who enjoy making it.

An ultimatum is formal intimation by one state to another state that unless the latter complies with certain terms, certain consequences will follow. These consequences may be war or may be measures short of war.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The next meeting of the club will be held in the Town Hall at the usual time on Monday next.

A very fine musical program is offered with Roland Tapley, violinist; John Percival, baritone; and Edwin Biltcliffe, pianist. Mr. Biltcliffe, who will take the place of Mr. Howard Slayman at the piano, is Mr. Percival's accompanist and he has just completed a summer's training with Guy Maier perfecting his solo work. We need no further introduction to the artists of the afternoon. The meeting is open to the public.

If a capacity audience and rapt attention during the entire program indicates the success of any performance, the Fortnightly Dramatic Committee must have felt that their efforts were highly appreciated when they presented two one-act plays on Friday, Jan. 16, in Fortnightly Hall. The afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Clara C. Reynolds who announced the plays. The first presentation, "Silence Please," by Felix Gould, had the following cast:

Mr. Darrell ..... Mrs. Estelle Cosper
Mrs. Darrell ..... Mrs. Irene B. Clarke
Belinda ..... Mrs. Margaret T. Huntman
Shadow ..... Mrs. Ruth M. Torgerson

The action throughout this clever, up-to-date farce was well sustained and the humorous situations brought out with great spirit. An impetuous and garrulous young couple having made a bet to keep perfect silence for a full half hour find themselves in an embarrassing situation when two guests arrive. At first they are thought to be ill when they refuse to speak, but their wild actions and gesticulations soon stamp them as insane. The spell is broken, however, before either a physician or policeman can be summoned by the distracted guests since the husband, becoming desperate, bursts into speech, loses his bet, and his wife gains her fur coat.

In strong contrast was the second play, a Theatre Guild production by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, "Dust of the Road." This was presented with rare skill and dramatic appreciation of its spiritual significance by the following cast:

Peter Steele ..... Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hall
Prudence Steele ..... Mrs. Annette S. Bachus
An Old Man, Prudence's Uncle ..... Mrs. Dorothy M. Wills
A Tramp ..... Mrs. Lillian A. R. Whitman

The scene is laid in a simple living-room in a country farm house at 1 a. m. on Christmas morning. Peter Steele and his wife have been entrusted with a large sum of money by an old friend who wishes it to be given, in case of his death, to an only son if he survives the war. The temptation to betray their trust and keep the money has proved too strong to be resisted, although the old Uncle warns Prudence of the consequences. On the night before Christmas, a mysterious tramp arrives who seems to know their haunting secret. First he talks with Prudence who is deeply moved, and then to Peter to whom he discloses his identity. The play revives in a charming and impressive manner the old legend that once a year on Christmas Eve the spirit of Judas Iscariot is permitted to return to earth. If on this journey he can prevent even one person from selling his soul for the love of gold, he will at the same time be working out little by little his own redemption. As the tramp departs into the night, it is with the assurance that his trip to earth has not been in vain this Christmas.

The Fortnightly is fortunate that there are those, not only possessed with the talent, but with the willing spirit to interpret such plays to their fellow club-members. Tea was served by Mrs. Grace A. Holmes, Mrs. Helena Norris, and their committee.

THE GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOR

Sunday afternoon, Jan. 18, at the Copley Plaza, the Guild of the Infant Savior celebrated its 25th anniversary. The program of the afternoon consisted of an especially fine lecture, concert and tea. More than 1200 members and guests were present.

The speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, Ph.D., S. T. D., of the Catholic University, a wonderful scholar and a speaker of international prominence. His subject was "Peter or Pan." Dr. Sheen whom the London Universe called "the new Catholic Philosopher of the age" and "the most popular of the American preachers who have come to England" was awarded the Cardinal Mercier prize of Philosophy by the University of Louvain in 1925.

In the summers of 1928-29-30, Dr. Sheen gave a series of conferences in Westminster Cathedral, London. Some of the books Dr. Sheen is author of are "God and Intelligence," "Religion Without God" "Life of All Living" and "The Divine Romance." Dr. Sheen's lecture was a great spiritual and intellectual treat.

Mrs. James E. Carr of Highland avenue is a cousin of Dr. Sheen and was one of the ladies who received.

Mrs. J. Edward Downes and Miss Mary A. Lyons helped to serve while Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini and Mrs. Michael Hintlian were ushers. Many Winchester members were present.

The concert was given by the Woolverines Glee Club, a group of fine singers assisted by Mr. Kidder, a widely known baritone.

Co-Operation in Work

The laborer is worthy of his hire, we are told. But this is only half the story. The wage is also worthy of the worker. Equal emphasis to both sides of this proverb results in that co-operation of capital and labor which doubly insures prosperity for all.—Grit.

PAINE WINGATE, ONE OF "THE FATHERS"

Old Dr. Peterson drew up in his chaise in front of the parsonage door. It was a mild, pleasant day in May, the 14th of the month, and the men of Amesbury in the Royal Colony of Massachusetts—some 200 in number—were busy at their usual country occupations, plowing the rock-strewn lands or setting out to sea in their tiny fishing smacks . . ."

Thus pleasantly begins the "Life and Letters of Paine Wingate, One of the Fathers of the Nation," by Charles E. L. Wingate, in the two-volume, limited edition which has just been published. On this day, in the year 1789, Dr. Peterson's visit was on the occasion of the son who was a-borning to the young parson, Paine Wingate, and whose life was to encompass practically 100 years between the reign of George II. and the presidency of Van Buren and included the duties of clergyman, statesman and judge—the life of one of those who made the union of the United States successful.

Practically a hobby on the part of the author, the work is the result of years of research in the historical collections and libraries of the country, and in the private collections of individual members of the Wingate family. This research has brought to light many historical letters from Congress, private and official, written by Wingate when he was a member of the first three Congresses under the Constitution, and giving a new view on the comments of statesmen of the early days of the republic on its affairs. The first Senate, for example, held all its session behind closed doors, so that all information on its transactions must come from such material as illustrated in the historical find of Wingate's correspondence. Scattered records from several score ancient homes have, for the first time, been brought together. In addition, homely anecdotes and incidents of particular family interest have been assembled to bring out the characteristics of this distinguished man.

Entertainingly written, carefully documented and illustrated, the work presents a scholarly addition to early American history in much hitherto unpublished material in the form of more than 100 letters never before printed. These are the letters of a man of the old type of New England country gentleman — the Wingates were called the "white oaks of New England"—who was one of the leaders in the revolt against royal authority, and who, at the time of his death, was the oldest survivor of his class of 1750 at Harvard, the oldest survivor of the First Congress of the United States, and with one exception of the highest court in New Hampshire; and last of the original board of trustees of Phillips Exeter Academy on which he served for 22 years.

Out of his years at Harvard come picturesque letters which form almost the only source of information giving a contemporary account of life in the college in the middle of the 18th century. As was the custom in that day, sons at college were ranked according to the father's social position. The father's family pedigree were taken into consideration, the amount of money he had, his business or profession and the public offices he held. Clergymen's sons were usually placed high on the list, as were the sons of lawyers. One story is told of a shoemaker's son who, when questioned, waggishly replied that his father was "on the bench," which gave the boy a high place in class, although that position was decidedly temporary.

Young Wingate was eighth in rank in a class of 55. In that class Jonathan Trumbull, who became Governor of Connecticut, was first. Samuel Otis was second. Joseph Warren was 25th.

One notices that Paine Wingate's name has not been Latinized with Edmundus, Johannes, Carolus and the rest. The story has been handed down, from Wingate himself, that while the faculty was solemnly discussing the printing of the list, some thought the name Paine, like the other names, should be translated into Latin, the same as his uncle "Johannes" had been recorded, and as his own son "Georgius" was to be listed. Their lexicons showed that the only translation for Paine, or Pain, as it was often spelled is those days, would be "Acerbitas." Happily, one of the professors rose to remark that "acerbitas" frequently was used to mean "stomachache," whereon it was promptly decided not to use the Latin idiom.

After graduating from Harvard, Wingate became a clergyman in Hampton Falls for a little over 12 years but gradually abandoned the Puritanical ideas and became a liberal clergyman—which provoked a row with his hard-headed congregation. It is related that a congregation could not pardon a minister who burst out laughing when a dog entered the vestry, stuck his head in one of the luncheon cans and when he could not get it out again, charged blindly, howling in fright, down the main aisle of the meeting house. Wingate never preached after that.

He retired to his place at Stratham and became a member of the Provincial Congress of New Hampshire; then one of the leading members of the convention held at Concord, N. H., to form a constitution more comprehensive and deliberate than the plan of government which had been hastily prepared in 1776 as a temporary experiment to continue only during the war. He also represented Stratham in the State Legislature and served as justice of peace and held other offices in the town. He was elected a member of Congress under the Confederation and from that time on served for eight consecutive years in the national body, being elected Senator from New Hampshire in the first two Congresses under the Constitution, and Representative from New Hampshire in the third. On his return to New Hampshire he was appointed judge of the Superior Court, then the highest court in the State, and served on the bench for nearly 11 years. Retired by the statute of limitations at 70, he went back to his farm and lived there comfortably, pleasantly, to the age of 99 years.

This life, as done by the great-grandson, is intimately related to Boston in the field of genealogy. Paine Wingate was connected by blood and by marriage with some of the most notable families in America: and from throps, Lowells, Eliots, Cabots, Higginsons, Roosevelts, Bowditches, Amorys, Appletons, Bigelows, Crowninshields, Lawrences, Peabodys and Putnams. Rev. Paine Wingate, Sr.'s sister, Mary, the aunt of Wingate, married Timothy Pickering, Sr., and from their line have come Presidents Eliot and Lowell of Harvard, two founders of Groton School, and innumerable professors and overseers of Harvard, together with distinguished jurists, bankers, army and navy officers and merchant princes. Other names appearing in the list include John Clarke Lee, who founded the banking house of Lee, Higginson & Co.; Alice Haskell Lee, the first wife of President Roosevelt; the Lymans, the John L. Gardners, William Amory Gardner and Augustus Peabody Gardner.

From the time of the senior Paine Wingate's ministerial career, the volume traces young Wingate's boyhood and days in college, then composed of the Old College (Harvard Hall), which burned down five years after Wingate graduated, Stoughton Hall, Massachusetts Hall and Holden Chapel. In commons, "every student carried to the dining table his own knife and work, and when he dined he wiped them on the tablecloth." His ministerial period sets forth sermons on Atonement, Immortality, Death Bed Repentance, and illustrate the doctrine of his day.

Wingate wed Eunice, the sister of Col. Timothy Pickering, later in President Washington's cabinet. Washington, on his New England trip, visited the Wingate home at Stratham. Further on in the volume, Wingate tells intimately of later meetings with Washington, of attending the theater in New York as Washington's guest at "The School for Scandal," and of dining with the President. This dinner, to a small group, was the first dinner given by the President in his wife's honor the day after her arrival at the seat of Congress. Wingate wrote, "It was the least showy dinner that I ever saw at the President's table, and the company was not large. The President made his whole dinner on a boiled leg of mutton. It was his usual practice to eat of but one dish. As there was no chaplain present, the President himself said a very short grace as he was sitting down. After the dinner and dessert were finished, one glass of wine was passed around the table, and no toast. The President arose, and all the company, of course, and retired to the drawing room, from which the guests departed as everyone chose without ceremony."

In the political field Wingate held the radicals in leash on the matter of war and suggested a plan of reconciliation with Great Britain. His record from that time on covers the choice of a location for the seat of government, the transfer of Congress to Philadelphia.

Baron Steuben's claim for pension. Alexander Hamilton's financial projects, Rhode Island and the Constitution, his life in Philadelphia, his opposition to building up a Federal military establishment, changing the flag, and his views on Jay as trustworthy to settle an international problem.

The manuscript letters were written in correspondence with eminent leaders of the day: with Colonel Pickering, his brother-in-law, Postmaster General, Secretary of War and Secretary of State in Washington's cabinet; with Josiah Bartlett, member of Congress and son of the signer of the Declaration of Independence; with Governor John Sullivan; with Jeremy Belknap, the noted historian who wrote the first history of New Hampshire, with Governor John Langdon and Governor John Pickering of New Hampshire. The documents include also a court decision by Wingate, his dissent from the decision of Chief Justice Jeremiah Smith, which forms the first chapter in his standard record of Decisions of the Early New Hampshire Courts.

The edition has been published by the Mercury Printing Company of Medford, owned and conducted by James P. D. Wingate, president of the Massachusetts Press Association, and former publisher of the New England Magazine and the Medford Mercury. It complements the author's other works on his kin, "The Wingate Family History," and "Dana J. P. Wingate, a Captain of Youth."

WINCHESTER IN SUMMER

Oh Winchester so beautiful,
With your tall and stately trees;
In northern Massachusetts,
You look so calm at ease.
Your home's low in price,
The shrubs are ever green;
No matter where I turn to
In summer, flowers are seen;
Your Common is quite picturesque,
With fountain water flowing;
The grass is green and cut
And many flowers there growing.
Your churches look so beautiful,
They take the artist's eye;
I'm glad I live in Winchester,
Or else I'd heave a sigh.
Your known through all New England,
For your very best of roads;
Some are built for pleasure cars,
And some for carrying loads.
Your known for education,
Your schools are of the best;
And with contented pupils,
Good teachers do the rest.
I'm glad I live in Winchester,
There's beauty everywhere;
Let's try to make it prosperous,
By shopping always there.

Modern Timekeeping

One of the greatest clocks that have ever been made was that of Glastonbury (Eng.) abbey, which ran for five hundred years! Today electric devices are used for keeping clocks properly wound up, and also to record accurate timing. At Greenwich observatory a ball drops at one o'clock exactly by means of electric mechanism, and Greenwich is responsible for the control of Big Ben. Wireless time signals have made accurate timekeeping a simpler task throughout the world, and are especially useful to those at sea.

DR. ORDWAY'S LECTURE

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 14, Dr. Ordway gave an illustrated lecture at the Congregational Church, for the benefit of Group 6 of the Women's Guild.

Dr. and Mrs. Ordway and Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott spent a considerable part of last summer touring Europe by automobile and this trip was the subject of the lecture. There were pictures of the quaint old cities of Germany; pictures of Rome and of the lovely Italian country; beautiful views of the Alps, a good many of them taken with the telephoto lens; and many others. Some of the scenes in the mountain gorges of Austria were especially remarkable.

Details of the trip itself made the lecture very interesting to follow. There were the charming picnic luncheons, the pretty inns with their gardens and balconies, the bits of comedy here and there, and some exciting details of travel. Once the party plunged through a dark tunnel; again they climbed almost into the clouds on a winding road with hairpin turns that made you hold your breath even in a picture!

And through it all ran the thread of Dr. Ordway's story, explaining the pictures, describing the details, assuring us that Mrs. Ordway considered the hairpin turns perfectly safe!

Altogether it was a most delightful affair, and the audience was enthusiastic in their approval.

POLICE TO BRING IRISH MINSTRELS HERE

We don't mean that the musicians have been arrested, subpoenaed, summonsed or anything of that sort, but merely that O'Leary's Irish Minstrels, widely known and universally popular radio artists, have been secured by the Winchester Police Association for its annual concert and ball to be held in the Town Hall on Easter Monday evening, April 6.

The Minstrel troupe is to be complete with "Tom" Quinn, popular singer of Irish melodies, and "Jerry" O'Brien, accordian specialist. There are also to be several specialty acts which are sure to please.

The Police committee is trying to arrange with the Minstrels to have request numbers either played by the orchestra or sung by "Tom" Quinn. The Minstrels will not only give the entertainment program, but will also play for the dancing to follow the concert.

DR. CALKINS TO PREACH

Rev. Raymond Calkins, D.D. of the First Congregational Church, Cambridge is to be the speaker at the Community night service at the First Baptist Church at 7 p. m. Sunday.

Dr. Calkins is widely known as a fighter for righteousness, as a scholarly author and as an eloquent preacher. Sunday evening at the Winchester service he will speak on the challenging topic "If I Had Only One Sermon to Preach."

Next Sunday evening the Cambridge Band of the Salvation Army will play. On Feb. 8 Miss Virginia Warren and Mr. H. C. Whittemore will be heard at a special Vesper worship. These services are growing in appeal and are open to the general public with all seats free.

MISS AUGUSTA PEACH

Miss Augusta Peach passed away at the Home for Aged People in Winchester on Monday, Jan. 19 at the age of 76 years.

She was born in Kentville, N. S. but had been a resident of Winchester for many years. Previous to her entering the Home some 18 years ago, she lived in the building now occupied by the Winchester Block; and was a familiar figure about the center of the town.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church and a very regular attendant as long as her health permitted.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church on Wednesday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. B. P. Browne.

ONE OF WORLD'S SHAKIEST SPOTS

The Izu Peninsula, center of the Japanese earthquake, is one of the world's "shakiest" spots; for two weeks before the recent disaster, the inhabitants of the peninsula were shaken by an average of 301 tremors a day, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The peninsula is one of the east coast appendages of Honshu, principal island of the Japanese archipelago. It lies on one of the forks of the western Pacific volcano ridge which passes down the Asiatic coast and through the East Indies.

Spas Dot Peninsula

Izu has not been in the spotlight in recent years as the center of major earthquake disturbances. However, Yokohama and Tokyo, which were practically leveled by a "quake" in 1923, are but 40 and 60 miles, respectively, northeast of the head of the peninsula.

Throughout the northern part of the peninsula are hot springs which enterprising Japanese have developed into thriving resorts. Atami, where it is reported 120 houses were destroyed nestles in an extinct crater at the northeast corner of the peninsula. A portion of the crater is submerged in the Bay of Sagami. Among Atami's 6000 residents are members of the Japanese nobility.

Residence of First American Diplomat

Ito, where many houses are reported destroyed by fire resulting from the earthquake, is also a popular spa. The hot springs spurt salty water and the chief problem of the city fathers of the resorts is to procure ordinary drinking water.

Shimoda, on the eastern coast of the peninsula, came into the American spotlight in the middle of the last century when a treaty was ratified there which opened Japan to foreign trade. In 1852 Capt. Matthew Calbraith Perry, U.S.N. sailed up the Bay of Sagami to Shimoda, went ashore with 300 men and delivered letters from President Fillmore to a representative of the Japanese Emperor. In the spring of 1855 the first treaty between America and Japan, providing, among other things, for the opening of Shimoda to American trading vessels, was proclaimed.

America's first diplomatic representative in Japan resided at Shimoda. It was a tidal wave and earthquake that caused the diplomatic offices to be removed from Shimoda to Yokohama in 1859.

LEGION TO PRODUCE FAMED WAR PLAY HERE

"Journey's End," called by the critics the greatest war-play yet written, is to be given by the Legion at the Town Hall, Feb. 16 and 17.

The action all takes place in the space of three days in March, 1918, just before the big German offensive. The scene is laid in a dug-out just back of the British front lines and the plot is simply a cross-section taken out of the life in the trenches during that time and shows in a remarkably vivid manner the effect of the war on the different men.

There is Captain Stanhope, the brilliant young commanding officer who has been constantly at the front for three years, ever since leaving school, and who, with nerves at the breaking point, is only able to "carry on" by keeping himself half-doped with whiskey. There is the older Osborne, ex-school master and second in command, serene and level-headed under all circumstances; Lieutenant Trotter, risen from the ranks, cheerful and matter-of-fact, apparently more interested in his meals than in the war; Lieutenant Hibbard, recently come out but already showing the yellow streak; and last, young Raleigh, just arrived, fresh from school and eager and keen to do his part the best type of young Englishman.

In addition to these five principal characters are the happy-go-lucky Captain Hardy; the Colonel; the soldierly Sergeant-Major, and last but not least "Mason" the cockney cook, each a distinct personality, drawn true to type.

The Legion is undertaking an ambitious thing in presenting this play but in doing it, it is offering a most worth while entertainment which it is hoped a very large number of Winchester people will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend.

SEVEN O'CLOCK VESPER AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Another of the interesting special services held in the First Baptist Church this winter will be a service of sacred music, at 7 o'clock vesper to be held Feb. 8. The church is fortunate in presenting at this service one of its own members whose musical career has been followed with interest by many. Miss Virginia Warren of this town.

Miss Warren's experience in secular music has been wide. She sang in the American Church in Paris during her years of study there and since her return she has been soloist in the Unitarian Church of Lynn, Mass. This will be the first time she has ever sung in Winchester. Miss Warren will sing several solos, among them, "Come Unto Me" and "Rejoice Greatly" from the Messiah, an oratorio in which she has often sung the soprano role.

At the organ will be Mr. Henry C. Whittemore, organist of the Grace Episcopal Church of Manchester, N. H. Mr. Whittemore has devoted years of study here and abroad on the organ and piano and he is an eminent professor of both. For sometime, he accompanied Madame Emma Eames. In addition to accompanying Miss Warren at this service, he will be heard in several organ numbers.

This service offers to all music lovers of Winchester and vicinity an unusual hour of musical worship.

LINCOLN PLAYERS AT FIREMAN'S BALL

Announcement was made this week that the well known Lincoln Players under the direction of Walter L. Rice, have been secured to play at the annual Fireman's Ball next Friday evening, Feb. 6. The complete entertainment program will appear in next week's STAR.

ANNOUNCE TOPIC OF ADDRESS FOR FISHERMAN'S SUNDAY

Dr. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, has announced that he will preach upon "The Wind in the Willows" at the ninth annual Fisherman's Sunday which is to be observed in his church on Feb. 15 at 10:30 a. m.

Each year Doctor Chidley has prepared an address of especial interest to those who with him have enjoyed the good fellowship of the Maine fishing camps, and each year, in addition to the fishermen, many have found in his remarks much of pleasure and profit. The great out-of-doors has its lure for every one, and it is this appeal with particular respect to fishing that Doctor Chidley has sought to explain.

Fishermen are already commencing to signify their intention to attend this year's service and Charles A. Lane, who is as usual in charge of arrangements, expects that "Mike" Marr, well known to many of Winchester's sportsmen as the proprietor of Marr's Camps, will again be present.

Mr. Lane is especially desirous to make clear the fact that all men in Winchester who enjoy fishing are urged to send in their names to him so that seats can be reserved for them in the special section at the front of the church set aside for the fishermen. Special invitations are not necessary. All fishermen are welcome. Save the date, Sunday, Feb. 15, 10:30 a. m. at the First Congregational Church.

FAREWELL PARTY TO MISS HELEN F. BOYLE

A farewell party was tendered to Miss Helen Frances Boyle, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Boyle of 51 Oak street, last evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, 42 Nelson street on the eve of her departure for Framingham, where she will enter the Order of St. Joseph on Feb. 2.

About 100 guests were present to extend their best wishes to her for her happiness in her new vocation, and presented her with a substantial purse of gold.

Guests were present from Winchester, Woburn, Cambridge and Charlestown. Vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed, after which a dainty collation was served.

Miss Boyle was born in Winchester 19 years ago, and attended St. Mary's Parochial School, graduating from St. Mary's High School in 1928. Since then she has been employed as a private secretary to a well known Boston Insurance firm.

She is well known and popular among the younger set in Winchester, having taken part in several of the annual plays being given by St. Mary's School.

She is a member of St. Mary's Alumnae, and on Tuesday evening of this week a party was given in her honor by their members, at the home of Miss Elizabeth Halligan, 261 Washington street where she was also presented with a purse of gold.

THANKS WINCHESTER FIREMEN

Mr. Charles A. Kenney of 145 Cambridge street whose house was seriously threatened by destruction with fire last Friday night, desires to cordially extend his thanks to the members of the Winchester Fire Department. Mr. Kenney says the fire was most efficiently handled by officers and men, and that much greater damage would have been done but for their effort and agility.

DEDICATION OF WINDOW AT CHURCH OF EPIPHANY

The dedication of the window in memory of Rev. Murray Dewart will be held this Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The Rev. W. S. Packer will preach. The service will be followed by a social hour with tea in the Parish House.

CHORAL SOCIETY TO SING GREAT ENGLISH COMPOSER'S WORK

The Winchester Choral Society resumed its rehearsal Tuesday evening for the first concert of its 1930-31 season, to be given in the Town Hall on the evening of Feb. 10. Director J. Albert Wilson, after a week's illness, was back on the conductor's platform and the resulting fine rehearsal is indicative of an exceptional concert to come.

The program for this third concert is by far the best the Society has attempted and with George Boynton, noted tenor, as guest artist, music lovers are assured of a real treat.

Chief among the numbers for chorus is "The Banner of St. George" by Elgar, one of the greatest of English composers, whose works are widely and favorably known.

"The Banner of St. George" tells the mythical story of St. George and the dragon in music, now thrillingly dramatic, now lyrically beautiful, and always tuneful in the best sense of that so often abused word. This great work has, so far as is known, never been sung in this vicinity and is one which few choruses attempt because of the difficulty of the score together with the wide range required in several of the voices.

The Winchester Society's rendering of this great number promises to be entirely satisfactory to the most critical and those who fail to hear it will miss one of the finest things of its kind ever done locally.

In addition to Elgar's virile composition the Society is to sing numbers by Schubert, Gaul and Rebecker, of course with the superior "Hail to the Chief" from Proctor's "Lady of the Lake." In Palmedo's lovely "Evening Hymn" the Society is assisted by Mr. Boynton, and this number marks another high spot of musical excellence.

The complete program will appear in next week's STAR with other information of interest. Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols is in charge of tickets for the concert and those who are not associate members of the Society may secure them from her by telephoning Win. 0733-W.

OLD WATER WORKS SHOP

OLD WATER WORKS BUILDING Removing Old Landmark to Make Way for New East Building

Workmen have been busy this week demolishing the old Water Works building on Vine street, recently acquired by Kelley & Hawes Co., to make room for the new structure to be erected upon that site by the Co-operative Bank.

Many will view the passing of this old building with a touch of regret for it is closely linked with the early history of the town.

In 1851, a year after the incorporation of the town, the building was erected by Charles H. Dupee to serve as a place for the transaction of town business. The second floor of the building was used by the Officers, Selectmen, School Committee, Treasurer and Town Clerk. On the first floor was housed the old Excelsior Hand Tub which during its last days of activity here was used at the Palmer & Parker Mill fire on Main street. The basement of the building was utilized as a town lockup.

After the erection of the present Town Hall the upper floor of the old building was used as a hall and as a meeting place for the old blue and white ribboners, active in the old days of temperance activity. For more than 50 years the building was used by the Water Department as a shop until the present shop on Lake street was acquired about three years ago. Lately the Kelley & Hawes Co. occupied the building as storage shop, and now it is gone with the many other old structures which joined the present Winchester with its historic past.

WINCHESTER AT WOBURN SATURDAY NIGHT

Winchester High School basketball team journeys to Woburn Saturday evening for a game with Woburn High in the Woburn High gymnasium, first and second teams starting at 7:30.

Without doubt a huge crowd will view this first meeting of two big school rivals in basketball. Woburn with its new gymnasium has put a team in competition this winter, and while the tanners have yet to win a game they have met some good clubs and may be depended upon to give Winchester a battle.

On paper the locals should win, and if Coach Mansfield's boys play as they did against Lexington, they will win. We, however, look for a close game and expect most anything to happen.

AMERICAN LEGION BACKS RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, says the Red Cross campaign for $10,000,000 to relieve suffering from drought deserves and has the full support of the American Legion.

"The 10,000 posts of the American Legion," he says, "will co-operate to the fullest extent in this emergency."

The Winchester Red Cross hopes that all members of the American Legion, as well as all other citizens, will send their checks this week to Mr. William E. Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank.

Knights of Columbus Working for Drought Fund

The Supreme Board of the Knights of Columbus, at its quarterly meeting in Grand Rapids, Mich., adopted a resolution urging support of the $10,000,000 Red Cross drought relief fund by all Knights of Columbus Councils and generous contributions by members.

Conditions in the drought-stricken area are so bad that people are actually dying of malnutrition. To show how reluctant people are to ask the Red Cross for aid, there is the story of the farmer whose wife explained that he had been thinking of asking the Red Cross for food but thought he would wait until everything was gone. He himself died from malnutrition.

A friendly neighbor in Alabama wrote about a family near her, in whose aid she had exhausted her resources. "There are six little girls and two little boys, with the father and mother," she wrote. "The children have not been to school a day because they are not able to buy books, clothing, nor adequate food."

In one home, nothing was found but part of a small sack of flour and a pound of lard. In that home are six small children, with another one expected soon. There are a few pairs of ragged overalls for the children, but no clothes at all for the expected baby.

Winchester people can help the Red Cross to relieve the suffering in the drought area by sending their checks this week to Mr. William E. Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank.

CAMBRIDGE STREET HOME GUTTED BY FIRE

The two family house at 145 Cambridge street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kenney and by Mrs. David A. Carlue, was badly gutted by a fire which was discovered shortly before 9:30 last Friday evening.

The fire broke out in the rear of the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenney and the former stated that he heard what sounded like an explosion before the fire started. A telephone operator at the Winchester Exchange notified Fire headquarters at 9:28 and Box 56 was put on at the station. When the apparatus arrived at the scene the fire had gotten a good start, but the prompt action of the firemen confined it to the rear of the house. Two lines of hose were gotten onto the blaze which badly gutted the laundry and kitchen of the Kenney apartment.

The firemen were hampered in fighting the fire by a particularly heavy smoke which did considerable damage throughout the entire house. There was also some water damage, the total amount of the loss not being announced.

It was nearly midnight before the "all out" whistle was sounded, and when the apparatus returned to headquarters Fireman Walter Skerry was left at the house to guard against any further outbreak of the flames.

PEEPING TOM TAKEN BY POLICE

The police succeeded in capturing an alleged "Peeping Tom" shortly after 9:30 last Friday evening. At that time a resident of upper Main street telephoned to headquarters, stating that a man was on the roof of the Baird factory, and was looking into the windows of his house. Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey, John H. Boyle and Clarence E. Dunbury were sent to the Baird factory, and surrounded the place. As the man leaped to the ground he was arrested by Patrolman Dunbury, and booked at headquarters on the charge of disturbing the peace.

He gave his name as Joseph Sibby and his address as 1057 Main street. When arraigned in the District Court at Woburn he was found guilty and sentenced to serve three months in the House of Correction, with sentence suspended for one year.

HIT BY CAR ON BACON STREET

Michael O'Melia of Laging avenue was slightly injured about 9:15 last Friday morning when he was struck while walking on Bacon street by an automobile, owned and operated by Charles E. Parker of 31 Church street.

Parker told the police he was driving his Ford sedan north on Bacon street, and when at a point between Lakeview road and Everett avenue saw two men walking south in the middle of the street. A second machine which was approaching Parker's car, and which was driven by Paul B. Elliott of 2 Palmer street, sounded its horn and O'Melia jumped aside and into Parker's car.

O'Melia was taken to the Winchester Hospital by Parker and Elliott. He sustained cuts and bruises and a general shaking up, but was not seriously injured. He was discharged on Tuesday.

NOT AUTHORIZED BY K. OF C.

Grand Knight Arthur E. A. King of Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus, notified the police last Saturday that the central organization of the Knights of Columbus had issued a warning about the activities of two men who have been defrauding merchants in and around Boston, soliciting advertising for the Knights of Columbus Convention magazine and using the K. of C. emblem and book for 1931.

According to Mr. King these men have asked merchants to make checks payable to either Mulcahey or Carney, and have collected money and checks in several places about Boston. These men are not authorized by the Knights of Columbus to solicit advertising and local merchants are warned to be on the lookout for them.

Frank E. Rowe, Jr. of 18 Madison avenue west notified the police that a valuable plush robe had been stolen from an automobile which was parked for a short while in front of his home about 6 o'clock last Saturday evening.

Police Headquarters was notified Tuesday afternoon by the proprietor of the bakery at 280 Washington street that his shop had been broken into and that five pies, a jar of peanuts and a quantity of doughnuts were missing.

GAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR VETERANS AT BEDFORD

The regular monthly birthday party given at the Veterans' Hospital at Bedford by the various units of the American Legion Auxiliary was staged last week Thursday, Jan. 22, by the Auxiliary to Winchester Post combined with the Concord Auxiliary.

Each veteran was given a birthday gift with cigarettes and a piece of birthday cake. Ice cream, cake and punch were served to the men and guests, and an orchestra was furnished for dancing.

Papers are now in circulation for Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell for Board of Health and for Selectman. The doctor seeks re-election to the Board of Health, and is no stranger to the Board of Selectmen, as he was formerly a member of that body, refusing to run for re-election a year ago.

FORD SMOOTHNESS

The new Ford has more than twenty ball and roller bearings

EVIDENCE of the high quality built into the new Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all — an unusually large number. Each bearing is adequate in size and carefully selected for the work it has to do.

At some points in the Ford chassis you will find ball bearings. At others, roller bearings are used regardless of their higher cost. The deciding factor is the performance of the car.

The extensive use of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford insures smoother operation, saves gasoline, increases speed and power, gives quicker pick-up, decreases noise, and gives greater reliability and longer life to vital moving parts.

Other outstanding features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, the extensive use of fine steel forgings, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

ANNOYANCE TO READERS

To the Editor of the Star:

The mutilation of public library books has become an increasing and serious source of annoyance to readers.

Through the courtesy of the local librarian and the Inter-Library Loan management I borrowed recently from the Boston Public Library a book which I expected would be a valuable contribution to my study of a certain psychological matter. When the book was delivered to me it appeared to be in good condition, but before I had reviewed half of its contents I found that, at widely separated intervals, whole pages were missing, torn out, two pages at a time, mostly, but, in two cases, a half dozen or more pages successively—in all about 50 pages. Moreover, the missing pages seemed to be related to important phases of the matter preceding and succeeding corrective text. At any rate, the book, as valuable as it might have been, in its entirety, was spoiled for me, and I so reported to Miss Quimby, the local librarian, though I willingly paid the postage cost of the loan, realizing that the fault of mutilation did not lie with the local library management.

But I had come to know that the Winchester library management has its troubles also, with vandals who attack books and magazines. In the local library reading-room, which, by the way, has a most excellent assortment of periodicals and works of reference, there was, until recently, on file with other magazines, a copy of the Illustrated London (England) News, a weekly periodical of unusual typographical and pictorial beauty. I know of nothing, in this country, that will compare with it, and it is a magazine of great interest to those who are interested in noting the progress of the times in the old mother country.

But week after week, upon looking over its pages, I found them mutilated, by the tearing out of single half-tone pictures, of something of unusual beauty, which happened, I suppose, to strike the fancy of some conscienceless vandal. When I called the attention of the librarian to the matter, she expressed her grief and despair at such an exhibition, but confessed her inability to cope with the situation, as she and her assistants could not keep their eyes in two places at the same time, and when their backs were turned the mischief in the reading-room was done. The London magazine was an expensive one and I was not surprised when the library management withdrew it from the reference room altogether.

I have frequently taken books from the library and found whole pages torn out, utterly destroying the coherent continuity of the text oftentimes illustrations were torn out also.

Who has not seen the work of the congenial idiots who persist in writing and pencilling their names, or drawing disfiguring sketches and scrawls upon the walls of public buildings, etc., but it is a very common thing to read at the top of the page of some book in the Winchester Library this idiotic pencilled line, "If my name you wish to see, look on page 23," etc. If an intelligent child reader does look he find an insolent instruction, to look further to page so-and-so, and then ad libitum, repetitions, to the same effect.

Everybody, of course, knows the law relating to the subject and yet I have some respect for the reader who writes at the head of the page, or the end of a volume, "This is a good book," or the word "Good" only, after a paragraph he deems particularly worthy of approval. I have the complete works of Gibbon, the historian and the famous DeQuincey, bequeathed me by a friend, so closely and learnedly annotated, in pencil upon nearly every page, that I value the impromptu notes of the former owner of the books almost as much as the volumes themselves, and I believe that the law relating to library books should be amended, to distinguish between honestly penciled comment and the mischievously made defacement and mutilation of the vandals, for some one might consider this an impracticable indulgence, though I doubt if it would invite any such general practice as to make it a nuisance, while the distinction in law would call anew attention to the present vandalisms in libraries and decrease the practices of the vandals.

I remember stopping, about 40 years ago, over night, in New York City, at what was called the "Grand Union Hotel," close to the Grand Central depot of that time. That hostelry disappeared about 20 years ago, with the improvements made in that part of the city, but the hotel I refer to was owned and managed by a genius named Ford. In the hotel lavatory he had stenciled some unique instructions to patrons and transient visitors, some of whom make themselves so obnoxious to lovers of neatness, law and good order. One of Ford's blackboard stencilings was more sensible than poetical—more in the interest of cleanliness than artistry of personal conduct, and I will not repeat it here, for obvious reasons, but there was one blackboard left perfectly blank, at the head of which were the words: "For the use of the darn fools and idiots who are not satisfied with placing their names on the hotel register." Mr. Ford was evidently determined to keep the walls of his hotel clean and he did.

For obvious reasons a public library management could not avail itself of a similar method of treating the vandals and idiots who deface and mutilate books, but it might pay, for awhile, to put a good plain clothes detective in charge, to examine new books and scrutinize suspicious characters, especially when the Winchester Library takes possession of its new building, as it is hoped it will, sometime before another year.

CALUMET CLUB TO STAGE SPORTS SHOW

The big annual wrestling and boxing carnival, sponsored by the Calumet Club, will be staged at the clubhouse on Saturday evening with an all star card which promises plenty of thrills for Calumeters and their guests.

W. Allan Wilde, who is in charge of the show, has announced that there will be several three round boxing exhibitions which will bring together some capable performers, both amateur and professional, and in addition two professional wrestling bouts that are sure to be crowded with rugged action.

As a head liner the club has been fortunate in securing Lee Wyckoff, ex-University of St. Louis football star, who recently lost a spectacular three-fall match to Herr Gustave Sonnenberg when he was unable to continue after two head-long dives from the ring. Wyckoff, according to those who saw the bout, gave "Gus-the-Goat" plenty, and those who fancy a smooth working master wrestler and a great showman should not fail to see him Saturday against "Tony" Rocco, a husky 200 pounder from New York, recommended by no less person than "Joe" Alvarez," Paul Bowser's right hand man, as fully capable of extending the former St. Louis footballer to the limit.

No one who saw Paddy Mack against "Billy" Ruddy at the last Legion show or who watched Stuart Spears against Frank Moran at a previous tourney will want to miss seeing these two crack middleweights mingle at the club on Saturday evening. Both Mack and Spears are game and clever, neither asks nor gives any quarter, and with a real rivalry having been built up between them, anything is likely to happen when they crawl through the ropes and "Buck at it." This bout alone is well worth going far to see, and with the modest charge of 50c which the club is making to assist in defraying expenses there is sure to be a big crowd on hand Saturday night.

Calumeters are warned to come early, are asked to bring a prospective member and are reminded that refreshments will be served after the bouts.

Helen Ellefson Barr, nationally known radio artist, will appear on the program of the grand minstrel show to be given next Thursday and Friday evenings by Stoneham Post, 115, American Legion, in Armory Hall, Stoneham.

NEIGHBORHOOD HAS BEEN CHALLENGED

To the Editor of the Star:

I had not intended to comment on the present school situation, but my neighborhood has been challenged and I feel now that I should rise to its defence.

In 1922, when the first proposal was made for a Junior High School on the Main street lot, my neighbors and I voted for it; and I personally worked very hard for the project.

The arguments which defeated the project at that time were the dangers from automobiles and trucks; and the detrimental effect on the concentration of the pupils from the noise of traffic and trains.

During the past few years, these of us who have continued to live in this neighborhood have become thoroughly convinced of the merit of those arguments, and the erection of the new Postoffice together with the ever increasing traffic has added force to these objections.

Therefore, we believe, with others of the town, that the present High School location is a better place for the Junior High, and that the Main street site, if used at all, should be the site of a thoroughly up-to-date High School, since the hazards presented would be far less dangerous to High School pupils than to younger children—in which case the present High School building could be adapted to the needs of the Junior High School.

I hope the day may come in our town when its citizens can get together in civic matters for the welfare and education of the coming generations with more light and less heat.

Yours for better citizenship,

Clara M. Snyder

HIGH SCHOOL A SERVICEABLE BUILDING

To the Editor of the Star:

The housing of the High School Freshman class in the proposed new school building will end the crowded condition in the High School. It is proposed, at that time, to increase the showers and lockers and to have the pupils in the High School use the lunch facilities in the new building. These are the only changes which will be necessary in the High School to meet every reasonable need. The building has been maintained in good repair, it is attractive both inside and outside, and the classrooms are of proper size and have good light.

It will be adequate for the increase in number of pupils for probably five years without undue crowding, and at that time such additions as are required for a further period of years can be readily made.

With the construction of the proposed new school building the 7th and 8th grades will have facilities which they have greatly needed for nearly ten years.

The above program will bring the accommodations and facilities of the secondary schools up to the level of those of the elementary schools and will make the whole group one to be proud of.

MARY NASH IN "BARBARA"

Tuesday, Feb. 3, one of the most important offerings of the current Boston season will come to the stage of the Wilbur Theater for a limited run when the gifted Mary Nash makes her season's debut in a new continental drama, "Barbara," by Gennaro Mario Curci, presented by Cooper and Daniels.

The English version of this play was prepared from the Italian by Jean Bart, author of "The Squall." In its original form, it was awarded the Literary and Theatrical Chronicles Prize of Naples which is equivalent to our own Pulitzer prize.

As only a play of Latin quality can, it is intended to set aflame the ardor of theatergoers who are tired of the ordinary. Fundamentally a drama of passions, of human strength and frailty—stark—vivid—pulsating—dealing with Life, which gives, takes, hurts and heals—the tempo of "Barbara" is as dynamic as a symphony, exciting through three intense acts to a crescendo at its final curtain a stupendous as anyone's imagination can conjure, or the art of playwriting and acting makes possible.

Rollo Peters, one of the theaters most distinguished leading men returns to the scene of many former triumphs to be co-featured in Miss Nash's support with Herbert Beaguiotti, recently leading man with Katherine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady."

Lee Elmore staged the production while the scenery was designed and executed by Cirker and Robbins.

Helen Ellefson Barr, favorite with Winchester radio enthusiasts, is to be soloist at the mid-year luncheon meeting of the Chase—Chace Family Association to be held Saturday, Feb. 7 in the Hotel Victoria, Boston. Her accompanist will be Mrs. Mina del Castillo, formerly music chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

SCHOOL CANNOT SINK IN MUD

Among the several new though objections to the proposed Junior High School is the statement reported to have been made that the land selected for the site is such that no stable foundation can be found for the building! In order to quiet the fear of the proponent of this alarming rumor, the STAR has secured through the School Committee the following letter of assurance from one of the prominent foundation engineering firms of the State.

Dear Sirs:

Attention Mr. Edward A. Tucker

Under date of Dec. 22, we forwarded to you a report of borings made by us for you on the lot off Main street, Winchester, near the Unitarian Church.

The borings show a thin stratum of loam, under which we encountered sand and gravel fill and then coarse sand and gravel.

We found no indications of soft ground or ground water, and believe you would have no difficulty in installing the ordinary type of building foundation.

Yours very truly,

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

"Hell's Angels," the most lavish screen enterprise of all time, will open at the Strand Theater, Malden, on Saturday, January 31st. On Friday evening the management has arranged a special preview showing of this spectacular air thriller, which will start at 11:30 o'clock. Because of its tremendous crowds that are expected next week the Strand will run continuous on Saturday from 1:30 to 11 p. m., Sunday from 3 to 11 p. m., and on week days from 1:55 to 11 p. m.

Everything about the Howard Hughes' talking spectacle, "Hell's Angels" is done in a lavish manner. The picture itself represents multi millions. A Zeppelin, built especially for the cameras, is destroyed and airplanes are crashed with no regard for expense. As for the authenticity of the sequences we would frankly say that everything "is on the level although in the air." Jean Harlow, a newcomer to the screen, with Ben Lyon, and James Hall are the featured members of a cast embracing several hundreds.

There will not be another picture like "Hell's Angels" for a long time, if ever. No matter what you've seen before, you'll be electrified by its three terrific highlights—the raid on London, the bombing of the German munitions factory and the free-for-all dog fight in the clouds.

"OUT OF THE NIGHT" BY THE SOMERVILLE PLAYERS

With his usual enterprise, general director Al Lutteringer is producing a play new to Somerville theatergoers, "Out of the Night," for the week of Feb. 2. It is a comedy mystery play, with a maximum of thrills, neatly wrapped in humor and with more human interest than usually develops in a play of this type. The action, too, is so fast that one has not time to puzzle out anything until the final curtain. The New York Sun man says that it is "the funniest mystery play." "Deep mystery effective comedy" quotes the New York Times; the New York Herald-Tribune says "Thrills and laughter; love and beauty not forgotten."

"Out of the Night" is one of the best plays you have seen, one in which the splendid company, including Mr. Greaza, Miss Baker, Mr. Dale, Miss Ives, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Farrara, Mr. MacLeod, Mr. Crossen will show to the best advantage. The scenery in which the action takes place is beautifully painted by Mr. Williams, the splendid scenic artist of the company.

The "White Sister," Viola Allen's greatest success is finishing a most satisfactory week, artistically and as to attendance.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATER

Diversion seekers who have been hoping for large helping of comedy with their movie fare will be juxtaposed when "Only Saps Work" opens a seven day run at the Mystic in Malden on Saturday with a great cast that includes Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Leon Errol and Stuart Irwin. "Only Saps Work" has a fast-moving, interesting plot that moves on to a startling climax. Richard Arlen is cast as an ex-football star who gets a job on a health farm to prove to his dad that he is capable of supporting himself. On the way to the farm he becomes the unwilling accomplice of Leon Errol a light-fingered crook who has just robbed a bank. It all comes out top-side up, but it is merry, mad whirlwind of comedy, tempered by a sweet romance, while it's coming on.

"The Last Command," Hell" starring Lew Ayres, the young man who will be remembered for his acting in "All Quiet on the Western Front," will be the second attraction on the program which opens at the Mystic on Saturday. Lew Ayres is seen as a broken-hearted lover who gets into the racket to avenge the death of his brother, "Down to Hell" is a thriller in every sense of the word.

"Dixiana," with Bebe Daniels, Wheeler and Woolsey heading a cast that numbers over 5000, is the main feature on the Mystic program which closes its run on Friday. "The Madonna of the Streets" starring Evelyn Brent and Robert Ames is the second attraction on the current bill.

Kenneth F. McLeod, Winchester baritone, was soloist at a bridge given by the Newton Club Tuesday evening.

The Star learns that at a recently held hearing to consider the alteration of the existing street layout at the junction of Washington and Winthrop streets with the Parkway, it was voted by the Selectmen to recommend that the east corner of the Parkway and Washington street be altered by moving the curb, and that the west corner of the same roadways be altered by taking some land. These corners are parts of the high school and library sites and alterations to them will doubtless make for added safety at this bad intersection. It seems, however, that such action is putting the cart before the horse, for the chief element of danger in the crossing lays in the high ground between Winthrop street and the Parkway. Until something is done at this point the situation at the Parkway and Washington street will continue to be bad.

SOMETHING NEW

There is always something new—and there is nothing new under the sun; yet there are always people who sit up nights to think up something new! So it is with the new Junior High School. One objector to the proposed site questions the stability of the ground. The building would sink in mud. Another converts the idea of combining the High School with a Junior High School. Still another has the happy thought of turning the present High School into a Junior High and building a new Senior High. And so it goes.

Committee and committee, all composed of able men and women selected for their ability and interest in one point or another connected with this problem of educational equipment and method, have worked and considered. In selecting the proposed site the ground was naturally examined and found suitable. The combination of the two schools was considered and rejected for good and sufficient reasons. The reversal of the project finds similar objection—the more suitable location of the present High School; the necessary remodelling due to the smaller and more numerous classrooms this institution requires over the Junior High, etc., etc.

And so the circle ends—at the beginning. And the new thought or the new scheme brings forth a point long ago considered and passed upon, and provides but another item for a minor group to urge delay and combat the decision of the majority.

The majority of Winchester people are willing to erect a Junior High School upon the site selected on Main street. This has been clearly shown on numerous occasions. Something new, at this day and hour, cannot improve any point connected with the issue and reflects nothing more than a disgruntled point of view.

The Star believes that Winchester citizens are intelligent enough to do their voting next Tuesday without being misled by any so-called visions of originality.

MRS. BERNNARD DOES NOT FAVOR

To the Editor of the Star:

I believe I voice the sentiment of a large number of citizens of Winchester when I question the building of an expensive Junior High School.

Will the building of a Junior High School solve the overcrowding and inadequate facilities in our secondary schools.

At the present time our High School barely accommodates three grades. A larger number in those grades would mean overcrowding and a possible half day session for the sophomore class.

Few towns of our type offer poorer facilities for the arts, sciences and manual work. Our gymnasium, which would be adequate, if properly heated and cleaned for Junior High School work, is absolutely inadequate for the many High School activities.

Our lunch room facilities can not meet the needs of High School pupils.

If we build a new High School now with proper facilities for 500 pupils, using our present High School for our Junior High we will have solved our building problem for some years to come.

We question the wisdom of building on the Main street lot which several years ago, because of the noise and the engineering problems involved was considered unsuitable for a school site by residents and property owners in that neighborhood.

Very truly yours,
Louise Vandwort Bernnard

THE REAL QUESTION

Jan. 27, 1931

To the Editor of the Star:

The editorial in your last issue "Vote for Fair Play and Democracy" cuts through the maze in which the school issue is befogged to the fundamental issue. That issue, clearly and concisely stated by you, is whether or not a government can carry on in Winchester. It is well that the voters should understand that if the majority cannot control the town's affairs, a minority of barely one-third of those voting, can block the majority, then there is a break-down in government.

A democratic form of government is successfully carried on by compromise. The striking difference between countries like the United States and Canada, on the one hand, and many of the countries in South America, on the other hand, lies in the fact that in the North American nations the result of an election is accepted by the minority, whereas in the southern continent the losers of an election frequently take to the rifle. In Canada and the United States democracy exists only because the minority acquiesces.

The strongest evidence of the deep-seated recognition by the American voters of the necessity of allowing the majority to carry on is found in the Hayes-Tilden election contest. Whether Hayes or Tilden obtained a majority of the electoral college is still today a matter of argument. We can see now over the interval of more than 50 years that have passed that it probably made no great difference which of these two able leaders became President. What does matter is that the country accepted loyally the majority report of the commission awarding the election to Hayes. The Democratic party though strong in the belief that Tilden had been elected, quietly accepted the decision in favour of Hayes. That was a critical test of that party's fundamental belief in our form of government,—which it met squarely.

It is well that you have called to the attention of the voters of Winchester that the referendum election of next Tuesday involves much more than the question of building a new school on Main street. The real question to be decided is whether our form of town government is to be allowed to function, or whether it is to be paralyzed by a few people, who while professing a love for democracy, are busily engaged in striking down the overwhelming and frequently expressed desire of the community.

The issue is one which cannot be escaped. It faces the voters on Tuesday. It must be answered then. Upon the answer hangs the ability of our citizens to conduct the town's affairs in an orderly manner.

Yours very truly,
Dunbar F. Carpenter

LEGION NOTES

Comdr. Wade L. Grindle of Winchester Post, 37, A. L., announced yesterday that the post had been fortunate in securing Percy Redfern Creed, journalist and former member of the British General Headquarters Staff during the World War, to be its guest speaker at the meeting to be held in the Legion Headquarters next Thursday evening, Feb. 5.

Captain Creed has been in America for about six years, traveling widely and lecturing on varied subjects. He was educated at Marlborough College and at Trinity College, Cambridge, winning a wide reputation as a cricketer. His 211 runs made in 1892 at Lord's Ground in London holds the school boy record.

Entering the army he saw service in India and was a member of the Regimental Polo Team winning the championship of the Indian Army. He resigned from the army with the rank of captain to accept the post of polo correspondent with the London Times, having to do organization work for Lord Cromer, Curzon and Roberts.

Rejoining his regiment at the outbreak of the war, he was posted in the Headquarters Staff at the British War office and worked for Lord Kitchener in the organization of the Ministry of Munitions. His work brought him in contact with King George, Lord Asquith and Oxford, Lord Northcliffe, his cousin, Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson; and most of the leading men of the day.

Legionnaires are assured of an address of absorbing interest from Captain Creed, and in addition there is to be an entertainment program by Pearl Young, the singing pianist. Refreshments will be served, and interesting announcements in connection with the Legion play, "Journey's End" will be forthcoming.

Legionnaires will also do well to remember the American Legion Red Cross Hour to be broadcast Sunday afternoon, Feb. 1, over Stations WBZ and WBZA from 3 until 4 o'clock. His Excellency, Governor Ely, and Department Commander Paul will be heard with other distinguished speakers.

WOULD HAVE BEEN THE FIRST TO OPPOSE IT

To the Editor of the Star:

Under date of Jan. 9, in your report of the Town Meeting, the statement is made that, "In general, the opposition to the proposed school wanted no school at all, or else a combination of Junior and Senior High School effected by building an addition to the present High School." Since this statement has been misleading to those who were not present at the meeting, I feel sure that you will be generous enough to grant me space for a reply.

At the meeting referred to I challenge those present to name one individual who advocated "no school at all." Had anyone offered such a proposal I would have been the first to oppose it. Several speakers, including myself, did advocate an addition to the High School—an extra wing or two as was included in the original plan for the building, and recommended by School Committees as early as 1912. An addition which would make it adequate as a High School; a decent, sanitary place for children whose parents cannot afford to send them away to Preparatory Schools when they leave the Wallleigh.

There is widespread and justified resentment among the parents of High School pupils over the way the deplorable condition of the High School has been soft pedaled. Coal bins, boiler rooms, lockers and lunch room huddled into one basement, with locker space so limited that pupils have to "double up" in the use of these little 12 inch boxes, often risking contagion such as trench mouth and other existing diseases, as well as the loss of many personal articles.

From 100 to 250 students are reported as obliged to study in the assembly room, in seats jammed close together, with no privacy and not even elbow rest, so that pupils are forced to work with their books and papers in their laps; a room without windows, lighted and ventilated only through a skylight, and on mild days through the fire escapes, with air so foul and unfit that no one who sniffs it will ever forget.

These and many other problems of our High School, the Chairman of our School Committee announced would be solved until 1937 by the building of a Junior High School on Main street and the transfer of the Freshmen to this building—which is to be a cure all for all educational defects in the town. It was this statement which forced me to prepare very hastily the motion which was reported so difficult for the Moderator to handle.

The exact original follows: "Moved that a committee of three voters be appointed by the Moderator, together with two voters from each Precinct to be selected by the Town Meeting members of the Precinct, to consider the needs of the High School and bring in plans and recommendations at the March meeting for enlarging said building so that it shall have adequate accommodations and facilities in every way as a High School."

The only difficulty with the motion was the injection, by the Moderator, of the word "Secondary School" which confused those who did not know that "Secondary School Facilities" include the High School. This motion, for which so many people are eager to vote, was ruled off the ballot through a lame excuse called a "technicality"—the fact that the motion was a "substitute motion" rather than the original motion; although the paragraph on "Referendum" in our Town Act specifically states: "final vote of any representative town meeting passing or rejecting a measure under any article in the warrant" is subject to a referendum.

My motion has been interpreted by legal authorities as "a measure under the article in the warrant, which had its final vote."

Some have children in the schools and pay no taxes; others pay taxes and have no children in the schools. When it comes to spending half a million dollars or more, for which a preliminary sum of $385,000 is requested, both groups have a right to consideration.

I spent several of my early years as a teacher and have been in contact with educational affairs ever since. I am interested in children, not merely some children but all children, and particularly those whose parents are unable to give them the assistance they need. We want schools, but this is a difficult year for many whose incomes have been reduced; can you blame them for being a bit cautious during these unsettled conditions? Why take the most extravagant proposition first? Why not begin the solution of our many educational problems with an addition to the High School, for which an article will be included in the March Town Warrant!

METCALF UNION ENTERTAINED

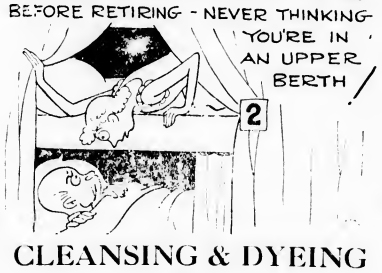

The Metcalf Union, the Young Peoples' group of the Unitarian Church, entertained 60 young people, at an open-house, in Metcalf Hall, last Saturday evening. The music, which was provided by George Hayden and his electric radio-victrola, furnished continuous dancing. Games were played and an elimination dance added much to the enjoyment of the evening. During the evening refreshments were served. Mrs. Charles E. Newell and Mrs. Howard C. Mason, were the matrons. The party was in charge of the social committee, which includes: Gretchen Stone, chairman; Elizabeth Mead, Octavia Cooper, Allan Wood, Robert Cushman, Roger Newell, president of the Metcalf Union.

The party is the first of its kind that has been given in Winchester for a long time and its purpose was to extend the feeling of friendship and hospitality to the members of the other Young People's religious groups in Winchester.

Chief of Police William H. Rogers received this week a letter from an out-of-town motorist, speaking in terms of highest praise of the assistance rendered him by Patrolman Clarence Dunbury when his car became disabled in Winchester. The writer of the letter was especially impressed with Patrolman Dunbury's willingness, courtesy and entire lack of any desire for reward or praise. He names the Winchester patrolman a credit to his force.

DOUGLAS NELSON GRAVES

Douglas Nelson Graves of 21 Everett avenue, a resident of Winchester for the past 20 years, died Tuesday evening, Jan. 27, in the Deaconness Hospital, following an operation.

Mr. Graves was born in Marengo, Ill., Jan. 18, 1882. He engaged in business in Boston and in recent years had spent much time in the south where he was interested in the reclamation of a large tract of land. He was a member of the Winchester Country Club and of the Church of the Epiphany, having served as president of the Epiphany Men's Club and as a member of the vestry. Surviving are his wife and a daughter, Helen.

The funeral will be held this Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany with the rector, Rev. Truman Heminway, officiating.

An Appreciation

Douglas Graves has left us and we who knew and loved him mourn the passing of a rare soul.

During the 20 years he lived in Winchester, he gained many friends, for although he was retiring in his nature, no one could know or associate with him without conceiving an affection for him. It was characteristic of him that he never spoke in disparagement of others, and that he called forth the best from those who were in his presence. The long periods of pain to which at times he was subjected, never affected his patience, nor his outlook on life, nor his thoughtfulness of others.

I think of Douglas Graves as a man of quiet dignity, courtesy and noble countenance, whose life in his happy home and in the world exemplified the nobility of his nature and the beauty of his own thoughts. He had a poet's perception of beauty and the ability to express it in the written word. I have long thought of him as one having "high erected thoughts seated in the heart of courtesy,"—a true gentleman.

Marcus B. May

Tito Tassi of Florence street notified the police Wednesday evening that his 16-year-old daughter, Madeline, was missing. The girl had gone to her work at the Royal Embroidery Company in Boston, but had left immediately after her arrival, complaining of headache. Nothing had been heard from her since. Miss Tassi is described as 5 feet tall, weighing 140 pounds, with fair complexion and bobbed hair. She wore a green coat with fur trimmed collar and cuffs and black shoes with light stockings.

ROTARY CLUB

There were three absentees at the meeting of Jan. 29. We are confident that all three will make up attendance, thus giving the club another perfect record. Also we had fewer visitors than usual which circumstance we attribute chiefly to the inclement weather.

Our neighbor "Jim" of Woburn did not fail us this week. We rejoice to find that he has recovered his usual health, and to make our joy complete there were the smokes which came along with "Jim"—his graceful manner, we believe, of acknowledging a birthday.

We have intimated above that the weather last Thursday was not of the best. Also it was a fine day. In order to reconcile the two statements we hasten to explain that President Loring found several careless members deserving of a fine. Nor was there mercy in Raymonds heart for the safe deposit vault has experienced many lean days of late. And all of this for the common good.

The guest speaker at this meeting was our popular fellow citizen, Charles A. Lane, retired merchant, commercial traveler and active sportsman. "Charlie" has prepared an address covering that portion of his life which was devoted to traveling the highways in the quest of commerce and he was prevailed upon to deliver this address before our club. A thorough knowledge of his subject, and a marked capacity for exhibiting the humanizing features of life "on the road" combined with an uncommonly effective delivery, and a definite Rotarian appeal gave assurance that this talk will take its place as one of the best we have heard. We hope that "Charlie" will consent to favor us again at some future meeting.

Next week we are to have a series of short talks by three or four of our own members. This announcement is important, for it is a well-known fact that nothing interests the average Rotarian so much as to listen to the experiences of his own club members. A full attendance is desired and anticipated on Feb. 5.

Attendance percentage Jan. 22—100 per cent.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

For Monday, Feb. 2, the Literature Committee offers a program of unusual value and appeal. The last poem, poem of Robert Bridges, late poet laureate of England, will be interpreted by Miss Amy Bridgman, Miss Alice Snowdon and Mrs. Sta Ward Aldro. The Fortnightly rejoices that "The Testament of Beauty" will be presented by a leader who, herself a poet, will stimulate us to think and feel the deepest purpose of the author. It has been said that the poem under consideration for the afternoon is the first epic poem in the English language written since the death of John Milton and its purpose is to show the meaning of the human soul.

In these modern days, the term "artist" is too generally applied. There are "radio artists," and "vaudeville artists," and "concert artists," in fact, so many "artists" that the general public sit back with a sort of cynical blase expression as if to say "Well, show us what you really can do!" The results range from mediocrity to real worth.

At the Fortnightly afternoon on Monday, the singers modest, unassuming young people took upon themselves the role of "artists," and proved beyond any doubt, their rights to the classification. Seldom has the Fortnightly been privileged to hear such good music, excellently rendered.

Mr. Tapley, a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, surprised us by being very young, very blonde and very tall. His violin seemed almost an inadequate instrument in his hands but when he opened his program with Lalo's Spanish Symphony, one could almost feel the swift swirl of a Senorita's skirt as she danced to the rhythm of her castanets.

Mr. Percival prefaced his singing by saying an English version of his songs. He told an amusing fact concerning the three songs "The Two Grenadiers" both Schumann and Wagner set the old legend to music and each makes use of the other, in the "Marseillaise" in his composition. Schumann used it as an ending and Wagner worked it into the accompaniment. Mr. Percival's voice is a rich, full tone. He not only sang his songs, he gave a dramatic rendition of them.

Mr. Ritchie stepped from the role of accompanist to that of soloist. He delighted us in the first, and completely satisfied us in the second. Three Chopin numbers, very beautifully played, and again the old longing of the Fortnightly pranc up, for a really fine game of its own, on which these gifted musicians might be invited to play.

Mr. Tapley's next selections were a potpourri of music from foreign lands. Mr. Percival ended the program with three stirring songs, and as an encore sang the charming "Bon Ton Ma Belle."

Both the violinist and the singer were most gracious in sharing the honors of applause with Mr. Ritchie. The musicals served them, and though the Fortnightly regrets that Mr. Slayman could not be present, it is grateful to him for his choice of substitute.

Rondo

A few weeks ago, the speaker of Fortnightly literally dragged us through the mesh of "International Relations," until at the end of the afternoon the questions "to pay or not to pay," "to recognize or not to recognize" still remained mentally unanswered. If only our International Relations could be as peacefully readjusted as politics as they are in music, then there would be no need for a World Court or a League of Nations. In two brief hours on Monday, we were transported through Spain, Germany, France, Poland, Ireland, England, China and India, and back over the open seas, with never a ripple of dissension and what is more on a wave of deep content, we found ourselves back in a warm Town Hall!

The Glee Club rehearsal has been postponed from Tuesday, Feb. 3, until Wednesday, Feb. 4 at 10 a. m.

PILKINGTON HITS THEM HARD

Harry L. Pilkington of the Calumet Club has the honor to top the Mystic Valley League bowlers by virtue of his three string total of 358, rolled a few days ago in a match game. Harry is no professional, but when he is in trim, he throws a mean ball, and his 380 is not the only top notch figure he has turned out.

An excited resident of Oak street called Police Headquarters Tuesday afternoon, stating that a man living in that neighborhood had driven his wife and family from the house. Sergt. John H. Noonan with Patrolman John Regan and Joseph Perro went to the scene of the trouble and found domestic difficulty existing between the man and his wife. The police were able to straighten things out, but to be on the safe side, took a revolver which they found in the house.

MASONS WILL SEE AN "EIGHTEENTH CENTURY" LODGE

Of interest and importance to Masons of Winchester is the announcement made this week by Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of the presentation of an "Eighteenth Century Lodge" at the Masonic Apartments on Thursday evening, Feb. 12. This will be a tiled meeting and guests should be prepared to present credentials.

The Masonic Players of Simon W. Robinson Lodge of Lexington have very generously given us their time to repeat a performance of "The Thatched House Tavern Lodge Meeting" as held in London, England, in 1723. This meeting is as nearly authentic as it is now possible to secure. They have searched the records of old lodges and have been to the libraries to secure the proper costumes and music to go with the old ritual. There are 28 in the cast who have been giving two evenings a week for two months to be sure of a proper presentation. It is the first time that it has ever been given East of the Rocky Mountains. The costumes ritual and the old Masonic songs are as nearly authentic as it is now possible to obtain.

The Most Worshipful Grand Master, Herbert W. Dean, is to attend the presentation in Lexington on Feb. 9. The tickets for the presentation in Lexington have been exhausted for some time and only a few tickets are available for the meeting in Winchester.

Members may secure tickets by applying for them before Feb. 2. After that date the applications for guest tickets will be allotted and so many applications have already been received that the capacity of the hall is almost used up.

UNIVERSITY THEATER

"Hell's Angels," the most expensive and most talked about film-drama of all time, will be the attraction at the University Theater for four days starting Sunday. Ben Lyon, James Hall and Jean Harlow are co-featured in the leading roles. One of the most daring love stories ever screened provides the background for the thrilling air scenes. Amazing and unconventional love scenes are depicted for the first time with unvarnished realism, presenting a wartime heroine in a frank and astounding characterization.

Victor McLaglen has been tough and hard-boiled in his previous military roles, but in "A Devil With Women" the companion feature, he portrays an adventure seeking soldier of fortune who sells his services to any country which has a war on its hands.

Out of the happy pages of America's best-loved book of fiction come Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, Becky Thatcher, Aunt Polly, Injun Joe and all of the others to warm the hearts of America's millions all over again. This time in the flesh and blood, for never was there a more faithful reproduction of fictional characters made than in "Tom Sawyer" which starts Thursday for the last half of the week. Jackie Coogan, leading child actor of the age, who has long been the marvel of a film-loving public, is Tom Sawyer. It is his first talking picture. The supporting cast is headed by Mitzi Green and Junior Durkin. Their work bespeaks the genius they have already demonstrated on the screen and stage.

"Along Came Youth" the companion feature starring Charles Rogers is a refreshing, jolly comedy of sporting life in England.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Joan Crawford reached the pinnacle of her interesting career as the heroine of "Paid," which will be the major attraction on the double bill which opens a seven day engagement at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. "Paid," is a talkie version of the celebrated stage hit "Within the Law." The picture starts off with a courtroom scene in which Mary Turner is sent to prison for a crime she did not commit. Embittered against all society, she plots the downfall of the man who sent her to jail. Gaining her freedom seven years later, she becomes the head of an underworld gang and commits all sorts of crime, but are clever enough to appear to be just "within the law." The climax comes when she falls in love with the son of the man who had sent her to prison and becomes embroiled in a gang killing. Robert Armstrong, Marie Prevost, George Cooper and John Miljan head the all-star supporting cast.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in their newest riot of slam bang comedy "Hook, Line and Sinker," will be the second attraction on the Granada bill which opens its run on Saturday. Wheeler and Woolsey have become national favorites through their work in "The Cuckoos," "Dixiana" and "Half Shot at Sunrise."

Will Rogers in "Lightnin'" closes its run at the Granada on Friday. Marilyn Miller in "Sunny" is the second attraction on the current bill.

APPOINT NEW FIREMAN

Walter Skerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Skerry of Clark street, recently appointed a permanent member of the Fire Department for the usual probationary period, went on duty Sunday of this week.

Fireman Skerry was graduated from Winchester High School with the class of 1923, playing second base on the varsity baseball team. He has been a call member of the department for the past year, and comes naturally by his fire fighting proclivities, his father being call Lieutenant, attached to Ladder 1.

Mrs. Charles Green of Highland avenue notified the police Tuesday morning that her 2-year old son had wandered away from home, and she had been unable to locate him. Patrolman James P. Donaghey succeeded in rounding up the little fellow and returned him to his home.

STRANGER SPORTS THAN MINIATURE GOLF

Foreign visitors who are amazed at Tom Thumb golf and backgammon may come from lands which have pastimes equally strange and puzzling to the average American, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Cubans, for instance, have their high-speed jai alai (pronounced high-a-lee). If any sport has a right to the title "fastest in the world" this whirlwind transplanted Spanish game is in the forefront.

The Fastest Game in the World

Jai alai is played on a long indoor court with one side wall and two end walls. The players occupy the court space in common, batting the ball against the wall until a player on one side fails to return it, when the opposing team scores a point. Instead of rackets the players use basket-woven bats, crescent-shaped, with one end laced to the hand.

A team of two players must protect an area of 7500 square feet. If the rebound is close to the wall of the court the cesta, or crescent-shaped bat, must be manipulated with the utmost agility and skill. Cuban crowds go into a frenzy watching its thrills.

Iron Stones for Curling

When Scotland's golf greens and fairways are covered with ice and snow a popular sport is curling, a game in which players glide large, rounded stones down a smooth stretch of ice toward a mark called a tee. Four players, each with two stones, form a side. If the curler cannot reach the tee he tries to leave his stone so as to block an opposing player. Like sports, the player's shot nearest to the tee scores a point.

Sometimes the stones have handles, fitted into either of the two flat sides each curling stone must have. One of these is for use on fresh, fast ice, and the other for ice that is soft, or "chauch." Iron "stones" are used by Scotsmen who have brought their game to Canada and the northern part of this country, iron being more adapted to play in the intense cold.

Thigh, Instead of Back, Slapping

In the Philippine Islands the Bontoc Igorots have a remarkable pastime which consists in slapping the thigh of an opponent with the flat of the hand. One man sits on a bench with the thigh exposed, and his opponent slaps him with all the strength he can muster.

After the stroke, judges examine the thigh of the man who has been hit, and if the bluy has been sufficiently hard to cause the blood to show beneath the skin, the striker has won the game, but if not then the opponents change places. The first contestant who causes the blood to show beneath the other's skin is declared the winner.

A High-Seas Sport

Every ocean traveler knows shuffleboard, also called shovelboard. Round wooden disks are propelled by long, notched sticks toward a numbered checkerboard about 25 feet away. The game is to land the disks in the squares with the highest numbers, and to keep them from stopping in other squares which subtract from the score.

Shuffleboard looks innocuous enough but it really brings into play muscles of which one may be totally unaware. The heaving of the ship adds hazards and thrills which cannot be transplanted ashore.

Some Florida cities, however, have out-door shuffleboard courts, while a few modern homes have basement alleys, with brick trimmings.

Hunting on Foot

Hunting has long been associated with the English, but one form of their hunting is very little known outside of England. This is beagling, or following the hare on foot with beagles, a dwarf hunting dog. Unlike the fox or the stag the hare is very short-winded. It soon outdistances both hunters and hounds, but, as it quickly tires, they may catch it if they have not been side-tracked on false trails. The hare, however, really has a sporting chance, because its scent is the faintest of all game, and it grows steadily weaker as the hare nears the end of its strength.

Beagling is a very democratic sport. No special uniforms or equipment are required. Any bit of open country or woodland is a hunting preserve. The sport serves the double purpose of keeping down the number of hares who destroy gardens and nurseries, and of providing capital exercise in the out-of-doors for those who take part in it.

Miniature Golf Not New

Miniature golf may not be new to these shores. Early chroniclers tell of New Amsterdam Dutch burghers playing "kolf" on small courses near taverns. After a round or two the "kolfers" retired to the tavern for a bowl of punch, lingering over it in typical "19th hole" fashion until the room was filled with the aroma of their long clay pipes.

Backgammon, in one form or another, has been traced to the Romans, the pre-Columbian Mexicans, and the Burmanese. Even Plato alludes to a game in which dice were thrown and men were placed after due deliberation.

Kindliness

To think kindly of one another is good; to speak kindly of one another is better; and to act kindly to one another is best of all.

Morality of Writers

The morality of a great writer is not the morality he teaches, but the morality he takes for granted.—Gilbert K. Chesterton.

REMINISCENCES OF DAYS GONE BY

Third Installment of a Series of Chatty Articles by Former Superintendent Henry C. Robinson

IN the first two installments (the series started in the August magazine) Mr. Robinson commenced a mystical trip between Boston and Lowell "in the 1850's" on the old Boston and Lowell Railroad. He described the station and progressed the "trip" as far as Prison Point in the preceding installments. This installment takes the "train" to Woburn. The concluding installment will be printed in the November issue of the Employees' Magazine.

By HENRY C. ROBINSON

H. C. ROBINSON

Looking back to the right of the track, there is water between the B. & L. trestle and that of the Eastern Railroad up as far as the slope of Prison Point street fill. On the other side of the track, in the order named, are lumber yards of Howland & Doughty and of George B. James & Co., a long barnlike structure—the railroad's paint shop for passenger equipment and locomotives—a dock and beyond the dock the then recently erected engine house, then the tracks leading to and across the freight bridge (which originally was main track location to the first passenger station on Brighton street), then at the corner of Prison Point street and Bridge street the original, or first erected engine house with turntable and pits too small for the increased-sized engines. Connected with the engine house and extending along Bridge street is the machine shop; at the southerly end, the blacksmith shop, and beyond this the carpenter shop. Between the machine shop and the first engine house is the office of the master mechanic, L. R. Winslow, and the shop foreman, J. F. Crockett.

Across Prison Point street from the old engine house and bordering on Bridge street is the car house—a large barn-like structure in which during the day the passenger cars are cleaned and washed, and in which passenger cars are stored during the night. To the north of the car house come the milk sheds of David Whiting—Page & Gove—and Crosby, in order named. Between these buildings and our train are the freight delivery and switching tracks. To the right of our train is the lumber yard of Skillings & Whitney Bros., extending easterly as far as earth filling goes. To the north, a dock at right angles to the main tracks, separating Skillings lumber yard from that of S. A. Holt & Co., which extends northerly to East street. From East street to North street, broken by Short street, are, on each side of the two tracks, three-story tenement houses making a regular canyon for trains to pass through. And now we will make our first station stop—East Cambridge. Here we are met by the genial agent, "Jim" O'Donnell, short in stature and thick-set, courteous Irish gentleman. The building is a station and dwelling house combination—two rooms on the track level, one for men and one for ladies, and a small box of a ticket office between, the rest of the building being occupied by the agent. The other side of the underpass is a brick building occupied by a glass-making concern, said by some to be a plant of the Boston Sandwich Glass Co.; others say not; the peak of the roof being six or eight feet above station platform level, the roof slanting away toward Bridge street. From the platform one can look through the windows and watch the men at work. Just beyond this building the tracks pass over a stone arch culvert through which flows Miller River. This river is affected by the tide, backing up as the tide comes in, and after the outgoing tide has reach a certain level the water rushes through the arch like a mountain stream.

Continuing, our train passes over the Fitchburg Railroad tracks by a two-track wooden stringer bridge, the boarded-up sides coming about up to the lower part of the car windows. The train then comes in sight of the beautifully laid-out grounds of the McLean Asylum, the trees about the buildings hiding all but the roofs of the higher structures. The estate extends northward to Washington street, from which a charming elm-arched driveway leads to the buildings at the summit of the hill or elevation. A lodge house stands at the Washington street entrance. On both sides of the driveway are well-kept lawns. Magnificent shade and ornamental trees as well as fruit trees, are scattered about the estate, while on the south side slope are attractive flower and vegetable gardens. Passing this location today it is hard to visualize what a beauty spot once occupied the area. And now, gentlemen—yes, and ladies—will come a most difficult task in blotting out present conditions in order to better see with the mind's eye conditions of the late '60s. Remember that all of the bridges south of Montvale were built for two tracks only, and those on 10 to 11-foot centers.

The train now draws up to and stops at Milk Row station, south of Washington street and on the west side of the tracks. A long stairway leads from the back side of the station to the street level. The station is a low-studded two-story building painted a dark red; two rooms on the track level with a small ticket office between are for convenience of passengers; the rooms above and at the back are occupied by the agent and his family. But here he comes to meet us—a smallish man, wearing glasses, black thinning hair and a mustache. He is without hat or coat, but does wear a welcoming smile. Let me introduce Mr. Addison Smith, a conscientious employee. He has quite a local reputation as a checker player, and as train service is not frequent he has abundant time in which to indulge his hobby.

Leaving Mr. Smith waving us a "good bye," the train crosses Washington street over a bridge similar to that over the Fitchburg Railroad. The next station stop is at Winter Hill. Here the station, a low story and a half house painted white, is located on the east side of the tracks, the house facing south and on the north side of the walk from the street to the railroad. The house is almost wholly covered by vines, so that but little is seen of it. Here also the building is the dwelling of the agent, Mr. John A. Whitney, a sandy complexioned man with stooping shoulders, giving him the appearance of being less tall than he really is. He, however, stand high in the estimation of the Superintendent who delegates to him the collection of certain moneys, chiefly the freight charges on cattle delivered at Willow Bridge.

Our next stop is at Somerville Center (now Somerville Junction). There is again a combined dwelling and station—a two-story building, accommodation for passengers on the lower floor, the rest of the building being living quarters for the agent, Mr. Whittle, and his family. Mr. Whittle is a tall, sandy-complexioned man, having more the appearance of a successful farmer—a quiet, loyal employee.

Our next stop is at Willow Bridge, now North Somerville,—the station a 10 by 12 building with a door and no windows—no agent, of course. The section men unlock the door in the early morning and lock it up for the night at the end of their day's work.

Notwithstanding the forsaken appearance, once a week this is one of the busiest stations on the road, for here is Boston's livestock market, and here gather cattle buyers, butchers, etc. Early each Tuesday morning men arrive two, three and sometimes four cattle trains, starting Monday mornings from northern Vermont and New Hampshire. Between the main inward track and a low-retaining wall is just room enough for a sidetrack from which the cars of cattle are unloaded. From the retaining wall westerly for a long distance beyond Boston Avenue, and from Broadway on the south to Harvard street on the north, the area is divided into cattle pens, each of a size to confine a carload of cattle. Standing among these pens is a sizeable barn, the lower floor of which is a scale platform of sufficient capacity to weigh a carload of stock, the lofts containing hay for feeding such cattle as remain over. Ordinarily all the cattle are sold and driven away before late afternoon. Attached to the cattle trains, in addition to the caboose, is one or more "drovers'" cars, occupied by those who by arrangement are permitted to accompany the shipments in their charge. They are expected to inspect their stock at every stop of the train to assist any which have fallen and are unable to regain their feet to see that the stock has water as required, etc. Some of the stock is owned by the drovers, but the greater number is handled for farmers and stock raisers.

The purchasers of stock being unknown to the agent at shipping station, waybills are made out to the man in charge, some of whom being rather "slippery" and more than willing, after the stock in their charge has been sold and sold for cash, to deliberately dodge the collector of charges, and so wits are matched, the collector having it "in" for the successful dodger on his next trip.

Owing to the early arrival of the stock trains, most of the buyers have to spend the preceding night in the near vicinity. To accommodate them, as well as the drovers after their consignment has been sold, a good-sized hotel was erected to the east of the railroad-location and on the north side of Broadway, where now stands a garage.

While at Willow Bridge looking eastward over an unoccupied area, we can see the Mystic Trotting Park.

Between Harvard street and College avenue, to the east of the tracks, are a number of clay pits where bricks are made. A man stands in clay and water almost up to his knees and shovels the mixture into a machine, while a horse hitched to one end of a windlass pole makes a circuitous tramp, tramp, tramp, automatically moulding the clay into brick form and pressing out superfluous water. These forms are afterward piled, leaving an arched hole midway of the pile, into which, when weather is too cold to make bricks, a fire is started and kept burning until the bricks become hardened and in condition for use.

Our next station is College Hill, located to the north of College avenue (overhead) and to the right of and at an elevation somewhat above the tracks. This, too, is a dwelling and of somewhat larger size than the others—a two-story house, accommodations for passengers on the lower floor, the rest of the house living quarters for the agent; and here he comes to greet us—Mr. White, a stoutish gentleman, light-complexioned, wearing glasses, quite bald, full beard minus a moustache, a quiet man.

As we proceed to the next station stop, your attention is called to the willow trees on the sloping bank to the west of the tracks, planted there that the roots might prevent the slope from sliding down onto the tracks, and so prevent previous occurrences, the bank being largely clay soil.

Medford Steps (now Medford Hillside) is the next stop. Here is found short station platforms and a flight of steps on the east side leading up to the street. At the top of the stairway is a small building for the convenience of passengers, but occupied mostly by a shoe cobbler, who has his concession for services rendered.

The next station is West Medford. Here a dwelling house of two stories in height stands just south of the present station location. The rooms next the track and on the lower story are for use by passengers; the remainder of the house is occupied by the agent, Mr. Reuben Willey.

The station grounds were less than at present, and from the north boundary line Mr. Brooks (I believe a brother of Peter C.) objected so strenuously to the railroad that he built a high-growing hedge along the right of way up to Grove street bridge that the passing of the trains should not be seen from his house—a large, dark-painted mansion on what is now Grove street.

Just after passing under Grove street bridge, your attention is called to the location where one, if not the first serious accident on the B. & L. R. R. occurred. The engine of a northbound train "jumped the track" and landed up against a tree standing not far from the track. The fireman, Waterman Brown, being thrown from the engine footboard (there was no cab on the engine), the wheels passing over his left arm, necessitating amputation. Life employment of such character as he was able to perform was given him. For a number of years he was crossing tender at Main street station crossing at Nashua, N. H., and later performing the same service at Church street crossing at Woburn.

Just beyond is where those who laid out the location were obliged to change their plans, for the original location was to parallel the Middlesex Canal up through Woburn, but the citizens of that place would have no railroad running through the town, so it was necessary to continue the curve and take the lower level through what is now Winchester. We next come to Mystic Station, the locality now known as Wedgemere. The station, a two-story dwelling house, is located just north of the overhead bridge. Bacon street—and on the east side of the tracks, one room in the northwest corner being for convenience of passengers, the rest of the house living quarters for the agent, Mr. Randall and his family. Mr. Randall is a carpenter by trade and is employed as such by the railroad carpenter's gang. Being away all day, the station duties are carried on by the family.

About midway between Mystic and Winchester stations the east slope of the ledge extended across the railroad location, and the engineers blasted out only sufficient width for their purposes, leaving the stone on the east which in height was above the tops of the cars hiding more or less of the train as it passed through the cut. A little north of this cut was Thompson's tannery, beyond which was a small coal yard. A sidetrack serving both industries was the only sidetrack in Winchester excepting a short one between the two crossings leading from the inward track on which cars of bark were set off.

We draw up to the Winchester station, located north of the crossings, the present interlocking tower occupying a part of the area. The station is a long, low building devoted exclusively to railroad purposes—a waiting room for the men at the south end, then the ticket office and the toilets, and beyond two rooms for the ladies, and a small baggage room. The agent, Mr. Sanford must surely be a lineal descendent of Falstaff, for he was of that build. Being so, it follows that he was "a jolly good fellow." The Main street or North crossing was protected by the long arm gates. Indication of the crossing was given by the erection of two large signs, one at each crossing, spanning the width of the street, reading "Railroad Crossing. Look out for the Engine while the Bell Rings."

Before continuing up the main line, let us cover the Woburn branch. Between the branch and the inward

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

One of the factors for which our organization exists is publicity as related to the civic affairs of our town. As our town of Winchester is one of the noted towns in this Commonwealth in several respects, we would state as follows:

The high standard of citizenship is an unmeasured asset which has had much to do with our prosperity, and when our organization is informed of what a leading position we occupy as a town in any of our departments, it is a pleasure to publish facts. A few days ago the Superintendent of the Danvers' Water Department was seeking information as to how, and what the town of Winchester had done in relation to the reforestation upon our domestic water supply sheds. He was seeking full information as to the cost, number and kinds of trees set, so as to place it in the annual report of the town of Danvers. He has kept in touch with what our town has done and is quite sure that Danvers will carry out the same conservation policy upon their water shed.

Our neighbor, the town of Wilmington, has recently put in a domestic water supply system, and has ordered trees of the State Department of Forestry to be placed upon their water shed for the conservation of water.

This fall a representative of the town of Sudbury was much interested to get a full statement as to the work performed by our town. He stated that the town of Sudbury has purchased about 500 acres of land adjacent to their water supply, which land is covered with a scrub oak growth. Having been informed as to what Winchester had accomplished in forestry work he was much pleased to get the best evidence of what will occur on their property, when properly treated by the placing of many young evergreen trees for conservation of the moisture on their water shed.

We are pleased to know that previous to this year several other towns have sought information as to Winchester's experience and noted success in forestry work.

How few of the human family realize that "the man who plants a tree becomes a partner with God in a creative act, for we cannot build a tree, we can only preside at the mystery of it's growth."

A PITIFUL LETTER TO RED CROSS FROM MOTHER

A pitiful letter from a mother of seven small children in a Texas county said their crop had failed, their garden was ruined by the drought, and the children were ragged and without food. "I pray God above to fill your hearts with feeling for our terrible situation," the letter read, "because we wonder when the end will come."

Another Red Cross worker reported finding a family of a father and five children barefooted in the snow, but too proud to appeal for help. The mother was dead. Again, a family was reported living on bread made of only flour and water.

It is true that these sufferers are not living in Winchester. They are not our next-door neighbors. They are, however, citizens of our own country, victims of the drought of last summer. Simply because they are our fellow human beings, we Winchester people must support the Red Cross in its efforts to keep them from starving or freezing.

We have not yet reached our full quota and in an emergency of this sort quick ready cash will render the greatest service. Won't you, therefore, please make your contribution today? Every dollar will prove of the greatest help.

Men and women all over the country are contributing generously to this drought fund. Winchester, as usual, must be up with the leaders.

In one county in Kentucky which normally has 3000 school children, only 40 are now in school. Of the 40, only three had lunches on the day of the health officer's visit. Lunches consisted of a piece of rabbit or bacon, or nuts gathered from trees along the road to school. It's hard for us here in Winchester, where most of us are eating three full meals a day, to realize how bad conditions are in the drought area.

Won't you please, just as soon as you finish reading this, sit right down, make out your check, and mail it to Mr. William E. Priest at Winchester Savings Bank?

STONEHAM WON FROM WINCHESTER

Showing a complete reversal of the form displayed against Lexington the previous Wednesday, Winchester High School lost a Middlesex League basketball game to Stoneham High at Stoneham last Friday evening, 24 to 6.

As the score would indicate the game was hardly close enough to be exciting and it looked as if the Winchester boys couldn't have dropped the ball through the hoop if they had a ladder to shoot from. Nothing the locals did went right.

The only bright spot in the evening from a local angle was the win of the Winchester seconds who have lost but a single game this season.

Stoneham, by virtue of its win over Winchester, went into a ton tie with Lexington for the circuit leadership.

The wrestling bouts at the club this Saturday night are attracting much attention. The fine card of stars, all known to patrons of Boston wrestling, is an attraction which is unusual here at a private club. The evening promises to be one of the most popular of the season. Members who have not yet secured their reservations should do so at once by calling the club.

Calumet again met defeat in the Mystic Valley League this week when the Middlesex Club won by one point in the matches—8 to 7. The local bowlers dropped three with their first team and won a like number with team 2, then by splitting the eight points represented, Carleton took the cowboy pool match and McCarthy the straight meal, while Holbrook won in three-cushion billiards. Middlesex won the 14—1 balkline billiards and three points in cards.

ELKS TO STAGE "OLD TIMERS' NIGHT"

The annual "Old Timers' Night" of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E., one of the big red letter events in the calendar of all local Elks, is to be staged on next Tuesday evening, Feb. 3, in Lyceum Hall with many visiting dignitaries present to make the occasion doubly memorable.

As usual the initiatory work is to be done by a degree team composed entirely of Past Exalted Rulers of the Lodge, headed by Past Exalted Ruler John McNally. Others who will be at the various stations are:

Esteemed Leading Knight Fred Clement
Esteemed Loyal Knight Maurice Dinneen
Esteemed Lecturing Knight George Lochman
Secretary Fred Scholl
Treasurer George Davidson
Chaplain Thomas Fallon
Esquire Bernard Cullen

Charter members of the Lodge are to turn out en masse for the event and judging by the popularity of past "Old Timers' Nights" there will be few absentees next Tuesday.

Fred H. Scholl, who is in charge of arrangements for the occasion, promises a high class entertainment program which is to feature the Black and White Entertainers, a minstrel troupe of real ability. Refreshments will be served and all Elks are urged to arrange their engagements so as to be able to attend. The starting hour is 8 o'clock.

DR. ORDWAY TO SHOW MOVIES AT NURSE'S HOME

In response to repeated requests Dr. Clarence E. Ordway is to show again his motion picture film, taken on Hospital Day, of mothers and babies who have been patients at the Winchester Hospital on Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 8 o'clock in the Nurses' Home.

At the same time Doctor Ordway will also show his travel films, taken during his trip abroad last summer, which created such a favorable impression when shown recently at the First Congregational Church.

WINCHESTER WELLESLEY CLUB

The Winchester Wellesley Club held a benefit bridge in behalf of the student aid fund at Wellesley College on Friday, Jan. 23, at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John P. Carr, 2 Gardner place. The President, Mrs. E. R. Grosvenor, was assisted by a committee of club members, Mrs. Roy W. Wilson, chairman and Mrs. John P. Carr, Mrs. E. Whitford Sanderson, Mrs. H. N. Squires, Jr., Mrs. C. W. Warner and Mrs. Joseph W. Worthen.

John Pike called Police headquarters at 10.35 last Saturday night to report that while he had been absent from his repair shop on upper Main street to attend to a towing job the lock on the door had been broken. The police are investigating.

REMINISCENCES OF DAYS GONE BY

main track is a housed-in-turntable, as a number of the trains from Woburn and Stoneham connect with other trains, the engines going no farther and are here turned in season for the return Row, now Cross street. Here is only a three-sided shelter, no agent or crossing tender. From here to the next station, Horn Pond, now Woburn Highlands, are tanneries on both sides of the track. Horn Pond station, now Woburn Highlands, is a small affair, the north half being occupied by a mender of boots and shoes. I think he also flagged the crossing, but am not sure.

Woburn station, the terminus of the branch, is a commodious wooden structure located on Main street at the corner of High street, the roof covering not only the waiting rooms but the two tracks serving the station. The track nearest the platform being used for all passenger service, the other track was for storage or shifting purposes. The waiting rooms were large, high-studded with plenty of light; above the ticket office was a tower in which a bell about the size of a locomotive bell was rung by the agent 15 minutes before train time, and again three minutes before the train started. The agent, Mr. Alvah Wood, was a tall, dignified man, of good standing with the officials and the public. The cars of all trains arriving at Woburn were switched into the station under control of the conductor or qualified brakeman. At one time two new "up-to-date" passenger cars were bought and lettered "Woburn Branch," with the intention of keeping them in that service, but this was found to be impracticable.

These articles are published through the courtesy of the Boston & Maine Railroad Employees Magazine, which has kindly supplied the text and illustrations. Mr. Henry C. Robinson, through a lifetime residence in Winchester, is widely known among our citizens and his "Reminiscences" are hence of more than usual interest.—Ed.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Reginald R. Ruggles reported to the police that as he was driving his Nash sedan south on Cambridge street at 9:30 last Friday night, he was obliged to swerve his car sharply to the left to void an accident. In doing so his car hit a pole near Wildwood street and was badly smashed. The sedan was towed to a Medford garage. No one was injured.

A Chevrolet coach, owned and driven by Cornelius M. Clancy of 231 Salem street, Woburn, was in collision about 4:55 last Saturday afternoon at the junction of the Parkway and Washington street with a Whippet coach, owned and driven by Horace A. White of Winter street, West Roxbury. Both cars were damaged but no one was hurt.

RAILROAD MAN MAKES RESCUE

The following, clipped from a Boston daily, will prove of interest to the many friends of William "Billy" Richardson, who formerly served as gate tender at the Swanton crossing:

"William Richardson of Winchester, gate tender at the Holland street Davis Square crossing of the Boston & Maine Railroad, West Somerville, had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning, when he pulled an unidentified man from in front of the engine of a moving freight train at the crossing.

"Shortly before 2 o'clock, an inbound freight train approached the crossing, and Mr. Richardson lowered the gates for the train to pass. After performing his duty, he looked up and was surprised to see a man apparently under the influence of liquor stagger under the gates and fall down on the tracks in front of the engine of the oncoming train.

"Richardson left his post at the gates and ran out. Grabbing the man, he pulled him off the tracks, at the same time slipping himself on the ice alongside the tracks. He fell, but rolled out of the side-away from the train. The man he rescued quickly sobered up, because of his fright when he realized the position he was in and disappeared before Mr. Richardson could obtain his name.

"Several night workers saw Mr. Richardson's act and were loud in their praise of his quick action. Mr. Richardson resides at 333 Cambridge street, Winchester."

AUTOMOBILE THIEVES ACTIVE IN WINCHESTER

Tuesday afternoon proved a particular busy time for automobile thieves in Winchester, and the police were also kept on the jump, answering calls in various parts of the town.

About 5:30 o'clock Mrs. Donald G. Crowell of Swan road notified Headquarters that her Ford convertible coupe had been stolen. The news was broadcast by the authorities and about an hour later in response to a telephone call, Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolman Joseph Regan arrived at the residence of David Kateoff at the Winchester-Woburn line on Washington street and found Mrs. Crowell's car off the Main road near the Pride of Boston Cemetery.

The left rear wheel and tire had been taken along with the spare wheel and tire. The police were told at the Kateoff residence that three young men about 18 or 20 years of age in a Ford sedan had pulled out of the road in which the Crowell car was found.

While the police were busy with the above case Headquarters was notified by William Hickey of Edgehill road that two young fellows had left a Graham-Paige sedan on that street, taking an overcoat from the car with them. Sergeant Noonan with Patrolman James P. Donaghey went to Edgehill road and secured the abandoned machine which was found to be the property of Ellen J. McRea of 18 Day street, Somerville.

The machine had been stolen in Somerville. The boys who abandoned it were described to the police and a check-up disclosed the fact that Patrolman Regan had attempted to stop them in the stolen machine while on duty at the Waldeigh School. The boys had driven past the school at a high rate of speed and refused to stop when ordered to do so by Officer Regan. The latter commandeered a car and gave chase, but the stolen automobile had gotten too good a start to be caught.

Apparently the boys had circled about and covered considerable ground before they finally abandoned the car on Edgehill road.

The last automobile theft of the afternoon took place between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock when a Buick sedan, the property of Mrs. Annie L. Burr of 9 Walton street, Woburn, was stolen from in front of the residence of Malcolm W. Burr at 5 Euclid avenue. This machine was recovered early Wednesday morning by the police of Brookline.

SCHOOL ON MAIN STREET LOT BEATEN

Referendum Fails to Get Necessary Two-Thirds by 202—Biggest Vote Yet Cast

Winchester's third referendum, Tuesday in the Town Hall, failed by 202 votes to secure the two-thirds majority required under the limited town meeting act to support the representative town meeting members in their recent vote to erect a new junior high school building on the so-called Main street site adjacent to the Unitarian Church.

The largest vote yet cast, 3909 ballots, was polled on Tuesday, and of these, 2398 favored the school and site, with 1503 opposed. There were 8 blank ballots.

At the last previous referendum, held June 29, 1930, 3353 ballots were cast with 2033 favoring the school and 1091 in opposition. A previous referendum, held May 2, 1930, polled 3504 votes, with 2186 affirmative and 1288 negative.

Tuesday's election was marked by much activity on both sides, and it is safe to say that at no previous referendum has the opposition to the school on the Main street site been so well organized. As announcements of the size of the vote were made during the mid-afternoon it became apparent that the chances of putting over the school were slim. The larger the vote, the more difficult it becomes to get a two-thirds majority, and Tuesday's referendum has clearly marked the impossibility of securing such a majority in a ballot vote in the face of any sort of concerted opposition.

The opposition to the school project was chiefly centered in Precincts 1 and 6 where a majority of the voters cast negative ballots. There was also a pronounced opposition in Precinct 2, though the Precinct went for the school by 70 votes. Only 380 negative votes were cast in the three remaining Precincts.

The election officers succeeded in keeping pretty much abreast of the vote through the day, and at 6:40 the final returns were made to the Town Clerk. Following is the result of the balloting by Precincts:

ROBERT VINCENT DONAGHEY

Robert Vincent Donaghey of 9 Border street, Woburn, a former Winchester boy and a World War veteran, died at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Choate Memorial Hospital, Woburn, following an operation, performed the previous Saturday. Four blood transfusions failed to save his life.

Mr. Donaghey was the son of Mrs. Annie (Smyth) and the late James P. Donaghey. He was born in Winchester 33 years ago and attended the Winchester schools, later being employed as an electrician by the local contractor, Edmund C. Sanderson.

At the outbreak of the World War, July 3 1917, he enlisted in Battery C, 51st Coast Artillery, of the regular army, serving 18 months over seas, during which time he was gassed several times and twice severely.

Following his discharge from the army, he was bothered with stomach disorders, the result of gassing, but for two years acted as chauffeur for Dr. Vernon C. Stewart of Woburn, medical examiner for this district, and later was appointed a clerk in the Boston Post Office, attending to his duties whenever his health permitted.

Three years ago Mr. Donaghey was stricken ill while at the wheel of his automobile, and underwent a serious operation. While he recovered sufficiently to enter the postal service, he never fully recovered his health and for some time previous to his last illness grew steadily worse until he entered the hospital last Friday.

Mr. Donaghey was a member of the Woburn Veterans of Foreign Wars, Winchester Post, A. L., Harris Post, A. L. of Boston; Woburn Legion and Woburn Council, K. of C.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Eunice (McKittrick) Donaghey; a son, Robert Vincent, Junior; his mother, a sister, Miss Mary Donaghey of Winchester; and five brothers, John F., James P., Thomas W., Joseph W., and Arthur L. Donaghey.

The funeral was held this Friday morning from the late residence with a requiem high mass in St. Charles Church, Woburn. A delegation from Harris Post A L., of Boston, acted as escort and firing squad. Ten wartime "buddi s" of the decease' Philip E. Shea of New York City, Edward E., and John P. Walsh of Woburn, Robert Lacey of Charlestown, George Selby of Somerville, Charles Coldavara of Boston, Thomas P. Higgins of Lowell, Daniel J. Kean of Woburn, Thomas P Flynn of Gardner and Richard Kelley of Cambridge served as bearers. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Lieut. John A. Harrold and Patrolman John H. Boyle have been on the sick list this week.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

Bridge and Luncheon Held on Tuesday

On Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 3, about 400 ladies assembled in the Congregational Parish House to enjoy luncheon and cards together at the annual luncheon bridge of the Winchester Circle.

Mrs. Frederick C. Alexander was general chairman and much credit is due her and her committee for the great success of the affair.

This year it was in the form of a Valentine party, the large crowd just seemed to radiate happiness and good cheer as they gathered in the pretty hall which was so artistically and appropriately decorated by Mrs. Halford H. Hubbey and her committee. The general effect was a credit to their taste and ability and an evidence of the amount of work put into it. Mrs. Ambler was assisted by

Mrs. Clarence A. Warren
Mrs. Robert Burr
Mrs. Malcolm Less
Mrs. Henry Norris
Mrs. Howard Walker

All were delighted with the delicious luncheon and the dainty and gracious little waitresses who served in their gay caps and aprons. Words of praise were heard on all sides for the excellent cooks and their good choice of menu. It is not an easy thing to prepare a luncheon for so large a group, but to go into the kitchen and see this smiling group of ladies all working so harmoniously and happily together, clearly showed the happiness one gets in doing for others and proved itself a labor of love.

Mrs. Alexander has as her assistants in the kitchen:

Mrs. Geo. W. Apsey
Mrs. Elmer Booth
Mrs. Jesse Buff
Mrs. Russell Davis
Mrs. Joseph A. Dolben
Mrs. Harold F. Meyer
Mrs. Elmer P. Ransdell
Mrs. Arthur Raymond
Mrs. Arthur D. Speed
Mrs. W. S. Wadsworth

The following ladies also roasted turkeys at their homes:

Mrs. Ralph T. Damon
Mrs. Albion L. Danforth
Mrs. Wm. P. DeCamp
Mrs. Edward C. Grant
Mrs. George Hentz
Mrs. Chas. S. Jacobs
Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell
Mrs. John C. Meyer
Mrs. Nathaniel L. Nichols
Mrs. Frank M. Russell
Mrs. Everett Seamman

The waitresses were in charge of Mrs. E. Ober Pride who was Mrs. Alexander's sub-chairman; also Mrs. F. Elmer Booth, Mrs. Clarence W. Russell, Mrs. Percy Bugbee and Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke, assisted by the following young girls from the Winchester High School:

Olive Bourthier	Mary Haley
Mercedes Sipeche	Roberta Healey
Loraine Clement	Anita Wilson
Marguerite Jones	Madeline Little
Natalie Hill	Martha Howlett
Grace Dunne	Jean King
Virginia Smalley	Barbara Franklin
Marjorie Dolben	Barbara Shaw
Barbara Small	Barbara Raymond
Ann Johnston	Evelyn Anderson

During the afternoon, punch and candy was sold by Mrs. Forest L. Pitman assisted by Mrs. Herbert Hills, Mrs. Harris Richardson and Mrs. Donald Boothby.

The tickets were in charge of Mrs. Geo. S. Tompkins assisted by Mrs. Walter H. Balcke and Mrs. E. Adele Emery.

Mrs. Harold F. Meyer, the gracious and capable young president of the Circle was greatly pleased with the social and financial success of the day and deeply grateful to all who helped in any way.

The chairman of the affair, Mrs. Frederick C. Alexander, is a past-president of the Winchester Circle and for years has been vitally interested in the work. Her sweet disposition and lovable and unassuming manner have so endeared her to all her associates that it was a real joy and pleasure to work with her.

WINCHESTER POST BAND AT LEGION PLAY

Former Commander W. Allan Wilde announced last night that the popular Winchester Post Band of 25 pieces will furnish the music for the Legion play, "Journey's End," to be produced under the auspices of Winchester Post, A. L., in the Town Hall on the evenings of Feb. 16 and 17. The band, which has improved greatly this season and is much in demand for concert engagements, is to play a half-hour program preceding the show and will also play between the acts. Appropriate war music will be played by war veterans, adding greatly to the atmosphere of the stage production.

Wednesday evening's alarm from Box 14 was for a fire in the house in process of construction on Swan road, owned by Crawford Goldthwait of 17 Norwood street. Spontaneous combustion was blamed for the blaze which damaged the living room of the house and also did more or less smoke damage throughout the dwelling.

Abraham Lincoln

It has been said of Lincoln that he lived as he did because he was what he was. He possessed not a new attribute, not a new grace, not a new virtue; but the attributes, graces and virtues that are of God and are eternal were combined in him to such a degree that the eloquence which his career has inspired and compelled through nearly half a century has vainly essayed to grasp the weight and measure of his manhood and his mission. "Goodness and intelligence united in him," said Phillips Brooks in April, 1865, "to make the best of wisdom. The more we see of events the less we come to believe in any fate or destiny save the destiny of character." "He was one of God's elect," said Henry Watterson a generation later, "and not in any manner a creature of circumstance or accident." "He was born to save his country and to serve humanity," says one; "Providence designed from the beginning that he should rescue Freedom from the clutches of her enemies," says another. And in chorus all unite in the declaration that greater than any affection that possessed his affectionate nature, greater even than his love of country, was his love of his fellow man.

The life, the career, the name, the memory of Abraham Lincoln stand for more than can be expressed in any tribute that may be paid to him. The forces that fashioned his character, that shaped his course, that mapped out his work; the intelligence that guided him through four darkened years; the power that moved his lips and pen—these were divine, and any eulogy we may offer in his praise, any monument we may erect in his honor, any memorial we may raise in commemoration of his achievements, which does not first of all recognize in his life and career divine purpose and direction will be meaningless and hollow.

In the larger, deeper, truer sense, Abraham Lincoln is not dead. He lives today in the consciousness and in the hearts of his fellow men the world over as surely as do those things for which he stood and we who would do reverence to him will do it best by first doing réverence to the Power which gave him the wisdom and strength and the love to perform his task, by dedicating ourselves to the holy purposes to which he pledged us at Gettysburg, and by emerging from this hallowed anniversary with a determination to face our duties and our responsibilities as he did—

With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right * * * to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

DEDICATE MEMORIAL BIWDOW FOR REV. MURRAY W. DEWART

On Sunday afternoon, Feb. 1 at 3:30 p. m., there was held at the Church of the Epiphany, a service of dedication of the window placed on the north side of the Chancel in memory of Rev. Murray Wilder Dewart, who was Rector of the Parish from 1912 to 1922 and who also served as Chaplain of the 101st Field Artillery, 26th Division, A. E. F. 1917 to 1919. The service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. Truman Heminway, assisted by Rev. William S. Packer and Rev. Smith Dexter. Mr. Packer made the address. Music was furnished by the choir under the able direction of Mr. Enos Field, choirmaster and organist of the church.

As arranged by Rev. John W. Suter, D. D., the windows in the church represent the Spread of the Gospel throughout the World. Those on the North Side contain figures of New Testament Saints; while those on the South Side later Saints of various countries. The Dewart Window has St. Paul as a Central figure, with St. Luke and St. John, the Apocalyptist, on either side. The Figure of St. Paul seems especially appropriate to those who recall Mr. Dewart's preeminence as a preacher. The motto in the St. Paul panel is "Christ is neither Greek nor Jew but Christ is all in all." In the St. Luke panel, "When he was yet a great way off his father saw him." In the St. John panel, "I saw the Holy City, New Jerusalem."

The brass tablet below the window bears the inscription "To the Glory of God and in blessed memory of Murray Wilder Dewart Feb. 14, 1874-Dec. 4, 1927, Rector of this Parish 1912-1922 and Chaplain of the 101st F. A. 26th Division, A. E. F. 1917-1919."

The glass comes from the studio of Kempe & Co., London, England.

WINCHESTER TEACHER-COACH RESIGNS

Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn yesterday confirmed the report that Meldon Wenner, director of physical education in the elementary schools and coach of track and cross country at high school, has resigned to accept a position at Belmont High School.

Mr. Wenner, whose home is in Ilion, N. Y., came to Winchester in the fall of 1928 and has been very successful here, though working under a distinct handicap. In addition to his physical education work with the elementary school boys he has coached the high school track and cross country teams, his harriers having last fall won the Class B interscholastic cross country championship in the meet at the Harvard Stadium. Since the introduction of the two platoon system at high school he has coached the freshman teams, and has come to be quite a hero with the younger boys who will regret to learn that "Mel", as he is known, is to leave town.

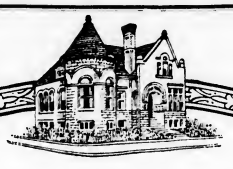

At Belmont he is to teach physical education to high school boys and is to coach track and hockey, acting as assistant to Faculty Director of Athletics "Polly" Harris. His new post is considered a distinct advancement and brings with it a substantial increase in salary. His many friends in Winchester will congratulate him upon his promotion while regretting to see him leave town.

INFORM-U-SERVICE

The market for Real Estate has improved considerably within the past two weeks in the estimation of the Inform-U-Service of Boston. Their new service is rapidly uncovering numbers of buyers who up to recently had been holding back due to general business depression.

Through one of the most recent methods in the selling and buying of real estate, the Inform-U-Service has brought to the owners and buyers a new channel for the disposal of property—a clearing house designed to meet the present and future needs of property holders anxious to sell and property buyers anxious to buy or rent.

The Inform-U-Service has chosen your local paper as one of 55 newspapers representing them throughout New England and this valuable service hopes to aid local property owners to meet a new class of buyers with ready money and a genuine desire to buy. Their offices are located at 18 Tremont street, Boston and people interested are always cordially welcomed.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS

Again we wish to thank the people of Winchester for their generous response to the Red Cross appeal. This time for their help on the Drought Relief. Our quota was $2100 and a check for that amount was sent to National Headquarters last Friday. This morning our treasurer reports $500 over that amount making the total over $2990. We have had no instructions for a second appeal, but the conditions in our southern and western states require us to keep up the good work. Please don't stop thinking and giving. Those of you who have delayed in sending your contribution, send it now—let's go far over our allotted quota.

Mr. Priest at the Winchester Savings Bank is our treasurer. Make checks payable to Red Cross Drought Relief Fund.

Mrs. Bowen Tufts,
Chairman

Mrs. Mary Wadsworth of this town was host to the Girls' Scout Commissioners at luncheon in the Junior Country Club, Woburn, last Thursday evening.

THE GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOR

The speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Robert Swickorath, S.J., Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Weston College. His address was on "The Era of the Child." This was a most timely subject for mothers and those interested in the education of the child. The Guild was most fortunate to have such an able and interesting speaker.

The musical program was also excellent and was given by Mischa Tulin a graduate of the Conservatory of Music of Petrograd and a pupil of Busoni.

Mr. Tulin is a brilliant pianist and a composer of several pieces and in 1926 received the first prize for a musical composition from the Musical Society of America.

Mrs. Frederick L. Robertie, a very fine reader entertained us with several humorous selections.

Refreshments followed.

Some of the Winchester members seen at the meeting were Mrs. William Hickey, Mrs. Richard Sheehy, Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, Mrs. Chauncey Shaw, Jr., Mrs. Frank Horrie, Mrs. Arthur Loftus, Mrs. C. H. Dolan, Mrs. Theodore Dissel, Mrs. J. Edward Downes, Mrs. James Day.

MISS EMMA TROWAN

While spending the week-end with friends in Medford, Miss Emma Trowan of 12 Dix street, was stricken suddenly ill and died last Friday morning at 14 Lakeview avenue in that city.

Miss Trowan had lived in Winchester for more than 20 years, coming here from Charlottetown, P. E. I., to make her home on Mystic avenue with her uncle, the late Thomas Morris. Following the latter's death, she continued to make her home in the Morris homestead with Mr. Morris' sister-in-law, Miss Anne Dodd, Winchester's oldest resident, who died Mar. 25, 1930 at the age of 106.

Miss Trowan was the daughter of William, and Jane (Morris) Trowan, and was born 76 years ago in Charlottetown, P. E. I. Her early life was spent in her native town, which she visited during the past summer, returning to Winchester during the Christmas season. She had many friends in town, having been active in the work of the Methodist Church and of the W. C. T. U. There are no immediate survivors.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church with the Pastor, Rev. J. West Thompson, officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

FINE CAR FEATURES IN NEW ESSEX SUPER SIX

Invading a new lower price field the new Essex Super Six brings to this field such fine car features as the four pinion differential. Two or three pinion gear differentials are conventional even in the higher priced cars. Such quality construction is typical of the 1931 Super Six.

WINCHESTER DEFEATED WOBURN

Big Crowd Witnessed Basketball Game Between Old Rivals

Woburn is playing its first year of interscholastic basketball this season, and the game its relatively inexperienced club put up against Winchester was a credit to the Orange and Black. All the Woburn players were by no means novices, and in the general the Tanners seemed to know what it was all about. Failure to make the most of their shots from free tries cost the Woburn boys the game.

Winchester, playing its third game in four days, faded badly toward the end of last Saturday's contest. The locals were very leg weary from running up and down the Woburn gym which is one of the longest on which the boys have played.

Starting the game Winchester forged to the front and at the half were on the long end of an 11—4 score. Following half time the locals began to slow up and during the last two periods scored only 3 points, on a field goal by DiMinico and a foul shot by "Kenny" West.

Woburn meanwhile was showing to better advantage as the Winchester boys tired, and with Callahan and Genaris showing some good sharp shooting crawled up on the locals.

"Stutz" DiMinico was Winchester's star, though the defensive game of Landblad and West was noteworthy. Not a single floor goal was scored by a Woburn forward.

During the first half of the game Landblad, who seems to be Winchester's hard luck athlete, sustained a painful crack on the knee which for a time threatened to remove him from competition. Oscar, however, kicked out the kink and was able to continue.

Between the halves of the first team game the Woburn seconds gave the Winchester seconds their second defeat of the season, 13—8. The local seconds were away off form and never did get going.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

There will be an Exhibition of Photographs loaned by the Library Art Club Jan. 31 to Feb. 21 at the Winchester Public Library on "The Crusades." Illustrated by Gustave Dore.

"Crusades, the name for a series of expeditions during the 11th to the 15th centuries, for the purpose of rescuing the Holy Land from infidels and extending the territory of Christianity." Their history combines sublimest virtue with the disorders of the wildest passions; untold gallantry, sacrifice and suffering, mingled with discord and treason, which involved the loss of 6,000,000 lives. The accompanying text is from the history by Joseph Francois Michaud. The artist, born in 1823, was eminent as an historical painter and illustrator of books.

Superintendent of Streets Parker Holbrook was very much on the job during the snow storm of the past week-end, and putting every applicant to work with his regular crews kept well ahead of the storm so that by mid-afternoon Saturday the town was in fine shape.

CALUMET NOTES

The Calumet Club's annual athletic night attracted a good sized crowd, including many guests, to the clubhouse last Saturday evening.

Boxing and wrestling were on the card, and the competition ranged all the way from novice amateur and comedy bouts to high class professional exhibitions. "Freddie" Moran former champion pugilist, handled the boxing bouts and the wrestling was refereed by the capable Ralph Dixon of Woburn. W. Allan Wilde, acted as announcer, having had much experience in a similar capacity at Legion shows, and the timer was Harry Pilkington, who is said to be quite a bowler.

In the first of the boxing exhibitions Gordon Faulkner of Somerville left handed his way to a decision over John Lynch of Arlington. Two colored boys put on the next exhibition, a real comedy bout between a giant and a pigmy, with the latter winning the award when the referee held the towering gladiator while his sawed-off opponent belted him about the midriff.

Two local pin boys, "Whitey" Joyce and "Jackie" Callahan mixed it in the third bout with the gloves, and found that three minute rounds were a bit too long. Both boys were too tired to do each other a lot of damage after a couple of minutes and the bout was declared a draw.

"Paddy" Mack of Philadelphia and Stuart Spears of Hyde Park went on for the first of the money wrestling bouts and as was expected by those who have seen these boys before, gave the crowd plenty of action. Both displayed much cleverness, but Mack appeared to carry a bit too much weight for Spears, and finally won with a body scissors after 25 minutes and 50 seconds of rough grappling. The crowd seemed to think that the chunky "Paddy" carried his roughing a bit too far, and booed him as he left the ring, giving Spears a great hand.

Two more club pin boys, George Rogers and "Swede" Swanson staged the second wrestling bout and Rogers tried to finish things at once with a flying tackle. Swanson took it backing away and after four minutes of tugging and hauling pinned Rogers' shoulders to the mat, aided almost as much by his opponents' lack of the knowledge of the game as by his own efforts.

The McCormack brothers, "Richie" and Henry, went on for the next bout and though the first named is mascot of the local Legion Post, he was unable to cope with his big brother and after a wild scramble around the ring was finally downed by "Pollock" with what might be called a "combination" hold.

The main bout turned out to be just about the best heavyweight exhibition ever staged in Winchester. Lee Wyckoff, who recently lost a tough match to Somerberg when he was disabled in a fall from the ring, was in the cards to win handily from "Tony" Rocco, a 200-pounder from New York. Wyckoff won, but it was only after 16 minutes and 50 seconds of rugged grappling. Rocco, a veteran, knew every trick of the game and tested the powerful and smooth working St. Louis football star to the limit.

Wyckoff wrestled on the defensive for some minutes at the start of the bout, but soon found that he couldn't afford to give his husky opponent too much leeway, and went after Rocco in real earnest. Both boys were clean but rough enough, and the advantage see-sawed back and forth until Wyckoff succeeded in getting Rocco with an inside crotch. Following his advantage with a body lift and slam, the big ex-football star knocked Rocco cold when the latter's head collided violently with the canvas.

Rocco was dazed, but game, and staggering to his feet, lunged at the referee several times, not knowing that things were all over. It was not until just before he left the club about midnight that he recovered from the effects of the fall. Wyckoff was loud in his praise of Rocco, and admitted that he had been extended to the limit to win.

Calumet took 10 of the 15 points in the Mystic Valley games with Medford on Monday night. The teams will meet the Kernwood Club of Malden next Monday at the home club.

A smoker is to be held at the Club next week Saturday evening, Feb. 14.

On Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 17, there is to be an afternoon bridge party at the club for the ladies. A large attendance is anticipated. The play will begin at 2:30.

WINCHESTER WON FROM BELMONT

Winchester High defeated Belmont High in a Middlesex League basketball game at Belmont last Friday evening, 30—14. Coach Mansfield's boys outplayed their opponents throughout, and with the Woburn game coming the next night, the local mentor sent many of his second stringers into the fray to give his varsity a breathing spell.

Winchester led at the half, 16—5, and might have run its score to higher figures after the intermission if the first team had remained in action longer. Manassian of Belmont and Capt. "Kingfish" Smith of Winchester divided the scoring honors, each tallying eight points.

Police Headquarters was notified about 5:15 last Saturday afternoon that boys had broken a pane of glass in the door at the store of Antonio Cefalo's store at 360 Washington street. Patrolman James E. Farrell was sent to investigate and found that one of three boys who were fooling outside the store had been pushed through the glass. The policeman rounded up the boys who were obliged to make good the damage.

PLENTY OF TIME

With the Winchester grade crossing standing seventh on the list of abolitions and an estimated cost of about seven and a half million dollars needed for the elimination of the first six, it looks as though there will be plenty of time yet for that fatal catastrophe so long predicted—to say nothing of the numerous and time-trying delays to traffic and business.

THE SITE DELUX

The defeat of the proposed Junior High School at Tuesday's referendum appears based upon the site. At least this point seems to have been the bone of contention, since the only alternate proposal concerns altering the present High School into a Junior High building. Be that as it may, there is, as has been mentioned by a numerous group, a most suitable and desirable site at the north end of the Black Ball Pond development. Proponents of this location cite as advantages the abundance of open land for playground space, the accessibility, the opportunity of development, the advantage of the open water which would face the structure and above all its point of vantage in marking a northern boundary to the Town's beautiful and attractive civic center. The site is thus not without its good points. As the next move in school development and educational advancement may be looked for from the minority group opposing the Main Street Junior High, this location may be submitted for what it is worth, and might be well worth considering from a viewpoint of compromise now that the problem may be viewed with more light and less heat by those who have children and pay no taxes and those who have no children and pay taxes.

A LOST CHILD OR A CHILD LOST

To the Editor of the Star:

In this, our most recent referendum on the new school site question, doesn't the result seem to indicate that the interests of the child were of secondary importance. Hasn't this prolonged controversy reduced him to the position of victim?

So many extraneous considerations have entered into this matter that the obviously urgent and recognized need of additional school accommodations, particularly in view of the double sessions in the high school going on, seems lost sight of.

It may be of interest to some, who feared an unwarranted increase in our tax rate, to learn that Arlington and Medford, our sister towns, each have a tax rate of $30 against our Winchester tax rate of $24; and, except in occasional instances, I do not find our assessed valuations unduly high.

As the school itself, and its amount of cost has already been voted on, the cost of the site for it is of very small moment,—so far as relative cost is concerned. While the school, etc. would approximately increase our taxes about 21 cents, the difference in cost saved between any of the sites considered would probably be less than two cents on our tax rate.

There are no 100 per cent propositions in anything. I believe in trying to keep one's eye on the ball however, and not try to know what it's all about! I didn't like the way some of my friends voted and those same friends probably didn't like the way I voted. However, can't we all be willing to get together at the annual Town Meeting in March and compromise on something that will prove, not as in the past a temporary resting place for the "lotless" school, but a site for immediate building activity. This will gain for the object of all this controversy, the child, what we started out to do, the best educational advantages under normal conditions of study.

Winchester has been justly famed for her fine civic spirit. Isn't it up to us to help maintain that fair reputation? Perfection being an ideal only, I will sign myself a 99.9 10 Winchesterite.

Helen I. Fessenden

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday next the members of the club are to enjoy an unusually interesting and stimulating program. Sunder Joshi, a member of a family of education and culture, is himself widely educated and traveled, having studied and taken degrees at Bombay, Oxford, London, Besancon and Harvard. He will be able to bring to us a vivid and accurate picture of his country. Mrs. Idabelle Winship will sing a group of three songs in costume: "The Song of India" by Rimsky-Korsakov, and two songs by Carnenter of which the words were written by the great poet of India, Tagore. Mrs. Winship will be accompanied by Mrs. Vivian B. Whitcomb. It is interesting to know that the costume will be absolutely correct according to tradition. The Music Committee appreciates deeply Mrs. Winshin's offer to sing and her willingness to prepare songs so perfectly in keeping with the program of the afternoon.

It is very important that all members of the Glee Club be present at the rehearsal on Tuesday, Feb. 10.

afternoon for the benefit of the Fortnightly. Tea will be served. Let us show the appreciation of the club for this offer by a busy afternoon.

The Literature Committee chose for study and discussion on Monday, Feb. 2, "The Testament of Beauty" and its famous author, Robert Bridges. Miss Amy S. Bridgman, in charge of the program, charmingly introduced the author by calling attention to a collection of photographs, not only of the man himself, but of Oxford, and the surroundings in which most of his life was spent. Mrs. Sta Ward Albro then presented a clear and vivid word picture of this rare aristocrat. Scholar, physician, lover of nature, poet, musician, and philosopher, all were combined in this one individual, who cared not for fame, and never sought popularity. No happier life than his could be pictured, and since his death in April 1930, at the age of 86 years, the English speaking world is beginning to realize what he was, and the legacy he has left to posterity. Miss Alice Shovelton delighted her audience by reading short poems from the earlier collections. These were chosen with insight and discrimination to illustrate Bridges' creed, future poems, bird poems, love verses, the "Sonnet to the United States of America," and "Farewell." Each and everyone was a treasure in itself, charming and uplifting to the spirit, since "he wrote no line below his best."

Miss Bridgman then took up the greatest work of all, "The Testament of Beauty," and with great charity and with fascinating quotations brought out the meaning of each of the four books into which this lenethy poem is divided. The first book shows how man's happiness is in his loving response to the beauty in Nature. In books two and three the poet carries throughout the figure of the human soul as a chariot drawn by two winged horses; the charioteer is Reason who must guide the plunging steeds, Selfhood and Breed, by his own Will as his rein. The poet points out how Nature teacheth man by beauty, ever to reach upward to higher things. In book four, one of the leading thoughts brought out was that Education imposes one's moral nature. The progress of the soul is traced, and the Charioteer reaches his goal at last through the companionship and worship of Christ whose humanity is God's personality. The human spirit through love and beauty souring to where the "Ring of Being" closeth in the vision of God.

Mrs. Swanson led the discussion and closed the meeting by reading Bridges' lovely lines called "Sunset."

Miss Margaret Newman is now spending a few weeks in Philadelphia visiting friends.

GRADE CROSSING REMOVALS REPORTED

Winchester Elimination Seventh in Thirty-two

The Public Utilities Commission reported on the order of the 32 selected grade crossings which will hold hearings and determine the method of abolition.

Under the commission's order which was sent to the Department of Public Works, crossings in Essex, Middlesex and Norfolk Counties will be abolished first.

The railroad's counsel contended that under the Grade Crossing Abolition Act, the commission was not required to limit its consideration to the crossings submitted by the Public Works Department. Chairman Henry C. Atwill of the commission differed with the attorneys on this point and the department's order discloses that his opinion was followed.

Hearings on the entire 32 crossings were held by the Utilities Commission in September and October.

Under the act the cost is apportioned in this manner: Fifty per cent by the railroads; cooperation of not more than 10 per cent of the cost or less than 5 per cent. It is further provided that if less than 10 per cent of such total cost is assessed upon the city or town, the difference between the amount so assessed and the 10 per cent shall be assessed upon the county in which the crossing exists.

The number of crossings thus to be abolished will be determined by the appropriation provided by Governor Ely.

The order of the entire list of crossings reported is as follows

No.	City or Town	Name of Crossing	County	Rail. Corp.	Est. Cost
1	Newbury	State street	Essex	B. & M.	$ 150,000
2	Littleton	*New state road	Middlesex	B. & M.	150,000
3	Waltham	†Beaver brook, Main st.	Middlesex	B. & M.	500,000
4	Framingham	At South Framingham	Middlesex	New Haven	6,500,000
6	Lincoln	*Great road	Middlesex	B. & M.	150,000
7	Winchester	*Main and Church sts.	Middlesex	B. & M.	3,000,000

WINCHESTER PEOPLE HEAR RED CROSS TALK BY NATIONAL SECRETARY MABEL BOARDMAN

Miss Mabel Boardman, national secretary of the American Red Cross, spoke to about 40 men and women at a luncheon given at the Winchester Country Club on Wednesday, Feb. 4.

The speaker, whose whole life has been dedicated to Red Cross work, made it very clear why the bill at Washington to appropriate $25,000,000 to be expended by the American Red Cross has met with the approval of the officials of that organization. The Red Cross always has been, and wishes to continue to be, a voluntary organization. It does not desire at any time to be drawn into politics.

The bill to which the President of the United States and the officials of the Red Cross are opposed provides that the $25,000,000 to be expended anywhere within the United States on persons otherwise unable to procure relief. Funds are now being raised by 2600 community chests and by local chapters, and for the American Red Cross to undertake the administration of the $25,000,000 relief fund would cause embarrassment to all the agencies now operating.

The Red Cross work in the drought area is now progressing satisfactorily. Over 751,000 persons in 20 odd States have been helped to date. Funds contributed recently have been used without delay. For instance, on Jan. 1 25,000 persons were being fed and cared for, and on Feb. 1 the number had jumped to 750 411. During the same length of time volunteer workers had increased from 10,000 to 34,000.

In Kentucky the relief workers found families living like wild animals in cliffs, sleeping on leaves, their only food being roots which they had dug in the woods. They had sold everything they owned, even their beds, for a few pennies with which to buy food. In one lonely cabin a child was found with both parents dead and with no food or fire in the place.

In some places in the drought area many families were found in which the smaller children were completely destitute of clothing, while the older ones were clad only in rags roughly sewn together. Other families of eight or 10 persons were without beds and huddled together with only sacking for covers.

One man in Kentucky walked 27 miles to a Red Cross station. His horse had starved to death. He said he had not come for himself, but because he had seven children whom he could not face again unless he brought with him some food.

Miss Boardman also gave her hearers a very interesting account of her visits to Red Cross chapters in Italy, France Spain and England. She found that although Red Cross members over there do not contribute as much money to the organization as do Americans, they do give much more of their time. Even among the nobility she found women spending weeks of their time in hospital training.

Most of those countries are much behind the United States in equipment. At Naples Miss Boardman found that the only ambulance in the city was a Red Cross ambulance given by America during the war.

Although Winchester in the present emergency has "gone over the top" the Red Cross can use every additional dollar that may be contributed to relieve the almost indescribable suffering of hundreds of thousands of men, women, and children in the drought area.

QUICK ACTION BY CHIEF ROGERS

Little More Than Hour Needed to Lock Up Young Men Wanted for Assault

Only a few minutes more than an hour were needed by Police Chief William H. Rogers in locating and locking up two young men, who it is alleged assaulted two girls who were found in a hysterical condition in Somerville Wednesday morning.

Chief Rogers was notified by Chief Damery of the Somerville Police that the girls had been found and that they said they had met two young men in Boston and had been taken in a Ford sedan to a building north of Boston, where they were assaulted and then taken to West Somerville and thrown from the machine.

The girls, whose names are withheld, by the police, were brought to Winchester by Sergeant Inspector Daniel O'Connell of the Somerville Police and a police matron. They had heard the word Winchester mentioned by the young men and were able to give an incomplete description of their assailants.

Chief Rogers conferred with Police Chief McCauley of Woburn and following the conference the girls were taken in an automobile by Chief Rogers, Sergeant O'Connell, Chief McCauley and Officer Alonzo O'Brien of the Woburn Police to an old tannery just over the Winchester line in Woburn near the Cross street station of the Boston & Maine Railroad, Chief Rogers believing that the assault might have taken place there.

As the machines entered the yard of the tannery, a young man, upon seeing the girls, started to run away from the building. A shot from the revolver of Sergeant O'Connell stopped him and he was taken into custody. He was identified by the girls as one of their assailants.

From the tannery, Chief Rogers and his associates returned to Winchester where in the North End they arrested another young man who was also identified by the girls. The latter also identified the tannery as the building in which the assault took place.

The young men were taken to Headquarters at Winchester and locked up. They gave their names as John J. O'Donnell and Henry J. McCue, both of Woburn.

In the District Court at Woburn yesterday morning the young men were held in bonds of $5000 for hearing Monday and in lieu of bonds were locked up at East Cambridge.

The girls were taken into custody by the Somerville Police on the charge of drunkenness.

MYSTIC VALLEY LODGE TO SPONSOR UNUSUAL PLAY

Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., at their meeting on Thursday, Feb. 12 are to have a very unusual play presented by the Masonic Players from Simon W. Robinson Lodge of Lexington. It will be of great interest to all Masons as it shows Masonry as it was 200 years ago.

For the first time in this part of the country "An Eighteenth Century Lodge" as held at the Thatched House Tavern in London in 1723 will be given by a very able cast. It was written by Bro. Joseph Macrombo, editor of the Masonic World published in San Francisco. Brother Morcombe is one of the ablest Masonic writers and this play is the result of years of research and study on his part to insure its historical accuracy.

It shows a Lodge at work in 1723—the gathering of the Lodge, examination of a visiting brother, the conferring of the degree, reception of the visiting Deputy Grand Master and a most interesting description of the Lodge at refreshment.

The capacity of the hall at the apartments is quite limited owing to the large number in the cast and to the amount of space taken up in the work. It is therefore necessary that admission be entirely by ticket, and that all should be qualified. The tickets may be secured by application to the Secretary.

The Masonic Players have been so successful with this play under the direction of Bro. Lucius Fairchild that they have had to decline a great many requests for tickets and have already had many invitations to repeat their performance in other Lodges.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The regular meeting for February will be held next Thursday evening. A plan will be completed for a party in aid of St. Mary's Parish fund.

Edgar A. Guest Says:

A little house with laughter in it,
A singing kettle and a fire,
A tree where nests the summer linnet,
What more can any man desire?

One of the finest things we enjoy in life is a real home.

If you live all your life in a rented house, a house that you can't call your own, you have been cheated of one of life's greatest joys.

That real home, a home you own yourself, is not so hard to attain. Our plan helps you to buy a home and live in it while you pay for it by monthly installments, like rent.

Come in and let us explain our Co-operative Bank Ownership Plan.

WINCHESTER WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held at Association Hall, Wednesday, Feb. 4 at 2:30 p. m. Our president, Mrs. Louis K. Snyder presided at the meeting which opened with the salute to the flag followed by a short business meeting. Our membership chairman Mrs. Scales reported six new members and Mrs. Dabney, our chairman of education gave a short talk on new bills about to be introduced at the State House.

Mr. Ernest Johnson, soloist of the afternoon and a pupil of Roland Hayes opened the program with the song "Three Cheers For the Red White and Blue." He followed this with a delightful group of songs. Mrs. Snyder then explained how our own club women in costume, each representing a famous woman of American history were candidates for office in a State Election. The candidates were as follows: Mrs. Willard Bradley as Clara Barton; Mrs. Harold Smith as Harriet Beecher Stowe; Mrs. Jesse Wilson as Dolly Madison; Mrs. Beatrice Thompson as Betsy Ross; Mrs. Joseph Fessenden as Julia Ward Howe; Mrs. Kingman Cass as Molly Pitcher; Mrs. W. Holbrook L. well as Maude Howe Elliot; Mrs. Mabel Nichols as Alice Freeman Palmer. Each person read a synopsis of their life showing how well qualified they were to be voted for office. After the speeches ballots were passed out and votes were cast as in a primary election. This showed the importance of choosing the right person in a primary election as it was not easy to choose between some of the candidates, each of which were interesting and appealing. Mr. Johnson gave another group of songs including negro spirituals which were greatly enjoyed.

Tea and a social hour followed the meeting.

Augustine Smith.

WINTON CLUB SHOW

"Mother Goose Up-to-Date" at the Town Hall Last Friday

The annual Winton Club Cabaret, this year entitled "Mother Goose Up-to-Date" attracted more than 600 of Winchester's social set to the Town Hall last Friday evening. The entire floor of the large and small hall was given over to tables and dancing space, and there were many onlookers in both balconies.

Colorful decorations in humorous travesty on the old familiar Mother Goose Rhymes were displayed about the hall while the bright hues of the pajamas worn by the flower and cigarette girls and the red shirts of the ushers added a note of gaiety.

The entertainment program was practically continuous, an ingenious arrangement of drop curtains, made by the Winton Club members, permitting one act to make ready for appearance while another act was on. Particularly handsome were the big red drop curtain splashed with stars, the green drop for the Miss Muffet number and the deep blue curtain with the orchid striped awning for the finale.

Mr. Langdon Matthews was in charge of the entertainment program and music, both for the show and dancing was furnished by the Marion Chase Players. Proceeds of the evening are to go to the Winchester Hospital, with which the Winton Club has been identified since its organization in 1911.

Following is the complete program:

EARLY MORNING FIRE DAMAGED WINCHESTER MINISTER'S HOME

Little Suzanne Reed, 11 year old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George Hale Reed, was on Wednesday the heroine of a fire which but for her quick action might have resulted in heavy damage to the Reed home at 8 Ridgefield road or even threatened the safety of the family and servants.

Suzanne was awakened shortly before 6:30 in the morning by the smell of smoke. She quickly aroused her parents and Mr. Reed, who is the Minister of the Unitarian Church, went to investigate.

Arriving at the kitchen he found a fire had started behind the range and was rapidly eating its way between the walls up to the second floor of the house.

Fire Headquarters was notified by telephone and Box 27 sounded at 6:38 a. m. Upon arrival at the Reed home Chief DeCourcy ordered a second alarm at 6:40.

The fire worked up through the part tion from the kitchen and men ran med along the second floor to break out in one of the chambers. The firemen made an excellent stop confining the fire to this room and the kitchen. The men were obliged to pull down some plaster and tear up the floor boards in the chamber, and there was considerable smoke damage. The damage from water was, however, slight, and Mr. Reed and his family were more than pleased with the work of the firemen. Quite a crowd was attracted by the fire and traffic was handled by Serget John H. Noonan of the Police Department with Patrolmen Daniel Kelley, Archie O'Connell, Joseph Derra and Special Officer Walter Lord.

Mrs. Everett Ginn is in New York, where she is staying at the Ambassador Hotel.

CHORAL SOCIETY IN OPENING CONCERT OF SECOND SEASON

Large Audience Greeted Singers—George Boynton Assisting Soloist

The Winchester Choral Society, under the direction of J. Albert Wilson, and with Mary L. French, accompanist, sang the first concert of its second season to a large audience in the Town Hall Tuesday evening. George Boynton, tenor, of Boston, was the assisting soloist and incidental soprano solos were sung by Blabelle H. Winship.

The chorus sang "Hail to the Chief" by Prout, the words being those of the famous boat song in Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake;" "The Banner of St. George" by Elgar, "A Shepherd's Song" by Gaul, "As Through the Land at Eve We Went" by Birch, Reinecke's "Evening Hymn," "The Sword of Ferrara" by Bullard for men's voices, an old Irish Folk Song, "The Galway Piper"; and "Great Is Jehovah" by Franz Schubert. Mr. Boynton sang "Ah, Moon of My Delight" from "In a Persian Garden" by Lehmann, Quilter's arrangement of "Over the Mountains," "The Cloths of Heaven" by Dunhill, and "Sail Forth" from "In Memoriam" by Rogers. As encores he sang "The Little White Doorway" by Dodge and "Values" by Vanderpool.

As it sang Tuesday evening, the Society richly fulfilled the promise it gave during its first season of ranking with the best choral groups in New England. The addition of several fine voices to its personnel has made for an even better balance and greatly increased the tonal beauty of the ensemble. The chorus, under Mr. Wilson's painstaking rehearsing, has grown in flexibility while retaining all the precision of attack and release which marked it as out of the ordinary a year ago. The same rich tone which delighted every one last season, a tone shading at will from the most delicate pianissimo to the heaviest forte, was apparent Tuesday evening, and the fidelity to pitch which the chorus maintained in the hot, acoustically poor hall was something to wonder at.

This season's first program proved to be the most exacting task attempted by the Society and few choruses in the second year of their existence would attempt to cope with the difficulties encountered in such numbers as those which the Society sang by Elgar, Reinecke and Gaul. Few men's choruses could match the Society's virile rendering of Bullard's thrilling "Sword of Ferrara" because few choral groups are blessed with such high tenors and low basses as those enrolled in the local ensemble.

The program opened with Prout's stirring "Hail to the Chief," sung in splendid march tempo and with fine attack, and touched a new high peak of excellence in Elgar's "Banner of St. George." This number, telling the mythical story of St. George and the Dragon, taxed the resources of the Society to the utmost, yet found its singers equal to their task. Opening quietly, the score swelled to a dramatic climax as the music depicted the battle of the knight and the dragon, broadening to the heroic epilogue which tells in rich harmony and pulsing rhythm of the reverence in which the Cross of St. George is held by the English people.

Featuring the Society's singing of this great work were the male unison passages which were thrillingly sung and the soprano solos of Mrs. Winship.

Gaul's "A Shepherd's Song" and "As Through the Land" by Birch were sung unaccompanied and were in sharp contrast, the first being tunefully lively while the second had a quiet serenity which was very lovely as the Society sang it. Both presented difficult problems for the singers and both were splendidly sung.

The audience was much impressed with the singing of Reinecke's "Evening Hymn," in which the chorus was assisted by Mr. Boynton. The brooding sweetness and stately grandeur of the score were brought out in all their beauty, Mr. Boynton's lovely tenor blending with the chorus to produce a truly fine effect. In this selection as in the number by Gaul the Society's fine women's chorus was displayed to good advantage and a repeat had to be sung.

Encores were demanded after the men's virile singing of Bullard's "Sword of Ferrara" and following the little Irish tune, "The Galway Piper." Both were among the most popular numbers in the entire program, the lilting melody and unusual ending of the "Piper" seeming to have an especial appeal for the audience.

Schubert's "Great as Jehovah," with tenor solo by Mr. Boynton, brought the program to a fitting conclusion, and its great climax was powerfully, yet tenderly, sung. Despite the fact that it was the closing number the audience refused to go until an encore was granted.

In general Mr Wilson wisely refrained from taking encores though he might easily have been pardoned if he had yielded to the evident desire of the audience for repeats upon several occasions. He conducted with all his accustomed vigor and authority, never being satisfied with a mere routine reading of his score, and never permitting the chorus to drag. He was warmly applauded as he appeared upon the platform the members of the Society joining with the audience, and he was given an ovation at the conclusion of the concert. Following the singing of the "Banner of St. George" Mr. Wilson graciously called upon the chorus to rise while he joined with the audience in the applause.

MID-WEEK LENTEN SERVICES

No effort has been spared in planning the series of mid-week Lenten services at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church which will begin next Wednesday evening at 7:45. Realizing the universal interest in what peoples in other parts of the world are thinking and doing, various men who have been abroad during the past summer have been invited to address these services on their impressions of what they saw and learned of the political and religious conditions abroad. The series will be of great value and interest as the list will show.

The first address will be given by the Rev. James L. Cairns, of Allston, who will speak on France. Dr. Cairns has lived much in France and is familiar with the French mind and life. Then will follow Dr. George L. Paine, Secretary of the Boston Federation of Churches, who will lecture on "Six Thousand Miles Through Soviet Russia." Dr. Clarence E. Ordway will speak on Germany, showing motion pictures taken by himself; Dr. William R. Leslie, of Brookline, will speak on the Orient, particularly China; Rev. G. Edward Allen, who has lived for many years in Latin countries, will speak on Spain; Rev. Lynn J. Radelige, of Somerville, will speak on Italy and Mussolini. His address will be illustrated by pictures taken by himself. An interesting musical program will be a part of each service. The public is invited to attend.

W. F. SMART RETIRES

56 Years With R. Hoe & Co. and 43 in Winchester

Mr. W. F. Smart of Dix street, for 43 years a resident of this town and widely known to a majority of its citizens, retired from business Feb. 1 and severed his connections with R. Hoe & Co., the well known firm of printing press manufacturers. He was the eldest printing press salesman in the world and had been with R. Hoe & Co. for 56 years, serving as New England manager for 45 years. He observed his 80th birthday Jan. 13. Mr. Smart has received many congratulatory letters from prominent newspapers and people, and in its last bulletin the Hoe Company prints the following:

"After 55 years of service to this Company, most of which has been as New England manager, Mr. W. F. Smart having reached the age of 80 years, will retire on Feb. 1.

"The Company's executives have nothing but admiration for the many years of faithful and efficient service rendered by Mr. Smart and while they regret that his age and ill health made his retirement necessary, they feel that he is more than entitled to freedom from responsibility and work for the balance of his life which it is hoped will be long and happy."

METCALF UNION MEMBERS ATTENDED PLAY

Fifteen members of the Metcalf Union and their guests attended the annual Young People's Religious Union play last Saturday evening at the Fine Arts Theatre in Boston. This year's production was "The Fourth Wall" by A. A. Milne, and it is of interest that a former member of the Metcalf Union, Miss Carolyn Drisko, Mt. Holyoke '30, daughter of Professor and Mrs. William J. Drisko of Lloyd street, played the leading feminine role. The Metcalf Union members who attended were Margaret Kenerson, Marjorie Kidder, Virginia Smith, Eugenia Smith, Susan Hildreth, Marjorie Dutch, Elizabeth Mead, Octavia Cooper, Harriet Cooper, Louise Williams, Jane Pettingell, Richard Elliott, Andrew Young, Allan Wood and Clifford Mason.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

On next Friday, Feb. 20 at 8:30 p. m. we will hold our next, joint, winter dance at the Calumet Club.

These dances are becoming more and more popular and especially now with the present orchestra. We heard nothing but praise for the music at our January dance and when you are able to satisfy a majority in respect to dance music, you may call yourself lucky.

Several have requested us to run the parties oftener because they enjoyed them so much. But we figure one a month and make it good, is better than two which might not be topnotch.

The price is just a song and these parties are open to all persons who enjoy dancing. Try it out and tell your friends!

"AN EIGHTEENTH CENTURY LODGE"

Masonic Apartments were filled last evening when Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M. sponsored the play, "An Eighteenth Century Lodge" as held at the Thatched House Tavern in London in 1723. The play was produced by the Masonic Players from Simon W. Robinson Lodge of Lexington, and was of absorbing interest, depicting as it did Masonry of 200 years ago. Included were portrayals of a lodge at work in 1723, the gathering of the lodge, examination of a visiting brother, the conferring of the degree, reception of the visiting Deputy Grand Master and an interesting description of the lodge at refreshment.

Miss Mary Gerrior of 41 Oxford street was tendered a shower Tuesday evening in White's Hall in honor of her coming marriage to James Smith, also of Winchester.

WINCHESTER BARITONE IN BROADCAST WEDNESDAY

Winchester music lovers will be interested to learn that on Wednesday evening, commencing at 7:15, Kenneth McLeod, baritone, of this town is to broadcast over Station WEEI with J. Albert Wilson, director of the Winchester Choral Society and Organist and Choirmaster of the First Congregational Church, at the piano.

Both musicians are well known and popular locally, and their association is one of many years standing. While organist and choirmaster at the Church of the Epiphany, Mr. Wilson discovered that an Arlington youngster named McLeod was the possessor of an unusually fine alto voice, and forthwith persuaded him to become a member of his choir.

For several years the Arlington boy was alto soloist at Epiphany, often appearing with his choirmaster at the latter's organ recitals. Under Mr. Wilson's tutelage his voice grew and developed into a fine baritone, particularly adapted for the singing of sacred music.

During Mr. Wilson's years of service at the Epiphany, Mr. McLeod was his featured soloist, singing in oratorio with such artists as Walter Kidder and George Boynton. Since that time he has sung many times in Winchester and elsewhere, never failing to arouse the admiration of his hearers by the beauty of his voice and his pleasing style. He is at present singing at the First Congregational Church where Mr. Wilson is choirmaster. His many friends will welcome the opportunity to hear him on the air next Wednesday and will be glad to know that he will have his old teacher assisting him at the piano.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE JUNIOR HIGH

To be Discussed by Prof. Alexander Hamilton Rice of Boston University

Friday evening, Feb. 20, in Fortnightly Hall at 8 p. m., Winchester citizens who have had abundant opportunity to hear discussions favoring the Junior High theories are to have the privilege of listening to a prominent educator who will tell us about some of the weak spots in the system. Professor Rice's discussion is able and direct and should prove a distinct service to all who are sincerely looking for the light. All interested citizens are welcome.

Admission free.

PAMPHLET APPEARED AS HIS

Dr. Gale Denies Knowledge or Sponsoring the School Circular

Mountain Lake Club,
Lake Wales, Fla.

To the Editor of the Star:

On leaving for a short trip to Florida, before the voting on the High School problem, I was approached with the question: "Did I consider the Main street solution as the best thing for Winchester." I replied, "I did not." Then I was asked if I would sign a protest against it.

I acced to do that.

I now find that a pamphlet, (I do not object to the pamphlet as a whole) was circulated through the town, with only a half dozen or so names attached to it, and mine at the head, so as to appear as if it were mine.

I did not write the pamphlet, nor send it out or know it was to be sent out.

I realize the conditions in the schools today and know that something must be done, but I believe an addition to the present High School is the best for the whole of Winchester.

The present organization will not compromise, so that at least I can attribute some of the failure to achieve any advance in the school problem to them.

Very truly,
H. A. Gale, M. D.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

Two absentees were recorded at the meeting of Feb. 12. This was a joint meeting in connection with the Lions Club of Winchester. We had the pleasure of entertaining 14 members of the Lions Club, besides visitors from Woburn and a large number of guests including several Kiwanians.

It is very gratifying to record so generous response to the call for this meeting. It indicates unmistakably that the service clubs of Winchester and vicinity propose to work hand in hand for the welfare of their communities. The mutual benefit derived from gatherings of this sort is such that we cannot afford to carry on without an occasional union meet. The greater the number of individuals who combine their efforts for the common good, the greater the good accomplished.

Our guest speaker at this meeting was Rev. Father McShane of Salem, and we are indebted to "Pat" Walsh for his services in procuring a man of such marked oratorical ability for our edification.

As this day was the anniversary of Lincoln's birth, Father McShane very appropriately spoke on the subject of "Liberty." He extolled the pursuit of personal liberty as the main cause for the wonderful development of the United States of America in contrast to the disorder, anarchy and chaos which has befallen all nations, ancient and modern, who have ruled by the suppression of that instinct of freedom which is the birthright of every man. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were eulogized as the outstanding individuals who made personal liberty possible for citizens of our nation.

Father McShane's address carried a powerful appeal and not for a moment did his listeners' attention wander. It was indeed welcome as furnishing much valuable thought for carrying on the work of our service clubs.

Next week we are to be guests of the Rotary Club of Melrose. We want the fullest possible attendance, so make your plans to go, without delay. Members who will give the use of their cars and members requiring transportation facilities should notify the Secretary immediately. Road directions will be furnished to those not familiar with them.

Destination: Oak Manor, 21 East Foster street, Melrose, Thursday, Feb. 19, 12:30 p. m.

Attendance percentage for Feb. 5—96.29 per cent.

MISS NIEDRINGHAUS APPOINTED

Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn announced last night that on Monday evening the School Committee appointed Miss Helen R. Niedringhaus of Winchester to fill the vacancy existing in the School Department since the resignation of Mrs. Donald Trenholm, the former Lucille Skilling, from the Department of Physical Education.

Miss Niedringhaus has been appointed for the remainder of the school year and will teach Physical Education in the elementary schools and also to the girls of the Wadleigh School. She has had much experience in this field, having taught for some years in El Paso, Texas, in Clayton, Mo., and elsewhere. She is a graduate of Sargent School and has studied at University of Michigan and at Boston University. She makes her home in Winchester with her aunt, Mrs. W. I. Palmer of McCall road.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has issued permits for week ending Thursday, Feb. 12 as follows:

Winchester Co-operative Bank—new bank building at 3 Vine street.

Rev. G. H. Reed, Winchester—to repair present dwelling at 8 Ridgefield road after fire.

Chief of Police William H. Rogers and Patrolman John Hanlon spent Sunday and Monday locating a man wanted in Winchester for a serious offense. The man was traced to Waterbury, Conn., where he was taken into custody by Chief Rogers. The authorities arrived back in Winchester with their prisoner Monday evening.

HEARING HELD ON PROPOSED UNIFORM LIMITED TOWN MEETING ACT

Winchester was represented at the hearing, held Wednesday in the State House, by the Legislative Committee on Towns, upon the proposed uniform limited town meeting act which the commission, provided for by Legislative resolve last year, has recommended for adoption by the Legislature.

Some 17 towns are now operating under limited town meeting government, and if the Legislature adopts the proposed uniform act, they can, if they so desire, accept its provisions. Towns adopting the limited form in the future will function under its provisions, if it should become a law.

The Commission, in recommending the adoption of the uniform act, arrived at its conclusions after a close study of the way in which the limited town meeting is working out in various towns which have adopted it, a hearing having been held in Winchester during the fall.

Those at Wednesday's hearing in favor of adopting the proposed uniform act included Theodore N. Waddell, State Director of Finance; Town Counsel Addison R. Pike and representatives of Arlington and Wellesley.

Several residents of Winchester voiced opposition to the proposed act, being especially concerned with the sections referring to the referendum clause. In general, under the proposed act, the necessity for securing a two-thirds vote on referendums dealing with bond issues will be done away with. If the limited Town Meeting members secure the necessary two-thirds vote required for a bond issue, it will be necessary on referendum for those in opposition to the appropriation to secure a majority of the votes cast to over ride the action of the delegates. Among those from Winchester who appeared in opposition to any change in the referendum clause were Whitfield L. Tuck, Thomas M. Vinson, Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, Mrs. A. F. Woodside, Mrs. L. K. Snyder, George M. Bryne and Jonas A. Laraway. Mr. Tuck opposed the entire act. The hearing was crowded and several times the presiding officer was obliged to remind those opposing the referendum clause of the uniform Town Meeting Act that the Legislative Committee was not interested at all in any phase of the school situation in Winchester.

UNIQUE VESPER

The Seven O'Clock Vesper held last Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church proved to be one of the most popular of the series of vespers ever conducted in Winchester. In spite of the stormy weather, the church was crowded before the hour of the service actually arrived, so eager were friends to hear both Virginia Warren, soprano, and Harry Whittemore, organist.

The interior of the church presented the warm glow of hospitality in contrast to the wintry storm without. Massive palms banked the chancel in living green, and with the vari-colored flowers, suggested a graceful garden surrounded by old ivory walls. This prepared a fitting background for Miss Warren, who was attired in a gown of brown which effectively harmonized with the simplicity and beauty of the service.

Throughout, the service was marked by a deep reverence of quiet worship in which the large congregation heartily participated. Special interest, of course, attached to the singing of Virginia Warren, since this was her first appearance in her own town. The outpouring of people was a self-evident tribute to this youthful artist. Her voice carried the charm and freshness of youth in happy combination with the smoothness, brilliance and skill of the well-trained singer. Her numbers were rendered with fine religious feeling, pervaded by sweetness and soul. The congregation was made to feel impressively the truth that "music is a gateway to God."

The organ music sustained the spirit of the service with Harry Whittemore at the console. He individualized the organ, and the instrument responded with richness of tone and freshness of combinations. His accompaniment showed a sensitive appreciation of the singer's emotions.

Altogether, the service conveyed an elevation of spirit long to be remembered.

JOHN HALEY

John Haley, widely known among older residents of the town, died Wednesday, Feb. 11, at the Winchester Hospital, following an illness with pneumonia.

Mr. Haley was nearly 90 years of age, and had made his home in Winchester for more than 60 years. As a young man he was employed by the H. A. Emerson Coal Company, which was succeeded by Blanchard & Kendall and is now the G. W. Blanchard Co. Later he worked as a gardner on estates about town, and finally was for many years an employee of the Highway Department. He had been for some time retired.

The deceased was one of the oldest members of St. Mary's Parish and was a member of its Holy Name Society. He was a widower and is survived by a son, John J. Haley with whom he made his home on Holland street and by a grandson, Arthur Haley, of Winchester.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning from the late residence with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Ella K. Wilson of Wilson street is reported as convalescing from a severe illness.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WELFARE

How to Help

Total unemployment or shortened hours and reduced wages have obliged many Winchester families to omit clothing from the family budget.

Though our appeal for used clothing is constant and there is a daily response by townspeople, it is not enough. Usable warm clothing for school boys and girls is earnestly desired.

THE HEART CRY

One of the most successful plays given in recent years in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church was presented last Friday evening to an audience which taxed the seating capacity of the social hall of the church. "The Heart Cry," a very amusing comedy written by and directed by Mrs. Winifred Bent Nicholas was given by the following cast: Ronald Hatch, Esther Mills, Harold Hatch, Marion Hatch, John Russell and William Russell.

Throughout the play there is here and there a touch of pathos, but the play abounds in droll wit, and the audience was frequently convulsed with laughter.

FREDERICK BREEN

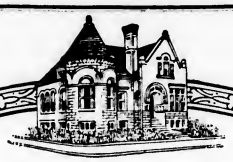

Frederick Breen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Breen of Sylvester avenue died yesterday morning at the Winchester Hospital. The little boy was not quite 2-years old. Six brothers, James, Henry, Thomas, William, Frank and George Breen, survive besides the parents.

THE GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOR

On Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 10, at the Calumet Club, the ladies of the Winchester Chapter of the Guild of the Infant Savior held a bridge tea.

What a contrast to the wintery landscape outside was the large dance hall in the club house. The pretty valentine decorations and cut flowers made the hall look really festive and spring-like. The tallies, score cards, pencils and even the cake and ice cream was of valentine decoration. In the center of the hall on a table was a silver vase holding a bouquet of tulips, acasia, freezia, paper narcissus, jonquils and pussy willows while near the piano was another colorful bouquet of spring flowers.

Mrs. Chevalier, the very active chairman of the sewing circle had a fine exhibition of little garments consisting of dresses, rompers, pinning blankets, lovely caps, bootees, night gowns and many other things that little babies wear. Her daughter, Miss Barbara Chevalier worked a most beautiful romper in baby-blue cross stitch framed with a pretty baby-blue colored frame. The sample was greatly admired by all and Mrs. Morris of Sheffield road is now the proud possessor.

Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, president of the Guild, and also chairman of the ways and means committee, wishes to thank each and every member of her committee for their splendid co-operation in making the party such a big social and financial success. The party certainly showed that a great amount of work and time had been spent to make the party a success even to the smallest detail. Mrs. Ghirardini was very ably assisted by Mrs. Margaret Hintlian who had charge of the tickets. Mrs. Hintlian was also responsible for the fine ice cream, nuts and candy. She also assisted with the table decorations with Miss Barbara Chevalier, Mrs. Castonguay and Miss Mary Lyons. Mrs. Mary Sexton had charge of the bridge, cards and tables, assisted by Mrs. William Hickey. Mrs. Arthur Loftus was in charge of the waitresses, assisted by the following young girls: the Misses Betty Blake, Muriel Carr, Norris Chevalier, Rose Downes, Lillian Day, Katharine Henry, Mary Hickey, Virginia Farrar, Esther Loftus, Mary McGarnagle and Marjorie Poland.

During the afternoon Mrs. C. Shaw, Jr. went from table to table with her wonderful doll. Mrs. Shaw was dressed in costume as a Colonial Dame and her doll also was dressed in the same period. All sorts of wonderful gifts were hidden in the doll's skirt and everybody was delighted to buy a grab. It was very exciting and interesting to see how much the women enjoyed opening their gifts. Mrs. Shaw, Jr. was assisted by Mrs. F. Harris.

Some of the other ladies who contributed tremendously to the success of the party were Mrs. P. O'Rourke who had charge of the cake and was assisted by Mrs. F. Mullin, Miss M. McIsaac and Mrs. J. Felt.

Words of praise were heard from many for the pleasant and friendly atmosphere that pervaded the party.

A Paige sedan, operated by Anna R. Cole of 83 Walnut street, while going south on Main street at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon was in collision at the junction of the Parkway with a Ford coupe, driven by Robert W. Larrabee of 26 Crescent road, who was driving east on the Parkway. The Paige was damaged, but no one was injured.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS

If we were permitted to print a list of names of the people who have contributed to the drought relief fund, Winchester would find it a very interesting bit of reading. There have been very generous checks from some who are sympathetic and have the means to give. There were checks and large ones too from people here in town who I think have not given to Red Cross before. Two men wrote early in the drive and agreed to guarantee its success. Some gave twice because as the stories came in over the radio the needs seemed to be increasing. Classes in Sunday Schools, public schools, children of all ages grouped together and sent savings or earnings. A check yesterday from a Primary Class in the First Congregational Church for $7.09. They voted to send it to children in the drought area through the Red Cross. Then a splendid and very much appreciated check from the DeMolay Commandery through Mr. Ernest Chase. Because many have asked that their names be not made public and because the list is so long, we must take this opportunity to thank each donor very sincerely.

Our quota was $2400 and we have raised $3,486.30. To be able to write to National Headquarters and say, "We are $1,086.30 over our quota" is one of the pleasantest tasks I have had for a long time.

I again thank those who have made this American Red Cross drought relief fund a succes, and I know that the Board of Directors and officers join me in extending the appreciation of the Winchester Chapter.

Mrs. Bowen Tufts,
Chairman

The police received a call at 12:30 Monday afternoon to send an ambulance to the Metropolitan Garage where a lady had been stricken ill. Patrolman Derro responded and the lady was taken to the Winchester Hospital in the machine, driven by John Conkley. Thomas Gainey also assisted Officer Derro. Dr. Richard W. Sheehy treated the lady who was later taken to her home.

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive

Low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation mean a distinct saving to every purchaser

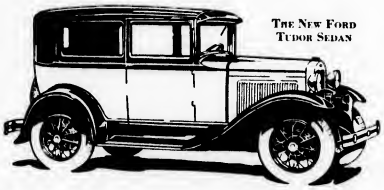

THE NEW FORD is a splendid car to own and drive because of its attractive lines and colors, safety, comfort, speed, reliability and long life.

There are, in addition, three other features of importance to every far-seeing automobile owner . . . low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

During the life of the car, the day-by-day economy of owning a Ford will amount to considerably more than the saving on the first cost. You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

The reasons for this economy are simplicity of design, high quality of materials and care in manufacturing and assembling. Many vital parts are made to limits of one one-thousandth of an inch. Some to three ten-thousandths of an inch. Throughout, the new Ford is an outstanding example of fine craftsmanship in automobile engineering.

The more you see of the new Ford—the more you talk to Ford owners and experienced mechanics—the more certain you become of this fact. . . . It brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday, Feb. 16, the Fortnightly will hold its next regular meeting, one week in advance of its normal schedule. The Music Committee is offering a delightful musical program in which we shall hear our Glee Club in several selections including the Fortnightly Song, composed and written by Miss Bridgman. Our soloist is to be Miss Virginia Warren, daughter of one of our members, who has lately returned from study and concert work abroad. The Fortnightly is happy in the opportunity to hear and welcome Miss Warren. Tea will be served at the close of the program.

Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 18, from 12 till 6 o'clock, members of the club will be at Hutchinson's Market to suggest menus and new "eats" and we hope you will all lay up stores for many days to come. The club appreciates this kind offer on the part of the store management and trusts that its members will support it generously.

The Fortnightly held its regular meeting in the Town Hall on Monday, Feb. 9, with the President, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, in the chair. After the opening exercises, the usual business meeting was held. Among the announcements made, Mrs. Anita McGaragle, chairman of the Art Committee, announced that a fine teacher for needlework and arts and crafts was available if those interested in these subjects would make themselves known to the committee. She also announced that the Chinese luncheon bridge, postponed from Feb. 4, would be held on April 1.

The program of the afternoon was opened by Mrs. Idabelle Winship, who attired in a gay and beautiful Indian costume, sang three songs particularly suited to the subject of the day. They were "The Song of India" by Rimsky-Korsokov and two songs of which the words were by Rabindrinath Tagore and the music by Carpenter. Mrs. Winship also sang "My Lover is a Fisherman" for her enthusiastic audience. After this delightful interlude, Mr. Sunder Joshi, the speaker for the afternoon, delineated, in all too short a time for the subject, the type of India's consciousness. "Too frequently" Mr. Joshi said, "the person dealing with an alien people tried to deal with them having only his own personal reaction to the new situation. In order to be just it is necessary to have a world conception of events and people that shall be true from the universal standpoint as well as from the personal. The three classes of persons having most frequently tried to shape the people of India are the politician, the scholar and the missionary. The latter, by their medical, sanitary, and educational campaigns, have made most headway but find themselves blocked by the resistance of centuries of religious customs. The religion of India has an inward appeal not easily cast off by a race of people of introvert and philosophical tendencies."

Mr. Joshi also said that national consciousness goes in cycles like any phase of life traced over a long period of time. In the middle of the 19th century, when these external agencies were making their strongest appeal to the Indian people, there was in existence a wave of thought in which everything oriental was condemned, while everything occidental was copied, especially in the fields of industry, commerce and military organization. In the early part of the 20th century, this wave began to recede and its withdrawal was hastened by the World War which appeared to deny the power of Christianity. By the announcement of the doctrine of self-delineation and the motive of making the world safe for democracy, the rise of a powerful feeling of nationalism was hastened in which background became more influencial than western example. The chief counts against India in the occidental mind are that the political consciousness is limited to a small minority, that the Indian is fatalistically inclined with small desire to help himself, and that the people are so ignorant that they are not fit to learn to govern themselves. In this last count, in the opinion of Mr. Joshi, lies the trouble of an outside nation trying to govern India. There has been far too much emphasis on the question of military organization and far too little on the subject of education. Any nation long under the domination of another softens and decays and it has become a matter of self-respect and self-esteem to the Indian to move with the times and stand on his own feet.

WINCHESTER TAKES WAKEFIELD

Win Gives Locals Hold on Third Place

Winchester High School went into third place in the Middlesex League standing when its basketball team defeated Wakefield High, 29 to 18, last Friday evening in the high school gymnasium. Between the halves of the first team game, the Wakefield seconds won from the Winchester jayvees, 35 to 17.

It was the fourth straight win for the locals, and Coach Mansfield's boys were clearly superior to the Wakefield club, which is touted to be one of the smartest in the league. The Winchester players covered very closely, and never permitted the Wakefield players to get set, either to pass or shoot.

The game was unusual in that not a single floor goal was made by a forward on either team. DiMinico and Winslow of Wakefield succeeded in shooting foul goals but that was the best the offensive troops could offer. If the backs and centers on both clubs hadn't their eyes on the hoops, the game would have ended in a 1 to 1 tie.

Wakefield did a good defensive job in the main, but couldn't bottle up Oscar Lundblad of Winchester who had a real field night, chucking 7 goals from scrimmage, and 2 from free tries for a total of 16 points. Lee and long "Eddie" Hitchborn were also very much in the game, each shooting 3 floor baskets. Richardson, visiting center, scored 9 points on 4 floor goals and 1 shot from a free try.

SCHOOL REFERENDA

Give and Take May Mean School and Movies

To the Editor of the Star:

The story in figures:

Popular Balloting on Schoolhouse—Main Street Site

	Yes	No	Short of 2/3 Vote
May 2, 1930	2,186	1,288	130
June 12, 1930	2,034	1,094	52
Feb. 3, 1931	2,398	1,504	262

The gist of the matter is that a majority of the voters have consistently favored the Junior High School on Main street site but that the two-thirds proportion necessary for a bond issue has never been obtainable in the referenda.

On the strength of the above figures the school proponents have tried to build up a new theory of government, i.e., the absolute rule of the majority. This astounding doctrine has been set forth in many ways and always to the effect that the one-third minority is in duty bound to support the majority or bear the odium of being moral law breakers. So widespread has this idea become that lately an eminent attorney (earning his own livelihood by guiding his clients in the scrupulous observance of the laws) has declared that the school issue, important as it is, has been subordinated to the greater issue of community rule by majority vote. I quote from the Star of Jan. 30, "It is well that the voters should understand that if the majority cannot conduct the town's affairs, if a minority of barely one third of those voting can block the majority, then there is a breakdown in government." In support of majority rule as a pillar of our democracy he cites the Hayes-Tilden contest of 1876.

Quite true the rule of the majority is one of the pillars of our frame of government. Another one equally important is the protection of the minority. This principle goes back to the Federal Constitution itself. It is found in the first 10 amendments or Bill of Rights, which guaranteed to the people such fundamental rights as free speech, jury trials and protection from cruel punishment. The more vital an issue is to individual welfare, the greater the protection given the minority of those authorized to vote on it. We do not elect a president by a majority vote of the people. The electoral college, voting by States, was created expressly to prevent it. Another instance is the requirement of a three-fourts vote for ratification of a constitutional amendment. The maximum of protection appears in trials by jury where unanimous verdicts are required. It is therefore natural that the law should protect minorities living in towns with a rule compelling a two-thirds vote for the passage of such an important measure as a bond issue.

The burden of responsibility for failure of the enlarged school program accordingly rests no heavier upon the shoulders of the minority than upon those of the majority. Where is the gain in continuing the argument about the rights of a majority which has no standing under the law?

Since a state of deadlock now exists, the way out seems to lie in concessions by both sides. As I see it there are still two ways in which the ideas of the majority may largely be realized: (1) Scrap the present plan and choose a new school site which the minority will support. (2) Sweeten up the Junior-High-School-on-Main-street-site pill enough so that the minority will swallow it.

As to the first, why not consider the Country Day School site? It is a situation free from the handicap of previous bitter controversy and it is apparently well suited to the purpose in hand. In the Star of June 6, 1930, Mr. C. W. Morrill made this favorable statement about it:

"One of the men who was called upon to make a survey of the situation here in Winchester recently told me when I visited the State House that he with another man recommended the Country Day School site. These two men, workers for the State, were not affected by local prejudices. They picked the location which in their judgment was best suited for a junior high school. That is their business. They know more than the amateur. The Country Day School site is considered the best location in Winchester and one of the best in the State."

Despite the rebuffs the Main street Junior High plan has received, possibly it may yet be made acceptable. No other plan has impressed the electorate anywhere near as favorably. At most it has failed to carry by only some 200 votes.

Curiously enough that is the very margin by which the sponsors of a movie theater (commonly regarded a substantial part of the minority) also lost out. An attitude of give and take by the leaders of each side might easily influence enough votes to pass both measures. Either of those alternatives would give the school children adequate facilities and full term instruction and end the long struggle in a spirit of harmony grateful to everyone.

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

Those who laughed till their sides ached at "Caught Short" are expected out in force next week at the Strand Theatre, Malden, to greet the newest M-G-M comedy "Reducing," co-starring those two queens of comedy, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran. "Reducing," as its name indicates, tells a tale of beauty parlors and jokes pleasant fun at those who would lose or gain weight. Marie and Polly gambol through it with even greater facility of laugh-getting than that evidenced in their earlier effort. Anita Page and Wm. Collier, Jr., head the supporting cast.

Realism in depicting gangland and gangsters is the keynote of "The Widow from Chicago" which will be the second attraction. The picture, a First National production with an all star cast including Neil Hamilton, Edward Robinson, and Alice White, is based upon Earl Baldwin's popular story of the same name. "The Widow from Chicago" is a comedy-thriller, but the fun and adventure are blended so perfectly that the result is an excellent example of screen entertainment.

THAT MINORITY PROTECTION

We print this week an able and interesting letter upon the school situation from Mr. Wallace V. Plummer, and while recognizing the points he brings at issue, are still unconvinced by his argument or inclined to change our views in yielding to the wishes of a minority in this case wherein a deadlock seems sustainable to the discomfort of the parents of school children and to the harm of the scholars themselves.

There has been considerable said of late regarding the protection of the minority. Granting that such protection may be necessary, we still fail to understand why a majority, in giving such protection, should voluntarily turn itself into a similar minority.

The fact that a minority exists today is due simply and solely to the provision regarding the vote—the two-thirds clause. Otherwise the majority rule would have long ago prevailed and the incident forgotten.

The movies may be likewise considered. Here the question may be settled by a majority vote without deadlock, yet here again the minority, through means of the referendum, desire to impose their will upon the majority.

We fail to recognize the stability of his attitude in effecting a compromise by swapping movies for school and yielding to the threat of "no movies, no school."

If a minority threat can subdue a majority desire and destroy a majority action, then such minority is not worthy of protection.

The substance of the controversy, when sifted down for final examination appears a matter of personal feeling rather than minority opposition. The Star was a minority when it opposed the simultaneous erection of our new grade school buildings. It opposed the method then and even today feels its course justified. Yet the thought of obstructing the desire of the majority, after such was clearly defined, was not entertained.

A majority may make mistakes as well as a minority, although not so apt to do so merely through its very majority, and a mistake may be much better made by the majority than by the minority. The protection of the minority may be a factor against the oppression by the majority, as it probably is, and there are instances where minority rule prevails—yet emperors and even kings are going out of style.

Mr. Kemerson, a minority voter upon the school, offered a clear and constructive alternate, yet his plan was, when presented, supported by but a minor fraction of the minority. Aside from this lone instance, no constructive and united plan has been set forth by the minority—yet it still exercises its power by blocking the majority.

It appears therefore, that those voters who are willing to join the majority and erect the school, are impelled and influenced by a democratic spirit and willingness to serve their community, while the minority, with a "no movie, no school" threat, are using their privilege and protection with at constructive effort.

The Star feels, holding these views, that the minority has been well and long protected, and has, in this instance, ceased to become a factor which may claim such refuge for its continued obstruction to the normal growth of the town.

FROM REV. GEORGE HALE REED

To the Editor of the Star:

May I, through your columns, express my grat.tude to the chief of the Winchester Fire Department, and his men, for their services last week when my house caught fire.

The flames had been burning some time before they were discovered, but the firemen saved the house and the furniture with what seemed to me, the maximum of speed and the minimum of damage.

SOMERVILLE THEATER

"Going Up," Big Musical Comedy, Week of Feb. 16

For the second time since assuming the leadership of the Somerville Players, Mr. Luttringer presents a musical comedy. In "Going Up, the story is hilariously funny, with a strong note of love interest woven in. The play that gave Colonel Lindbergh his inspiration to fly to Paris. Otto Harbach, one of the greatest of all lyric writers, wrote these, and Lou Hirsch set these lyrics to music. The result was one of the greatest successes of all times. Perhaps you wonder why this tuneful play was never presented on the Somerville Theater stage. The reason was that other directors of the company were afraid of the size of the production on the limited stage of the cozy playhouse. One of the acts calls for a full sized airplane, and it remained for Mr. Luttringer and his enterprising assistant director, Frank Farrara aided and abetted by the competent stage crew to devise a method of handling the plane when not in actual use, something that had balked the others contemplating the production. The company assembled at the Somerville Theater fits well into the scheme of the musical comedy, with some additions to the regular forces.

Mr. Greazn, as the aviator, has a role that fits him like a glove. Miss Hazel Burgess, making her first appearance with telling effect in "June Moon," has the principal singing role among the ladies, since Miss Burgess has a fine voice and has appeared in light opera with great success. Frank Thomas has another great part, Billy Dale will be well cast. Frank Farrara will have an opportunity well within his ample attainments as the French aviator, Malcolm MacLeod will have a good part, Harry Lowell will sing and dance—and you know he can do both. The chorus of men and women will again be one of the features of the performance and among the dancers will be Miss Chavron and her inimitable six beautiful girls. The scenic production is an important one. Among the songs you will learn to whistle and want to try on your piano are: "If You Look into Her Eyes," "The Touch of a Woman's Hand," "Kiss Me," "Tickle Toe" and "I Want a Determined Boy." Here's a show you can't afford to miss—and the prices are always the same.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mr. Lyman A. Flanders of Crescent road was a member of the committee in charge of the third annual social night of the New England Wall Paper Association, held Tuesday evening in the Mayflower Ballroom, Boston.

A resident of Park avenue notified the police Wednesday that his automobile had been stolen from the garage. The car was evidently taken for a joy ride as it was returned and left in front of the garage with one window broken.

The police were notified at 9:35 Tuesday evening of a collision at the junction of the Parkway and Washington street involving a Nash cabriolet, driven by George H. Wilson of 30 Garden street, Needham, and an Overland sedan, driven by Constantinos Mentos of 91 Mishawum road, Woburn. Both cars were damaged and Patrick Fallon of 62 Washington street, Woburn, said that his head had been injured by the collision. He was taken to his home by a passing motorist.

Sergt. John H. Noonan with Patrolman James E. Farrell and Joseph Derro was sent at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning to stop a fight between two women on Winter street. No arrests were made.

CAN SEVEN AMERICAN VENICES BE WRONG?

Scores of American towns are named for Old World places that are non-existant on the maps of the countries where the originals occur.

Citizens of towns named Ghent, in Kentucky, Minnesota, New York and West Virginia can find, when they travel in Europe, no city which the Belgians call Ghent.

Belgium has a Gand, but no Ghent.

There are Naples in 13 American States and Belgrades in six, but their counterparts in Europe are Napoli, by its circling Italian bay, and Beograd, capital of Jugoslavia.

Your City's Name Has a Past

Every name on a map has a past, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C., taking up the checkered history of some American place names.

The town of Oslo, Minnesota, continues the bulletin, has the distinction of anticipating a change in Europe's geographic names years before it took place. Oslo was carrying on in Minnesota long before the name of the capital of Norway was changed from Christiania to the ancient designation Oslo.

Two Finlands—and Two Spellings

Contrary to United States postal regulations, which prohibit two towns of the same name in one State, there are two Finlands in Minnesota. One spells its name Finland and the other Suomi. Both are named for the European homeland of Finn settlers, the first for the Anglicized name of the new republic and the second for the true native name which Finns themselves use.

By majority rule seven Venices, in California, Florida, Illinois, Louisiana, Missouri, Ohio and Utah can't be wrong. But in trying to invoke the charm of a famous Italian city an Arizona community has copied the true Italian name, Venezia.

The creation in nearly all European countries of boards on geographic names, which have handed down decisions on official names, raises a problem for scores of American towns. Shall they follow their European models?

Viennas Original is Wein

Shall 11 Viennas become 11 Weins? Shall eight Strasburgs in the United States recognize France's ownership of Alsace since the World War by changing to Strasbourg? Shall nine Smyrnas accept the new Turkish spelling, which was adopted coincident with the change from Arabic to Latin letters, and blossom out as Izmirs? It is a problem also for 14 Milans, three Pragues and 10 Warsaws.

Texas, for some reason not clear, shows a tendency to adopt true spellings of European namesake towns. Within its borders is a Roma (also a Rome) and a Milano. To be consistent Texas would have to change these towns, Cologne, Corinth, Crete, Egypt, Irin, Genoa, Geneva, Holland and Moscow to Koln, Korinthos, Kriti, Misr, Eireann, Genova, Geneve, Nederland and Moskva.

Belgium, Wisconsin, and Belgique, Missouri, have a perpetual argument as to which spelling is correct. And have you heard of Vlissingen, New York? You may, if the American enthusiasm for antiques extends to names. Vlissingen is the Dutch original for modern Flushing.

FORTRESS WILL GUARD "SWEET-SCENTED ISLAND"

A corkless perfume bottle where the sweet scent of the maquis shrub permeates the atmosphere; where men are lazy and women's heads ache with donkey carts as transports; where modern customs have only trickled a short distance beyond the quays of the larger ports and left the pancake hats, and the stone and mud huts of the natives as they were centuries ago.

Such, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, is Corsica, France's largest Mediterranean island possession, which the French government is fortifying.

Turtle-Shaped Island

Corsica is about one-half the size of Massachusetts—an area of rugged mountains and verdant valleys peopled by slightly more than a quarter million inhabitants—human remnants of Phoenician, Etruscan, Carthaginian, Roman, Vandal, Goth, Pisan, Genoese and Moorish invaders, says the bulletin.

In shape, the island resembles a turtle. The neck of the reptile stretches toward Genoa. With the exception of a shallow bay here and there, the island's eastern shore forms a smooth turtle shell while the rock-ribbed cliffs separating the deep gulfs of the western coast form the legs of the imaginary animal. A circle to note the location of the town of Rogliano, far up on the northern peninsula, marks a good position for the turtle's eye, while the hook of land at the southern end of the island suggests a stubby tail.

Bastia, a typical Genoese City with buildings of three and four stories flanking narrow streets, is the only important port on the Corsican east coast. Most of the larger sea outlets nestle in protected spots around the shore line of the gulfs on the western shore of the island. Among these are Ajaccio, the island capital. That city of 20,000 inhabitants has wide boulevards lighted with electricity, and automobiles mingle with donkey carts. There are no beggars, a fact in which Corsica takes much pride.

Many Reminders of Napoleon

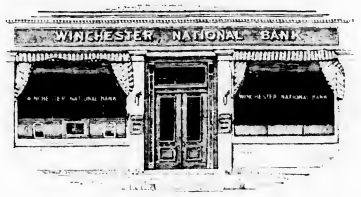

Corsica was the birthplace of Napoleon. But outside of Ajaccio where travelers may visit the house in which the French leader was born, the islanders appear unaware that Napoleon was one of their illustrious sons. Ajaccio, however, insists that Napoleon shall not be forgotten.

Travelers land on the Napoleon Quay. Guides lead sightseers to the Cours Napoleon and the Rue Napoleon, two of the city's important streets. There is a Cafe Napoleon, a Napoleon Grotto, a Napoleon Museum and a Napoleon Theater. The souvenir stands are cluttered with statuettes of the general and picture post cards of his birthplace. And men smoke "Petit Caporal" cigarettes while lounging about two large statues of Napoleon.

Government roads are reaching the remotest villages of the island and a railroad links the larger Corsican ports. Busses and private automobiles throw dust into the faces of the stubborn little donkeys of the rural districts, but they have not yet driven the reliable Corsican transports from the roads.

From bus or train window, the traveler gets a glimpse of what keeps the Corsican in food and clothing. Around the tiny mountain villages dangling from rocky perches, graze huge herds of sheep and goats which yield the skins and wool that figure in Corsica's trade. Then there are vast groves of olive trees, and small tobacco plantations. Citron is also produced and preserved by the natives nuts also provide feed for animals, while chestnut forests furnish chestnut meal for Corsican bread. The

EXPEDITION MAY THROW LIGHT ON BEGINNINGS OF VEGETABLE LIFE

The stubborn problem of how vegetable life got its start on the surface of the earth, which at first had no soil, is believed to be nearer solution as the result of the work of a National Geographic Society expedition to the Alaska Peninsula last summer. A preliminary report has just been made to the Society's headquarters in Washington by Dr. Robert F. Griggs, head of the expedition, who obtained cultures of plants from areas smothered by volcanic ash eighteen years ago during the great eruption of Katmai Volcano.

Delicate Plant Lives on Soiless Ash

On the sterile wastes of ash none of the ordinary higher plants, such as grasses, could grow; and for many years the ash areas remained wholly bare. In order that such plants can live their roots must penetrate soil—that is, bits of earth or pulverized rock mixed with decayed animal or vegetable matter containing nitrogen compounds.

Dr. Griggs made the surprising discovery that delicate little plants called liverworts are now thriving on ash areas in which there are apparently no traces of nitrogen. Where the liverworts have been established long enough to decay and so form the beginnings of soil, other plants are starting to grow. Thus the liverwort or some microscopical living thing associated with it seems to be a pioneer in making possible the growth of vegetation; and it is possible to guess, with a little more understanding, what took place in the dim past when the earth's surface was like that of a huge lifeless cinder.

Failing to find nitrogenous materials in the ash on which the liverwort grew, Dr. Griggs is proceeding on the theory that the plant is able to obtain nitrogen from the air. In laboratory experiments in Washington on growing specimens brought from Alaska, he is seeking to find the mechanism which would make this possible.

Volcanic Eruption Devastated Large Area

The problem of the return of vegetation to an area devastated by volcanic action has been a subject of research by the National Geographic Society for many years. Expeditions to study the matter were sent to the Alaska Peninsula by the Society under Dr. Griggs' leadership in 1915 and 1916. As only a short time had then elapsed since the fall of the ash, little could be done toward solving the central problem of plant return, but the second expedition discovered one of the world's most spectacular volcanic phenomena, the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," an area of more than 50 square miles from which myriads of jets of superheated steam hissed. This unique region, when brought to public notice by the National Geographic Society, was made into a National Monument by President Wilson.

Last summer's expedition found that the Valley has lost much of its heat and can now be traversed more easily. Many of the smaller steam jets have ceased to be active, but the larger ones continue to throw off great volumes of white vapor. Hundreds of highly colored "paint pots" and bubbling cauldrons of mud make the area comparable to Yellowstone Park, though even more active.

The expedition made photographs of the interior of the crater of Katmai Volcano which still shows some activity. It was found that the lake within the crater, which has disappeared and reappeared in the last 15 years, again covers the crater floor.

Major and Minor Prophets

The major prophets, according to Jewish belief, received direct instructions from God, and were given political authority transcending that of kings or military rulers. The minor prophets did not have the power to command obedience as did the major prophets. The major prophets included Abraham, Moses, Samuel, Elijah, Elisha, Isaiah and Jeremiah; the minor prophets included Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonas, Zephaniah, Zacharias, Nahum, Habakkuk, Sophonias, Haggai and Malachi.

"Second-Hand" Things

About leftovers an author has this to say: "As we grow older we put more value on life's leftovers, on old clothes that are too good to throw away; on an old love that has settled down from hectic ardor to placid companionship; on old habits that we have inherited from a speedier moving youth. So much of life's worthwhile things are second hand, anyway; each morning a second-hand sun rises on a second-hand world and lights second-hand people going about their second-hand work." — Indianapolis News.

Douglas and Mary Todd

Albert J. Beveridge, in his life of Lincoln, says Douglas did not propose to Mary Todd. "Although it was afterward given out that Douglas had proposed to Mary and was refused because of his 'bad morals,'" writes Beveridge, "that statement was obviously protective propaganda usual in such cases; for the shrewd, alert, and, even then, worldly wise Douglas never asked Miss Todd to marry him."—Detroit News.

WHEN THE CLOCK STRIKES 24

Clocks and watches are changing their faces to keep up with a civilization that whirls onward to dizzier speeds.

The United States, land of the split second, buys more and more clocks on which the second hand has grown from a sliver to a full-sized pointer as large as the minute hand.

Gaps that used to punctuate the evening radio entertainment have disappeared because programs are now scheduled on the second, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Splitting the Second

Trains listed to leave on the minute actually leave on the second. The world-wide reputation of an athlete may hang on a fraction of a second, a segment of time so small that a special timepiece, the stop watch, had to be invented to record it.

But with one European refinement of time and clocks, America does not conform.

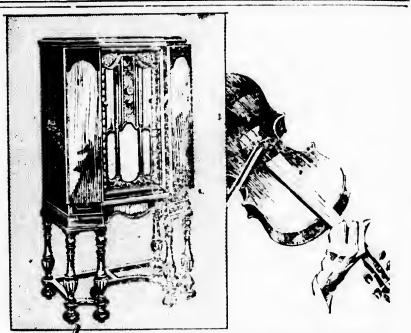

Trains Leave at Double "O"

Trains on the continent can leave at 0:0 because the continental railroad schedule for most countries is now based on 24 hours instead of 12 hours a. m. and 12 hours p. m. By international agreement a train that arrives at midnight, arrives at 24:00; also by agreement a train that leaves at midnight, leaves at 0:0. Some clocks in railroad stations show numerals 1 to 24; others have numerals 13 to 24 within the ring 1 to 12. England has not gone over to continental railroad time.

Hours as recorded by modern timepieces are a relatively recent invention. Martin Luther would find our clocks decidely queer; Napoleon's instinct for order would be gratified to know that the hour had at last been standardized at 60 seconds.

In Paris until 1819 the hour was a variable unit of time lengthening in summer time, shortening during the winter days. It was the Paris equivalent of our daylight saving system; 6 o'clock came when dawn arrived.

In Nurnberg and parts of Central Europe another system was used down to 1809. At the time of the equinoxes day and night were divided into 12 hours equally; day time beginning at dawn, not midnight; night beginning at sundown, not noon. But as winter came on and the days grew shorter the hours alloted to day were cut off so that, in December, night hours were numbered 1 to 16; day, 1 to 8. The reverse was true in summer. A season of the year was often referred to as the time when the day has 13 hours.

As with a STRADIVARIUS
so with a STROMBERG-CARLSON

World's Master Clock

Greenwich's master clock for the world has a dial with numbers from 1 to 24. It is located exactly on longitude 0 degrees, 0 minutes and 0 seconds. Here the maps of the world begin because all longitude is numbered east and west of Greenwich and all time bands are fixed with reference to the English observatory outside London. Eastern, Central, Mountain, and Pacific times in the United States are adjusted with reference to the Greenwich master clock although the Naval Observatory at Washington gives out the official signals through Arlington wireless station.

Defined

The conversation at the village inn was about the newcomer, who had rented a cottage for the summer.

"What he his business?" asked one of the company.

"An oculist," was the reply.

"And what may that be?" persisted the inquiring one.

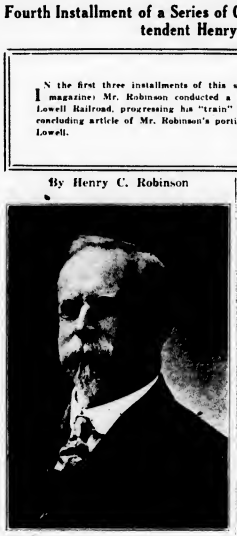

"Oh, well, an eye dentist."—London Answers.

REMINISCENCES OF DAYS GONE BY

Fourth Installment of a Series of Chatty Articles by Former Superintendent Henry C. Robinson

IN the first three installments of this series (started in the August issue of the magazine) Mr. Robinson conducted a mythical trip over the old Boston and Lowell Railroad, progressing his "train" as far as the Woburn loop. This, the concluding article of Mr. Robinson's portion of the series, takes the "train" into Lowell.

By Henry C. Robinson

H. C. ROBINSON

Back again to Winchester and the main line. The next station (2) is North Winchester, now Winchester Highland. Here, there is but a three-sided shelter and no caretaker. See the small cottage house a short distance west of the track? It was owned and occupied by Eli Cooper, one of the early locomotive engineers on the road.

The next station is East Woburn, now Montvale. But little change here. The agent is Warren Wade, a quiet, retiring man of few words, but a man whom it is a pleasure to know.

Before proceeding north on the main line, we will take a short look-over of the Stoneham branch. The first stop is at Hackett's, now Oakland. The name was changed on account of its similarity to Haggett's, a station on the Lowell and Lawrence branch. The swale just south of Hackett's was crossed by a pile trestle, later filled in. The station between Hackett's and Stoneham must be skipped, as nothing about them is recalled. Farm Hill station is probably as it was. The station at Stoneham, besides containing the waiting rooms and ticket office fronting on Franklin street, covers a small freight house, a track on which the passenger cars—two of them—are stored for the night, and another track where the engine is put up for the night.

In the last installment of Mr. Robinson's interesting series of articles there was omitted, inadvertently, after the description of Walnut Hill, the following part of the "trip" over the old Boston and Lowell. In order that the articles may be complete for the many who will want to preserve them, we print below the paragraphs omitted last month—Ed.

Before leaving, your attention is called to the arch bridge, a striking piece of work, for it is not only an arch bridge but the wing walls are artistically curved and the whole structure is "laid dry," that is, no mortar used in its erection.

The next station is North Woburn, now Mishawum. Here you see unchanged original conditions—a small house with a door and two windows in it.

Next comes Wilmington. On the way we pass the plant of the Merrimac Chemical Works, South Wilmington—very much smaller than now. The station at Wilmington is on the east side of the tracks and south of the overhead bridge; the railroad quarters are in the brick basement, and here "Uncle" Goodwin represents the railroad—a stoutish built, genial gentleman. Above the basement on the street floor is a general store, and, above that, living quarters. A short distance north of the bridge and on the right-hand side of the track is a small unpainted building, with a tower fast falling to pieces. This was the joint station when the Andover and Wilmington (the acorn of the B. & M. tree) connected with the Boston and Lowell trains.

Let us stop at the next overhead bridge—the "Rail Shop Bridge," so-called,—for just south of it is a sizable building occupied as a blacksmith shop, with Mr. Putnam in charge. Bear in mind that the rails are of iron, maximum length of 24 feet and 1¼ inches in height. Being of iron with joint connections less rigid than now, the ends of the rails soon became battered, causing discomfort to the passengers and detrimental to rolling stock. When removed from the track they were sent here to the rail shop to have the ends squared up, or more frequently the ends were cut off, thus making them square. The result was that many of the rails in the track decreased in length foot by foot until the minimum of 18 feet was reached. It was quite a problem for the rolling mills to produce a rail that was hard enough to wear without being so hard as to break on frosty days, and at the same time soft enough to resist frost breaks and yet wear well.

THE ORIGINAL CHELMSFORD STREET ARCH

The locomotive assigned to the Stoneham service is the smallest road locomotive on the road, weighing probably 16 to 18 tons; singularly and per contra the engineer is the largest engineer on the road—"Bill" Perry. Standing more than six feet in height and broad in proportion, black full beard and a shock of black hair, he is one to attract attention anywhere. His partner, the conductor, is Pa'illa Beard, who before the branch was built drove a stage between Reading and Boston.

The next station is Woburn Watering Place, now Walnut Hill, exactly midway between Lowell and Boston. Here the builder also erected woodsheds for the storing of fuel for the locomotives and, during cold weather, for the car stoves. They also installed a three-inch locomotive water supply from a spring up on the hill. All trains stopped here for the engines to have the supply of wood and water replenished. At the time of our trip parts of the woodshed are still standing. The station, also a dwelling house, stands some distance away from the tracks at the foot of the hill behind it.

Our next station is Billerica and Tewksbury, now East Billerica. From here stages to Billerica Center and Tewksbury Center were run in connection with the trains. The stages were operated by a Mr. Richardson, who lives in a house east of the railroad and north of the bridge. Just before reaching the station, as the train passes over Shawsheen River, one looking west can see the high stone abutments and middle pier that formerly carried the Middlesex Canal over the river. No changes in the station building are recalled, so it may be considered as it was 60 years ago. The agent is Peter Bohanon, father of the agent at Stoneham, and a most genial Irish gentleman. He is smooth faced, white hair and the bluest of blue twinkling eyes.

Just north of the overhead bridge on the west side is a sawmill with plenty of rough and sawed material piled about. The mill is run by water power from the water area on the opposite of the track.

A little farther north ends the three-mile "Billerica Straight Line," and here the engineers had to make a change in the original line, for while the road was under construction an outbreak of smallpox occurred in North Billerica and the town fathers had the victims buried in the woods through which the original line was to run. The engineers ran out a long peculiar curve—peculiar in that the middle section is flatter than the ends.

North Billerica is the next station, and as we approach it we see on the right hand the spacious acres and dignified residence of Hon. Thomas Talbot of the Talbot Mills and the Talbot Chemical Company.

At the station we meet agent Whittemore, a quiet, rather retiring man. He has quite a reputation as a fiddler, and his services as such are in frequent demand for dancing.

The next station is Lowell Bleachery, situated at the intersection of the main line and the Lowell and Lawrence branch, which has an independent track to the south side of the arch which carries Chelmsford street over the railroad. The station is a small dwelling house, with one room for the convenience of patrons. The agent is Mr. Whalden, a tall, broad-shouldered man.

The ledge at this place, south and north of Chelmsford street, was blasted out to permit the railroad the needed and necessary width to install two tracks. In doing so, however, an arch was left above the tracks and under the street. Our train draws through the arch and up to the Middlesex street station, which occupies the triangle with Middlesex street on the north, the B. & L. track on the east and the Nashua and Lowell track on the west. The station is a two-story unprepossessing building, although at the time it was built it was considered a building for the future. The waiting rooms fronted on Middlesex street with a large entrance between; back of the men's room are the two offices of the agent, Mr. Charles E. Paige, a stoutish man with a florid complexion, a good executive of the time. In addition to this position as agent he also has under his supervision the Stony Brook, the Lowell and Lawrence and the Salem and Lowell branches, as the detail of operation is not possible from Boston. Opposite the agent's office is the newsstand and restaurant, conducted by Miss Mary Hale; farther south is the baggage room, opposite of which is the telegraph office. The door at the south end of the station is a very large one and, from the planking half way through the station, it is evident that when the station was erected a track was laid into the station. All trains both freight and passenger going north of Lowell stop before crossing Middlesex street, the engine is cut off, draws across the street by a water plug, the tank is replenished, the engine backs across the street and is coupled to the train. All trains, both those terminating at Merrimack street and those going to or coming from beyond Lowell use the tracks nearest the station.

Leaving Middlesex street station, we cross Middlesex street, Thorndike-Fletcher street, cross the Pawtucket Canal and parallel Dutton street to Merrimac street station, quite a large building, the ground floor being for railroad purposes. Above is Huntington Hall, the largest public hall in the city. The track is on the Dutton street side of the building, adjoining which is the platform, and to the right of that are the two waiting rooms and the baggage room; a track between Dutton street and the building leads to the corporations. Here the locomotive draws the train into the station, as switching it in is not practicable. Our train is now backed out to the Dutton street car house and the house and the engine moves to the engine house at Jackson street, which we passed after crossing Middlesex street, preparatory to our return to Boston.

The trip has taken a good deal of time, and you are undoubtedly tired. It is hoped that it has not been tedious and that some of it, if not all of it, has been interesting.

CHORAL SOCIETY IN OPENING CONCERT OF SECOND SEASON

Mr. Boynton, through his many appearances in oratorio here, has won a large following in Winchester and he was cordially received Tuesday evening. His beautiful lyric tenor voice proved a perfect instrument for the interpretation of his group of songs, achieving with equal ease and clarity, tones both high and low and in the middle register. His robusto singing was thrilling, his high notes being sung with full voice, while at times in pianissimo passages the tone diminished to a mere silvery thread. Both phrasing and diction were admirable.

His singing of "Sail Forth" from the "In Memoriam" written by the eminent composer, Rogers, in memory of his son who was killed while serving with the aviation corps during the war called forth a storm of applause and he was forced to add an extra number, and yet another, and he was greeted with more applause when he appeared to sing in succeeding numbers with the chorus.

Once again Miss French assisted the Society in the literal sense of the word with the artistic accompaniments Winchester music lovers have come to know so well. Her playing of the program's difficult and widely varying scores was brilliant yet at all times it was an accompaniment, always helpful and never obtrusive. She is deserving of high praise, both for her work with the chorus and with Mr. Boynton. Especially note worthy was her playing of "The Galway Piper."

Ushers for the evening were headed by Dr. William H. Gilpatric and included Bowen Tufts, Benjamin Hill, Warren Whitman, R. Burton Gage and Paul Stanton. Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols was in the box office.

Old Superstition

Crystal gazing was practiced by the ancients. References appear to it in the literature of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries. There were similar practices among the native tribes of North and South America, Asia, Australia and Africa.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Alfred Friend, 45 Wildwood street on Friday, Feb. 20 at 2:30 p. m. Members and friends cordially invited.

Prohibition must be retained says Jane Adams in her new book, "The Second 20 Years at Hull House." Jane Adams gives a chapter to "A Decade of Prohibition," in which she compares conditions now with those of pre-prohibition days, with the conclusion that prohibition must be retained. Miss Adams says, "the large commercial dance halls in Chicago have come to be well chaperoned with a standard of conduct enforced by the dance-hall managers themselves. All boys and men who pay entrance fees are examined by an officer for a flask, if a flask is found, it is taken away from him and in his presence the contents are poured down the sewer. At one of the large dance halls a few months ago, in one evening, out of 1500 persons examined, only three were found carrying flasks. Such a regulation, of course, would have been impossible unless the entire liquor business had been made illegal.

Miss Adams continues, "to give up prohibition now or seriously to modify the 18th amendment, would be to obtain not even a negative result and would mean that we never could be clear as to the real effect of national prohibition."

Sunshine and Vitamin D

The general, hazy idea that sunshine puts vitamin D into the body is wrong, although it is on the right track. Rather, it is the sunshine that wakes vitamin D into action through the effects of the ultra-violet ray. The vitamin is there, but remains inactive until activated by the rays.

The absence of the rays prevents the body from making use of the lime and phosphorus in the food, and, in the case of children, brings about rickets, bow legs, pigeon breast, knock-knees and similar abnormalities.

In adults, while the effect is not so serious, it brings about the withdrawal of minerals in the bones, making them porous and brittle.

Linscott was elected chairman and Mrs. Christine Hayden, secretary of the committee. The committee is to report its findings upon the article, introduced at the recently held special town meeting, to the annual Town Meeting session in March.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUNDAY OBSERVED AT THE UNITARIAN CHURCH

With the Minister, Rev. George Hale Reed, seated in the congregation, members of the Metcalf Union conducted the annual Young People's Sunday service at the Unitarian Church last Sunday morning.

The officers of the Metcalf Union, Roger Newell, president; Elizabeth Proctor, vice-president; Ruth Wadleigh, secretary; and Allan Wood, treasurer; were the leaders in the service, at which the ushers were Robert Cushman, Robert Godfrey, Clifford Mason, Jr., and Arthur Verne Rogers, Jr.

The preacher was Miss Ruth Twiss, past secretary of the National Young People's Religious Union, who spoke upon, "The Coming Church." There was a large congregation, despite the inclement weather.

HELD FOR TRIAL BY GRAND JURY

John J. O'Donnell and Henry J. McCue, Woburn young men, arrested last week Wednesday by Police Chief William H. Rogers and Chief Charles R. McCauley of the Woburn Police, charged with assault on two girls who it is alleged they met in Boston and took to a deserted tannery on Cross street in an automobile, were given a hearing Monday morning in the District Court at Woburn.

As a result of the hearing the young men were held in bonds of $5000 each for trial by the Grand Jury. The defendants were represented by Attorney Maurice R. Flynn who stated after the hearing that bonds would be raised for his clients. The testimony of the girls involved in the case was the only testimony heard at Monday's hearing, and at its conclusion the young men were taken to East Cambridge to await the raising of bonds.

ANNUAL FIREMAN'S BALL HELD

Usual Big Crowd Out—Fine Entertainment Offered

Once again the Town Hall was crowded to its capacity for the big annual entertainment and ball of the Winchester Fireman's Relief Association, held last Friday evening from 8 until 1 o'clock.

The stage was decorated with palms and potted plants, and the uniformed firemen in their "blue and silver" added a formal note to the festivities.

As an added feature of this year's ball the popular Lincoln Players, under the direction of Walter L. Rice, played a concert program from the stage preceding the vaudeville entertainment.

The Lincoln Players have gained in excellence during the past few years and last Friday evening lived up to the many nice things which have been said about them after previous concerts given in Winchester and elsewhere. In addition to orchestral selections there was a finely played trumpet solo by Guido Talone and an equally well rendered trumpet duet by Mr. Talone and "Mattie" Fox of Woburn. Mr. Rice and his band were well received by the big crowd and warmly applauded as they left the platform.

Following the Lincoln Players, five exceptionally good vaudeville acts were put on by "The Players," under the direction of Thomas McCue, and with Hazel Childs as mistress of ceremonies. The bill opened with Regina and Arthur, a novelty dance team, featuring an acrobatic violinist of real ability in Regina and an unusual eccentric and soft shoe dancer in her partner. Included also were Harold Benfield, Xylophonist unique who rendered both classic and popular selections in a beautiful velvety tone and flawless technique; Guy Sweeney in character impersonations, a master of makeup and wise cracking; Hazel Childs in monologue and character sketches, and the Hawthorne Four, a sweet voiced male quartet, far above the usual vaudeville harmonizers. Especially well done were two solos, sung in a rich voice of good range by the basso of the quartet.

At the conclusion of the entertainment the hall was cleared by Janitor Edward Callahan and his assistants for general dancing, for which music was furnished by "Jack" Hennessey's Orchestra. The floor was crowded with dancers until midnight, and it was not until after that hour that the experts were able to "cut loose" for the edification of those who were watching the dancing.

Meanwhile at the Central Station the firemen held open house for visiting firemen and their friends in and out of Winchester. The fire apparatus was inspected and fires old and new were fought over again as the men gave critical attention to the new equipment added to the local department since their last visit.

In the "dugout" hospitality in the form of sandwiches, coffee and light refreshments was dispensed by members of the reception committee, and though many guests visited the station during the night there was plenty for everyone.

Assistant Floor Marshal Deputy Chief J. J. Gorman
Floor Director—Pres. John McCarron
Assistant Floor Director Lieut. Hugh Skerry

Chief of Aids Edward L. Callahan

The second of the popular children's ice carnivals was held at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon with a large attendance.

Featuring the affair was a grand march on skates with the youngsters in costume. Prizes for the prettiest costumes were awarded Ann Kidder and Jean Farnsworth. Funniest costume awards were made to Janet Fuller and Harriet Squires. Mr. C. P. LeRoyer, Mrs. Robert Stone and Mrs. Benjamin Hill served as judges.

Following the grand march a novel entertainment was provided by Fletcher's Clowns, a professional troupe from Malden, who did all sorts of stunts with an old sleigh on the ice and incidentally did some excellent figure skating. Acrobatic stunts, such as jumping over barrels on skates, were done by two of the clowns, and a 12-year-old-girl who was a member of the troupe, pleased the crowd with somersaults and tumbling stunts that were unusually good.

A demonstration of the work she is doing was then given by Miss Chellise Cook of Newton and Miss Bouve's School, skating professional at the Country Club, who was assisted by two of her pupils, Ann Kidder and Jean Farnsworth. An exhibition waltz was skated by the Misses Kidder and Farnsworth, paired with James W. Russell, Jr. and Trafford Hicks of Arlington.

The carnival was concluded with the serving of a buffet supper for 84 in the clubhouse. There was general skating on the lighted rink during the evening.

Edward W. Berry of this town is among the members of the senior class at Norwich on the academic honor roll for the past semester.

FISHERMAN'S SERVICE SUNDAY AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Fellow Fisherman:

For the past nine years the First Congregational Church in Winchester has favored us by setting apart one Sunday morning each year for a Fisherman's Service.

We originally started with a few men who had been on fishing trips with Dr. Chidley and me. But this list, year by year, has so enlarged that now all men who enjoy fishing are cordially invited to join with us in this very interesting service. Eighty fishermen were present last year, and we hope for a larger number this year.

Dr. Chidley will address the fishermen and has chosen for his topic, "The Wind in the Willows." Mr. Mike J. Marr of Indian Pond Camps, Me., will be with us again this year.

As usual the flowers for the decoration of the church for Fisherman's Sunday are furnished by the fishermen, each fisherman contributing $1. After the service, these flowers are sent to the sick and shut-ins in Winchester.

The front center section of the church has been reserved for the fishermen and it is very necessary that I know the number of seats to reserve. I sincerely thank you for all your past helpfulness to me in my efforts to make Fisherman's Sunday such a wonderful success.

The one and all important favor I ask of you is that you send word to me "at once" of your acceptance, that I may arrange for the number of settings required, not forgetting to enclose $1 for flowers, please.

Sincerely,
Charles A. Lane

The caretaker at the old Whitney Machine Company building notified the police last Saturday that boys are doing damage to the property by throwing snowballs at the windows. Already some of the glass has been broken and cracked.

Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock a Ford sedan, driven by Edward MacDonald of 26 Wade avenue, Woburn, and a Nash sedan, driven by Frank McLaughlin of Arthur street, were in collision on Main street at Swanton street. The Ford was going north on Main street while the Nash was making a turn into Swanton street while going north. Both cars were damaged and Winnifred McLaughlin, who was riding in the Nash, complained of injuries.

Sergt. John H. Noonan of the Police Department succeeded in rounding up Joseph Olivadoti who was reported as missing from his home, 19 Irving street, at 10 o'clock last Saturday morning.

The police were notified last Saturday afternoon of a man who was impersonating an insurance collector and attempting to get insurance money from policy holders about town. The authorities got onto his trail at once but were unable to locate him.

Patrolman James E. Farrell of the Police Department located a Springer spaniel reported lost by Mr. Whitelaw Wright of Sanborn street last Friday.

The Police were notified about 11 o'clock last Friday night that an automobile owned by John Parker of Brookside avenue was ransacked while Mr. and Mrs. Parker were attending the Firemen's Ball at the Town Hall. The machine was parked on Washington street near Ridgeway. So far as could be learned from a quick check-up nothing was taken.

A FIFTH RICHER A DAY FRESHER and PASTEURIZED RIGHT IN THE BOTTLE

IF YOU AGREE that the best milk is the milk for your children, consider these facts: Deerfoot Farms Milk is 20 per cent richer than state requirements. You get it about one day fresher as our model farm is but 30 miles away.

Consider one more fact: This wonderful milk is doubly safeguarded. It is put in sterilized bottles and sealed with a metal cap. Then milk, bottle, and cap all go through the pasteurizing process at the same time.

Is it to be wondered at that three generations of Boston's best families have taken Deerfoot Farms Milk? You owe it to your family, too, to serve them this famous product.

If you would like to taste the difference in Deerfoot Farms Milk, telephone Highland 1857 and we will arrange to have our man stop at your home tomorrow morning.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

Reception to the Probationers

On Monday evening, Feb. 9, a reception was held for the six students who have just entered the School of Nursing at the Winchester Hospital.

The president, Mr. Harold S. Fuller and members of the Training School Committee, Mrs. Stillman P. Williams, Mrs. Herbert W. Kelley, Mrs. J. Edward Downes and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., formed the reception committee.

The living room at the Nurses' Home was completely filled with the members of the student body and invited guests, who shared with the new girls the delightful program planned for the evening.

Mr. Fuller greeted the assembly with words of welcome and was followed by Miss Marion Hilts, one of the student nurses, who played Paderewski's Minuet with great expression. Miss Torrop, the superintendent of the hospital, then introduced Prof. Joseph E. Connor, of the Emerson College of Oratory. Professor Connor has been conducting each week during the winter a most inspiring class in oral English for the nurses at the hospital. His address was full of thought for old and new students. He pointed out to the new nurses the need of holding high the banner of their idealism and told them if they had come into training because of lesser and lower reasons than service to humanity they had better go home at once. He begged them to find some avocation as a balance to the needed effectiveness and efficiency demanded by their professional job and to cultivate the habit of reading books of a high standard.

He urged with great stress that they cultivate that attribute and quality, delicacy, the true mark of a gentlewoman. Instinctive and cultivated delicacy would carry them far toward a finer character.

He impressed upon all the nurses how important was their loyalty to their institution and how much the community's opinion of the hospital was influenced by the quality of its graduates.

Following Professor Connor's address, Miss Verna McArthur, sang two groups of songs. She was accompanied by Mr. Crawford, head of the music in the schools of Waltham. Her clear soprano voice rendered delightfully and with much feeling the songs which she presented. "Come Beloved" by Handel and "To a Hilltop" by Ralph Cox were her first choice and the second group to be enjoyed by the audience comprised "In a Monastery Garden" by Ketelby; "When I'm Looking at You" from the Rogue Song and "The Desert Song" from the Desert Song show.

The Glee Club of the hospital contributed toward the evening's entertainment by singing "Bells of Memory." The Glee Club has been busy practicing this winter and have made much progress in their work.

Refreshments and dancing concluded the evening's program.

The new students are Sue Brown of Winchester, Dorothy Childs of Winchester, Lauretta Johnson of Merigonish, N. S., Thelma Perrigo of Framingham, Helen Richardson of Reading and Clare Weafer of Reading.

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

Announcement of the smoker to be held this Saturday night at the club was made yesterday, and chairman Wilde appears to have provided an attraction which, coming at this time when "Fisherman's Sunday" is observed the following day, will be a banner attraction.

The speaker will be Mr. Harry Allen past president of the New Brunswick Guides' Association and one of the best known guides in the entire Province of New Brunswick. He will leave the Boston Sportsman's Show, where he has been the popular attraction, just to visit Winchester. Mr. Allen will show his complete reel of motion picture films along with his talk. The usual collation will be served.

The mixed bowling tournament opened last week with a list of nine teams, and matches are now scheduled weekly. It is understood that the teams will meet twice this year in the tournament.

The customary Washington's Birthday party for the children will be held as usual, it taking place on Monday afternoon, Feb. 23, and opening at 2:30 o'clock. An entertainment has been provided including a show, movies and refreshments. In the evening there will be a dancing party for grownups.

The dinner bridge scheduled for Friday evening, Feb. 20, has been postponed, and will be held on Friday evening, Mar. 6, but the dance scheduled for this evening is to be held. A fine orchestra will be in attendance and a royal good time is promised.

Next Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 17, there is to be an afternoon bridge for the ladies. Mrs. W. E. Kinsley will be in charge.

A new individual record in the winter bowling tournament was established Monday night, when Frank Higgins rolled a single string of 153, one of the best in years.

Calumet returned from the Kernwood Club at Malden Monday night with a loss of 9 points, the local boys only capturing 6. Calumet's No. 1 bowling team took three points and its No. 2 team got but one.

UNIVERSITY THEATER

A dramatic vehicle of love and redemption with a sensational prison background opens at the University Sunday for four days. The film is "The Criminal Code" adapted from Broadway's smashing stage hit of the same name which won the New York Theater Club trophy as the best play of the year. "The Criminal Code" is replete with romance and thrills. It is a poignant love story—the seemingly hopeless love of a youthful convict for the warden's daughter. Two plots, a jail break and many other startling scenes are featured. Walter Huston is starred. He is supported by a brilliant cast which includes Constance Cummings, Phillips Holmes and Mary Doran.

Comedy and romance have been combined in perfect proportions in "The Princess and the Plumber" the companion feature. Charles Farrell and Maureen O'Sullivan will be seen in the title roles, with H. B. Warner in the chief supporting role.

"Paid" will be the attraction starting Thursday for three days. This is Joan Crawford's latest dramatic starring vehicle, and is of particular interest in being the first dialogue film version of Bayard Veiller's sensation stage play. "Within the Law." Briefly, the plot of "Paid" concerns a shop girl, "framed" and sent to jail for a robbery she didn't do, plots revenge on society and on the man who had her incarcerated, only to fall in love with his son. A gang killing brings the plot to a climax. Robert Armstrong heads the imposing supporting cast as Joe Garson who loves the heroine but "takes the jolt" so that she may be free to marry the man she really loves. Kent Douglass, a newcomer to the screen, has the romantic lead.

"Charley's Aunt" the companion picture is a farce of student life at Oxford University, mistaken identity and female impersonation. Charlie Ruggles, grand comedian of the talkies, plays the title role.

Meanwhile Nicholas Rosa, foreman of the town Highway Department, stated that while he was at the town dump he had been assaulted by McKenna who had gotten him down and was pounding him when Errico came to his assistance, striking McKenna with a crank handle. McKenna secured a complaint against Errico, charging assault, and the latter is to appear in the District Court at Woburn on Feb. 19.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

In response to repeated inquiries I wish to announce that I will seek election to the office of Collector of Taxes in Winchester at the March election.

My residence in Winchester extends over 15 years, and the fact that I have been engaged in business locally with the Edison Light Company for the past eight years has given me an opportunity to meet and know many of the town's people.

I believe that I can successfully administer the duties of the office I seek, and in so doing, if elected, I will give each and every tax payer careful consideration and courteous treatment. I ask your consideration of my candidacy and will appreciate your vote.

AUTO AND TROLLEY IN COLLISION

A collision between a trolley car and an auto occurred yesterday morning on Cutter's Hill. Main street, about 6:40 a. m., when a Pontiac sedan, operated by Thomas A. Steele of Glen road, Wilmington, Conn., collided head on with the Woburn bound trolley car, in charge of Motorman Fred Mitchell.

The Pontiac was badly damaged and John Steele, father of the operator, was injured and removed to the Winchester Hospital by a passing auto.

The Pontiac was pushed to the side of the street and had to be towed away.

TOWN OF WINCHESTER

NOTICE OF HEARING

In Board of Selectmen,

Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company having applied for a license to operate motor vehicles for the carriage of passengers for hire over a public way in the Town, to wit, on Main Street, between the Winchester-Medford boundary line and the Winchester-Woburn boundary line,

it is hereby

ORDERED that a public hearing be held thereon on Tuesday, the 24th day of February, 1931 at 8:30 P. M. in the Selectmen's Room in the Town Hall Building, and that the petitioner give notice thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in "The Winchester Star" in the issues of February 13 and 20, 1931.

Clerk of the Board of Selectmen

NO STRANGER TO MAJORITY OF CITIZENS

To the Voters of Winchester:

In announcing my candidacy for the Board of Selectman of Winchester, I feel that I am no stranger to a large majority of the citizens. I have been a resident of this town for more than 20 years, and have always been interested in its affairs and activities.

I attended the Winchester schools, graduating from the high school in 1913, studied law at Boston University Law School, and during the World War served with the 196th Ordinance Depot Company for a period of 15 months. In 1919, I was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar, and since that time have been engaged in the practice of law in Boston.

I have already held several positions of trust and responsibility in the town, having been an election officer for 11 years, and served as Warden for Precinct 3 since the town was divided into voting precincts. I was a member of the Town War Memorial Committee, and am now a member of the Committee on Increased Water Supply for the Town. I am a member of the Board of Directors of the Winchester Hospital, belong to several fraternal organizations in town, and have always been very active in the affairs of Winchester Post, 97, the American Legion, serving as Commander of this Post for two years, and having also served as Welfare Officer of this organization for the past four years.

I feel that I have had sufficient experience with, and such a knowledge of town affairs, that I am fitted for the office of Selectman. It will be my sincere desire to serve the interests of all the citizens of Winchester, and, in rendering that service, to do my best to live up to the highest standards that have been attained by past Selectmen—standards which the people of the town have the right to demand from men holding the office of Selectman. I am free from all entanglements and obligations, and have made no promises, except that I will render to the town the best service within my power and ability.

ROTARY CLUB

In lieu of the regular meeting of the week our club journeyed to Melrose last Thursday to be guests of the Rotary Club of Melrose. The Melrose Club also entertained the Lion's Club of Melrose and the Lion's Club of Winchester at this meeting. About 100 men sat at luncheon. The Rotary Club of Winchester registered seven absentees which is a very good record for an out-of-town meeting.

As is the custom at these meetings there was music, and in this feature the assistance of our club was requested. It would appear that "Doc" and his minions have acquired a reputation for their work in dissecting "L'Allouette." The plaudits offered were gratifying indeed, yet we hasten to assert that we well realize that Rotary is much more than a lark.

Gaylord Douglas, Rotarian, of Springfield was guest speaker at this meeting. The subject of his discourse was "International Relations," a timely topic, inasmuch as an improved international understanding is the goal of both Rotary and Lions' Clubs.

No nation can be isolated nowadays said Mr. Douglas. No nation can be independent of its neighbors, near or distant. Modern inventions, railways, motor cars, steamships, air planes, radios have brought every part of the civilized world in practically instant communication with every other part. It sometimes seems that many of our good citizens little realize the meaning and effect of the miracles which are taking place day by day in our modern world. To paraphrase a well-known one of our statesmen, "This country needs—not so much a good five-cent cigar as a more enlightened internsational understanding."

If the object of those in control of mundane destinies in the second decade of this century was World War, surely those who are at the helm in this fourth decade must seek World Peace with even greater fervor, which indeed, they will do if we of the rank and file give unmistakable evidence of our desires; if we demand action to this end. And this, if you please, is the line along which the international service clubs are functioning and that effectively.

At this meeting we were pleased to welcome for the first time as a Rotarian, our new member, Frank H. Eman, who has been elected to fill the classification "Carpentry." We believe this is a forward step both for Frank and for the club, the beginning of a new companionship in service.

Our next meeting will be on Feb. 26, in home quarters. We need a 100 per cent meeting this month. Now is the time to make the effort.

HARRY GOODWIN, Adjutant

LEGION SHOW A SUCCESS

Audience Thoroughly Pleased With "Journey's End"

"Journey's End," presented on Monday and Tuesday evenings in the Town Hall by members of American Legion Post, No. 97, was a distinct success. Seldom have Winchester audiences been so well entertained, as testified by prolonged applause at the final curtain. The play, by R. C. Sherriff, tells of the grim everyday business of war, shorn of the cheers and music so often added by ambitious writers to give the action so-called public appeal. Highly dramatic effort is therefore necessary to carry the theme, and it is agreed by all that the Legion players arose to the occasion.

The play opens in a trench dug-out among the British lines before St. Quentine to which the officers of "C" Company have been assigned, and the eventful hours which follow serve to bring out their various characteristics "under fire" and give the audience an insight into the philosophy of men at the front.

Captain Hardy, well-played by Whitelaw Wright, was discovered in the first scene, about to turn over the dug-out to the relieving commander. His happy-go-lucky manner was amusing as he admonished Lieutenant Osborne (W. Allan Wilde), "Don't forget to change your clothes if you get wet," and disappeared before Captain Stanhope (Theodore Godwin) could have time to inspect the haphazard condition of the trenches. Before we were introduced to Stanhope, however, we became well-acquainted with two of the most interesting characters of the play, 2nd Lieutenant Raleigh and Private Mason, played in excellent fashion with a truly professional touch by W. H. Dermot Townley-Tilson and Gerald Y. Hills. They with Osborne provided a most entertaining half hour, during which the latter supervises the preparation of the evening meal by Mason, the cook, and with friendly advice instructs the young officer, new at the front, in the rudiments of his duties.

Wilde was thoroughly enjoyed and the audience showed that they were heartily sorry that his part did not take him through the entire play. He acted the part of Osborne to perfection, seeing that all were well taken care of and happy, cautioning, encouraging, a typical second in command. Townley-Tilson was well cast for the part of Raleigh, and brought a freshness and exuberancy into his acting which might well distinguish a youthful officer just out of school and eager to do his full best for "Old England," talking of foothall and cricket, and as if, after all, the war were just a grand, good game. Hills delighted everyone with his delineation of Mason, faithful cockney cook. It was "Hi Mason" and "Coming, Sir" throughout the play. Mason became famous for his "ordinary ration meat, but a noo shape, sir," the "deep yellow soup," not to forget also "jam pudding" that made Trotter feel "all blowing up with a bicycle pump."

Then appeared Captain Stanhone and Lieutenant Trotter, played by Theodore Godwin and Otis Alley respectively. Godwin was immense. He carried the brunt of the speaking parts throughout the entire evening and carefully portrayed the indefatigable company commander who at 21 had been three years in the war and was gradually wearing himself out, carrying on through sheer nerve, drinking constantly, gruff—almost unbearable on occasions, but showing underneath all an intense sympathy and appreciation of a difficult part and well-taken. Alley as Lieutenant Trotter convulsed the audience time and again with his antics, often on the spur of the moment and therefore doubly amusing. Trotter, we were told by Captain Stanhope, had no imagination, but we found him wholly cheerful in every conceivable situation, a soldier who loved to hear "the bloomin' little birds" forecast the coming of spring, who didn't relish a night raid because you had to crawl out there on a full stomach, and who couldn't fight this bloomin' war without plenty of pepper in his soup.

In due course we were introduced to the other characters, 2nd Lieutenant Hibbert, played by Robert M. Keeney of the High School faculty; Fred M. Cameron as Sergeant Major; William H. Mobbs, the Colonel; Arthur H. Cameron, the German prisoner taken in the night raid that was fatal to Osborne; Russell Carroll, well-known guardian of the Legion House, as the runner.

Close upon the night raid, made bravely in the face of certain disaster by Osborne and Raleigh, came the long expected German attack, and Act 3 in which this took place bristled with dramatic action. Kenney, who had given a noteworthy piece of acting in his attempt to "walk out" on Stanhope on the previous day again showed Hibbert in a condition of fright over the impending attack, not an easy part. Fred Cameron was excellent as the soldierly Sergeant Major, who was everywhere at the right time; William Mobbs acted in just such manner as would stir the wrath of Stanhope when the Colonel talked gayly of pleasing the Brigadier when Osborne lay mortally wounded on the parapet outside, true youthful Raleigh to fall later. Arthur Cameron's German was fluent, to say the least. "Rus" Carroll did not run—he flew! And what an attack! The boys behind the scenes created a rumbus, rivalled only by Manchester Field on a well-known night in August. They did themselves proud. Then, true to the story, there was an explosion, the dug-out caved in, and the show was over.

Special credit should be given to the organization in charge of the play, with "Ted" Godwin as general chairman, assisted by Vincent P. Clarke and Kingman Cass, with the following committees:

Tickets, George L. Barton, Chairman
Music, E. J. LaRue
Prompter, Post Commdr. Wade L. Grindle
Stage Manager, Harry C. Goodwin
Stage Effects and Properties, John Converse, Cecil G. Young, Lee D. Mellett, Robert W. Hamilton, John P. Cullen, Harry W. Bennett, Roy A. Nelson, Theodore W. Lawson.

There was a good side audience on both nights. We venture to say that had the townspeople realized what a treat was in store for those who attended, the hall would have been packed. From the opening musical numbers by Winchester Post Band, which was present in full strength and ably conducted by Legionnaire Frederick G. Nobile through many of the war-time favorites, till the last curtain, the audience was well-pleased and showed their keen enjoyment. It is hoped that the Legion will continue to make this an annual affair.

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES

To be Shown at Methodist Church

Motion pictures, "America Goes Over," the famous official United States pictures of the World War, will be shown at the February meeting of the Men's Class of the Methodist Church next Thursday evening. This is not a studio picture, but actual photographs of America's part in the struggle, from the declaration of war, by President Wilson, to the signing of the Armistice. Sometimes it is romantic, sometimes tragic, always it is dramatic thrilling and real. Few, if any, motion pictures have ever been released which compare with it. The actual leaders, soldiers and scenes of the greatest chapter in the world's history are here represented in the making.

The supper will be served at 6:30. Then will follow music and the entertainment. Jack Hawkins is general chairman. Alonzo D. Nicholas is president of the class.

MISS BARBARA MacNIFF ENTERTAINS

Misses Janet Hoff and Ruth Braffin gave a clog dance specialty. Refreshments were served at 10 o'clock, closing the evening with many happy little hearts.

WARRANT FOR ANNUAL MEETING OUT

The annual town warrant and report of the Finance Committee was distributed about town this week. This year's warrant contains some 46 articles, many of which concern changes to the building laws and zoning laws and new street layouts.

Of interest outside the routine matters to be considered will be the Manchester Field Memorial to Forest C. Manchester, periodical audits of town accounts, Sunday sports, new method of electing Finance Committee, proposed removal of the Symmes Park Water Tower and the matter of a Junior High School or erecting an addition to the present High School.

Strange to note, no provision is included for motion pictures in town, and several articles are of such a nature that until their purpose is explained at the meeting, the Finance Committee is unable to pass upon them.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT FISHERMAN'S SUNDAY

Many From Out-of-Town Heard Rev. Howard J. Chidley

"Don't wait until you've made a lot of money before you start in to enjoy yourself. Don't delay your good times until you are in a wheel chair or a coffin," said Dr. Howard J. Chidley in his ninth annual Fisherman's Sunday address to about 90 fishermen and a congregation filling the First Congregational Church to the doors last Sunday morning.

A record attendance of fellow fishermen greeted Dr. Chidley and his address reflected the inspiration which such a group of men must inevitably prove to the preacher. Never since Fisherman's Sunday was instituted has a more interesting address been presented.

The fishermen occupied the entire center section of pews at the front of the auditorium, and among those in the large delegation were many who had fished and shared camp life with Dr. Chidley. His message was primarily to them, but those in the congregation who had never known the magic of the fishing camp were impressed and inspired by his talk.

Beautiful cut flowers and potted plants made the church unusually attractive, the chancel being decorated with 24 dozen carnations in many colors, potted tulips, cyclamen and Jerusalem cherry trees. After the service these flowers, the gift of the fishermen, were distributed to sick and shut-ins about town, particular care being taken to remember those members of fishermen's families who were unable to attend the worship. Miss Evelyn Toppan was in charge of the distribution, assisted by a group of church ladies.

A special musical program was sung by the vested chancel choir of the church under the direction of Organist and Choirmaster J. Albert Wilson. The choir sang "I Waited for the Lord" by Mendelssohn, with soprano and mezzo duet by Idabelle H. Winship and Betty Alden Perry, and "The Lord Is Loving Unto Every Man" by Batson.

Ushers for the service were Charles A. Lane, who was in general charge of the entire arrangements for Fisherman's Sunday, Selectman Harris S. Richardson, Vincent Farnsworth and Dr. J. Churchill Hindes.

Dr. Chidley took as the topic of his address, "The Wind in the Willows," and opened his remarks with a reference to Kenneth Graham's novel by that name. It was a straight forward, man-to-man talk, such as those which have been so much enjoyed by the fishermen in former years. Now humorous, now crowded with beautifully done word pictures of the great open spaces and the lure which the out-of-doors has for every man, the discourse held the closest attention of all its listeners throughout its entire length.

The speaker spoke of the need every man has for relaxation of the proper sort, of the great value in such relaxation and of the ease with which this tonic rest can be obtained in the fishing camp and along the rivers and streams. Man can best take mental account of stock by himself, and nowhere can one be so completely alone as in the woods.

Continuing, Dr. Chidley spoke of those he had known who were always going to take a rest and enjoy themselves, only to have death or invalidism arrive before they got around to it. In humorous vein he referred to the spring as the time best suited for a vacation, more especially if on that vacation mere man intends to wear that old hat or fishing coat, hanging in the attic. Spring cleaning and the Morgan Memorial will get in their work if the wait before going away is too extensive, and that valued hat or fishing garment may at any time make its appearance upon some hobo on the street.

Heading the out-of-town guests this year was Mr. Mike Marr of Marr's Camps, Me., his wife and two daughters. Many fishermen were accompanied to Winchester by their families and as far as possible these guests were seated in the church together.

The complete list of fishermen follows:

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Tonight at 8:30 at the Calumet Club, we hold our fourth dance in the winter series. We will have "Frankie" Flynn's music again. "Enough said," when we mention that, as all Winchester Boat Club members know, that insures a good dance. These parties are open to all who enjoy dancing and the price is dirt cheap. Make up a crowd and come over, you won't regret it. These times are informal.

CONTESTS FOR TOWN OFFICES LOOM AS ELECTION DAY APPROACHES

Ten Candidates for Board of Selectmen—Competition for Assessor, Collector, Public Welfare and Library Trustees

With the annual March Town Meeting just around the corner the recently completed filing of nomination papers makes it apparent that Winchester is in for one of the hottest elections experienced in some years. While some of the contests promised have failed to materialize there are sufficient candidates in the field to warrant the thought that there will be plenty of fireworks before the final ballot is counted and the results made known.

Heading the list in point of public interest is the contest being waged for the Board of Selectmen among J. Harper Blaisdell, M. D., William P. Callahan, Vincent P. Clarke, Thomas F. Fallon, Frank W. Jones, William Eben Ramsdell, Gerald K. Richardson, Harris S. Richardson, Harry W. Stevens and Irving L. Symmes.

Of these Messrs. Clarke, Harris Richardson, Stevens and Symmes are candidates to succeed themselves, and Dr. Blaisdell, Mr. Fallon and Mr. Callahan have had experience on the Board. Messrs. Jones and Ramsdell are new candidates, the former having been a member of the Finance Committee and the latter having had much experience in town affairs as an election official. Mr. Gerald Richardson was a candidate for the Board last year and made a good showing. Only five of these candidates can be elected and it is some time since the voters have had so wide a choice.

A four cornered fight is to be waged for the vacancy existing on the Board of Assessors with Mr. John F. Cassidy, seeking re-election, being opposed by former Selectman Walter H. Dotten, Mr. Robert M. Hamilton and Mr. Archibald J. MacDonald. Speculation is rife as the outcome of this race for election.

Five candidates are in the field for the two posts as Trustee of the Town Library for the three year term, Messrs. M. Walker Jones and Edgar J. Rich, present Trustees, being opposed by Mr. Clinton E. Farnham, former principal of the high school; and by Mrs. Mary E. Siedhof and Mrs. Anna M. Swanson.

Tax Collector Nathaniel M. Nichols, running for re-election, is being opposed this year by Mr. Paul G. Eberle, a World War veteran and Mr. Albert K. Huckins, who seeks re-election to the Board of Public Welfare has opposition in the candidacy of Mr. Sewall E. Newman.

No other contests are listed on the ballot, with the exception of town meeting delegates.

Moderator George B. Hayward is a candidate for re-election as is Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell, present member of the Board of Health. Mr. Joseph L. S. Barton has no opposition for Cemetery Commissioner nor have the three candidates for Constable, Police Chief William H. Rogers and Messrs. Edward F. Maguire and Michael J. Foley.

There is no opposition to the re-election of Rev. William S. Packer to the Park Board nor to that of Mr. Maurice C. Tompkins to the Planning Board. Messrs. Edward A. Tucker, present chairman of the Board, and Mr. Burton W. Carey are unopposed for election to the School Committee. There is no opposition to the candidacy of Town Treasurer Harrie Y. Nutter.

The veteran Tree Warden, Samuel S. Symmes, is again unopposed for re-election and there are no candidates in the field against Mr. Ralph T. Hale, present Library Trustee who seeks re-election for a one year term, or against Mrs. Jennie C. Gates, who seeks election as Trustee for two years. The veteran chairman of the Water and Sewer Board, Edmund C. Sanderson, is unopposed for re-election, a candidate who was for a while in the field having dropped out.

Following are the candidates for Town Meeting members by Precincts, 11 to be elected for three years in each Precinct and one each for two years in Precincts 1, 2 and 6.

MR. DAN McGOWAN TO LECTURE AT EPIPHANY PARISH HOUSE

Mr. Dan McGowan will give an illustrated lecture on "In the Land of the Assiniboine" on Thursday evening Feb. 26 at 8 o'clock in the parish hall of the Epiphany Church. This lecture is sponsored by the Men's Club of the church in order to raise funds for the church deficit.

Mr. McGowan will be remembered as the Field Naturalist who gave the interesting lecture last year before the members of the Men's Club.

Come and help us raise the necessary quota.

"LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN"

"Lady Windermere's Fan," a fascinating play of modern life, not too timid in depicting the realities of domestic difficulties, was ably produced on Friday by an excellent cast in The Little Theater Beneath a Spire. Perhaps the key-note of the play was to be found in the finished acting of Mrs. Ralph Ostburg, as a cleverly scheming woman with a past. Miss Norma Skene fittingly portrayed the part of the beautiful wife, utterly intolerant of less fortunate members of society while the part of her husband, somewhat over-solicitous of the weaker sex, was played by Mr. Maurice Butler. The fond mamma, with society aspirations and her long-suffering daughter were skillfully played by Mrs. Roma N. Hawkins and Miss Helen Fowle.

One of the best scenes of the play was that in which a group of gentlemen lounging at ease frankly discussed each other's faults and foibles, and throughout the play the well-known dramatic ability of Mr. Hubert Bernard, Jr., as the man-about-town, added zest and reality to the many scenes in which he participated.

The cast was as follows:

Lady Windermere	Norma Skene
Lord Windermere	Morris J. Butler
Lord Darlington	Hubert Bernard, Jr.
Mrs. Erlynne	Dorothy Ostburg
Parker (butler)	John H. Irish

MISS AVERY'S LECTURE

The eighth lecture of Miss Avery's Current Events Course will be held Feb. 25, at 2:15, at the Wyman School Hall. Her subjects will be: "Why Has France Been Prosperous?" and "Why Is Modern Art?—Beauty as the Development of an Industrial Age."

In the lecture on Feb. 8, Miss Avery discussed the economic and political situation in China and in Russia.

From a gathering of 22 old States, China now finds herself in two main political divisions. The progress of the last 10 years must be considered in the light of undoing the experience of the last 5000 years. She explained how a fairly common language has been finally achieved.

Of the 282 mutinies of the last two years in China, only two have been communist. In the south of China a system of tenant farming similar to the system in Russia is frequently found.

Miss Avery explained how Russia is undergoing a political experiment in dictatorship, the dictators being communists. This group are trying to accomplish in 20 years in Russia what most of the progressive nations have done in the last 155 years. She explained the three kinds of enforced labor and the three systems of farms and the awards. Also she took up the financial standing of Russia, particularly the trade acceptances.

WINCHESTER PEOPLE FAVOR ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Among the many prominent citizens of Winchester who urge their legislators to act favorably on bills relating to the abolition of capital punishment are: Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Chidley, Augustus J. Boyden, Rev. Edward Russell, Mrs. D. C. Dennett, Loran W. S. Chisholm, Mrs. H. I. Fessenden, Rev. Truman Heminway, Mr. and Mrs. John Leslie Lobingier, Mrs. Lewis Snyder, Sfa Ward Albro, James Sidney Allen, George F. Arnold, Franklin E. Barnes, George G. Brayley, Myrtle M. Brayley, Ethlyn B. Brown, F. W. Butler, Dennis J. Collins, Sarah E. Colrillo, Margaret M. Copland, Margaret B. Winn, Anna L. Dowd, Harry A. Wilcox, Alice L. Drew, Hart Irvine West, Mr. Whitfield Tuck, Florence M. Farnham, Nellie Sullivan, Anne C. Halvorsen, Charles J. Harrold, Caroline Pearson Spaulding, Helen M. Smiley, Arthur T. Smith, William W. Hill, Florence B. Sealer, Clara W. Huckins, Margaret E. Randall, Bertha R. Kelley, Emma S. Nickerson, Rachel J. Killam, Mary P. Kinner, Albert E. Kleeb, Mabel D. Newman, Raymond Merrill, George W. Lochman.

This year a bill has been introduced by the proponents of abolition, advocating the appointment of a commission to consist of five people appointed by the Governor, to make an impartial study and report on the advisability of abolishing capital punishment in this state. A similar investigation was made last year in England and the commission, which investigated the situation there, recommended a five year trial period of abolition.

an Open letter to Buick owners

February 7, 1931

Dear Buick Owner:

Because of its importance, we decided to inform you now that the present line of 1931 Buick Straight Eights will not be replaced by new models this summer.

Buick, as you know, has introduced its new cars on August 1st, year after year. But inasmuch as these new Straight Eight models have met with such spontaneous approval by thousands everywhere, Buick has decided to continue manufacturing the present Eights throughout the summer and coming fall.

This is mighty good news to thousands of Buick owners because they will buy new Buicks now with the knowledge that there will be no model change next summer.

They will find in these new Buicks a degree of performance that is certain to give them a genuine thrill. All have the safe, silent-shift Syncro-Mesh transmission. All have Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engines. And all have the famous insulated Bodies by Fisher.

So well has the 1931 line been received that, out of every 100 eights sold in Buick's price class, 56 are Buicks.

May we suggest that you drive the Eight as Buick Builds It? Your Buick dealer will be glad to have you take the wheel and learn at first hand how much Buick Straight Eight performance adds to the joy of motoring.

Very truly yours,

In inquiring this week concerning the omission of Mr. Daley's "movie" article on the warrant for the coming town meeting, the STAR was informed that it was not necessary, since it appears certain that three candidates will be elected on the new board of Selectmen who are favorable to pictures and who will grant a permit upon taking office!

Mr. Garald K. Richardson, "one of the candidates for Selectmen, a citizen and a voter of the town of Winchester," filed a protest this week against the nomination of eight candidates for the Board of Selectmen. Mr. Richardson bases his objection and protest upon the designations following the names of candidates. These designations, if memory serves correctly, were originally instituted by Mr. W. L. Tuck years ago during one of his candidacies for town office. In view of the fact that the designations have been allowed for so long a period without question, Mr. Richardson's point appears rather finely drawn. He is the only candidate appearing upon the ballot having a similar name with another—present Selectman Harris S. Richardson. Indications are that his protest will not be allowed.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

On Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19, the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League met at the home of Mrs. Albert K. Comins, 407 Highland avenue.

Mrs. Harold F. Meyer, president of the Circle, presided and after the business meeting, introduced Mrs. Celia Wellman, a probation officer from Newton Court, who has charge of all juveniles from 7 to 17 years of age. Mrs. Wellman gave a most interesting and instructive outline of the court work.

Mrs. Meyer next introduced Mr. Ernest Hermann who is in charge of the recreational work for Newton. His talk was most helpful and inspiring. He stressed the importance of the most proper and best use of our leisure time and how much this means to the lives of the youngest as well as those who have grown older.

The Old Refrain ..... Fritz Kreisler
Mighty Lak' A Rose ..... Nevin

The selections were beautifully rendered and received enthusiastic applause.

Tea was served and a pleasant social time enjoyed.

STOLEN SHOES RECOVERED

The police station appeared like a retail shoe store yesterday after Sergeant Noonan and Officer Derro had recovered eight cases of sample shoes found in the woods off Highland avenue, Wednesday.

The police report is as follows: Ernest G. LaFlame of 27 Brookfield road, Cambridge, had been sent to the Reginald Bradlee place on Ledgewood road to do some work. He lost his way getting there and in passing through the woods in the vicinity, came upon a large sample case which on opening was found to contain samples of shoes all for the right foot. He brought the case to the station and then Sergeant Noonan with Officer Derro went to the spot and after searching around found eight more cases.

After investigation it was found that these shoes were the property of Ray L. Alexander of Clinton, and were stolen together with his auto in Worcester on Monday. Mr. Alexander called at the station yesterday for his property.

Murphy of 6 Valley road, Woburn. William E. Curry, a passenger in the roadster, complained of injuries and was treated by Dr. Daniel R. Joyce of Woburn. Both machines were damaged.

Robert B. Metcalf of this town will attend the annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association which will be held in Detroit from Feb. 21 to 26.

The Selectmen have received a letter from the Arlington Selectmen stating they have voted to petition the Department of Public Works for the extension of that part of the High street route in Arlington from Ridge street to the Lexington line to Lowell street near Maple street. The Arlington Selectmen ask the board to petition for that part of the proposed way in Winchester.

Perfect Enjoyment

An old merchant mate, who had reared from the sea, for his own satisfaction, hired a small boy to hammer at the cottage door every morning at dawn and howl:

"Cap'n wants you on the bridge!"

"What sort of a mornin' is it?" the ancient mariner would come back.

"Dark as a dog's throat, an' rainin' and blowin' like beggary!"

"Then tell the cap'n to go to h—l!"

And he settled down once more to a warm pillow.—Kansas City Times.

"SUMMER ISLES" MAY SOON BE OCEANIC AIRPORT

The Bermuda Islands will be the first sea stop of the Europe-bound aerial "fast mail" if present plans for such an oceanic service are consummated.

When airplanes glide in and out of the Bermudas the islands will have plunged point-blank from the bicycle era into the airplane age of transportation, without the intermediate stage of automobiles, since all motor vehicles are tabu, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Were there an airport on each island—which of course there could not be—airplanes might land on a different island every day of the year, for there are 365 islands in the group.

Discovered by Shipwreck

Formerly the tiny land dots were known as the "Isles of the Devil." They were shunned by seafarers; not sought as a refuge. In fact they were discovered unwittingly by Juan de Bermudez when he was shipwrecked upon them. "The Summer Isles," the natives now call them, and the quiet, quaint tourists' haven owes its existence to one of Nature's most violent forces—the volcano.

The islands are projecting peaks of a mighty, submerged, extinct volcano, based on the ocean floor, 15,000 feet below the surface; and if the water were drained off the mountain would be a prototype of the land-anchored Mont Blanc, in Europe. Instead of snow, this mountain is crowned with a layer of coral which, through the ages with the help of sea and wind, has gradually built up low, white limestone hills. Since the titanic disturbance which created it, the volcano has settled slowly so that in places the coral is just below the water, forming a ring of treacherous reefs and the famous marine gardens.

The islands are arranged like a giant fishhhook, 580 miles from Cape Hatteras. On approaching land a steamer picks up a pilot, then turns completely around and doubles back on its track. Actually the vessel is proceeding through a narrow opening in the outer ring of reefs and is picking a course slowly inside, following the shore line. Whitish patches on the turquoise waters indicate coral shoals. Where the ship channel is narrow one may look over the side and see jagged chunks of highly colored coral.

Once inside the harbor of Hamilton, capital of Bermuda, the vessel is turned around and moored to the dock. So narrow and tiny is this harbor that it seems as if the bow and stern would touch the banks as the ship is warped around. From the decks passengers look down on the little village as if from a tower. Lines of carriages, once the pride of Fifth avenue, are drawn up, natives with bicycles stare at the ship and the life of the town in general seems to stop and gather to see the event of the week, the arrival of the mail packet!

Clean, little two-story houses, as white as the icing on a cake, according to Mark Twain, dot the rolling hillside around the harbor amid dark green native cedars, palms and gardens. Tall American-looking hotels and the Hamilton Cathedral break the sky line.

Bicycle Traffic Rigidly Regulated

The absence of automobiles does not prevent strict enforcement of traffic rules. "Reckless bicycle riding," cutting in front of traffic officers at intersections, or riding on the wrong side of the street are serious traffic offenses.

Bermudians either farm or cater to tourists, who consist principally of Americans. Easter lilies are the best known export. Early vegetables are shipped in large quantities, especially onions. There are no income or property taxes. Practically all government revenues are collected from the customs duties on imported articles.

Houses are built by sawing blocks of white limestone from a quarry near the house site and fitting them together. Even the smooth, sloping roofs are made of limestone slabs which harden when exposed. Because of the porous soil there are no rivers or springs in Bermuda and therefore every house is required by law to make of the roof a rain catch, adequate to supply the water needs of its occupants.

Acres of Lilies

Connecting various towns, many of them bearing English names, are smooth, orange-colored lanes, slippery and treacherous when wet to cyclists. Sometimes these roads lead along the water's edge, affording lovely vistas of the blue ocean through the native cedar trees, cut through limestone hills in miniature man-made canyons, or are lined with scarlet and pink oleanders which bloom for nine months of the year. During the early spring months lilies carpet acres of reddish-brown top soil and perfume the air for miles. Cardinals, blue birds, goldfinches, hummingbirds and many other North American birds have found refuge in the islands.

Bermuda's government is patterned after that of its motherland, Britain. A man must be a property owner to vote or hold office. He is a landholder in several parishes he is entitled to vote in each one. Bermudians are proud that theirs is the oldest English colony in the New World, since it was settled in 1610 by Sir George Somers. The streets of St. Georges, the first settlement, lead down to the central market square. They were built that way to give protection in case of invasion.

Historic Scottish Spot

The Witches' stone at Spott, near Dunbar, Scotland, which marks the place where many witches were burned, is to be preserved and a railing placed around it.

Sweet Stones

Peggy's father had been out of town and when he returned, he brought her some "rock" candy. The following week he was again obliged to leave the city, and just before he left, Peggy kissed him, and said:

"Be sure and bring me some more of those sweet stones, daddy!"

THE CO OPERATIVE IS THE BANK FOR YOU

IT'S VERY SIMPLE

You Can Transfer Your Home Loan to a

CO-OPERATIVE BANK

People sometimes purchase homes on which straight loans have previously been made.

They may prefer the advantages of a Co-operative Bank loan with re-payments on monthly installments, but do not know that a transfer of the mortgage is possible.

However, this can be done.

They do want to accommodate all who prefer Co-operative Bank SERVICE, and will be pleased to discuss this matter with you.

Legal Precedent

One legal authority says: "In the Anglo-American legal system a decision by a court, made on a question of law arising in a case and necessary to its determination, is an authority, or binding precedent, in the same court or in other courts of lower rank, in subsequent cases where the same question is again in controversy." This is called the doctrine of precedent, or "stare decisis et non quieta movere," which means "to stand by the decisions and not disturb what is settled."

Marvelous Jaw Power

A fighting lion caught in a noose has been known to bite the thick rope in an instant and make away. Whales have been known to crush a heavy boat in its jaws. An infuriated tiger bit clean through the shoulder of a man, crushing all the bones to splinters. The hyena has the most powerful jaw muscles of any warm-blooded creature. A hyena can bite through the thigh bone of an ox in order to extract the marrow.

For Rule by Workers

An egotarkrat is one who believes in ergatocracy. This is a new term coined to describe the new political philosophy of the Left-Wing Socialists. It is derived from the Greek word "ergates," meaning a worker, plus "kratia," meaning rule or government. Briefly, it means administration of the workers, for the workers, and by the workers.

KINCHINJUNGA, THIRD HIGHEST MOUNTAIN, REPELS CLIMBERS

Kinchinjunga, third highest mountain in the world, has turned back a party of six Germans who attempted to climb it.

They did not get as close to the top of Kinchinjunga as the English climbers got to the peak of Mt. Everest, highest mountain in the world.

Kinchinjunga and Everest are neighbors, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Kinchinjunga, in Sikkhim, lies only 100 miles east of Everest, which rises on the border between Tibet and Nepal.

Second Highest Has Three Names

If Everest lost 1000 feet of its summit in a rock slip Kinchinjunga, towering 28,146 feet in height, five and one-third miles up in the air, would become the second highest mountain in the world.

The present second highest mountain, which has three names, Godwin-Austen or K2 or Dapsang, is a member of the same Himalayan Mountain chain, but it lies far to the other end in Kashmir. It is as far away from Everest and Kinchinjunga as Chicago is from New York. K2 is 104 feet higher than Kinchinjunga.

A Cluster of Peaks

Of the three Kinchinjunga is most accessible. It is to the English health station, Darjeeling, what Mt. Rainier is to Tacoma and Seattle. The narrow gauge railway to Darjeeling brings visitors within 45 miles of the snow-capped peak holding court amid a group of peaks, many of which outtop Mt. McKinley, highest mountain in North America.

Kinchinjunga is particularly impressive to the visitor in Darjeeling because of the tremendous vertical sweep possible to the eye. K2 and Everest rise from high plateaus; not so Kinchinjunga.

Standing on the Darjeeling ridge the observer first looks down, deep down 6000 feet into a river gorge choked with tropical jungle. Then his eyes rise to the rice fields reflecting the blue sky and the tea plantations. Up and up to the Temperate Zone trees, then to the pine forests crowning lower mountains. The observer peeps over half a dozen intervening ridges into the dark mysterious depths of valleys. Then he sees the bare uplands above the tree line and finally the beginning of the snows. Long white glaciers drape the mountain mass whose two-pronged peak half fills the sky.

A Great Wall of Nature

At Darjeeling the world seems to be walled on the north. The eye travels 27,000 feet from the bottom of the gorges up to the peak. There is no such thing as a horizon; Kinchinjunga closes the view like an exquisite screen.

The vertical height is to the length, at this point of vantage, as 1 is to 8; that is, in a tree 60 feet high appears when viewed at the distance of one average city block.

In terms of familiar American views, Kinchinjunga, seen from Darjeeling, is like the Washington Monument as it appears from the west veranda of the Capitol or the Woolworth Building as seen from the Jersey shore.

Although Kinchinjunga is so close to an outpost of civilization it may be many years before mountain climbers succeed in conquering it. Reconnaissance explorations around its base reveal very few advantageous ridges up which mountaineers can ascend.

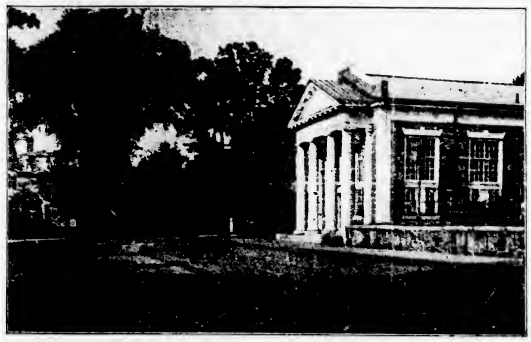

Natives Fear Mountain Spirits

Natives of the region, Bhutias, Lepchas and Nepalese, believe the snow peaks to be the abode of the evil spirits. High up the sides of the mountains they build monasteries in which they pray for deliverance from the evil spirits. They think that to climb the peaks is to tempt death.

Summing Up Americanism

Beneath and above all humanly materialistic appetites and impulses, the American has a vigorous spirit, an enthusiasm for righteous causes made plain; a democratic instinct for equal opportunity among all men; a wholehearted admiration for personal achievement; and a generous and practical charity toward the oppressed and unfortunate.—Collier's Weekly.

Calumet will hold its annual open house on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 23, for members, their family and friends. The plans of the committee include all day men's bowling with special feature contests and appropriate prizes; children's party in the afternoon beginning at 2:30, to which the children of members of the club and their friends are invited, with suitable entertainment, carefully selected moving pictures and refreshments (no charge). In the evening, there will be another of the popular dances for club members and their friends from 8:30 until 1, with good music and special features entertainment from the Boston theaters. A fee of $1 per person for the dance may be paid at the Club. Please help the committee by returning your card, making reservations immediately.

The entertainment committee has been very fortunate in securing Miss Dorothea Banman, dancer, and Loretta and Leo Arch in dances and songs.

Next Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 24, the usual afternoon bowling party will be held for the ladies starting at 2:30 o'clock.

A dinner bridge is announced for Friday evening, March 6. Mrs. F. L. Pitman will be in charge. This will be one of the popular evenings which have been drawing large gatherings to the club this winter, and especial attendance is being made to make the coming party the best of the series.

Spirit!

At the battle of Germantown on October 4, 1777, a round shot from the British artillery passed through the horse ridden by General Nash of North Carolina, shattering the general's thigh. The fall of the animal threw its rider to the ground with considerable force.

With great courage, General Nash, covering his wound with both hands, gayly called to his men: "Never mind me; I've had a devil of a tumble. Rush on, my boys—rush on the enemy. I'll be after you presently." A few days later he died.

Hebrew Money

The monetary system of the Hebrews was based upon the Babylonian system of weights. The ratio of the value of gold to silver was 1:13 1-3 and prevailed over all western Asia.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Art Committee announces that on Wednesday, Feb. 25, there will be an opportunity to visit the new Massachusetts School of Art. A visit to classes may be made in the early part of the morning, followed by a visit to the assembly during a special program. Lunch may be obtained at the new school cafeteria where the price is most moderate. All those interested in this trip may make further arrangements by calling Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, 1 Lewis road, Win. 0072.

Mrs. Lillian Whitman of the Dramatic Committee announced that on Friday, March 6, there would be a dramatic program of unusual appeal. A Chinese play will be given after which a Chinese tea will be served by members of the committee in costume.

The Literature Committee wishes to call your attention to the fact that they have added a book to the list for this year, which will be reviewed at the meeting of April 6. It is "Queen Anne's Lace" by Francis Parkinson Keyes. The book will be more interesting to many club members since it is written by a New England woman, a niece of the late Mrs. William Hills, long one of the well loved leaders of the Fortnightly Literature group.

The Youth Conference

The Youth Conference sponsored by the American Home Division of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its annual two day session, March 11-12, at Hotel Statler, Boston.

Besides providing features of special interest to young women the conference has as its two major purposes the aim to give recognition to the Home as an institution upon which the well-being of the family and the structure of society depends; and to focus attention upon home-making as a profession offering a free and varied scope for self expression and continued education.

Wednesday, March 11 at 10 o'clock there will be several talks among them one on Vocational Guidance by Richard B. Allen, of the Department of Research and Guidance of the Public Schools, Providence, R. I.

At 11:15 Miss Marjorie Slaght, from the Garland School of Home Making will give a helpful lecture on "Constructive Play" (with illustrative material).

"The Adolescent" will be the subject which Mr. John B. Scully, Superintendent of Schools in Brockton is most ably qualified to talk about.

After luncheon at 12:45 there will be other delightful speakers among them Dr. David D. Vaughn, Professor of Social Ethics, Boston University who will speak on "Youth and the New Age."

Thursday, March 12, promises an equally interesting and diversified program, with talks on "Good Taste in Home Decoration" by Mr. Donald Fockyr; "Social Hygiene" by Dr. Helen I. D. McGillicuddy.

After luncheon at which Dr. Russell Henry Stafford, minister of the New Old South Church will be the speaker and take for his subject, "Our Children in a Perplexing World." There will be a most inspiring talk on "Adventures in Music."

For tickets and registration send check and self-addressed stamped envelope to Mrs. Harry M. Lyman, 31 Bradford street, Needham.

For full information about price of tickets and registration fee telephone Mrs. Halford H. Ambler, Winchester 0518.

The Fortnightly of Winchester held its regular meeting on Monday, Feb. 16, at 2:30 p. m. in the Town Hall. The President, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, was in the chair. Immediate and necessary business was attended to as soon as possible in order that we might enjoy the program of the afternoon, a concert by our Fortnightly Glee Club, assisted by Miss Virginia Warren. The afternoon was sponsored by Mrs. Mary T. Ghirardini, chairman of the Music Committee, who has successfully and ably enlarged the Glee Club and has placed it on a basis where it is practically self-supporting for the year.

Mr. J. Albert Wilson, the efficient organist of the First Congregational Church, who needs no introduction to a Winchester audience, was director and accompanist. He generously contributed his time for the afternoon and we here express our appreciation for that and even more for the faithful and successful leadership of the Glee Club. Because of the use of the stage for the Legion play in the evening, the piano was necessarily on the floor, making it difficult for both chorus and director. In spite of this, a very fine program was rendered.

The Glee Club did excellent work, due partly to the large number of trained voices, many of them soloists, which comprise it. Their faithfulness to the rehearsals told plainly in the results. Truly the Fortnightly may compliment itself on the achievement of such a splendid Glee Club in two short years of work.

The members are as follows:

Miss Virginia Warren, daughter of Mrs. Blanche C. Warren, one of our members, has wonderful poise for an artist so young. Her manner is winsome and she is grace personified. Her voice is extremely sweet and of pretty quality. She shows the good training of her years of study both here and abroad in the intelligence and artistic finish of her work.

The program comprised the following selections:

1

Song of the Sun ..... Edith Lang
While Moonbeams Shed Their Silvery Light ..... Pierne-Stickles

We shall treasure for a long time the memory of this delightful afternoon.

Refreshments were served in keeping with the Valentine season, under the direction of Mrs. Estelle Little, Chairman of the Social Committee and Mrs. Ruth French, sub-chairman. The decorations were deep red carnations. Strawberry and pineapple ice cream were served with fancy wafers and tiny heart candles of red and white. Those serving were Mrs. Nancy Alexander, Mrs. Bertha Danforth, Mrs. May Friend and Mrs. Marion Lowell.

"CHARLIE" CHAPLIN IN "CITY LIGHTS" AT TREMONT THEATER, BOSTON, FEB. 20

"Charlie" Chaplin is back again. The whimsical little man, with the battered derby, the ill-fitting coat and baggy pants, and the pocket edition mustache. The picture is "City Lights," and it opens at the Tremont Theater in Boston on Friday night, Feb. 20. Three years, $1,500,000 and 800,000 feet of film were spent in its production. From sources close to Chaplin comes word that the comedian's enthusiasm for "City Lights" is greater than it has been for any film he has made.

"City Lights" tells of the comic adventures of a blue-blood of the highways, who forms a strange friendship with an eccentric millionaire. While intoxicated, the wealthy treats "Charlie" as a bosom companion; sobered he will have nothing to do with him. There is a blind flower girl who does unusual things to the heart strings of the friendless tramp. You'll roar one minute and feel all choked up the next watching this happy-go-lucky vagabond trying to solve his and the world's problems by becoming in turn a white wing, a prize fighter and a man about town. Here is the entertainment the world has been waiting for. A sumptuous dish of laughs, gaiety, surprises and the unmatched artistry of the greatest of all comedians combine to make "City Lights" the greatest funfest you've ever known.

Performances will be continuous from 9 a. m. until 11 p. m. and popular prices will prevail.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Old world romance and adventure that begins in Budapest's gayest cabaret and then weaves its tempestuous excitement through the richest color of Hungarian forest countryside serves to introduce Evelyn Laye, one of England's best loved and fairest enchantresses, to the screen in "One Heavenly Night" which heads the double feature bill at the University for four days starting Sunday. John Boles is the leading man and it is to him that she sings her most amorous ditties, not to mention the more intimate scenes. Leon Errol makes a claim in the picture for the same distinction that was claimed for him on the stage—an irresistible comedian. There are still others, Lilyan Tashman, more sinuously gowned than ever, and the explosive Hugh Cameron.

"Going Wild" the companion feature starring Joe E. Brown is a hilarious comedy of aviation.

Those who have been clamoring for more of Ruth Chatterton, will get a multiple serving of perfect drama in "The Right to Love" which starts Thursday for the last three days of the week. Paul Lukas, David Manners, George Baxter and Oscar Apfel players of experience and understanding are included in the cast.

"Divorce Among Friends," the companion feature, is a daring, modern comedy of love and marriage. The stars in the cast are Irene Delroy, James Hall, Natalie Moorhead and Margaret Seddon.

BAD ACCIDENT ON MAIN STREET

Many persons, all passengers in a Winchester bound Woburn electric, were injured and bruised on Wednesday morning when the car was sideswiped by a truck at the junction of Main and Stoddard streets, Woburn. The car had as passengers a number of workers at the Winchester Laundry plant and 11 of its occupants were treated after the collision.

The crash occurred at 7:20 as the truck attempted to pass the electric at this narrow point in the road. Ice at the side of the street caused the truck to slide into the electric, and both car and truck continued moving for some distance before they could stop, the windows and side of the car being broken and splintered and the passengers having no means of escaping to safety.

No one was critically injured, but many women were painfully cut and bruised. Among the Laundry workers injured were Ada Doherty, Alice Woods, Mary Gallagher, Rose McCauley, Christine Howard, Ida Reed and Margaret Dolan, all of Woburn. Another who was injured was John Delorey of Woburn, an employee of the Geo. W. Blanchard Company.

AGADIR: WHERE THE FRENCH PLAN A TRADE REVIVAL

After 165 years of quiet, Agadir, Morocco, bids fair to resume its position as one of the important seaports on the West African coast.

French faith in South Moroccan trade has led to an extensive construction program which includes building a new city, construction of new roads and the stringing of electric and telegraph wires.

Agadir is situated where the Atlas Mountains meet the Atlantic Ocean. The city is the gateway to the Souss Valley, which, since the closing of Agadir in 1765, has fallen into a serious production slump, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Agadir port straggles along the shore line of a protected bay while the native city, a broad area of mud and stone houses and walls and a fortress, crowns a lofty cliff overlooking what may again become a busy harbor.

Bustling trade is not new to Agadir. In Roman times it was a flourishing port. Until it was closed nearly two centuries ago, it was the terminus of numerous caravan routes which penetrated an area of some 20,000 square miles and served about half a million inhabitants. It was the port of the fertile Souss Valley where there are more than 3000 square miles of alluvial soil, and of numerous native towns far inland. Manganese and gold dust came to Agadir from distant regions to be traded, while dusty camels unloaded huge cargoes of olives, almonds, skins, wax and various valuable woods for shipment to European ports.

Rich Traders "Forgot" the Sultan

Trade made Agadir but absorption in trade was the port's downfall. The traders neglected to pay tribute to Sultan Sid Mohammed Ben Abdullah so he closed the port and attempted to shift Agadir's trade to Mogador, nearly 100 miles up the coast.

Mogador flourished with its royal influence. But the distance to Mogador and tribute demanded by tribesmen whose domains the caravans had to penetrate to reach the new port forced many traders to seek new routes. Some traders found sea outlets through Algiers to the Mediterranean; others trekked to ports south of Agadir.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

Two tremendous fires—real conflagrations, with every fire apparatus in the city at the scene; with thrilling rescues, hair-breadth escapes, shrieking sirens, and roaring flames lighting the skies are to be seen in "The Third Alarm," starring James Hall, which opens a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. Every sort of a thrill is provided for the exercise of your emotions in the new version in dialogue and sound of the famous production. In addition to James Hall, "The Third Alarm" presents Anita Louise, Paul Hurst, Mary Doran and Hobart Bosworth in important roles. The climax of the picture shows a fire in an orphanage with the firemen risking their lives to save the helpless children.

"Mother's Cry," a talking screen version of Helen Carlisle's best-selling novel of the same name, with a cast that includes Helen Chandler, David Manners and Sydney Blackmer will be the second attraction on the Mystic program for Saturday. The story is about the mother of four children who grow up totally different and her struggle to understand each one of them. Dorothy Peterson plays the part of the mother and her performance is said to be a portrayal that will touch the heart of every spectator.

"Abraham Lincoln," which will open Saturday at the Strand Theater, Malden, is a pictorial drama at its greatest. Though the picture possesses all of the ingredients of an historical spectacle—big sets, battle scenes and mobs—its greatness is founded on the simplicity of its direction and the sympathetic treatment of its romantic and tragic scenes. The artistry with which this feat in characterization is accomplished is largely due to the superb acting of Walter Huston, who recently starred in "The Criminal Code."

Easily the outstanding screen achievement of those celebrated funsters, "Charlie" Murray and George Sidney, "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa" will be the second attraction at the Strand Theatre for seven days starting Saturday, Feb. 21. As the fifth of the series of Universal picture plays in which Murray and Sidney with Vera Gordon and Kate Price have been featured, "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa" is by far the finest entertainment and most original of the group. They never miss an opportunity for a laugh. The climax is reached when Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly are captured by a shiek and placed in a harem.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are re-united in the best talking picture of their careers in "The Man Who Came Back," which will divide the head line honors with "One Heavenly Night," starring Evelyn Laye and John Boles, on the program that opens a seven day run at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. "The Man Who Came Back," is a modern version of the famous stage play. Miss Gaynor gives an inspired characterization of the cabaret singer whose love, faith and courage bring about the regeneration of Farrell, who plays the role of the ex-prize fighter perfectly.

"One Heavenly Night," the second attraction on the Granada program for Saturday is a gay and romantic comedy with music in which Evelyn Laye and John Boles sing several song hits. In this setting of musical opera, "One Heavenly Night" provides beautiful music throughout, and though essentially modern, there is a variety of costuming that lends color and brightness to the settings. Leon Errol and Lilyan Tashman have important supporting roles.

Ruth Chatterton in "The Right to Love" and "Charley's Aunt" with Charles Ruggles, is the program that ends its run at the Granada on Friday.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE NEXT WEEK

"The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi"

A great college romance with the action, the love and the laughter centered in a frat house and on the University's athletic field is a good condensed description of "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" to be presented all next week by the Somerville Players at the Somerville Theatre.

This latest, and said to be the best college play since "The College Widow" tells the story of two young men, "Billy" and "Ned" Thatcher, cousins, brought up together by "Billy's" father, a world famous athlete of a former generation.

While "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" is filled with drama, it is also filled with laughter as well, that results from the odd mixture of types and characters one may find on any college campus and not a few incidents of the play are said to be screamingly funny.

Friday afternoon at 4:40 the Police were notified that there was a dog on the Parkway near the entrance to the Fells, apparently with a broken leg, the result of having been hit by an automobile. Patrolman James P. Donaghey took the animal to Headquarters and his owner, Charles Gott of 128 Brooks street, West Medford, came to Winchester for him.

About 5 o'clock last Saturday afternoon the police were notified that a car had been standing in a driveway near Mason street and had been there all night. The authorities checked up and found the car belonged to a resident of Belmont who had been visiting in Winchester and had been unable to start the machine.

Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey was informed about 8:30 last Saturday evening that four young fellows in an automobile attempted to steal a machine, parked in front of the high school building during the junior prom. The thieves became alarmed before they were able to start the car and fled in the direction of the Fells. Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolman John Boyle gave chase but were unable to locate them.

At 2:28 Sunday morning a resident of Park avenue telephoned Headquarters, stating that two men had been discovered on his front porch in the act of trying the front doors. When the light was flashed on, the men had fled hurriedly. The police scoured the neighborhood but without results.

Special Officer Walter Lord notified Headquarters at 2 o'clock Sunday morning that there was an abandoned automobile on Cambridge street near the Boat Club. The police discovered that it was the property of a Winchester man who had been unable to start it. The car was finally towed away to Conlon's garage.

COLLECTOR OF TAXES RECEIVES CONGRATULATIONS

The following letter received by Collector of Taxes Nathaniel M. Nichols from Henry F. Long, Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, is self explanatory.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Department of Corporations and Taxation
State House, Boston
Feb. 5, 1931

Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols
Winchester, Mass.
Dear Mr. Nichols:

In going over some of the reports which the Division of Accounts of this Department have made in respect to their audits I find that we did the proper thing, but a thing which is quite unusual, at the time we made the audit in the Town of Winchester. We included in that report these words—"The accounts of the Tax Collector have been kept in an efficient manner, thereby facilitating the work of the audit."

I call particular attention to this because a great deal of the expense which the cities and towns have to bear in our audits is occasioned by the inefficiency of many of the town officers and because of this our accountants are compelled to do the work which the town officials should have done in order to get the accounts in a position where they can be properly audited.

Now that I am writing you I also want to congratulate you on the success you have had as a collector and that, in my opinion, is congratulating Winchester because I know of nothing that is more needed for a municipality than money to properly carry forward its municipal functions. The matter of tax collection will never be a pleasant undertaking, but it seems to me that you have done the work efficiently in your town with as little disturbance as it is possible for an efficient collector to occasion. You have my sincerest congratulations.

Cordially yours,
Henry F. Long,
Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation

THOMAS F. FALLON

TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

I wish to call to your attention the fact that I am a candidate this year for the Board of Selectmen, and that I am not unfamiliar with the exacting duties of the office I seek, having been a member of the Board for two years from 1926-1928.

My business interests are centered in Winchester, which town has been my home for more than 25 years, giving me an intimate knowledge of the community and its people.

I am in no way tied up with any candidate seeking election, but have for them the utmost respect and esteem. If I am elected, I promise only that I will give close attention to the town's business and act for the best interest of the community as a whole.

The loss of my car, which was stolen about a month ago and returned this week badly damaged, has made it impossible for me to do any extensive campaigning, but I hope that those who have been interested in my candidacy in the past will give me their consideration and support at the polls on Monday, March 2.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

In response to the request of many voters of the town, I wish to announce my candidacy for the office of Assessor at the coming March election.

Most of my life has been spent in Winchester therefor, I am familiar with the town's needs. For the past 11 years I have been in the building business with my father, George H. Hamilton. I feel that the experience I have gained through these years of service in estimating values of building and materials, has fitted me to fill the office I now seek.

If elected I promise to carefully and conscientiously fulfill the duties of the office. I ask your consideration of my candidacy, and will appreciate your vote.

GARALD K. RICHARDSON

FOR SELECTMAN—GARALD K. RICHARDSON

The law permits a candidate for town office to have his name on the ballot the political principle which he represents, expressed in not more than three words. Eight of the candidates for Selectman will have upon the ballot after their names various designations as follows: "member finance committee," "former selectman," "for re-election" as the political principle which they represent.

Garald K. Richardson, candidate for selectman, has objected to the use of such designations and brought petitions to prevent their use. He feels that all candidates should start from scratch and without handicap, and that the ballot law so provided. In

MUSIC GARDEN

Miss Lucy L. Wilcox entertained the Music Garden at her home on Mt. Vernon street on Monday evening, Feb. 23.

This meeting marked the beginning of a new year for the club and there was a large attendance. The officers, headed by President S. J. Trudeau, who served last year were unanimously elected to carry on for another season. Evidently the club is not a victim of the political unrest which is so prevalent in world affairs now-a-days.

Selections on the program of music gave especial attention to works of the American composer, Ethelbert Nevin. This resulted in a most interesting presentation of tuneful melodies, both vocal and instrumental. All members who took part showed evidence of careful preparation for the work of the evening and the meeting was one of the most successful of the season.

Miss Harriet Pilkington, a pupil of Miss Wilcox, favored the club with piano solos, which were greatly appreciated.

At the next meeting of the Garden the compositions of Sir Arthur Sullivan will be featured.

Following is the program rendered on Feb. 23:

Instrumental Quartet "Patriotic Medley"
Miss Littlefield, Mrs. Leckman, Mr. Talora, Mr. Trudeau

Trumpet Solo "Narcissus" ... Nevin
Mr. Talora

THE NEXT MOVE IN THE MOVIES

To the Editor of the Star:

Rumor has it that the next move in the Movie fight in Winchester is to be made in the election of Selectmen next Monday who are favorable to granting a motion picture license to the movie interests, having failed repeatedly in Town Meeting, and by referenda, to get a motion picture license.

Thus having failed in pursuading the people of Winchester that a movie theater is desirable, they are now seeking to circumvent the expressed wish of the public by carrying the fight into the Board of Selectmen. Anyone who is interested in keeping the movies out of Winchester should therefore scrutinize the ten candidates for the Board of Selectmen with a great deal of care, and find out just where they stand on this question, before he votes for them.

It is also necessary that the people on the West Side forget their indifference and go to the polls next Monday, March 2. There is only one candidate for Selectman who comes from the West Side and the people from the West Side are going to wake up if they are not careful, and find the town saddled with a group of Selectmen who are favorable not only to movies, regardless of what the town thinks of motion pictures, and who will be susceptible to pressure from organized forces which will lead them to obey "their master's voice," instead of thinking for themselves.

It is imperative that we have men of backbone elected to the Board of Selectmen, and this can only be done by voters knowing whom they are voting for, and going to the polls to elect them. The other forces are well organized, because they have considerable to gain along more than one line, if they can elect the candidates whom they are sponsoring.

WINCHESTER GRANGE OBSERVED 17TH ANNIVERSARY

Grangers from far and near gathered Tuesday evening in Lyceum Hall to assist Winchester Grange, No. 383, in its observance of the 17th anniversary of its inception.

Supper was served at 6:30, the tables making a most attractive appearance with their decorations of red and white in honor of Washington's birthday. Visiting Masters from Granges throughout this district were guests of honor, occupying places at the head table with the Master of Winchester Grange, Henry Drown.

Following the supper a delightful entertainment program was enjoyed, featuring dance numbers by the Peterson Sisters of Woburn and vocal solos by Mrs. Helen Studley, Master of Woburn Grange. Walter Cove of Wilmington Grange was at the piano.

At the conclusion of the entertainment there was general dancing to music by Walter Cove's orchester. The committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration comprised Elsie Lyons, chairman; Betty Costello, Mrs. George Osborne, Mrs. Henry Drown, Mrs. Helen Dewar and Mrs. Isabel Brownell.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Mafera of Cross street, who are soon to move to their new home on Lawrence road in Medford, were tendered a surprise party last Saturday evening by a group of 35 neighbors and friends. An entertainment program, featuring accordian solos by Bartley Connolly, was enjoyed and during the evening George Watkins, on behalf of the gathering, presented Mr. and Mrs. Mafera with a handsome electric clock. General dancing concluded the party.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Is biography an art or a science? Why has this subject captured the reading public in such force in the last few years? We shall seek and hope to find the answers to these and many more queries in the afternoon offered by the Literature Committee Monday, March 2. "Aspects of Biography" as outlined by Andre Maurois will be presented by Mrs. Maude Bridge. This will be followed by a consideration of Ernest Dimnet's "The Bronte Sisters" as an example of biography, modern or otherwise. The latter book will be reviewed by Mrs. Arzillia Higgins.

On Friday afternoon, March 6, we are to have another dramatic treat in the form of a Chinese program. There will be a play, "The Romance of the Willow Pattern," with roles taken by Mrs. Ruth Ferguson, Mrs. Lillian Fowler, Mrs. Mabel Gage, Mrs. Margaret Huntlan, and Mrs. Clara Reynolds. Mrs. Mary Gharardani will sing and there will be a Chinese dance and Chinese music during the program. There will also be a display of examples of Chinese art and skill. A Chinese tea will follow this unusual program. The afternoon is in the hands of Mrs. Gretchen West assisted by Mrs. Margaret Huntlan.

The next regular meeting of the Fortnightly on March 9 will be under the auspices of the Education Committee and offers a pleasing variety program.

Mr. Carl L. Schrader, State Supervisor of Physical Education will speak. Mr. Schrader's reputation merits a large attendance to hear him talk on "A Community's Responsibility for the Leisure of its People."

Pearl Bates Morton, well known concert and radio artist is to be the soloist at a lecture given by Thornton Burgess at the Hotel Lincolnshire, March 4 at 8 o'clock.

This lecture is under the auspices of the New England Woman's Press Association of which the well known writer, Mrs. Joseph A. Mahoney (Bangs Burgess) is the president.

"THE OTHER SIDE OF THE JUNIOR HIGH"

By Professor Rice

Those who failed to hear the lecture by Professor Rice, in Fortnightly Hall, Feb. 20, missed one of the ablest and liveliest discussions on educational subjects which we have had in Winchester for a long time. At the outset Professor Rice stated that his interest in the question was purely from an educational standpoint; he spoke not as a teacher but as a private citizen and taxpayer, the father of five boys who had gone through the public schools, and most of them through Junior High School. His experience also included several years service on the School Board.

Referring to the almost unlimited power of School Committees at the present time he said that this was, in his opinion, as it should be; but he gave serious warning that if School Committees wished to retain this power they must be faithful to their trust and consider carefully the interests of the average citizen and taxpayer. The present Boston School situation is suggestive of what may happen here.

Among many problems of the Junior High Mr. Rice mentioned the difficulty of securing and keeping good teachers, because those who really were good usually very soon found larger opportunities in the High Schools.

The many "extra curricular" activities, clubs and organization work carried on during school hours make it difficult for pupils to give the necessary time and attention to the fundamentals so necessary for adequate foundation for continued educational pursuits.

The two year Junior High, Professor Rice said, would "bridge the gap" and serve the purpose quite as well as the three year school to which he objected seriously, because it would rob the High School of one fourth of its legitimate life and add much needless expense to the Junior High.

Much interest was added to the occasion by the remarks of the Chairman of our School Committee, Mr. Tucker, and Superintendent James J. Quinn. Those present voiced the opinion that frank and friendly discussions of this nature do much to clear the atmosphere and promote better understanding, and several requests have come to have Professor Rice return at a future date, either alone or in debate.

LAFAYETTE SWAN

Lafayette Swan, a descendant of one of Winchester's earliest settlers, died early Tuesday morning at his home on Fairmont street, following an illness of less than an hour. He had spent Monday working about his place as usual and had retired for the night in his accustomed good health. His death was wholly unexpected and came as a severe shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Swan was born in Winchester in 1851, the son of John and Sarah Jane (Fiske) Swan. He was of the seventh generation in direct line from John Swan, one of the first to settle in what is now Winchester after the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. His birthplace was the old Swan farm, situated on Cambridge street opposite Swan road, and which in earlier times included much of the land between Mystic Lake, Sheffield West, Church street and Myopia Hill. The old Swan house still stands on Cambridge street and is now the residence of Mr. F. Patterson Smith.

Mr. Swan made his home on the farm until 1874 when he married Miss Lydia Maria Brown of Readville, Me., who died in 1898. Following his marriage he lived on what was then an island opposite the present site of the Winchester Boat Club not far from Sandy Beach, the house having been destroyed more than 40 years ago. Later he lived on Fletcher street before purchasing the property on Fairmont street which he had made his home for the past 25 years.

He had been for some time retired, but during his active years was employed as a landscape gardener. He leaves two daughters, Miss E. Maybelle Swan and Mrs. Carrie Coffin, both of Winchester; and two sons, Roswell Fiske Swan of Detroit, Mich.; and Alfred M. Swan, a World War veteran of Dedham, at present seriously ill in a hospital at Northampton. There are also surviving two sisters, Mrs. Nettie M. Wildes and Mrs. Lillian Henderson, both of Winchester, and a brother, Eddy F. Swan of Watertown.

Funeral services were held at the late residence Thursday afternoon with the Rev. J. West Thompson, pastor of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church officiating. Interment was in the Swan family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

LIEUTENANT HARROLD COMMENDED

Lieut. John A. Harrold of the Police Department received commendation from the Board of Selectmen at their meeting last Monday night for the way in which he handled the work of the Department during the period between the death of Chief William R. McIntosh and the appointment of the present Chief, William H. Rogers.

In their records the following notation appears:

The Board expressed their appreciation to Lieutenant Harrold for the work he did in discharging the duties of the office of Chief of Police after the death of Chief McIntosh and until Chief Rogers was appointed.

Lieutenant Harrold was told some time ago it was the unanimous vote of the Board that he be given an extra week's vacation with pay.

Now that conditions are such that arrangements can be made to give Lieutenant Harrold this time off, the Chief will be ordered to arrange it.

The Clerk was instructed to write the Chief to carry out this vote of the Board.

The Star has had many requests during the week for the publication of the attitude of various candidates running for the Board of Selectmen regarding moving pictures. There are many votes who wish to know whether the candidates, if elected, would grant a movie license. The Star did not attempt such a canvass for two reasons. One was insufficient time and the other the fact that it has failed to find a single candidate who is willing to publicly commit himself. Two candidates stated that they would not grant such a license. One of these refused to make his statement publicly and the other, it is reported, stated last year that he favored the movie theater! From indications it appears that a canvass would leave the interested voters in just the same position as they are now. Apparently the moves have the Selectmen field scared. What a candidate may say privately and what he may state in print appear to be two different matters. If you are interested in keeping movies out of Winchester why not call up your favorite candidate and get a private and confidential report?

As per of the statement which those who seek a license for a movie theatre in Winchester are constantly making to the effect that only high class pictures will be shown locally if a license is granted, the STAR was interested to read a report of the convention of the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors, held recently in Chicago.

At this convention, according to a news dispatch from the Monitor Bureau, Block Booking, that bane of the independent exhibitor's existence, came in for much discussion, and it was agreed that legislation might be necessary to stop that practice which the big Hollywood producers are wont to claim does not exist.

The public complaint of certain pictures shown, but does not know that in order to get a picture like "Tom Sawyer," for example, the exhibitor must sign up for 10 other pictures, good or bad, put out by the same producer. Thirty-two more or less undesired pictures go along with "Check and Double Check," according to a South Dakota picture house owner at the convention. An exhibitor can not take on an unlimited number of pictures and he gets blamed by his community for not giving the people what they want.

Apparently then until Block Booking is completely done away with there can be no guarantee that nothing but first rate motion pictures will be shown at any theatre, for if we are to believe the testimony of the Chicago convention as reported in the Monitor the individual exhibitor takes pretty much what he is given in the way of films.

DR. ORDWAY AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Germany will be the subject of the third mid-week Lenten service at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church next Wednesday evening, when Dr. Clarence E. Ordway will show motion pictures of his travels in that country last summer. Because of the recent successes of the Hitlerite wing in German politics and the tendency in certain sections toward the breaking down of present standards, unusual interest attaches to that country just now. German life in the rural and city sections, the customs and interests will be graphically told by the moving pictures. This will be children' night and all the children are invited. The junior choir will sing. The service begins at 7:45.

SUPREME COURT DENIED PETITIONS OF MR. RICHARDSON

At a special session of the Supreme Judicial Court, held Tuesday Justice Waite denied two petitions for writs against the Board of Registrars of Voters and the Town Clerk, the petitioner being Mr. Garald K. Richardson, candidate for Selectman.

Papers were served on the Registrars and Town Clerk last Friday, and because of the necessity for proceeding with the printing of the town ballots, a special session of the court was held to hear the case.

In general Mr. Richardson petitioned for a writ of certiorari (substantially a writ of error) directing the Registrars of Voters to certify to the court the records relating to the objections to eight nomination papers for Selectmen, filed by the petitioner, and to the hearing thereon held by the Registrars. It was alleged that the designations, "Former Selectman" which appeared on three, "For Re-election" which appeared on four and "Member Finance Committee" which appeared on one of the nomination papers were not designations of a party or political principle and not permitted or authorized by law.

In the petition for a writ of mandamus against the Town Clerk the petitioner asked that she be directed to omit from the ballot the names of the eight candidates upon whose papers the designations objected to appeared, and in the alternative, that she omit the designations from the ballot.

The effect of granting the petition against the Registrars would have been to void the action of the Registrars in certifying the nomination papers of eight candidates for Selectman so that the names of but two candidates, Garald K. Richardson and William E. Ramsdell, could have appeared on the ballot. Those who wished to vote for any of the other eight candidates would be obliged to use stickers.

Mr. Richardson argued that the designations complained of are not provided for by the election laws and not being specifically provided for are not allowed, and that the Registrars were therefore wrong in certifying the papers upon which the designations appeared, and that even if the decision of the Registrars was to stand, the Town Clerk should not print the designations upon the ballot. The petitioner waived his plea for leaving the names entirely from the ballot, stating that his chief interest was to have no designations appear upon the ballot.

Town Counsel Addison B. Pike argued for the Registrars that the petitioner had not shown that substantial justice required the relief which he sought, and it was further argued that the designations are fair and equitable to the voters and do not accord unfair treatment to anyone, that the printing of the designations on the ballot is consistent with long continued practice in Winchester and in many other towns. Such designations, it was argued, could not prejudice the petitioner, and the only benefit or advantage of which he would be deprived if the designations are to be printed, would be a benefit to which there will be two candidates by the name of Richardson, the voters who did not know them personally will not know for whom they are voting, and that this benefit or advantage is not one to which the petitioner is in any sense of fairness entitled.

In connection with the petition against the Town Clerk it was pointed out that the petitioner had complained only of the designation which appears on the nomination papers of eight Selectmen and had not objected to the papers of the other candidates for town office upon which similar designations appear, so that it could not be said that the petitioner came in as a citizen seeking to enforce a public duty or that if the duty is a public duty, then it must necessarily extend to all of the candidates and he could not come in asserting some special interest other than the interest which every other citizen had.

The Court, without passing upon the legality of the designations, but intimating that their legality would be given serious consideration at another time upon petition seasonably brought, was not inclined to grant a writ within a few days of the election, but as to the writ against the Town Clerk held that it could not be maintained because the performance of the clerk's duty was asked for only in the case of eight Selectmen and not in the case also of the 18 other candidates whose nomination papers bore similar designations. At a result of its findings both petitions were denied, and the ballots were printed as originally intended.

Mrs. Chester McNeill of 30 Grove street was the hostesses at a luncheon bridge last Friday afternoon for some guests from neighboring towns.

Candidate for Assessor
TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

Having had ten years' experience as a carpenter and builder I feel that I am qualified by experience and training to assess buildings and property of this nature.

I was born in Winchester, and have worked on private dwellings and large apartments in every stage of construction, from foundation to interior finish.

Knowing the cost of construction of buildings from $5,000 to $60,000 qualifies me for a place on the Board of Assessors, and I ask your consideration of my candidacy. I will appreciate your vote.

ANNUAL SUPPER OF UNITARIAN CHURCH

The annual supper of the Unitarian Church Society was held Tuesday evening in Metcalf Hall under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Richlarg and Mrs. Edward H. Merrill. Members of the Metcalf Union acted as waiters and waitresses.

At the conclusion of the supper, two one act comedies were produced under the supervision of Mrs. Robert A. Reynolds, chairman of dramatics in the Ladies' Friendly Society.

The first of the comedies, "Rocking Chair Rew" by Elizabeth M. Stevens had to do with the everyday life of a country hotel where the gossips are given a pleasant diversion from their usual topics of conversation by the arrival of an unknown lady and her maid. The gossips discuss the new arrival to her disparagement until they learn that the lady in question is a member of royalty traveling incognito as is her maid. Following is the cast:

Mrs. Sweet, Mrs. Prettyman, Mrs. Hazard, leading exponents of some first families ... Thelma Putnam, Anna Putnam, Pearl Miller, Ida Bell Edwards, reporter, representing local paper ... Estella Cooper, Marie LeBrance, a waiter ... Winifred Meyer, Lucy, her maid ... Madeleine Cobb, Scene: Veranda of Pleasant Point, a small mountain resort. Time: Morning.

The companion play was "Meddlin'" by Esther Olson in which two newlyweds, Sally and Milton, have their plans for a quiet supper for two in honor of their first marriage anniversary, rudely interrupted by the arrival of Sally's inquisitive mother-in-law. These latter succeed in stirring up a quarrel over the fact that Sally has burned the "mock duck" (top-of-the-round with stuffing) but come to see the error of their way and make splendid peace offerings, the young people settling down to another stretch of perfect understanding. The cast comprised:

Milton Parker, a young husband ... Dean Symm
Sally Parker, his wife ... Frances Mason
Mrs. Parker, his mother ... Amy Orpin
Mrs. Morton, Sally's mother ... Blanche Reynolds

Scene: The kitchen in Milton's and Sally's small apartment.
Time: About 6 o'clock on the evening of their first wedding anniversary.

Both plays were well done, showing excellent casting and careful coaching. At intermission Mrs. George Hale Reed sang a charming group of songs, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Reed.

Miss Louise P. DeCamp of Highland avenue left Wednesday for an extended cruise to the West Indies, etc., sailing from New York on the S.S. Britannic.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Elizabeth Berry of this town has been pledged to the Sigma Kappa Sorority at Jackson, the college for women at Tufts. Miss Berry has been active in her class at Jackson and has recently been chosen a member of the Jackson varsity basketball squad. She will make the trip to Norton this week-end when the Jackson team will meet that of Wheaton College.

Coming Back

"Well, go on to war, but be sure and don't get killed," commanded June, who seemed to be the general of the little pretenders. And "Private" Paul, age four, never at a loss for words, answered, "All right, but if I do I'll come back and tell you how I got killed."—Exchange.

Horehound Candy

Horehound candy is flavored with an extract from the leaves of the plant known as horehound. This plant belongs to the mint family and was called horehound or hoarhound because of the white, downy appearance of the stem and leaves, suggesting hoar frost.—The Pathfinder.

Sculptural Terms

"Living stone" and "living rock" are applied in sculpture to rock or stone in its native or original position as contrasted with marble or granite which has been quarried. The Lion of Luzerne in Switzerland, the Rushmore memorial in South Dakota, and the Confederate memorial on Stone mountain in Georgia were all carved from living rock.

Work of Machinery

According to a survey by Joseph W. Roe, professor of industrial engineering at New York university, it would require 12,000,000,000 servants to do the work that machinery performs each day in the United States. It is estimated that for every man, woman and child in this country there is generated power equal to that of 100 slaves.

Revolutionary Writings

The "Newburgh Addresses" were two anonymous letters, written in behalf of the American soldiers whose pay had been withheld, which appeared in 1783 after the close of the Revolutionary war. It was afterward made known that Gen. John Armstrong wrote them.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the floral displays and kind words of sympathy extended to us during our recent bereavement.
MRS. JAMES McCARTNEY

ROTARY CLUB

All but three members were present at the meeting of Feb. 26. We are dependent on these three to produce the 100 per cent meeting for this month. "Last chance."

"The Rotarian" for March is about to be presented. This magazine should not be deemed just another accretion to the mountain of domestic waste-paper. Its list of contributors this month displays the names of Senator Borah, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Rufus Chapin, treasurer of Rotary International and Fred W. Sargent, president of Chicago and Northwestern Railway. Any magazine would be proud to print articles from equally distinguished writers. Rotarians cannot afford to dispose of their magazine without becoming reasonably familiar with its contents.

It is interesting to know what measures are taken by Rotarians in other clubs to keep their attendance records as high as possible. For instance, Rotarian "Bill" Walsh of Passaic, N. J. has for some time kept an automobile in front of his store in readiness to transport Rotarians to a neighboring city for the purpose of making up attendance.

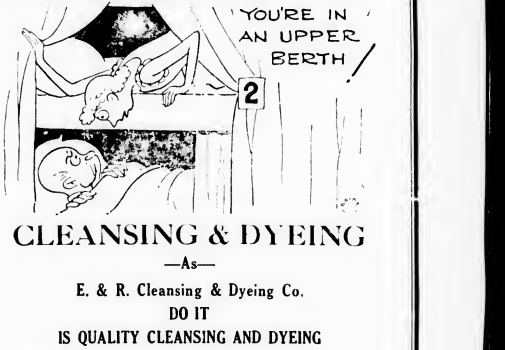

Our guest speaker at the meeting of last Thursday was John R. Carr, chairman of the Town Finance Committee, who outlined for us the activities of this body for the past season. In view of the approaching Town Meeting this address was most timely. That the committee has worked hard and conscientiously is evident from their comprehensive report which has recently been delivered at every household in town. It remained for Mr. Carr to explain to us the motives which have actuated the committee in presenting their recommendations.

The watch-word of the times is economy. In town affairs this means a tax rate at the lowest possible figure consistent with efficiency. To this end the committee has urged that all projects which must be done now to bring the greatest advantage to the town at a reasonable expense, be undertaken at once. On the other hand those undertakings, desirable though they be, which can be delayed without great prejudice to the town's welfare, are scheduled for attention at a later period. While it may not have been possible to apply this rule in every last detail of a very complicated situation yet the committee feel that they have succeeded measurably in painting a fair course for the town and that with but a moderate increase (some 80¢) in the tax rate. It is but fair to state that the committee has given due consideration to the question of unemployment in this town.

Adjournment to March 5.

LONDON'S HOTHOUSE AIR FLIGHT TERMINUS

The Scilly Isles, terminus of the most recent transatlantic flight, lie about 30 miles off the southwestern tip of England and are the hothouses of London, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Only five of the islands, St. Mary's; Tresco, where the flyers landed; St. Martins; St. Agnes, and Bryher, are inhabited. More than half the total population of about 2000 are on St. Mary's, the largest of the group, which is slightly more than four square miles in area. Hugh Town, the capital, a village of about 200 houses, is located there.

Exports Tons of Flowers

Before London's trees and shrubbery begin to show signs of life in the spring, tons of Scilly lilies, narcissi, tulips and daffodils are for sale in florist shops of the British capital.

The climate on the isles is always temperate, the Gulf Stream never letting the thermometer drop below 46 degrees, although the isles are in the same latitude as the northern tip of Newfoundland.

The Scillies form an archipelago of about 200 islands and isolated rocks, all of which lie within an area of 50 square miles. They are the rugged summits of the same granite ridge that forms the backbone of Cornwall on the mainland. Tradition has it that the isles are remnants of a lost territory which sank beneath the sea. While geologists refuse to be convinced of this, the old assortment of the Scillies still tell of great buildings seen under the waves on calm days and of bringing up bits of ancient furnishings on their gear.

A theory once held that the Scillies were the "Tin Islands" of Herodotus, but it is now known they were not. The Scillies have no known mineral wealth. They might have been, however, the trading center where the Phoenicians, 3000 years ago, met with the Britains and bartered for tin from the Cornwall mine.

Until the building of the lonely Bishop Light on an outlying rock to the southwest, and placement of numerous other lighthouses and lightships, the Scillies were hazards to shipping between Europe and the west coast of England. Before the flower business enriched the inhabitants, salvaging goods from wrecked ships was an important vocation among some of the islanders.

Scillians were fisher people until an enterprising islander sent a few flowers to London. The blossoms attracted such attention that the flower business was organized and now several hundred tons of about 200 varieties of flowers are sent to London annually. From December to June practically all the inhabitants are employed in packing, packing, and dispatching flowers which are sent by boat to Penzance, Cornwall, and then by fast train to their ultimate destination.

Except for the trees at Tresco Abbey, the residence of the lord proprietor of the isles, the whole area is nearly timberless. All lumber and manufactured products are imported.

"ART IN EVERYDAY LIFE"

Illustrated Lecture by Gerrit A. Beneker—Parish House, First Congregational Church, Tuesday, March 3 at 8 P. M.

Few artists are concerned with the problems of everyday life in industry, business, education, religion, civics, and social welfare, to paint, to sculpt to etch is quite enough. But Gerrit A. Beneker, who is living with his family in Winchester this winter, has enjoyed experiences very unusual for an artist. As an illustrator for magazines (1905-12) in New York, his work took him into all kinds of places where men work. Many of his paintings were reproduced as covers on the Scientific American, Harper's and Leslie's Weeklies. In 1912 he went to Provincetown at the end of Cape Cod to study more about painting. When we entered the World War Mr. Beneker went into the service as an "expert aide" in the Navy Department in Washington and used his talents to help the great army of workers feel that they were backing the men in the trenches. His Victory Loan poster of a smiling workman going into his pockets to buy bonds was the keynote on the last and Victory Loan, and was distributed nation-wide more than 3,000,000 reproductions, in May 1919.

But before the publication of this famous poster, his dream of many years previous came true when a steel company in Cleveland put Mr. Beneker on its executive staff and pay-roll, built him a studio close beside the tall chimney of the power-house, and then gave him carte-blanche to paint and write as he wished. A few months later they put him on the industrial relations advisory board. All this never happened before, either in the history of art or in the history of industry. Bet, why not? Did not England send an artist, the great Rubens, to conclude a peace with Spain?

Mr. Beneker believes that Art may again be the silent diplomat to bring about a better understanding, and even lead toward a solution, of our many problems.

In 1923-24 he was a priest of the management at the great plant of General Electric in Schenectady.

A year ago he painted a series of portraits of men in a chemical plant in Philadelphia—which portraits are now hanging in the new club house for employees as a recognition of service. One of them is now hanging in the 126th annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy in Philadelphia (invited) and was reproduced on the front page of the Philadelphia Public Ledger of Jan. 25.

Besides being an artist, Mr. Beneker devotes considerable time to writing and to lecturing. His article in Technology Review for last October was at the request of the editors after he had addressed the Faculty Club and seniors in economics for the third time at M. I. T.

Mr. Beneker is also a contributing editor to World Unity and has written articles for Scribner's, The Mentor, and many other publications.

A show of some 25 of his industrial paintings has been on circuit for 10 years and during February was on view at the Fitchburg Art Museum. This is a lecture which will be of interest to everyone, no matter what their daily work.

THERE IS SUCH A THING AS A SQUARE DEAL

To the Editor of the Star:

In an editorial in your issue of Dec. 5, 1930, you said that "If a comprehensive scheme for beautifying the Symmes Park tank is presented to the citizens at our next town meeting, it will be courteously granted. If such a plan is not desired, and a plea made to remove the tank, it will be refused."

On the first page of each issue of Commerce and Finance, a New York publication of wide circulation, there appears this abstract from a letter of Abraham Lincoln to Horace Greeley, "I shall try to correct errors when shown to be errors, and I shall accept new views as far as they appear to be true views."

In my humble opinion, it will be a long time before you have an opportunity to render a greater service to this town than you can right now by actively assisting in the carrying out of the recommendations of the Symmes Park Water Tower Committee.

Although the property is not all listed in my name, I am nevertheless one of the 20 largest taxpayers in this town. I was born here over 50 years ago, but 20 years of my life were spent in the suburbs of New York. The reason that I feel so strongly on this subject is that I have been permitted to see what 100 New York suburbs have been able to accomplish over a period of years in establishing really beautiful centers.

There is such a thing as a square deal. Winchester ought to be big enough to be fair to all her citizens, whether they live on Fifth avenue or Main street.

If there were a wart on the nose of one of your children, would you not take the rubber band off your bank roll and pay to have it removed?

There are many intelligent citizens who do not think that this tank is a wart. They are sure it is a cancer.

Yours very truly,
Frederick A. Russell

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

Much interest has been created among the members over the coming bowling match on Wednesday evening, March 4. Once again the famous Paul Pochler, world's champion candle pin bowler, will visit us and stage an exhibition match with his partner, Gerald Hitdungs, holder of the world's record in Boston.

These two champions will meet Calumet's premiere bowlers Frank H. Higgins and Harry McGrath. Although the local bowlers will be somewhat handicapped by their rolling Boston pins, and will find the candles quite a little different proposition, they will undoubtedly give Pochler and Hitdungs enough to keep them on their toes.

The match will consist of ten strings.

Cards were sent out this week for entries in the spring bowling tournament, which will commence shortly after March 7. There has been much interest in the bowling this season and several requests have been made for an early start of the spring tournament. All who desire to enter should send their names to the Steward without delay.

The open house on Feb. 22 proved to be the usual success. Bowling was enjoyed throughout the day and many fine scores were made in the various contests.

The winners were as follows:

Class A, High 3 strings, Dr. F. C. Priest, 372; 2nd, A. W. Hildreth, 341; high single, H. A. McGrath, 131.

Class B, High 3 strings, Wallace Blanchard, 345; 2nd, P. T. Baldrell, 328; high single, Allan Howe, 122.

Class C, high 3 strings, G. H. Browning, 321; 2nd, Dr. George Akins, 295; high single, Dr. A. P. Cornwell, 117.

At the ladies' afternoon bowling party Tuesday some excellent scores were made as follows:

1st, Mrs. A. W. Pitman, 115; 2nd, Mrs. Boothby, 129; 3rd, Mrs. Hall, 176; 4th, Mrs. Williams, 211.

The children's party at the club on the afternoon of Washington's Birthday was greatly enjoyed by a huge throng. William Crawford, a circus clown, with his trained dogs, and a Punch and Judy show provided a program of fun and interest for almost three hours. Appropriate refreshments were served.

The Washington Birthday dance was well attended on the evening of the day. W. J. Shepard of Boston had charge of the entertainment during the dance and put on a very fine show.

Next Tuesday afternoon, March 1, the usual bowling party for the ladies will be held, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

On Friday evening, March 6, there will be another dinner bridge at the club opening at 6:30. Mrs. F. C. Pitman will be in charge. Members are requested to send in their acceptance cards for this party at once.

LYONS: THIRD CITY OF FRANCE

Lives were lost and historical landmarks slid into oblivion when a part of the steep hill of Fourviere suddenly dropped into the old town section of Lyons, third city of France. The Chemin Neuf, an ancient road dating from 1562, and the old Hotel Petit Versailles, which served as an inspiration to Rabelais for many of his writings, were among the casualties.

Lyons, like the Celtic Gaul of which it was once capital, is divided into three parts, each with a strongly marked character of its own, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The City's Three Parts

The Central Town, which includes the hotels, shops, and silk mills, runs northward along a peninsula from the junction of rivers Rhone and Saone. The New Town, east of the Rhone, is built on a regular plan. Around a working class center radiate regular avenues, with the fine homes of the wealthy merchants in the suburbs. The Old Town, west of the Saone, huddles beneath the lofty Fourviere Hill. It is a district of ramshackle brick and timber buildings and narrow, twisting streets.

Fourviere Hill, scene of the disaster, towers some 900 feet above the rest of the city, commanding a sweeping view of Rhone Valley, and, on clear days, even the distant Alps. The hill itself is a spur of granite, on which, during the glacial period, a moraine of the Rhone glacier was deposited. Heavy rains are believed to have undermined buildings and houses which were perched like swallows' nests on the loose earth of the hillside.

Lyons is the center of the silk industry of France, and one of the great silk manufacturing cities of the world. In and around Lyons more than 90,000 silk looms are at work, employing some 150,000 hands. The city has suffered from floods and political disturbances in recent years but the silk industry has flourished steadily.

City Has Noted Mayor

Lyons is renowned among French towns in that it has had a mayor who has become a national and international figure. But this man's reputation was not built solely as Mayor of Lyons. French custom permits city officials to retain their local offices while serving in the higher stations of the government. So Edouard Herriot, Lyon's mayor, has been prime minister twice, member of both houses of the French Parliament, and he has represented France in the League of Nations.

The Hospice de l'Antiquaille, one of the buildings menaced by the recent landslides, occupies the site of the Roman praetorian palace on Fourviere Hill. It is among the buildings and churches which are brightly illuminated during the evening of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, Dec. 8. Near the Hospice is the imposing Basilica of Notre Dame, and a 275-foot miniature of Eiffel Tower.

Men and Women Cheer Mayor Curley as Street Board Throws Out Case

By Forrest P. Hull

Within ten minutes after Chairman Thomas J. The petitioner's lawyer submitted documentary support for the petition and had rested. The commissioners then conferred and announced their decision as that of "leave to withdraw."

Two complaints about snowballing were received at headquarters on the holiday. The first was about a crowd of young fellows on Swanton street and the second for boys on Kendall street.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR AND EPWORTH LEAGUE IN BIG CONVENTION HERE

Winchester Baptist and Methodist Young People's Societies Hosts on Washington's Birthday

Young people of the First Baptist and Crawford Memorial M. E. Churches were hosts for the big convention of Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Societies, held in Winchester on Monday, Feb. 23. Visitors from churches throughout the Lynn District spent the day in town, the streets about the center being full of carefree young people on their way to and from the various events arranged for their edification and amusement.

A group of basketball games in the First Congregational gymnasium opened the program at 10 o'clock, and resulted as follows:

Trinity M. E. (Lynn) 21—College Avenue M. E. (Somerville) 15.

Luncheon was served at 12:30 at the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church, and at 2 o'clock the young people were divided into two groups for a recreation and game period, one group meeting at the Town Hall and the other at the First Baptist Church. Leaders were Rev. H. Newton Clay and Miss Ruth Wilkinson.

Discussion groups started at 3:15 in the afternoon at the First Baptist Church with the following leaders and subjects: "Is God Real?", Prof. Osbert Wrightman Warmingham of Boston University; "Boy and Girl Relationships," Rev. J. Lester Hankins, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, Lynn; "Personal Problems," Rev. Lynn J. Radcliffe, pastor of College Avenue M. E. Church; "Youth and Church Leadership," Erwin L. Shaver, secretary, Congregational Leadership Training Department; "What Has Youth to Do With War," Prof. William G. Aurelio of Boston University; "What Is Today's Missionary Challenge," John Leslie Lobingier of the Board of Missions; "The Church's Recreation Problem," Miss Betty Brittingham, leader at Northfield Summer Conference, 1930.

Preceding the big banquet a social hour was held, commencing at 5 o'clock, and at 6 o'clock sharp 500 young people sat down to a catered supper. It was necessary to divide the banqueters, the Christian Endeavor group dining at the First Baptist Church, and the Epworth Leaguers at the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church.

Following the banquet the Baptist Church was thronged to the very doors for the evening rally, at which the speaker was Rev. Lynn J. Radcliffe, pastor of the College Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church in Somerville. The devotions were led by Rev. Benjamin Patterson Browne, pastor of the First Baptist Church. A most inspiring program sent the young delegates away with much to think about.

WINCHESTER HELLO GIRL SURPRISED

Miss Katherine Cahill, a Woburn young lady employed as an operator at the Winchester telephone exchange, was pleasantly surprised Monday evening when a group of her associates tendered her a bridge in honor of her birthday.

Solos were sung by Miss Dorothy Smith, Miss Teresa Sullivan and by Mrs. Charlotte Fratus with Miss Elizabeth Gill at the piano. Bridge souvenirs were won by Mrs. Catherine Doyle and Mrs. Joseph O'Brien. At the conclusion of the bridge Miss Cahill was presented with a beautiful diamond bracelet, the presentation being made by Miss Mollie Stevens. A dainty collation was served.

Saturday forenoon Police Headquarters was notified by Mr. T. Parker Clarke that his son and a friend while skiing in the woods had discovered a Nash coupe, ditched off Lorena road. The authorities checked up and found that the car had been stolen in Somerville.

YOUNG MEN ARRESTED AS THEY RETURN STOLEN MACHINE

Two young men were arrested by the police shortly after 5:15 last Saturday afternoon when they returned to the home of former Selectman Thomas F. Fallon the Willys Knight sedan which was stolen from Mr. Fallon in Stoneham on Jan. 30.

According to the police Mr. Fallon had been notified by phone on Thursday that his machine would be returned to him on Saturday, and when the two young men arrived at his home with the car he notified the police. Chief William H. Rogers with Sergt. John H. Noonan and Patrolman Joseph J. Derro went to Mr. Fallon's residence on Highland avenue and took the young men into custody.

At headquarters they gave their names as Ralph Frongillo and William McKinley, both of East Boston. They were charged with concealing a motor car, known to have been stolen.

In the District Court at Woburn Tuesday morning McKinley was discharged but Frongillo was held in bonds of $1000 for trial by the Grand Jury.

The latter claimed that he had discovered the car in a vacant lot in East Boston where he kept a car belonging to himself. He had been obliged to move Mr. Fallon's car to get his own out of the lot. From the registration he had found out the owner, and had communicated with Mr. Fallon by phone, stating that he would return the car to him on Saturday after getting the battery recharged. The police claim that he did not notify the authorities that the car was in the lot after he had been assured that it was a stolen machine. Patrolman James E. Farrell spotted Mr. Fallon's car as the young men were driving through town and made an unsuccessful attempt to stop it at Symmes corner.

WINCHESTER HIGH DROPPED FINAL LEAGUE GAME TO STONEHAM

Winchester High School's basketball team closed its Middlesex League season last Friday evening in the local gymnasium, losing to Stoneham High, 31—21. Between the halves of the main game the Stoneham seconds defeated the Winchester seconds, 23—14.

The visitors jumped into a quick lead and had run up 10 points before the Winchester boys got started at all. The locals played a good game once they did swing into action, but those early game 10 points proved too many to win back and Stoneham breezed home by exactly that margin. Stoneham is the only Middlesex club that Winchester has been unable to defeat.

FOR RE-ELECTION OF EDGAR J. RICH AS LIBRARY TRUSTEE

To the Editor of the Star:

The citizens of the town, in voting for library trustee this year, ought to make sure of one thing—that Edgar J. Rich is reelected to the board of the three year term.

The increase in the number of trustees from three to six, and a consequent increase in the number of candidates has led to some confusion in the minds of many.

Though there are five candidates for the two trusteeship three year terms, Mr. Rich is the only member of the present board who is a candidate. He has a notable record of 20 years unbroken service as trustee, and no single citizen has done more toward advancing its interests.

In town meeting he has taken the leading part in securing the new library building. He has been a most efficient member of the building committee. It is highly important in the further development, that he should be continued at this post.

Mr. Rich has especial qualification for this work. He is a graduate of Harvard and of Harvard Law School. For 20 years he has been a member of the faculty of the Harvard School of Business Administration. He stands high in his profession of the law. In his own library and in study of public libraries elsewhere he has given largely of his time and expert knowledge toward making our town library of increasing value and usefulness to the citizens.

Sincerely,
Herbert S. Underwood
9 Central street, Winchester

MR. CRAUGHWELL WANTS TO KNOW

To the Editor of the Star:

I desire to inquire of that fairly intelligent group of gentlemen who warm the chairs adjacent to the square table; namely, the Finance Committee, if they have made provision for the purchase of monkey glands or the erection of a drill tower in order that the "rackabones" and other members of the Fire Department can keep in good physical condition?

Now Mr. Editor, listen. The gallant Chief asserts in his report the following words; "Constant drilling means that men are as good physically at 60 as they were at 21." We read about these great specialists in foreign countries where by the use of the so-called monkey glands a man would be young at 90, but his condition would have nothing on our firemen if we had a drill tower where constant drilling would keep men in such fine physical condition that when they arrive at the pension age you would have to shoot them to get rid of them.

Now then, possible we could call upon the sharp shooters in the Police Department who recently assussinated the starlings but refused to shoot the pet cats. Your humble servant has no way of ascertaining what it would cost the tax payers to purchase monkey glands or erect a drill tower.

I am aware of the fact, however, that the water tower that was erected on the so-called Symmes Park in the summer of 1929, that cost the tax payers $15,000; and remember it was a unanimous vote of the voters assembled in town meeting that we erect the water tower that is less than two years old. And yet a group of apparently intelligent men suggest that we remove the water tower at a cost of $35,000. Hence, I firmly believe that all the male town meeting members require monkey glands. If monkey glands function as efficiently as we are informed, then the late Charles Darwin apparently knew his stuff.

In conclusion, I have no desire to castigate; I simply write these few lines from casual observations, and I trust that the water tower will eventually be converted into a drill tower. But then some committee most likely would recommend that the tower be abolished.

I am confident that the Finance Committee will consider the advisability of purchasing monkey gland. Why? Because they do not think any more of a cent than a man does of his life. They are a very generous, homogeneous group. They increased the Superintendent of Schools' expenses 13 cents. That suggests that he can purchase four Transcripts and a lolly pop.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

WINCHESTER GIRLS WON FROM MELROSE

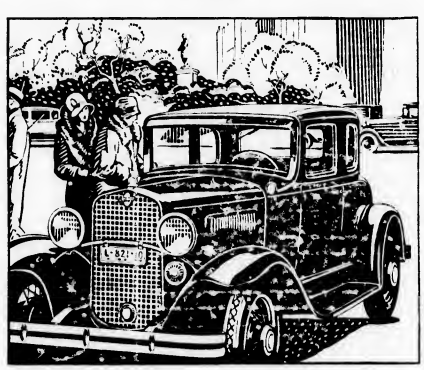

Winchester High School girls' basketball team reversed an early season defeat by winning from the Melrose High girls last Friday afternoon, 25—19. Janet Nichols, Winchester's star all-around athlete, was the game's high scorer tallying 16 points on six baskets and four shots from free tries.

The New Chevrolet Sport Coupe—Product of General Motors

72% of all Chevrolets are still in use

During the past 20 years the American public has purchased 4,633,865 Chevrolet cars. Seventy-two per cent of these—3,511,651—are still in active service! Such a record demonstrates the soundness of Chevrolet's policy of building the very best car possible for the price. This policy has brought many important benefits to the buyers of low-priced cars, and these benefits find even fuller and finer expression in the Chevrolet Six of today.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH IN 25TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Interesting Program to Extend From March 6 to March 15

The 25th anniversary of the church will be fittingly observed by a series of gatherings from March 6 to March 15.

The observance starts with a get-together social of resident and absent members with Miss McLellan leading the singing and Mrs. Marion Rice Taylor giving a short address on Friday, March 6, from 8 to 10 o'clock in the assembly hall.

Sunday, March 8, at the morning service Rev. D. Augustine Newton, D.D., of Westboro, well known in Winchester and vicinity, will preach the anniversary sermon. At the noon hour the Sunday School will have a special program. Secretary Newlan of Massachusetts Sunday School Association will have charge of a 45-minute series of exercises. At the evening session at 7 o'clock Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D.D., will give an address which will be followed by greetings from the Winchester churches. Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the church two addresses will be given—one by the pastor, Rev. John E. Whitley on the subject, "The Church in the Community," and the other by Rev. J. Harold Dale of Billerica on the subject, "The Church in the World." Rev. Dale was a member of the council which met in the Union Chapel on Cross street March 13, 1906 when the Second Congregational Church was organized.

Friday, March 13, 1931 is the birthday of the church, and an enjoyable evening is planned for members and guests. There will be a parish supper at 6:30 which will be followed by the annual roll call of members and post prandial addresses by Rev. Roy L. Minich of Malden and Rev. David Fraser of West Somerville. Several invited guests will also make brief remarks. A half hour's entertainment from 9:30 to 10 o'clock by Mr. Kingsley Perry of Harvard Law School, the ventriloquist.

Sunday, March 15, at the morning service, Rev. Brewer Eddy, D.D., a secretary of the American Board will give an address. At the Sunday School hour special exercises by the children and members will be presented. This is in charge of the superintendent, Mr. John A. MacLean. At the closing service of the observance, Sunday evening, March 15, at 7 o'clock, a choral and visual program will be presented. Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University School of Religious Education will conduct an unusual program. A chorus of expert singers from the group picture will furnish the music for the service. The Te Deum Landamus, by Naylor, will be rendered effectively by trained voices. It will commemorate the Christian Church in Choral and Congregational music from Russian and Lutheran and non-liturgic churches. Near the end of this Christian musical festival there will be a synthesis of music, pictures and color.

Professor Smith is in great demand for directing choral programs in the Sunday School world and has appeared in many varied choral festivals with unusual success for he makes the old hymns of our faith live again and his interpretation helps all the religiously minded people.

The choir of the local church will sing at the anniversary services. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of Winchester and vicinity to be present and enjoy these public exercises.

WHY WORRY FOR HELP

The following application for a position was recently received by Postmaster Traft of San Francisco. The name of the applicant will gladly be given to any postmaster who desires the services of a Chinaman whose "English he is great" and who "can drive typewriter with good noise."

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATER

"Gang Buster," starring Jack Oakie, and "Free Love," with Conrad Nagle and Genevieve Tobin as the featured players, will make up the double feature program that opens a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday.

"Free Love," presents Miss Tobin and Conrad Nagle as a young married couple, financially comfortable who drift perilously close to the roof of the divorce court through the wife's lack of consideration for her husband, her selfishness and her nagging. The husband puts up with it as long as he can and then one day after a wild night he loses his head and socks the little wife right on the chin, knocking her completely out. The result of this unexpected punch is a surprise to husband, wife and the audience.

"The Third Alarm," an epic story of the fire fighters, with James Hall, Anita Louise, Hobart Bosworth and Mary Doran as the stars, is the main feature on the double bill that closes its run at the Mystic on Friday. Two tremendous fires with all of a big city's fire fighting equipment at work are to be seen in "The Third Alarm." "Mother's Cry," with Margaret Peterson, Helen Chandler and Sydney Blackmer, is the second attraction on the current bill.

MALDEN STRAND ATTRACTIONS

The gangster unglorified—set amid the melodrama of his own rackets and murders—that is "Little Caesar," one of the most unusual films which has yet to come to the Strand Theater, Malden. It starts Saturday and continues for seven days with continuous showings on Saturday and Sunday. Edward G. Robinson plays the title role and gives a performance that will long be remembered. The character is taken from the time he and a pal, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are just small time racketeers in a mid-western city.

The second feature at the Strand Theater will be Victor Herbert's famous "Kiss Me Again" starring Bernice Claire and Walter Pidgeon. In perfect balance the picture gives sparkling dialogue, the best technicolor which has come to the screen thus far, lavish sets, beautiful gowns and beautiful girls. The story and music are taken from that immortal and most wonderful of operas "Mlle. Modiste," written by that ever popular composer, Victor Herbert. The cast is headed by Edward Everett Horton, Claude Gillingwater, June Collyer, and many other popular stars.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

With Greta Garbo's new picture "Inspiration" and "The Royal Family of Broadway," starring Frederic March and Ina Claire, as the two attractions the big Granada Theater in Malden is sure to be a popular spot when this bill opens a seven day run on Saturday. The glamorous and fascinating Greta Garbo comes back with more fire than ever in "Inspiration." There is more fire in her characterization and her grasp is stronger in the dramatic incidents. Robert Montgomery plays opposite the star as her provincial lover and his captivating negotiation of the romantic role is sure to send his screen stock on a sky-rocketing boom—if it is possible for any one to go higher than his amazing versatility has already carried him. Lewis Stone, Marjorie Rambeau, Beryl Mercer and John Miljan are other well known favorites who appear in support of Miss Garbo.

"The Royal Family of Broadway" is the intimate, amusing and at times hilarious presentation of a mythical family of reigning performers on the American stage. On the strength of his fine work in this picture Frederic March has been elevated to stardom. Other favorites are Ina Claire, Mary Brian, and Fredda Crossman.

"The Man Who Came Back," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell costarred again, is the main feature on the program that closes its run at the Granada on Friday. "One Heavenly Night," with John Boles and Evelyn Laye as the stars, is the second attraction on the current bill.

UNIVERSITY THEATER

"Illicit," a comedy-drama of modern love and marriage, comes to the University Theater Sunday next for four days. The cast that presents this daring picture is headed by Barbara Stanwyck, as a modern young woman, the daughter of divorced parents who honestly believes that marriage is inimical to happiness and for that reason refuses to marry her common law husband whom she deeply loves. The tongue of Mrs. Grundy, the kindly urging of her lover's millionaire father, and that of the lover himself finally make her consent to the marriage. What happens to prove or disapprove her theories make up the enthralling picture. Others in the cast are James Rennie, Natalie Moorhead, Joan Blondel and Ricardo Cortez.

"The Widow from Chicago," the companion feature, is a comedy-thriller full of adventure and real fun. Edward G. Robinson, Neil Hamilton, Alice White and others appear in the cast.

"Fun in a Beauty Parlor" might easily be a substitute title for "Reducing," the new Marie Dressler-Polly Moran co-starring comedy which starts Thursday. In the same manner that the stock market served as the subject of fun in the successful "Caught Short," so are beauty parlors, their proprietors and their patrons used as the subject of the lampoons in the new attraction. The story revolves about two sisters, Polly Roach, who has become the successful New York beauty specialist, "Madame Rochay" and Marie, wife of a small town mail carrier, portrayed by Lucien Littlefield. A strong love story is played out by two pairs of young lovers—Anita Page and William Bakewell; Sally Eilers and William Collier, Jr.

"Man to Man" the Ben Ames Williams Saturday Evening Post story is the companion feature. Grant Mitchell, Phillips Holmes and Lucille Powers are featured.

A Ford sedan, owned and driven by Leroy M. Case of 379 Main street, Woburn, was in collision at 11:45 Sunday night on Main street near the Medford line with an Essex sedan, driven by John J. Flynn of Federal street, Wilmington. Case, who reported the accident to the police, stated that his car was going south, and the Essex north. The latter skidded and crossed the street to collide with the Ford. Both machines were damaged but no one was injured.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Plans are now well under way for the mid-winter rally of the Winchester Girl Scouts to be held Saturday afternoon, March 7, in the Town Hall. Some Scouts are now finishing their examinations with the examiners for various badges and many other Scouts are completing their second class and first class tests in anticipation of the awards to be received at the rally. Characters have been assigned for the pageant and the rehearsals are reporting good progress.

It is hoped that all who are interested in the Winchester Girl Scouts or any who would like to become interested will attend this rally.

Announcement in more detail will be made next week.

NOTICE TO FEDERAL INCOME TAXPAYERS

For the convenience of those who are required by law to file Federal Income Tax Returns, a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue will be at Woburn City Hall from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on March 6, 1931 to assist taxpayers in preparing their returns. Golfing's Winter Rules

Under winter rules of golf the player may improve the lie of his ball or tee it up on the fairways without penalty. Ordinarily the ball must be played as it lies or a penalty incurred. The object of the rule is to save the fairways as much as possible from damage when weather conditions are such that balls frequently take "cuppy" lies.

Knightly Insignia

A coat of arms is a relic of medieval times of the armorial insignia, which was embroidered upon the cloth worn over the armor to render a knight conspicuous in battle. Coats of arms were later systematized, and the insignia commemorated the adventures and the achievements of the founders of the families who bore them. No one within the United Kingdom is entitled to bear arms without an hereditary claim by descent or a grant from a competent authority.

Original "Caucus"

The origin of the term "caucus" is traced back to the Caucus club of Boston, organized during Revolutionary days. This club was composed mainly of persons engaged in shipbuilding. It, and the Merchants' club of the same period, used to meet before elections and agree on candidates for town and provincial offices. The word "caucus" is believed to be a corruption of "calkers."

To Foretell Change of Weather, Watch Spider

It is not everybody who can afford to buy a barometer, but no one who possesses even the smallest of back gardens need be at the mercy of the vagaries of climate. The discovery has been made that spiders are quite good substitutes for barometers, providing one has time to study them. Here are some hints as to how to "read" spiders in relation to the weather. If your spider is lazy and sits comparatively thinking of those things that occupy the spider mind, then it is a sign that it is going to rain, but if it hustles itself and runs here and there in the rain, the weather is likely to follow soon. Before putting on the filmy frock, see if the spiders have made their webs with the filaments—the supporting "strands" so to speak—shorter than usual. If they have done so, don't wear anything that will spoil in the rain, for the weather will very probably prove to be unpleasant. On the other hand, if these filaments are unusually long the sun will shine and a perfect day will result. For those romantic young people who are fond of moonlight walks, it should be pointed out that if they spy a spider change the construction of its web between the hours of six and seven in the evening, they will not need an umbrella. These are the conclusions of one who has made a study of the habits of spiders for years.

NATHANIEL M. NICHOLS, COLLECTOR OF TAXES

I wish to thank the voters of Winchester who elected me to the office of Collector of Taxes for the year 1930, at that time I made pre election promises, namely to collect the taxes of the town efficiently and impartially, according to the laws laid down by the State of Massachusetts, by which laws a Tax Collector is governed.

If you are convinced that those promises have been faithfully kept, may I ask your continued support at the polls on March 2nd, 1931.

Respectfully yours,
Nathaniel M. Nichols,

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION TO BOARD OF SELECTMEN

TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

Mr. Elmer J. Rich who for 18 years has been a library trustee is a candidate for re-election.

Mr. Rich more than any other citizen of Winchester is responsible for securing the new library building.

Mr. Rich has been and is now a member of the building committee for the new library, and, continuing as trustee would thus be particularly well fitted to develop it for the greatest benefit of the town people.

From my experience as a library trustee I believe that not to have Mr. Rich on the Library Board of Trustees would be a civic misfortune for Winchester.

FOR SELECTMAN—GARALD K. RICHARDSON

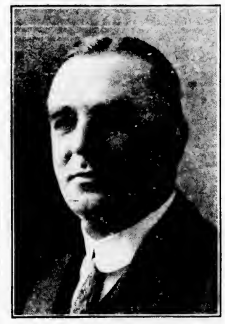

disposition of these petitions, Mr. Justice Wait on Tuesday last in the Supreme Judicial Court stated that his content on had merit but the issuance of a writ being discretionary, he would refuse it because the ballots were in process of being printed, and similar designations being on the ballot after the names of candidates for other offices, confusion might result. He suggested, however, were the practice continued in the future in proceedings seasonably and properly brought, relief might be afforded.

No candidate is to be blamed for following this Winchester precedent. Besides Winchester, probably less than six out of three hundred sixteen towns have permitted these or similar designations. On the other hand, no citizen and no candidate ought to be blamed for trying by fair and proper means to secure a ballot in conformity with the law.

Garald K. Richardson is thirty-eight years old, graduated from Dartmouth in 1915, served in the World War as a second lieutenant of infantry, received his degree from Harvard Law School in 1919, and since then has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession and is a member of the firm of Dallinger, Pollard & Richardson.

If elected, he will serve the best interests of the town without control by any persons, faction or clique.

BIG VOTE POLLED AT TOWN ELECTION

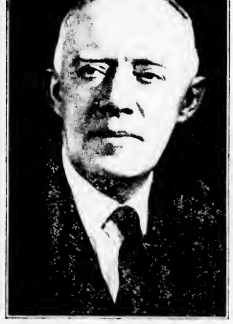

William E. Ramsdell New Selectman Nichols and Cassidy Re-Elected

With excitement running high, in an election that had experienced politicians guessing along with those casting their first ballots, four members of the Board of Selectmen, Harris S. Richardson, Vincent P. Cassidy, Irving L. Symmes and Harry W. Stevens, were returned to office and William E. Ramsdell, former Commander of Winchester Post American Legion, was elected to complete the roster of the Board. The surprisingly large vote of 3434 votes was polled despite the fact that there was no contest for school committee which is generally considered necessary to arouse much of any interest in the West Side precincts.

HARRIS S. RICHARDSON
Re-Elected Selectman with High Vote

A heavy late afternoon vote gave the election officials a busy evening and it was midnight before the results were tabulated for official announcement. Apparently there were the usual leaks for it is reported that here and there about town there were figures available to indicate the trend of the voting. Considerable difficulty was experienced with the checking of results in Precinct 1 and with a heavy vote just before closing time the vote in Precinct 6 was not announced until late hour. Seldom has an atmosphere of suspense and excitement been apparent around the Town Hall at election.

HARRY W. STEVENS
Re-Elected Selectman

The ringing of the Town Hall bell for the opening of the polls had to be dispensed with because of the fact that several bricks fell from the tower on Sunday afternoon. The trouble was discovered by Kenneth Cullen of Russell road who notified the police. Building Inspector Maurice Dinneen was notified as was Chairman Harry W. Stevens of the Board of Selectmen. The latter ordered Superintendent Parker Holbrook of the Highway Department to rope off the sidewalk and allow no one to enter the Town Hall by the Library door.

WILLIAM E. RAMSDELL
Elected Selectman

Interest in the election was chiefly centered in the contest for Selectman, and not for years has there been so large a field of candidates

FORTNIGHTLY ISSUES ANNIVERSARY NUMBER OF "NEWS"

The "Fortnightly News," the official publication of the Women's Fortnightly Club, has published for its March issue a Golden Anniversary number in honor of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the club in 1881.

Printed in purple ink on paper of a golden color, the issue presents an attractive appearance, and, in addition to the usual items of interest to club members, reviews of club activities and the president's message, includes the names of the organization's founders with a list of presidents from Mrs. Ann B. Winsor, 1881-1883, to the present incumbent, Mrs. Christine E. Hayden.

Of especial interest are several extracts from a letter of Mrs. Pleasantine Wilson, a former president of the Fortnightly now in her 84th year, in which reference is made to the introduction by the Fortnightly at its own expense of cooking and carpentry into the grammar grades of the public schools, from which have grown the present industrial arts courses. Besides touching upon the part played by the Fortnightly in shaping certain of the town's educational policies, Mrs. Wilson also pays a warm tribute to the club's first president, Ann Bent Winsor. A bit of verse, by Mrs. Winsor is included in the Anniversary number with the club's plans for the formal celebration of its 50th birthday on March 23, at which time the Fortnightly will have as its guests the State Federation officers, the General Federation Director and the Directors in the 7th and 8th Districts.

The staff of "The Fortnightly News" comprises Mrs. Ada von Rosenvinge, editor; Mrs. Blanche S. Barnard, assistant editor; Mrs. Mary M. Warner, press chairman; and Mrs. Irene D. Clarke, business manager.

Mr. Leahey was the son of John Patrick and Johanna (Sullivan) Leahey, and was a native of County Cork, Ireland. As a young man of 23 he came to this country, and before coming to Winchester made his home for 15 years in West Medford. FAMOUS COLORED CHOIR TO SING AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

A colored choir of 20 mixed voices will provide the music at the Lenten Vesper service, which will be held next Sunday afternoon at 4:30, at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Several of the beautiful spirituals, together with other anthems, sung as only the negroes can sing them, will comprise their part of the program.

These singers have the reputation of being the best colored choir in Boston and, though singing every Sunday at both the morning and evening services of the Fourth Methodist Church (Colored) on Shawmut avenue, have frequent calls for their services on many occasions throughout the city. For years they have had an annual engagement in St. Mark's Church, Brookline. They are said to excell in the rich musical tone that is characteristic of colored choirs.

The director of the choir is Mrs. Rosa Harris. Under her leadership they will sing a number of Spirituals including "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Study War No More," "I Know the Lord," and "Every Time I Feel the Spirit." The anthems will be "God So Loved the World" by Stainer, "Tarry With Me," by Salter and "O Make Me Love Thee More and More" by Abel.

Rev. Mr. Quick, pastor of the church and manager of the choir, will speak briefly during the service. The public is invited.

BAPTIST BOWLING LEAGUE TO CONTINUE

Interest Keen as Team 2 Holds Hair-Line Lead

Increased interest and keen competition has prompted those in charge of the Baptist Bowling League to increase its season for an additional three weeks, only six points separating the four teams in the race for titular honors.

At the present writing Team 2 is leading with 20 points, but is closely followed by Teams 3 and 1, both of which have amassed 19. Team 1, at the bottom of the standing, has 11 points to its credit. The Baptist ladies are bowling each week, and are turning in some excellent scores.

Monday evening's matches resulted in a win for Team 3 over Team 2 while Team 1 was taking Team 4 into camp. "Al" Brownell of Team 4 showed the way to the rest of the bowlers with a three string 283 on a high single of 108. Rushworth of Team 1 followed closely with 282 on a high string of 105.

Robie Cove will present several reels of motion pictures depicting winter sports and fishing. These pictures were taken by Mr. Cove, and are of absorbing interest. This marks the second occasion on which Mr. Cove has entertained the lodge in this manner, and those who enjoyed his previous show will be loth to miss his newest films. Supper will be served at 6:30.

WINCHESTER COTTAGES DAMAGED

The abnormally high tide and storm which did such damage all along the New England coast destroyed the summer cottage of Mr. W. Allan Wilde of Fletcher street and did considerable damage to that of Mr. C. L. Lampee of Foxcroft road. It is probable that other local property owners suffered similar loss at the hands of the elements.

MR. COLES E. TOMPKINS

SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICES

An original type of preacher, a layman in the pulpit, comes in the person of Mr. Coles E. Tompkins to the First Baptist Church to lead in special Lenten services beginning Sunday, March 22.

Mr. Tompkins is a successful business man, owner of a chain of stores, who does his "bit" for community betterment and the church, by setting aside a few weeks before Easter each year for voluntary service. He never receives a cent for his preaching but contributes his service for the sheer joy of serving. As a layman preacher, he is simple, direct and forceful. Only a few churches have been fortunate enough to secure him, and the Winchester church is happy to be one of them.

Services will be held each night except Saturday at the First Baptist Church. Mr. Tompkins has met with fine success in many cities and will be well worth hearing in this Winchester preaching mission, March 22 to April 5.

WAR PICTURES SEEN AT METHODIST CHURCH

The official war pictures of the United States participation in the World War were shown last Thursday evening to one of the largest gatherings of the Methodist Men's Class of Crawford Memorial Methodist Church that have been held this year. Among the men present were many veterans of the War and as the scenes of the conflict were reproduced before their eyes, there were many minutes of tense interest. Here and there a bit of humor relieved the excitement and brought the crowd to a laugh. General plans for the evening were in charge of "Jack" Hawkins chairman of the social committee. Charles Brewn had supervision of the kitchen and Monzo D. Nicholas president of the Class, conducted the entertainment feature. Plans are now underway for a Father and Son night.

WORLD TRAVELER TO SPEAK

Dr William R Leslie, of Brookline, will be the speaker at the coming Lenten mid-week service at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church next Thursday evening, March 12 at 7:45. Speaking on China and the Orient, he will bring some of the situations which confront the world in that Eastern section for a clear and lucid discussion. Dr. Leslie is an experienced traveler, a keen observer and an interesting speaker.

This will be one of the most interesting evenings of the season for the members and their friends.

ROTARY CLUB

Members out of town and members on the sick list made up the combination which brought the smallest attendance for over two years, on March 5. There were 10 absentees, one of whom has made up attendance.

Almost at the last minute it was discovered that the program scheduled for this meeting could not be presented. It remained for President Loring to show his versatility by furnishing the program himself. And it is all the more to his credit because he might well have chosen to stay on the sick list, where he has been for some days past.

Loring has for some time felt that many Rotarians do not realize how rapidly and how extensively the organization is spreading in practically all parts of the world. He had received that his club at least, should be given up-to-date information on Rotary extension. Opportunity for this was given at the meeting of last Thursday and Loring was on the spot.

It was a coincidence that the last organization reported by Rotary International should be that of Rotary Club of Swampscott, No. 2411, in our own 31st District. Rotary International, which covers the wide, wide world, reports from three to five new organizations each week. We doubt if any other society of such wide extent has maintained this rate of increase for so prolonged a period. There is no question that here is a movement with a deep appeal, not to isolated groups of men, not to specific nations, but rather with a capability of appeal to all mankind. It has a power which may well be compared with that of religion or of patriotism, for indeed it is most influential as a buttress to these elementary emotions.

President Loring with his chart and pointer gave us a visual presentation of the location of Rotary Clubs both in thickly settled communities and in out-of-the-way corners of the globe. Also he brought clippings from various Rotary publications giving an insight into the broadly diverse activities which go to make up the work of Rotary. This was an invigorating effort on the part of Loring, and doubtless it will result in stimulating our membership through derivatives.

We anticipate an interesting announcement for the meeting of March 12. All members should be present. Attendance percentage for Feb. 26: 196.33 per cent.

HAD CIVIL WAR POWDER

The police received some interesting relics of the Civil War yesterday when a resident of Washington street came to headquarters with some powder which he said her father had saved as a souvenir of the great struggle to preserve the Union.

The powder was in six paper fuzees, each about three inches long, and on one was written the word "Rebel." Sergt. John H. Noonan disposed of the powder which probably could have told some interesting stories had it been granted the power of speech.

REPAIRING TOWN HALL TOWER

Trouble Confined to Ornamental Veneer

Contractor F. C. Alexander commenced on Tuesday the work of repairing the tower of the Town Hall, from which several bricks fell on the Sunday preceding the annual election.

The trouble was discovered by Kenneth Cullen of Russell road who notified the police. Building Inspector Maurice Dinneen made a cursory investigation of the damage done while Chairman Harry W. Stevens of the Board of Selectmen ordered Superintendent Parker Holbrook of the Highway Department to rope off the library entrance to the hall to guard against possible injury.

Contractor Alexander's men erected a staging and on Wednesday it was possible to make a thorough inspection. Mr. Alexander found that Mr. Dinneen was correct in his belief that the tower itself is sound and that the trouble was confined to the brick frieze or veneer used only for ornamental purposes.

Apparently water had gotten in behind the bricks, causing them to loosen, bulge and finally fall away, the frieze not having been tied in with wire as is the usual procedure today.

Mr. Alexander's inspection disclosed that there were several places on the outside of the tower in need of attention, the lime mortar in use when the hall was built being less durable than the newer sort containing a percentage of cement. The Selectmen felt that it was best to put the tower in good shape, since the erection of a staging is one of the biggest items of expense in such a job, and Mr. Alexander's men were obliged to put up a staging to work upon the spot which had actually given way. When the work is completed the tower will be as good as new, and the pigeons will not be obliged to seek a new home.

WINCHESTER GIRLS IN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Misses Mary Cutter and Louise Packer are among the Winchester girls expected to enter the Women's National Indoor Tennis Championships, to start March 23 on the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill, under the direction of Mrs. William Endicott.

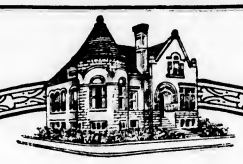

Both local girls are capable performers, and may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves at Longwood. Miss Cutter's game has been constantly improving, and she has seldom failed to reach the final rounds of any tournament in which she has been entered. Miss Packer, after a brilliant career in high school, has been decidedly off her game of late, but report has it she has been practising diligently, and in form she is one of Winchester's best, an especially good competitor.

TEACHERS INJURED WHEN CAR HITS POLE

Miss Blanche A. Pratt of 89 Playstead road, West Medford, supervisor of elementary education and Miss Mabel C. Leary of 18 Brooks street, West Medford, a teacher in the Wyman School, sustained bruises and lacerations shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning when Miss Pratt's automobile skidded and struck a pole on Bacon street near Everett avenue. A passing motorist, Carl Rick of 11 Sheridan place, Woburn, took both teachers to the office of Dr. Milton J. Quinn where their injuries were treated. The automobile was badly damaged and was towed to a West Medford garage.

Keep Thoughts Clear

Get the kinks out of your thoughts! How many of us go through life all twisted up with self-pity and narrow views, with bitterness and bigotry; with ignorance—which is the worst of twisters—and with impatience. We suffer as much from the situations which we invent as from actual conditions? Straighten out those distorted notions and you will be a happier person.—Exchange.

MISS AVERY'S CURRENT EVENTS LECTURES

There will be two more lectures in Miss Avery's Current Events course this season. On March 11, she will speak on "Poland," the high tension spot of Europe" and "Today's Challenge to Education."

On Feb. 25, Miss Avery talked first on "Why has France been Prosperous?" She explained how the reconstruction of the ten devastated areas had used all France's available labor and nearly 3,000,000 imported laborers more.

The annexation of Alsace-Lorraine with these added industries and areas provided increased opportunities. The fall in value of the French franc from 20c to 4c, the consequent raising of prices on low value money and the paying off of the French bond at this reduced rate were all factors in her busy prosperity. So France has been moving in a back water of her own until French prices have just now arrived at the world level. She spoke of the French as famous for their clarity and incisive thought.

The last half hour Miss Avery devoted to the subject, "Why is modern art?" She recommended Cheney's "New World Architecture" as one of the best of the new books on that subject. She presented the new art in the light of functional simplicity with architecture showing masses of daring and courage, power and strength.

Art, she said, must express the era in which it is born. As we were born into a 15 mile an hour world, the younger generation is being born into a 60 mile an hour world!

And to this modern machine age with its up and down of pistons, its turn of engines and its swing and pound of rhythm in the midst of black smoke stacks, she attributes modern, syncopated music!

REV. J. WHITCOMB BROUGHER, JR. COMING TO WINCHESTER

Rev. James Whitcomb Brougher, Jr. formerly acting pastor of the First Baptist Church of this town and now a pastor of the First Baptist Church of Glendale, Calif., will preach on Sunday evening, March 15, at the Baptist Church. When it was learned that Mr. Brougher was to be in Boston over March 15 the pastor, Benjamin P. Browne, made arrangements for him to come to preach in his former church.

TO THE VOTERS IN WINCHESTER

I wish to thank the voters and other friends in Winchester for the confidence which they placed in me in electing me to the high office of Selectman of this Town.

The office lays upon me great responsibilities, and these I hope to be able to bear in a way to justify the confidence of those who were kind enough either to vote or speak well of me.

WINCHESTER WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held on Wednesday, March 4 at Association Hall. Our president, Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, opened the meeting with the salute to the flag. The secretary's report was read after which Mrs. Scales, membership chairman, reported three new members. A motion was made and passed that all members must present their club ticket at the door at every meeting. That there will be a 25-cent charge for members bringing guests and a 50-cent charge for guests unaccompanied by a member, all guests being requested to sign the guest book. Mrs. Dabney, chairman of Education told of a hearing about free Primary Conventions to be held at the State House, March 9. Mrs. Frank Hall gave a short talk explaining about this new convention and asking for members to go to the State House and state their approval of this new bill. She explained how the direct primary had not proved a success on account of only about half of the people voting at the primaries, of the confusion of names, of the difficulty in obtaining information about the candidates themselves, of the necessity for candidates to spend a great deal of their money—all tending to tear down the party loyalty and cohesion. An amendment to the primaries law will do away with the confusion of names and numbers, will make it necessary for candidates nominated to come from different parts of the State. It will have a convention in the spring and construct its platform, nominate its most important candidates, having about 2800 delegates each of whom are the only ones allowed to use their own credentials. It will really be a preprimary recommending convention. Mr. Kenneth McLeod then sang a group of songs accompanied by Mrs. Lachman at the piano. They were most interesting and greatly enjoyed by all those present.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Theodore A. Lothrop, the general secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. His subject was "Work of the Children's Commission." The Children's Commission was formed by the State to take charge of the relations, regulations and protection of children. There are three State commissioners. The purpose of the commission is to protect children who have not had proper protection and to investigate the laws concerning children, Mr. Lothrop improving them by making new bills to be acted upon, spoke of the dependent, the neglected and the delinquent children stating that the Mother's Aid Law should be raised from 14 to 16 years for the working child.

Mental disorders and defects in parents should come under the law. Delinquent children need individual treatment and juvenile courts should be private and cases be kept from publicity. Juveniles should be segregated in jail provided there must be a change to provide temporary care for these children especially girls, physical and mental examinations held before commitment to juvenile training school and every juvenile court should have a special juvenile probation officer.

Adoptions are often very disastrous to children and mothers should be helped to keep their children. The physical and mental habits of the child ought to be investigated and reported to the judge at court. Illegitimate children are likely to become State charges and the interests of the child and mother should be safeguarded and help given them. The children mentally handicapped should be discovered earlier and watched outside of school hours and the age limit put at 14 years for those working in the summer at agriculture especially in the tobacco fields.

A third of our State population are children, 24,000 are dependent on the State, 60,000 mentally handicapped, 2,000 illigitimate, 346 in jail in one year, showing how very important new child laws are to the coming generation, in guarding their welfare. Urge your Senators and Representatives to vote for the bills recommended by the Children's Commission.

At the close of the meeting Mr. McLeod rendered another group of delightful songs.

CHILD HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Charlotte Moran, 7-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moran of 969 Main street, sustained cuts on both legs and a general shaking up Monday afternoon at 12:30 when she was struck by an automobile, driven by Arthur J. Mullen of 6 Bridge street.

The latter told the police that he was driving south on Main street and had reached a point opposite Conlon's Garage when the little girl ran from the sidewalk into the side of his car, the right front fender striking her and knocking her down. Mr. Mullen picked her up and took her to the Winchester Hospital where she was treated by an out-of-town physician. She was not reported as badly injured.

S. S. McNEILLY CO. TAKES ON NEW LINE

After careful consideration of their merits, the S. S. McNeilly Co., local radio dealers, has taken on for distribution in Winchester the fine new Majestic line of radios and electric refrigerators. Mr. McNeilly, after investigation and comparison feels that these products will have an especial appeal for discriminating Winchester buyers, and invites his customers and friends to see them and learn of their many fine new features.

The Majestic radio is the newest super-hetrodyne model and is built on two chasis, one having eight, and the other nine tubes. There are also two refrigerator models, selling at $69.50 and $197.50, delivered. They are built of steel, heavily ducoed and porcelain lined, with trouble light and manual control. An examination will convince the most critical that these Majestic products are real values and Mr. McNeilly anticipates that they will become very popular.

Explaining Leaning Tower

The fact that the Leaning Tower of Pisa stands depends on the law of statics, which insures the stability of a leaning building whose parts are firmly bound together and whose center of gravity does not project beyond the limits of the supporting foundation. The leaning tower has a spiral stairway within, which is built with increased height on the sides of the lean and decreased height on the sides opposite the lean, thus throwing a greater weight of masonry on the side opposed to the lean.

Water in Fog

By studying fog off the Grand banks it was determined that a block of very dense fog 100 feet long by 6 feet high by 3 feet wide contains about one-seventh of a glass of water. This is divided into about 60,000,000,000 droplets.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Next Monday the regular meeting of the club will be in charge of the Education Committee who bring to us a speaker of ability and a man of splendid performance, Mr. Carl L. Schrader, State Supervisor of Physical Education, will explain "The Responsibility of the Community for the Leisure of Its Citizens."

The Girl Scouts, who always enjoy a soft spot in the Fortnightly heart, will present a pageant of "The History of the American Flag," under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Hall. The pageant was worked out by the Betsy Ross troop of Paducah, Ky. The Drum and Bugle Corp will close the program most fittingly.

The Literature Committee gave the fifth of their inspiring afternoon programs on Monday, March 2. The topic of the day was biography and the subject was most illuminatingly presented. Mrs. Maude Bridge opened the afternoon by a very able review of the "Aspects of Biography" by Andre Mamois. M. Mamois has been an author and biographer for only the last 12 years. During the World War he was an interpreter for Great Britain and previous to that time, he was a successful business man of France. In this book he publishes what were originally lectures delivered at Trinity College, Cambridge. In these lectures, Mamois has attempted to analyze the difference in style and method between the modern and old style biography. The old style biography was decidedly documentary in style and sought to picture a man as truthfully as possible with the proprieties respected most carefully. The modern biography is no longer concerned with a legendary hero of mythical virtue but seeks to picture the man as he actually was. In making such a portrait there are three primary aims; to produce the truth as seen from all available data, to show the complexity of personality, the changes in character through the passage of time, and the fact that man is a divided being.

Biagrophy must be truthful but not as the exact sciences; it must more resemble the art of portraiture. There are certain rules which must be followed to make this portraiture successful. The character under study must be sufficiently remote to be clearly seen. A chronological order must be followed. The details chosen must expose the subject and not impose the writer's idea. And the motif of life—which exists as in music—must faithfully be placed. In writing such a biography Mamois felt that it might be an escape for the writer as well as for the reader.

Mrs. Arzillia Higgins followed this analysis by one of Ernest Dimnet's "The Bronte Sisters." Seen through Mrs. Higgins' eyes this book became a most lively and charming example of modern biography. Partly by very skillfully chosen quotations, partly by her own sympathetic insight, the sombre but forceful lives and spirits of these unusual girls were brought before us in a vivid manner. The cramping of the eager ambitions by financial and physical difficulties, the resolute adherance to literary ambition and the too long delayed triumph were all noted and we were left with the suggestion of Dimnet's own stern philosophy which he found so well portrayed in these tragic lives.

LABRADOR HAS QUAINT METHODS OF HUNTING AND FISHING

The burning recently of Sir Wilfred Grenfell's first hospital at Battle Harbor, Labrador, recalls how his social work has helped alter the human geography of Labrador, creating new industries for the natives, and encouraging explorations which have revealed scenic beauties and potential water power sites.

Labrador is a strange land of many contrasts, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C. headquarters. Because of its barren, forbidding shores sailors call it the "Land of Naked Rocks," yet, inland Labrador is green with vegetation. Virgin spruce, a potential source of pulpwood and home brew, all kinds of berry bushes, scrub trees, moss and many northern varieties of wild flowers cover the interior, while familiar garden vegetables are grown in sheltered mission gardens.

Highest Mountains on Atlantic Seaboard

In summer, under bright blue skies, giant "sea horses" leap and crash against its uncharted reefs, the graveyard of many a fair ship, while in the nine months of winter, creaking, groaning ice does smash and grind against its outer defenses of rock. Parts of the coast are low-lying granite islands and headlands, but, in other places, gray mountains, the highest on the North Atlantic seaboard, rise precipitously from the ocean's depths to 4000 feet.

While existence in Labrador is a life-long battle, its inhabitants enjoy certain enviable advantages. For instance, fat salmon and trout swim into nets tied to private wharves, virtually to one's front door. Sleepy spruce grouse sit on boughs of fir trees and unless Eskimos to slip up from behind and drop nooses over their heads thereby saving time, trouble and ammunition for all hands. Partridges and hares are plentiful. Natives sneak up on the former and with a snap of their long whips flick off the birds' heads. Individuals have been known to bag 500 in one hunt by this economical method.

Ducks Fly Regular Routes

Migrating ducks fly regular routes, following the indentations of the coast not daring to strike off across wide bays by dead reckoning. Hunters, knowing this, plant themselves with their dogs in primitive blinds and drop the ducks as they fly past close in-shore, using all kinds of ancient firearms. Bears make good eating and taste like veal. Deer are numerous and their worst enemy is not the wolf, as one might suppose, but a species of fly whose maggot bores into their beautiful bodies. Skins which make soft, warm clothing and moccasins shoot up to 1000 holes made by this insect. Wild berries, such as the cranberry, remain on the bushes all winter and are often picked after the spring thaws. It is said that the snow sweetens the red fruit.

During the summer months, the deep, fiordlike harbors are dotted with Newfoundland fishing vessels over for the cod season. So poor are some of these fisherfolk that whole families including mother and daughter-in-law, often "man" the boats. The recent perfecting of a new method for quick freezing may eventually help the Labrador industry by allowing the shipment to the United States of fresh fish from this far-off country. Hitherto the fish could only be used to make fertilizer.

Seals Caught in Nets

While sealing is not so important an industry to Labrador as it is to Newfoundland, many are taken off its coast. In the waters near certain headlands the seals are caught and drowned in ordinary nets, for they swim along close to the rocky shore much as migrating birds do in the air. Many Labradorians in the early spring hunt seals from large ships which follow the whelping herds out to the ice pack. To save the ships many weeks of useless search, airplanes are often employed for spotting the herds.

Although no part of Labrador is north of Scotland, dog teams and sledges are the sole modes of transportation for three-quarters of the year, excluding of course one's own snowshoes. During the summer months the sea becomes the arterial highway and power dories the motor vehicles of more temperate regions. Gasoline may well be considered as the native's chief item of expense, as for his southern brother. Dog team races on the ice of frozen harbors take the place of horse racing. The driver of the winning team in this northern Futurity becomes the hero of the winter to his neighbors. When dogs roam at will during their summer vacation, Battle Harbor is the concert platform for the loudest "husky" dog chorus in the world!

Sir Wilfred is aided in his welfare work among the Scotch-Irish and English colonists and fisherfolk by American college men and women who, guided by altruistic motives, give their services during the summer holidays. These workers, with the help of trained teachers, have taught the people new methods for increasing their income and thereby have helped them alleviate some of the hardships of living in this Arctic country. No finer hooked rugs are made anywhere than in Labrador. Discarded silk stockings with runs are at a premium here for preparation as rags in the rugs. Toy making, weaving and ivory carving with walrus and narwhal tusks as the medium are some of the most lucrative trades.

Battle Harbor came into news prominence in 1925 when Sir Wilfred accompanied the National Geographic Society—U. S. Navy Expedition, which was headed for Etah, Greenland—an expedition whereon Admiral Byrd commanded the Navy personnel and made his first flying experiments in high latitudes.

TELEPHONE NUMBER 0029

The Second Congregational Church, which has done so much to promote a fine community spirit in the Highland District, commences tonight a week of celebration, in honor of its 25th anniversary. The STAR offers its congratulations and best wishes for continued service.

The STAR offers its congratulations to The Fortnightly which this year observes the 50th anniversary of its founding in 1881. We hope that its Golden Anniversary party on March 23 will be a most happy and successful one, and that the club has many prosperous years ahead. Noting the part which the Fortnightly has played in the educational and social development of the town, it seems no idle fancy to believe that its members will yet make a reality the community building of which many of us have dreamed and which is so badly needed here.

It is with interest that the STAR notes the refusal of the Finance Committee to recommend the $300 which the Park Department has requested for resurfacing the diamond on Manchester Field. If this money has been refused because the committee believes that it is not needed, then our advice to its members is to chat for a few minutes with any one who chanced to play upon the diamond within the last five years. We know of few fields hereabouts in such poor shape, and our judgment is formed from personal observation. If the Finance Committee is refusing the money because its members believe that instead of merely doing something about the diamond a comprehensive program to put the entire playground in good condition should be adopted, then we are with them. Manchester Field, ideally situated and a fine place for sports, is at present in such condition as to be all but dangerous in places. We hear much talk about the necessity for securing good playgrounds and yet the one we have is gradually getting to be a joke as playgrounds now are. It seems like false economy to continue to neglect this field, and it certainly will not lessen the cost of putting it in good shape when the job finally is undertaken.

HORACE FORD STILL UNSIGNED

While other big league baseball players are working the kinks out of throwing arms and sturdy backs and legs, Horace Ford of Kenwin road, veteran infielder of the Cincinnati Reds, remains busily at work in his ice cream and candy shop on Thompson street, still at odds with the club management on the all important matter of salary.

Some might term "Hod" a holdout, yet in fairness to a player who has never been a trouble-maker, it should be said that Ford has made no exorbitant salary demands. He simply can't see eye to eye with President Weil of the "Reds" who thinks Horace ought to take a 10 per cent salary cut and like it. There seems little likelihood of the pair coming together.

In the meantime Cincinnati loses the services of just about the only first rate infielder on the club roster since "Buckey" Critz went to the Giants. Ford has always finished right up with the fielding leaders in the league hits well enough and is a smart ball player. With Critz he holds the record for double plays around second base and plays equally well at shortstop or the keystone bag. He has asked Weil for his release, and in the meantime is working out daily at the Tufts cage where he performed while an undergraduate prior to 1919.

Indian Arrows Varied

A complete Indian arrow is made up of six parts: Head, shaft, foreshaft, shaftment, feathering and neck. These differ in material form, measurement, decoration and assemblage according to locality and tribe. Arrowheads have three parts: Body, tang and barbs. There are two kinds of arrowheads, blunt and sharp. In the Southwest a sharpened foreshaft of hardwood serves for the head. Arctic and northwest coast arrows have heads of ivory, bone, wood or copper, as well as stone; elsewhere they are more generally of stone, chipped or polished. The head is attached to the shaft or foreshaft by lashing with sinew, by riveting or with gum.

"Pitcher's Elbow"

The curious ailment called "pitcher's elbow" is ascribed by a Baltimore physician to chips broken off when the bones rotate rapidly as the baseball leaves the hand.

I WAS rearranging settlements of a man's insurance recently. He had forty-two policies which he had accumulated as he had grown prosperous.

I suggested writing to a home office for some detail. "No, was the reply attend to it at once."

A day or two previously he had a dizzy spell which frightened him.

It would be a good thing if some men I know should be frightened if it did not prevent having insurance placed on them.

MR. LARAWAY VOICES SENTIMENT

To the Editor of the Star:

Having lived in Winchester for more than 40 years, I have heard many latter arguments, in town meetings and out, (in some of which I participated) many unjust criticisms, and many cutting expressions—I might say insults—to very line citizens; but nothing worse than the incident at the town election, last Monday—the failure to elect Mr. E. H. Kennerson as a town meeting member, by the voters of Precinct 3.

Of course most people know why. Mr. Kennerson has lived in Winchester for about 25 years. Can any Ward 3 voter think of any Winchester citizen who has worked harder, or more conscientiously for Winchester's best interests as he saw it, than has Mr. Kennerson.

My dear unjust voters, have you forgotten the valuable time he unstintingly spent on school houses of which you did approve? I have not always agreed with Mr. Kennerson, but I thank God that I am not so mean, but that I feel this unjust incident keenly and condemn those responsible for the dirty deal.

Now as to the most shameful happening in my 40 years in Winchester. Just turn to page 257 of the town report for 1930. I think this page should be framed and hung in some conspicuous place—perhaps in the Legion Headquarters and no doubt the town would be generous enough to furnish a spotlight to illuminate it permanently.

The best financed proposition, during the said 40 years, from a taxpayer's standpoint is for our Tercentenary celebration: Town Report, pages 248-252 inclusive. Evidently the town meeting members very conservatively voted $500—for the observance. Some one of the committee had pull enough to extract $1000 from the "grab bag," better known as the Reserve Fund. The committee spent $6433.01 and returned back to the town $1161.34, so the wonderful celebration cost the taxpayers $3335.66.

I have taken these figures from the town report. If anybody would like to know how to finance a proposition like this and don't know how this was done, don't ask "Amos and Andy," or "Professor Butts," just consult "Jimmy" Hinds.

Still Hope to Locate Savage King's Treasure

A king's treasure—ivory, raw gold, British and Kruger sovereigns and diamonds—valued at £2,000,000 lies hidden somewhere in the Rhodesia bush. It is the buried hoard of Lobengula, the Zulu warrior who founded the Matabele nation, challenged the British might in 1892 and met with defeat. A Johannesburg bushmen man who has already made six attempts to trace the buried treasure, will make a final attempt. The story of the treasure has been told by John Jacobs, Lobengula's sometime "secretary." Lobengula ordered that his ivory and two safes containing a store of diamonds and gold packed in tins were to be rushed into the bush. The headers of the party were Lobengula, Jacobs, four Indunas (native officers), and 11 Matabele, who dug the holes in which the treasure was hidden. One night on their return, Lobengula ordered the Indunas to slay all who had taken part in the burial. All save Jacobs and the Indunas were assegaied.

Benedict Arnold

Authors differ on the birth date of Benedict Arnold. Appleton's Cyclopedia and Lippincott's Biographical Dictionary both state he was born January 3, 1740. Lossing's Cyclopedia of History gives the time as January 3, 1741. A carefully prepared and impartial history of the American traitor of Revolutionary times was written by Hon. Isaac N. Arnold, who fixes his birth date on January 14, 1741, and his death on June 14, 1801, in London.

MRS. MARY IANNUZZI

Mrs. Mary Iannuzzi, wife of Anthony Iannuzzi formerly of Winchester, died Wednesday evening at the Cambridge Hospital, following an illness with pneumonia.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, 59 School street, Cambridge, Saturday morning with requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9:45 a. m. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

MISS CATHERINE AHEARN

Miss Catherine Ahearn, 30, a graduate nurse, died suddenly this morning at the home of Mr. E. A. Weaver 326 Main street, where she was employed.

Miss Ahearn was a native of Portsmouth, N. H., and the remains will be taken to that city for burial.

She had made her home in Winchester for the past 10 years and was active in the work of St. Mary's Parish. She leaves her father, Michael Ahearn, who makes his home in Portsmouth. Funeral arrangements have not been arranged as yet.

Mr. Thomas J. Lally of Chicago was in town visiting friends yesterday. He came East to see his mother, Mrs. Johanna Lally who is seriously ill in Malden. He is well known here and a former resident of Winchester.

ENGLAND'S OLDEST INDUSTRY CLOSES DOWN AT ST. JUST-IN-PENWITH

Heavy world production of tin has thrown thousands of miners out of work in Cornwall. At St. Just-in-Penwith, some 400 men were added to the unemployed of the town when the Geevor and the great Levant mines were closed.

St. Just-in-Penwith, center of Cornwall's tin mining industry, is more picturesque in name than otherwise, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. A drab little town, set in a stern background of slaty hills and rocky headlands, it has had a checkered career, as full of ups and downs as the famous mine shafts which puncture the countrysides all around it. More English fortunes have been won and lost in Cornish mines, it is said, than in any other industry.

Greeks Found a Name for It

The little mining town has a church dating from the fifteenth century, but St. Just-in-Penwith is of no great antiquity compared with the tin mines of the district. The tin of Cornwall has been known and worked from the Bronze Age. Tin mining, therefore, is England's oldest industry. It might be claimed that the world's first tin came from here, for the "tin" of the Bible corresponds to the Hebrew "bedhil," which is really a copper known as early as 1600 B. C. in Egypt.

The Phoenicians, who were the merchant adventurers of their times, sent galleys from the Mediterranean to buy the metal from the natives of Cornwall in exchange for salt, hockey and bronze ware. The Phoenicians then set up a trade in tin with the Greeks—who, incidentally, were the first to find a name for it! Later Julius Caesar was led to invade England by reports of valuable mineral deposits there particularly the tin of Cornwall. Traces of Roman engineering have been found in some old workings near St. Just-in-Penwith.

The tin mines of the St. Just district are unique among man's subterranean activities. St. Just itself is a mile from the sea, but many of the mine heads of the vicinity are close to the rocky shores, and their shafts extend out under the ocean bed for considerable distances. The Levant mine, for instance, has a gallery more than 2000 feet below sea level which bores under the Atlantic Ocean to a point a half a mile from the shore. Workings at a higher level in this great borrow, which produced both copper and tin, go out double that distance.

"Ding Dong" Antedates Christianity

Not far from St. Just, too, is the ill-fated Wheal Vyvian mine, where water broke through the upper galleries a few years ago, drowning 20 miners who were trapped in a lower level. The water has never been pumped out.

Many of the Cornwall mines have quaint names, among them the "Wheal Cupboard," the "Ding Dong" (said to have been worked long before the Christian era), the "Consols" and the "Ale and Cakes" mines.

In the town of St. Just is a circular inclosure, called the "Plane an Gwarry" which was the scene of ancient Cornish miracle plays, wrestling and other sports. It is similar to the grassy pit at Redruth, another tin mining town, where John Wesley once preached to the miners. Methodists still hold open air meetings in the Redruth Amphitheater, with 20,000 or more people gathering at one time.

St. Just is easily located on the map. It is but a mile inland from Cape Cornwall, a bold headland which rises 200 feet above the sea.

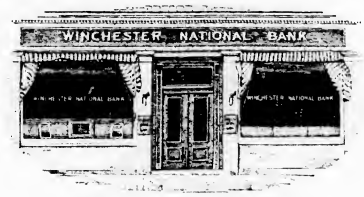

Dropped Two-thirds in Value

For many years the mines of Cornwall enjoyed a virtual monopoly of the world tin trade, Saxony and Bohemia being the chief rivals. Then tin was found in the Federated Malay States, Bolivia, the Dutch East Indies, and Nigeria—today the chief producers. Last year some 150,000 tones of the metal was produced, almost half going to the United States, which itself does not produce tin in commercial quantities.

Cornwall furnished and still furnishes the best hard-rock miners in the world. They despise coal mining as an inferior branch of the industry. Formerly a Cornish miner migrated westward when hard times hit his native land, but the mines of other countries are already overstocked with miners and the pick of the world's metal diggers are forced to accept a lole.

IF you take advantage of the opportunity to borrow 50 on your service certificate.....

AND IF you have a family or other dependents.....

WE RECOMMEND that you pay up the loan when convenient, or at least that you pay the annual interest charges.

Otherwise the effect of your borrowing will be a loss of nearly half of the value of your certificate. For example: if your certificate is for $1000 you may now borrow $500: the interest $22.50 this year, $23.62 next year, etc., is charged against the balance due you: and therefore, if you do not pay any interest charges you will only receive $71.03 when the certificate matures in 1945.

"HOME WORK" EASY FOR STUDENTS WRITING ABOUT BYRD

School students do not mind "home work" when they can be enthusiastic about the subject.

Evidence is the response of school children writing letters to Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, regarding the value of his explorations.

Thousands of these letters are now being received by the National Education Association to be bound and presented to Admiral Byrd when he addresses the Department of Superintendence convention, at Detroit.

Every State in the Union will be represented in the gift volume. Some of the letters are brief essays on the value of exploration, revealing close study of Admiral Byrd's life and four major explorations. Others are enthusiastic personal notes—a few written in verse, some expressed in pictures and in illuminated manuscripts.

Blind Students Write in Braille

Among the most unusual letters are several written by blind children of Cleveland, Ohio, in raised Braille characters. One student hopes that Admiral Byrd's books will some day be printed in Braille. A transcription is written between the Braille characters by the teacher.

New Orleans children sent a handsome book of letters. The book was designed and made by manual training students, from Louisiana tidewater cyprus wood and the cover is suitably inscribed.

A group of pupils from Vineland, New Jersey, presented an illuminated manuscript, depicting in color Byrd's plane as the children saw it when he flew over New Jersey's "Egg Basket."

A Plandome, New York, boy in the sixth grade, writes:

I am happy to have the opportunity to write to the man who explored the South Pole. I have seen the pictures of your adventures in the cold blizzards.

One of the men who went with you came to our house to stay overnight. He took care of all the dog sleds. His name is Norman Vaughn. I took a guess at how to spell it and I hope it is right.

In those pictures of your expedition, I liked best where you dressed Igloo your dog, in that sweater and shoes. Next I liked where you drowned the bag at the South Pole. I really think it all was wonderful.

A Ship Model in Soap

An enthusiastic River Falls, Wisconsin, youth carved a model of Admiral Byrd's ship, "The City of New York," from a cake of laundry soap, and sent it with his letter of tribute. It is complete with sails and rigging.

One New York City schoolboy illustrated his letter with pen sketches of the Antarctic. Accurately portrayed are scenes of "Little America," the dog sledges, penguins, and the Polar plan. A lad, whose name indicates Spanish parentage, sent from El Paso, Texas, a full-length drawing of Admiral Byrd, in his navel uniform. Two other large pictures of the explorer were sent from Concord, New Hampshire and Lakewood, Ohio.

Many of the packets of student letters contain accompanying notes from teachers, fullodersing the idea. One Maine teacher says, "the letter-writing idea has been a greater incentive to spontaneous study in geography, history and English than anything we have had this year.

More than 3000 letters have been received, and these represent the best of some 30,000 submitted to teachers for a preliminary elimination. The presentation exercises were broadcast over the Columbia network from Detroit, Monday, Feb. 23.

Few Left for Export

Of all the peaches that are commercially canned in this country, people in the United States eat up four-fifths.

Sinister Political Date

One of the most sinister dates in modern British politics is October 6. Have you ever seen the list? On October 6, 1881, Gladstone denounced Parnell, and on October 6, 1890, Parnell died. On October 6, 1846, Roseberry retired from the leadership of the Liberal party, and on October 6, 1909, he resigned the presidency of the Liberal league. On October 6, 1891, W. H. Smith died while leading the house of commons, and on October 6, 1903, Joseph Chamberlain opened his disastrous tariff reform campaign with his Glasgow speech.—London Mail.

Days of Rest and Joy

Mary E. Hazeltine in her book, "Anniversaries and Holidays," says: "The calendar includes 77 holidays, special days, seasonal festivals and holidays, without counting the feast days of the saints or considering and statehood days, which in some countries and states are observed as holidays; the former are counted with the names of persons, of whom there are 892; the latter, with events, of which there are 229; a total of 1,198 calendar entries, an average of three and a half for every day."

"Clean Hands" in Law

There is a legal maxim, "He who seeks equity must come with clean hands." As explained in Bouvier's Handbook that "a plaintiff who has been guilty of inequitable conduct in the same matter concerning which he asks relief against the defendant's inequitable conduct will be denied relief." An illustration cited is that a plaintiff who sues to restrain the defendant from infringing his trade mark will be denied relief where the trade mark is itself untruthful and misleading to the public. A somewhat similar maxim is, "He who seeks equity must do equity."

Care of the Piano

Do not shut your piano off in a cold room, as this will cause all metal parts to frost, and then when the room is heated to sweat and rust. As a rule, when a piano has rusted, this is what has caused it. If it must be left in a cold room or house, throw over it several blankets, quilts or anything to keep out the cold. Excessive dampness will cause veneer checks, so will excessive heat or cold, and then the only remedy is refinishing. However, exterior heat is even more injurious. The temperature of the room containing a piano should be kept as normal and as even as possible all the year round.—Washington Star.

Pragmatism is the philosophical doctrine that the only test of the truth of human cognitions or philosophical principles is their practical results; that is, their workableness. The word was introduced in this connection about 1875 by the American logician, C. S. Pierce, and was popularized by William James, whose "Pragmatism" was published in 1907.

Present for a King

Tea was such a rare and valuable commodity a few centuries ago that the East India Tea company considered two pounds of it a regal enough present to offer to the mighty monarch Charles II. A fashionable paper of the day, commenting on the gift, explained that it cost more to maintain a tea table than a nurse and two children.

Worth-While Inventions
Fruit of Woman's Brain

There are a great many more patents granted to men than to women. For instance, during the first 98 years of the patent system, from 1790 to 1888, only 2,455 patents were granted to women; altogether 175,000 patents have been granted to women. The fifteen thousandth one was granted to Rose Stuhlman of Brooklyn for an ice bag. The first successful application under the patent law by a woman was recorded in 1809, when Mary Kies took out a patent for a method of weaving straw with silk or thread. In 1789 Miss Betsy Metcalf hit upon an invention for plaiting and braiding meadow grass into bonnets. Miss Lucy Johnson in 1824 wove seamless pedlowcases. Hannah Montague invented the detachable shirt collar. The modern paper bag is the invention of Miss M. E. Knight. Mrs. Martha J. Coston invented the flare light used for signaling by our Coast guard and mariners at over the world. The first ice cream freezer was invented by Nancy M. Johnson.

Opening of Early Rail Line Important Event

"Yesterday was a great day on the new railroad between Baltimore and Washington, being the first day of its being opened for travel all the way from the depot at Baltimore to the foot of the Capitol hill in this city," said an article in the National Intelligencer of August 26, 1835.

"It was a glorious sight to see four trains of cars, with each its engine, extending altogether several hundred yards in length, making their entry by this new route, to the delight of thousands of spectators in the grounds directly north of the capitol. These cars, besides bringing back our own mayor and members of the corporation and city guests who went out to meet them, brought about as many ladies and gentlemen of Baltimore as made up the whole numbers of about a thousand persons carried by the cars. These, accompanied by two bands of music, after debarking, marched in procession to Gadsby's and Brown's hotels, at both of which sumptuous and bounteous entertainment was provided and liberally partaken of. The cars arrived at a little before one o'clock, and at four our friends from Baltimore re-embarked and returned to their homes without, we trust, any accident or other inconvenience than what was occasioned by the dust on the roads and streets."—Kansas City Star.

Gigantic Structure

Herodotus estimated that 100,000 men were engaged for 20 years in building the Great pyramid.

Long-Lived Moon Superstition

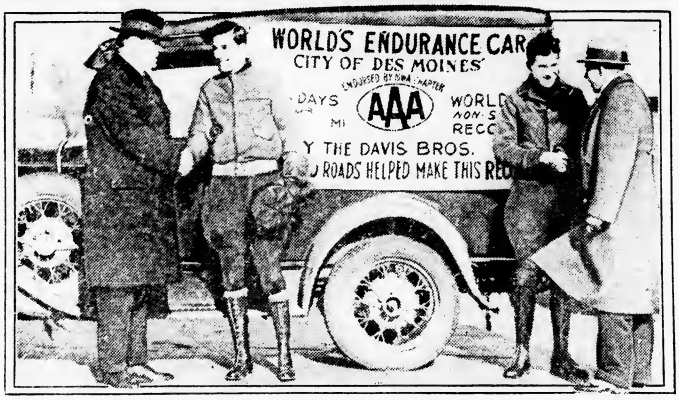

Old foresters have the surest opinions as to the influence of the moon on timber. In the royal ordinances of France for the conservation of forests, it was laid down that timber, especially oaks, should be felled only during the wane of the moon, and the belief—superstition, if you like to call it so—still persists both in France and England. The idea is that timber felled at these times is less liable to rot than when felled during the wax. The belief dates right back to Roman times.

Nebraska Saved by Trees

When the Missouri was first crossed by settlers, Nebraska was known as the largest body of treeless land in the country. There was scarcely enough wood for fuel for the wagon trains. Today there are 2,500,000,000 trees in Nebraska. And the annual rainfall has increased to such an extent that the once "great American desert" has become "Nation's Breadbasket."

These "hand-made" forests are scattered all over the state. Settlers were permitted to homestead 160 acres of land and then were given an additional 160 acres as a "timber claim" if they would plant one-quarter of it in second claim to trees. These trees have been long in coming, but they now cover the state with a great green blanket which is credited with increasing the annual rainfall to more than 20 inches.—Exchange.

Iowa Brothers Set New World's Record in Ford

IOWA state officials and civic leaders witnessed the establishment of a new world's non-motor, non-wheel stop automobile endurance record recently, when Ralph and Rolland Davis, brothers, brought their Model A Ford to a halt at the east entrance of the state capitol in Des Moines after 2,775 hours and 46 minutes of continuous driving.

When Governor Hammill, standing with Walter Ferrell, executive secretary of the Iowa Chapter of the American Automobile Association, gave the signal to stop, the Ford had traveled a total of 17,138.3 miles over all sorts of roads in all sorts of weather and had exceeded by 33,680 miles and more than 2,335 hours the American non-stop endurance record which, theretofore officially recognized, was made by a much heavier car under almost ideal conditions on the Indianapolis speedway last year. In the course of the endurance run, the car, known as "The City of Des Moines," covered practically the entire state of Iowa.

Engineers who examined the Ford at the conclusion of the run asserted that neither engine nor chassis showed evidence of the gruelling strains to which they were subjected during the 116 days of continuous driving. Both apparently, according to the engineers, would have been good for another 50,000 miles or more.

WINCHESTER GIRL PREACHES SERMON

Miss Bigley Honor Student in Department of Religion at Smith

Miss Alice L. Bigley of Smith College, preached her first sermon last Sunday in a Northampton chapel on "What Are You Looking for in Religion?" Miss Bigley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bigley of Lloyd street, is a junior and a candidate for special honors in the department of religion. She intends to enter some sort of religious work after graduating from Smith next year.

This year she has been assisting the pastor, Rev. James H. Larson in conducting the evening services in the interdenominational chapel. Sunday night she preached the sermon in the absence of Rev. Mr. Larson, who was preaching in Brookline.

Miss Bigley discussed the motives which commonly lead persons to turn to religion, the hope of getting to Heaven, the desire to get what one wants by means of prayer and the use of religion as a way of getting out of difficulty.

"These suggestions as to what people are looking for in religion are all more or less alike," she continued. "Every one of them emphasizes a desire to get something and to get it for one's self. Such a purpose is contrary to the fundamental principle of the Gospel, which is serving one's self in the service of others."

In conclusion Miss Bigley said: "If you are truly Christian you are looking for an opportunity for service. You are not seeking what religion can do for you, but you are seeking to know what you can do for the world through religion."

Miss Bigley was the ranking student and valedictorian of the class graduated from Winchester High School in 1928. As the result of her brilliant scholastic record she was awarded the four year scholarship awarded by the Winchester Smith College Club.

ALBERT GEORGE HAMILTON

Albert George Hamilton, a former well known Winchester boy, died early Tuesday morning, March 3 in Bellevue Hospital, New York, following a short illness.

Mr. Hamilton was 70 years of age and the son of George W. and the late Rose (Crowley) Hamilton. He was born in Winchester and attended the Winchester schools, making his home in this town and for a time in Woburn before going to New York City three years ago. He was employed as a chauffeur.

Surviving are his father, now living in Weymouth, three sisters, Mrs. Edward W. O'Connell, wife of Sergeant O'Connell of the Winchester Police Department; Mrs. John Cline and Miss Grace Hamilton, all of Winchester; and one brother, George W. Hamilton, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa.

The remains were brought to Winchester and the funeral is to be held from the home of his sister, Mrs. O'Connell, 66 Sylvester avenue, Saturday morning. High mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock and the interment will be made in Calvary Cemetery.

Types of Manikins

"Mannequin" or "manikin" literally means a little man. Sometimes the term is applied to a dwarf or very small person, but more often it refers to the lay models used by artists, tailors and dressmakers. Models of the human body used to demonstrate the physiological relationship of the various organs are also called manikins.—Exchange.

Products Much the Same

Authorities on sugar state that refined cane sugar and refined beet sugar are identical in chemical composition, quality and taste, and commercial value. With modern methods of transportation and storage, there is little to choose between fruits and vegetables grown in one locality and those brought from outside.

A FLYING TRIP TO DEVIL'S ISLAND

How Devil's Island, famous penal station in French Guiana, looks from the air is told in a report to the National Geographic Society by Frederick Simpich, recently in charge of the Society's aerial survey party which made a study of air traffic lanes between Washington and Buenos Aires.

With M. Sindous, Governor General of French Guiana, writes Mr. Simpich, we flew from Cayenne to Devil's Island. Here Captain Dreyfus languished through long, lonely years till freed by Emile Zola's aid. His dramatic trial, uncovering the amazing Count Esterhazy plot, stirred the civilized world.

Three tiny green dots rise from the sea 27 miles south of Cayenne. They form the penal group, "Iles du Salut" which include St. Joseph with its prison hospital—Isle Royale, with tiers of tiny stone cells for incorrigibles, and Devil's Island, so famed in tales of fact and fiction.

Men without women gazed up from behind high walls as we idled overhead. For women are no longer sent to this great penitentiary of France. Here, and in Cayenne are about 700 French prisoners—including such colonials as Arabs, Africans and even French Indo-Chinese.

Island of Spies

But on Devil's Island today, despite its world-wide notoriety, only nine men are confined—mostly spies. But they are lifers. Three aviators are there. They were among the little group gazing up at us. I wondered what their thoughts must be, as they saw our big ship flying free in that own once familiar element—able to carry them so quickly to freedom were they only up in it. . . . . Hard by, on Isle Royale, are prison graves row on row, where now men of high and low degree sleep side by side, their earthly penalties paid.

A dismal land is Cayenne, or French Guiana, as you fly from Paramaribo along its lonely coast. Mud flats far out to sea, brightened only by flocks of 2000 or more pink ibis, and low, jungle-grown swamps broken by grassy savanna stretching inland to distant low hills. Once past the plantations below Paramaribo, so many long abandoned, the only signs of white man's work we saw were about the mouth of the River Maroni. Steamers go, semi-monthly, bringing prisoners for the penal colonies. The last ship brought ab out 800 from France.

Returning from Devil's Island, we took Governor Sindous for a ride over the delta of the Kourou. It was up this river that a French colonizing company once sent 10,000 immigrants from Alsace. Badly equipped, unwisely chosen—for the party included jewelers, dancing masters and even dressmakers—but few experienced farmers or miners—nearly all perished. That story is historic. Only about 2000 survived, and returned to France.

Rich Soil But No Farmers

Miles inland we could see low, treeless mated ridges, with round-top hills enjoying such local names as Monkey Hill and Devil Mountain. Into that hard land gold-seekers go, each lured, in ever dwindling volume, is the chief export. Incredibly rich as the soil is, agriculture is limited by lack of labor. Most of the "Con lamnees," though farmed out by the government to work for private masters, are too weak in mind or body—or both—to till the soil in this trying climate. Efforts to colonize free men, on a big scale, have brought no good results. The average potential immigrant shuns French Guiana because so many convicts are here. But one is amazed at the good order. By 7 o'clock the small town of Cayenne is dark.

Dilapidated Cayenne, with weed-grown plazas, weather-beaten houses, and its rough streets cleaned only by buzzards, is a blot of gloom depressing to normal souls. Weeping women and despondent men sit idly about its cheap cafes—or wander under the small grove of strangely conspicuous royal palms which lift their graceful trunks above the squalor of its principal plaza. "Liberes," such half-free prisoners are called. Though their days of actual confinement are ended, they are at liberty only within the borders of Cayenne. A convict, sent here for a term longer than eight years, must remain for life; he is known as a "prisoner in perpetuity." But a man sent for a lesser period, say for five years, must remain an additional five in the colony—or one year on the "island" for each year spent in its jails—before he can return to France. Then he must pay his own way home. For the Government does not repatriate the exiles. Often such a man's relatives or friends send him money to come home on; occasionally, he can earn enough in the colony. French Arabs, industrious and thrifty, support a sort of community chest which buys homebound tickets for each Arab, as his day of complete liberty arrives.

Gentlemen and Hoodlums Brothers in Misery

Lawyers, doctors, engineers, artists, skilled artisans—as well as criminals from the peasant class and the slums of Paris—these you see in the streets. Many seek to earn a few francs, at any kind of work, in a lost city where even petty tasks are few. That tall, ragged, bare-footed man driving that milk-goat from house to house is a French gentleman of a fine old family, said my guide. My chauffeur is a convict, said the Governor as we took a short ride around the dispiriting place. Practically everybody you see in the streets is a convict. The liberes are free to work for wages, and some of them are in partnership with natives in various kinds of business. Figurines of jaguars, women and birds, beautifully carved from hardwood—and even cleverly fashioned little guillotines, are the work of one —who thus gains money for champagne. He was a successful Paris sculptor. The dry Guillotine is the convicts' grim nickname for this penal colony—officially designated as such by Napoleon III in 1851.

I killed a centipede in the room where I slept the night I passed in the penal colony—and was glad when we took the air and flew over vapor-draped jungles in the early morning down towards the great River Oyapock, beyond which lies Brazil.

Scheme Never Worked Out

When you are taking that ocean trip and your stomach is defying the law of gravitation, ponder over Sir Henry Bessemer's plan to put an end to seasickness. Seventy years ago he proposed a vessel equipped with a salon suspended from an axle fixed in the ship's center. He planned to affix counterweights to the bottom of the salon, so that the floor of the salon would always remain quiet and horizontal, despite the tumbling about of the vessel itself, says the Iron Age.

Why he never gave the idea a fair trial is not reported. Perhaps he bought stock in shipping lines and figured that the expense caused by the increase in fuel consumption per passenger, owing to elimination of seasickness, would cut heavily into profits.

Flight of Bees

Maximum speed of bees in the air is 25 miles an hour; usual flying speed, 15 miles an hour. These are not designations for a new type of airplane says the United States Department of Agriculture, but are estimates on the flights of the bees.

Unladen the bee can fly the 25 mile an hour rate, but the usual flight is 10 miles an hour slower whether the bee is carrying a load of nectar or is on its way to some favorite flower garden, orchard in bloom, clover field or other source of honey.

Piano Health

If your piano sits near either a radiator or a steam pipe running through the room, keep a couple of pie tins under the piano full of water. This gives the piano the necessary moisture to keep it in good health. You will be surprised how quickly the pans dry out. Refill them often.

WOOD FOR THE YULE LOG

Wood burning fireplaces in skyscraper apartments and restored chimney nooks in Colonial houses have brought up many questions about wood fuels. Particularly timely are these questions as the Yule log season approaches.

Poetry and fiction conspire to describe the log fire as "crackling," but few real chimney-sitters would use a wood that crackles, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Thorn and Holly Burn Best

If a wood crackles many objections can be raised to it, in addition to the general indictment that it throws sparks which endanger floors and rugs. The wood may be too dry, and burn too quickly; or it may be too damp, and give no heat; or it may be too full of impurities, endangering the flue.

Ash, oak and elm, among the more common woods, make the best fire. Thorn and holly burn even better, but their rarity precludes them from general usage. Dogwood, hazel and poplar are second-choice woods which burn well. But birch, while it flames freely, is usually avoided. Its by-products leave a gluey residue inside the chimney that may later catch fire. Birch is also a poor heat producer, as is the sputtering, spitting beech, or the maple.

Dry wood, but not too dry, makes better fuel than green wood. When wood contains water, as it does when green, a good part of the heat the wood is capable of yielding is taken up in raising the water to the boiling point, and converting it into steam. The steam must then be raised to the temperature of the flue gasses. All this heat is lost.

Bark and Roots for Fuel

The water in green wood often makes up half the total weight. Air-seasoned wood, that is to say wood that has been stacked outdoors for nine to twelve months, should contain about 20 per cent of water. This is considered the ideal proportion.

The various species of pine give a quicker, hotter flame than any other common wood, but are consumed so quickly that they are used principally as kindling. Birch gives a more intense flame than oak, but oak gives a steadier heat. Butternut, tamarack, and spruce are in all favor among fireside owners because each throws off such a large quantity of sparks.

In a number of species the bark has a higher heating value than other parts of the tree. In the Northwest, Douglas fir bark is used. Shagbark hickory bark burns with intense heat, but with much spitting and crackling. Cedar bark burns well but has a lower fuel value.

"Underground Forests"

Roots, where obtainable, make good fuel. Mesquite sometimes is more developed below ground than above, giving the name "underground forests" to stands of it in semiarid regions.

The traditional English Yule log is generally a rugged and gnarled, knarled root of an oak. It is dragged from its resting place amid scenes of great shouting and laughter, and hats are doffed as it passes. It is customary to light the new log with a portion of the charred Yule block preserved for this purpose from the preceding Christmas. This bit of burnt wood, meanwhile, is regarded as an effective safeguard against fire.

The French peasants of Provence burn a Yule log cut from an olive or an almond tree. As the log fire must last from Christmas Eve until the first of the new year the wood must be green, stout, and exceedingly slow burning. A section about five feet long is selected with great care by the household. In contrast to the revelry associated with northern Yule log occasions the Provence Yule log is treated with reverent tenderness, and burned with litting rites. Its ashes are considered potents for good.

For those who like the sound of a crackling fire wild wood men have a suggestion: Lay the logs end-out, that is, at right angles to the usual method of building a fire. Then the sparks will strike the side walls of the fireplace, lessening the danger to carpets in the absence of a fire-screen. Bricks, or even green logs, may be used in place of andirons.

Royal St. Cloud

To the little town of St. Cloud, as it is called today, there once came all the grandeur of royalty. With the destruction of its celebrated chateau, built by Louis XIV in 1630, it lost a favorite royal residence. Here the Regent d'Orleans received Peter the Great in 1717. In 1785 it was sold for 6,000,000 francs to Queen Marie Antoinette, and here she resided during the early days of the revolution. Here the coup d'etat occurred which made Napoleon first consul and here Napoleon III was baptized in 1856 in the presence of Napoleon and Josephine. Here Bonaparte married Marie Louise, and here on October 13, 1870, it went up in flames in connection with the siege of Paris.

Days of '49

The term "Sydney ducks" was applied to bands of criminals who operated in San Francisco in the early Nineteenth century. They consisted mostly of undesirable elements, especially from the penal colonies of New South Wales, Australia, of which Sydney is the capital. They were an idle dissipated set, and in the spring of 1849 formed an organization known as the "Regulators," supposedly to protect the weak from the strong. They developed into a band of robbers, their headquarters being a large tent in the plaza, from which they issued every night on their various depredations. Eventually the citizens banded themselves together and expelled them.

Busy Bureau

The daily average of notes made at the bureau of engraving and printing is 3,300,000 pieces, the money value of which is $13,370,000.

Oil's Enormous Spread

A test made by government scientists showed that 7,000 pounds of oil dumped from oil-burning ships in the high seas would drift 30 miles and cover the water to the extent of 900 square miles.

Good Work of Owls

Sixteen species of owls inhabit North America. The great horned owl is the most powerful and is of great assistance to the ranchers of the West in keeping the destructive pocket gophers in check.

"Tall" Fish Story

A record kept by Thomas Bassey, of England, in 1824, tells of a fish that lived to be fifty-three years old, the Golden Book magazine reveals. "W. Hossop of Bank Hall, Burnley," the record says, "placed a small fish-hook trout, about 3d. weight ago, when a boy, into a well in the orchard belonging to his family, where it remained ever since until last week. Then it died, not through sickness or infirmity, but for want of its natural element, water, the severe drouth drying up the spring that supplied the well. The trout's fins and gills were perfectly white. He regularly came to be fed by his master's hand when called by his name of 'Ned.'"

Many Reasons Why Fish Is Favored for Friday

The principle reason for eating fish on Friday is religious. Jesus was crucified on Friday, and many early Christians observed it as a weekly fast day. On fast days, people were expected to abstain from eating flesh meats. The prohibition did not include fish, hence fish came to be favored as a Friday dish. Pope Nicholas declared about 1,100 years ago that communicants of the Roman Catholic church must not eat meat on Fridays. Some Protestant churches have adopted the same rule, or sought to foster the same custom. The result is that there is a considerable demand for fish on Friday, creating a good market and bringing choice fish to the counters, so that many who are unfamiliar with church rules and customs eat fish on Friday because they feel that they can get the best fish at that time. Since the introduction of new methods of keeping and shipping fish, however, this is more a custom than a real reason. Christians favor fish as a fast-day dish because of New Testament allusions to fishermen and fishes, several of the disciples being fishermen, and the story of the loaves and fishes being among the most widely known in the Bible. Fish are also associated with the Resurrection because of the repast of fish caught after the Resurrection by disciples following the instructions of the Lord.

BREAK AT UPPER MAIN STREET STORE

Police Headquarters was notified last Sunday night at 10:25 by Patrolman Daniel J. Kelley that the variety store of Richard Glendon on upper Main street had been entered. Sergts. Thomas F. Cassidy and Edward W. O'Connell went to the store and found that access had been gained by breaking a rear window.

Mr. Glendon was notified and a check-up found that several packages of cigarettes, a number of candy bars and a bottle of tonic had been taken. Some time ago Patrolman Kelley found evidence of the same store being entered but on that occasion nothing was missing.

CONOMOITES FEAST ON COUNTRY CLUB VIANDS

Soon after sunset gun last Friday evening our local Country Club hummed with activity as Conomoites from far and near moored their gasoline wagons alongside, greeting old friends with the well-known Conomian war-cry, "When do we eat?" Reader, you will recall this tribe as one which throughout the merry summer months inhabits a portion of Essex Bay known since time immemorial as Conomo Point and heralded on the Gloucester road by a weatherbeaten sign bearing the terse words: "You are now leaving Essex." This occasion was none other than the Grand Annual Mid-Winter Get-Together Dinner, and among the first to arrive was ex-Mayor "Charlie" Lane who reported New Hampshire fish biting better than ever.

The club dining room had been attractively arranged—without the familiar galvanized iron cans used at summer clambakes, so convenient for shells and cold sweet potatoes to be sure, but not needed this time in the absence of the clams. With 54 lusty appetites waiting to be appeased it was not long before dinner commenced, although great difficulty was experienced by many in finding old friends since all wore their Sunday best and the customary seafaring costumes of bygone eras were left at home, making several almost unrecognizable.

With steaming viands stowed away, President E. Ober Pride of the Conomo Association pounded for order and introduced "Frank" Lane as master of ceremonies. "Frank" in jovial manner called on several and it seemed that no amusing bit of news was left unsaid. A high-light of the occasion was the interchange of compliments between Commodore "Charlie" LeRoyer and Skipper Henry Spencer. "Charlie" was presented a gay Commodore's flag to grace the good ship "Polly-Wog"; whereupon Henry received a weirdly fashioned pennant as evidence of the 1930 racing championship by any and all systems of calculation, in fact, he was unbeatable.

Treasurer Harold Farnsworth rose to caution against reckless spending by the Association, but this proved unnecessary as the affair turned out to be a reunion only, with no particular plans till the winter's ice is off the clam flats. After the reading of Conomo's 1930 log of events by Yeomen Harris Richardson, "Ted" Burleigh and "King" Cass, "Vin" Farnsworth, genial director of public relations, brought forward a number of constructive thoughts and his prognostication of Essex town affairs was thoroughly enjoyed. All breathlessly listened to a discussion of topics always timely to Conomians, such as the "Boulevard" to Robbins Island, removal of the old town barn, water rates, and rents.

Here the meeting broke up in the utmost confusion, without either a valedictory from the toastmaster or a rousing song to "Dear Old Maine" or any other parting token, the cause of it all being a sudden and unexpected attempt on the part of the delegation from Joneses Creek to petition the town for a reduction in lands rents for Jonses Creek, said reduction to be made up by an increase on the rest of the Point. The various officials and many committees went into executive session, and calmness and repose again prevailed. "Ted" Hersom and "Whit" Whitcomb, we understand insisted that they came for pleasure and not for business, so all serious matters were indefinitely postponed and a social evening was thereafter in order.

"BOB" FOGG, NOTED AVIATOR, TO SPEAK AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

"Bill" Wood, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Unitarian Men's Club, has promised an exceptionally good dinner and entertainment for the organization's Family Night on Friday evening, March 13. Aside from the dinner, Mr. Wood's announcement that Lieut. Robert "Bob" S. Fogg will be present and deliver his lecture "Over Frozen Labrador to the Bremen," is news of real interest to everyone here in Winchester where Lieutenant Fogg spent the early days of his life.

Lieutenant Fogg will give a description of his flight to Greenly Island to bring back to the world the news of the first East to West flight in the Bremen when the aeroplane crashed in the frozen North. He will show the original pictures that were taken at that time. This record of experiences is particularly interesting and thrilling.

Lieutenant Fogg will be introduced by Mr. L. M. Clark, manager of the new Metropolitan Airport at Norwood. Both Lieutenant Fogg and Mr Clark are former Winchester boys, therefore this entertainment will have an even stronger local interest. An unusually interesting evening is promised.

MARIBEL VINSON PLACED FOURTH IN WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIPS AT BERLIN

Maribel Vinson of ths town and Radcliffe placed fourth in the world's fancy skating championship contest for women in Berlin last Sunday evening.

Sonja Henie of Oslo, Norway, won the title for the fifth successive year, but was forced to call upon all her skill and experience to defeat 13-year old Hilde Holovsky of Vienna, who placed second, and Miss Vinson.

Maribel was especially popular with the fans who shouted and stamped in appreciation of her efforts. Following the official contest the Winchester girl won loud applause from the 6000 spectators by a solo exhibition of her skill.

In the world championship pair skating contests Miss Vinson paired with George E. B. Hill and finished fifth. Miss Baby Rotter and Laszlo Szollas, Hungarian entrants were the winners.

THANKS VOTERS

Mr. Sanderson Cites Some Accomplishments of Water Board

I wish to thank the citizens of Winchester for their vote of confidence given me at the last election. I have served the Town of Winchester, as a member of the Water and Sewer Board, for the past 15 years, acting as Chairman of the Board for 12 years. The Board controls the property of the Town used in the supply of water and the disposal of sewerage to the value of over $2,000,000. The Water Department has grown from 2172 customers in 1916, with an income of $31,561 to 2995 customers with an income of $53,233 in 1930.

During this time the Water Department has had a number of problems to solve. One of the first things that faced the Board was a serious condition arising from the Metropolitan playground near the North Reservoir. The picnic ground, swings, etc., were very near the shores of the reservoirs and as the policing of the reservoirs was in the hands of the Park Commission, we had no protection from pollution.

After a number of conferences with the Metropolitan Commission it was decided to cancel the agreement for care and control between the Town and the State. This was done in 1917. During the investigation it was discovered that when the Middlesex Fells was taken by the State for park purposes the taking included some of the land of the Town of Winchester which was purchased for water supply purposes. After some very strenuous conferences with the Metropolitan Commission about 50 acres of this land was deeded back to the Town.

The water works was established in 1874 and Mr. William T. Dotten became the first Superintendent soon after and served the Town faithfully for over 50 years. On assuming the duties of my office as Water Commissioner I found that Mr. Dotten possessed much valuable information in connection with the work of this department which it would be well to obtain so I proposed to him that we prepare a book which should have a page for each street and he agreed to supply all the information he had, much of which he was carrying in his memory. From this beginning a complete set of records and plans have been compiled and are up-to-date.

During the winter of 1918 fuel was very high and scarce. Mr. Edward R. Waite of this Town suggested that the Board authorize the cutting of trees bordering the reservoirs by the citizens for fuel. This the Board granted and the work was placed in charge of Mr. Waite. It was decided to plant pine trees on this cleared land so that as they increased in size, they would act as a barrier to keep the leaves from the hardwood trees blowing into the reservoirs and effecting the color of the water.

Since then a systematic planting of pine trees has been carried on under the direction of the State Department of Forestry. The advantage of pine trees over hardwood trees on a water shed is that the evaporation of the water from the ground is retarded by the thicker coverage of the pine trees. Evaporation by the sun causes the greatest loss of water on a water shed.

In 1927 the work of planting trees was completed. About 380,000 of various kinds of pine were used. The hardwood trees are being gradually thinned out as the pine trees make a good ground cover.

In reading the old reports it came to my attention that the storage capacity of the reservoirs, and estimated runoff from the water shed, were very carefully given but no record was available as to the amount of water that the Town used.

In 1915 all water services were metered. Using these meter records and adding an amount for leakage, etc., the approximate amount of water used each year from 1915 to 1928 was ascertained. These records showed an increase of about 2 per cent each year and that the estimated capacity of the reservoirs was nearly reached. This was a surprise to a great many people as it was generally supposed that the reservoirs were good for a long time. In 1929 master meters were installed and from this accurate record we now know the full use of water in the Town.

In 1930 the average amount of water used per day was 906,565 gallons. The average daily run-off from the water shed was only 671,879 gallons which was very low on account of the dry weather causing a decided shortage in our storage capacity. In 1894 the Water Board had a survey made of the lands and contents of the reservoirs. From this we had tables made giving the capacity of the reservoirs at varying heights of water. With these tables we are able to determine the amount of water in the reservoirs at anytime.

In 1928 the Water Board requested the State Department of Health, who has charge of all water supplies in the State, to make an investigation of our reservoirs and in this report they state that in their opinion the capacity of the reservoirs will soon be reached and that in a few years an additional water supply will be necessary. On this advice the Board requested of the Town that a Committee be appointed to look into the matter of an additional water supply. This Committee is now functioning very efficiently with Mr. James W. Russell as chairman.

Realizing the condition of our reservoirs after two very dry years the Board made connection with the water supplies of Stoneham and Arlington which receive their water from the Metropolitan supply so that in case of a serious shortage of water the Town can be taken care of.

The maintenance work of the Water Department has greatly increased as the size of the plant has grown. The construction work has increased as new real estate developments have come to the Town. This branch of the work is under the supervision of Mr. Harry T. Dotten who carries it on in a painstaking and efficient manner.

The Sewer Department, under the supervision of Mr. James Hinds, has steadily pushed forward until the Town is the most completely sewered of any in the State. It has been the policy of the Board to keep the sewer work abreast of the development of the Town. In this the Finance Committee has co-operated with the Board so that this year when taxes must be kept low there is no sewer extensions to be made at present.

I again wish to thank the people for their confidence and support and assure them that I will give the best of my time and thought to the work.

Bonin, took place from her late residence, 6 Russell road, Saturday morning with a high mass of requiem celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke. Bearers were Dr. William H. Kelleher, Carl C. French, Charles Meehan, John R. Walsh and Frank J. Bonin, all of Woburn and Richard Giles of Wakefield. Interment was in the family lot in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Bonin died Thursday, Feb. 26, after a long illness. She was the daughter of George and Bridget Burns, and was born in Woburn July 16, 1875. She attended the Woburn schools, and was widely known in her native city, having been a member and past Chief Ranger of Qualey Court, M. C. O. F. of Woburn. She moved with her family to Winchester five years ago and during her residence here had made many friends who will mourn her passing.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Mrs. John R. Walsh of Woburn, and a grandson, Richard Walsh. There are also three sisters, Miss Rose Burns of Winchester, Mrs. Mary French of Woburn and Mrs. Delia Giles of Wakefield, and a brother, George Burns of Winchester.

ANOTHER PRICE REDUCTION

Following the present trend in the reduction of the prices of food commodities, The Newton Pure Food Company, manufacturers of Mrs. Turner's Delicious Potato Chips, announces a radical reduction in the price of this popular product. These potato chips have been for years the most delicious on the market, and this lowering in the price will enable many who could not afford to purchase them to take advantage of the opportunity that is now offered them to enjoy this quality product.

The management wishes to stress the fact, however, that this reduction will not affect in any way the excellence of their product. The same superior materials will be used and the same extreme care will be exercised in maintaining the purity of the chips and their delicious flavor.

TWO ACCIDENTS LAST FRIDAY

Last Friday afternoon at 12:30 the traffic beacon at Mt. Vernon and Washington streets was damaged when it was struck by a Ford ton truck, owned by C. E. Hall & Sons of 60 New Cross street, Somerville and driven by Walter J. McLellan of 36 Harvard streets, Watertown.

McLellan told the police he was driving north on Washington street looking for Mt. Vernon street. When he saw that he had passed the street he backed his truck and in doing so collided with the beacon. No one was injured.

About 9:35 Friday, Mary Conway of 11 Allen road, while crossing Main street to enter an automobile near the Harrison Parker estate was struck by a Ford coach, driven by Priscilla Laraway of 310 Main street who was driving south. Miss Laraway told the police that she did not see Miss Conway until the right side of her car struck her on the leg. She was not reported as badly hurt.

CHOSEN TO SUCCEED MELDON WENNER

The School Committee has elected Robert A. Knowles of Attleboro to succeed Meldon Wenner who recently resigned as teacher of physical education to boys in the Wadleigh School and coach of the high school track, cross country and freshman teams to accept a coaching position in Belmont.

Mr. Knowles was graduated from Springfield College with the class of 1929, having been a member of the varsity track and gym teams. He comes to Winchester with experiences obtained as a member of the faculty at Bancroft School in Attleboro and commenced his new duties on Monday of this week.

REPUBLICAN TOWN COMMITTEE ORGANIZED

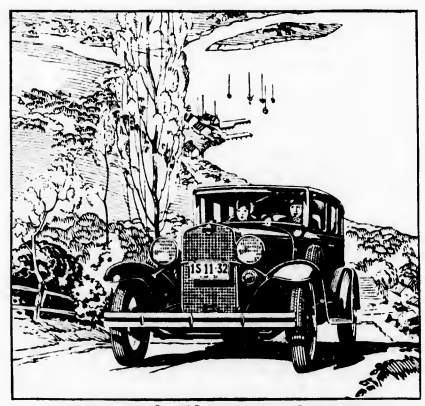

The Republican Town Committee held its annual organization meeting on Saturday, Feb. 28, at the home of Mrs. Helen I. Fessenden, 47 Church street.

Representative Thomas R. Bateman was re-elected chairman, Mrs. Fessenden was elected vice chairman and Harris Richmond and Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell were re-elected respectively secretary and treasurer for the ensuing year.

Lifetime of Canaries

The average life of the canary is between 12 and 15 years, although some birds have been known to live 18 years. There is one case on record in which a canary was known to be at least thirty-four years old when it died. Usually with advancing years birds begin to moult irregularly or lose part of the feathers entirely. Even their eyesight is impaired. It is said that canaries that have not been paired live much longer than those allowed to breed, and that females are shorter lived.

BIG VOTE POLLED AT TOWN ELECTION

f the this office, no less than ten running for the five places on the Board. When the smoke of battle had cleared away it was discovered that the four candidates for re-election were successful and that William E. Ramsdell had succeeded in capturing the fifth place on the roster. Harris S. Richardson with 2148 polled the highest vote, Vincent P. Clarke following in second place with 2016.

The four cornered fight for the vacancy on the Board of Assessors resulted in an easy win for John F. Cassidy, running for re-election, who polled a larger vote than his three opponents combined could muster.

Tax Collector Nathaniel G. Nichols also convincingly defeated his opponent, Paul G. Eberle, whose total, 1258, was however, surprisingly good. Albert K. Huckins was successful in his campaign for re-election to the Board of Public Welfare, defeating Sewall E. Newman, 2056 to 864. Edgar J. Rich, candidate for re-election, and M. Walker Jones were successful among the five candidates seeking election as library trustees for the three year term. The remaining candidates elected had no opposition.

VINCENT P. CLARKE
Re-Elected Selectman

Police Chief William H. Rogers, running for Constable, polled the highest vote of the election, his figures being 2581. Edward F. Maguire, also a candidate for Constable, polled 2148 for second place with Samuel S. Symmes, running unopposed for tree warden, third, with 2732.

There seemed relatively little interest in the precinct voting, in four of the six precincts there being but 12 candidates for the 11 places to be filled. Chief in significance was the defeat in precincts 2 and 3 of Whitfield L. Tuck and Edward H. Kenerson, long active in town affairs.

Following are the results of the election, where contests existed the voting being given by precincts, totals only being given where candidates were unopposed for election:

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

"Little Caesar" comes to the screen of the University Theatre next Sunday for four days. It is a powerful drama of the notorious underworld of a certain great American city, with all the actual trimmings and miscellaneous killings which play a part in those circles of society. The story deals with the rise of a gangster named Rico, played by Edward G. Robinson, from the level of a thug to a position as head of a powerful gang. The supporting cast includes Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Sidney Blackmer, William Collier, Jr., Glenna Farrell, Ralph Ince, Stanley Fields and many others.

"Kiss Me Again," the companion feature, is the first of the Victor Herbert successes to reach the talking screen. It is entirely in technicolor. Bernice Claire, Walter Pidgeon, Edward Everett Horton and June Collier are among those in the cast.

"The Man Who Came Back" marks the return to sweetheart roles of America's favorites, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. It tells the story of young Stephen Randolph, played by Charles Farrel, who, enervated by too much wealth, sinks to the very gutter, only to be redeemed by the devotion of his sweetheart, Angie, enacted by Janet Gaynor. Kenneth McKenna is foremost in the supporting cast of this picture which begins Thursday. The settings are unusually colorful, in that the story moves from New York to San Francisco, thence to Shanghai, to Hawaii, and back to New York.

"The Gang Buster" the companion feature starring "Jack" Oakie, is a mystery-thriller, just like "The Canary Murder Case" and the "Fu Manchu" mysteries in which Jean Arthur shared the center of the plot. The cast includes William Boyd and Francis McDonald.

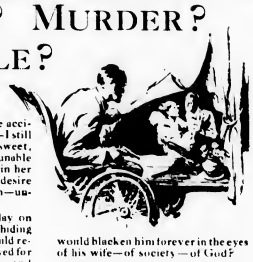

Emma J. Prince, Chiropodist, Massause, hours 9-12, 1-5, closed Wednesday afternoons. Tel. Win. 0155. 13 Church street. s12-tf

SUICIDE? MURDER? MIRACLE?

PARALYZED from that horrible accident! Never to walk again—I still burned with love for Olga—my sweet, young wife. And yet I was unable to appease that glow of hope in her eyes—hope that blazed with desire—the day she met Del Raignon—unscrupulous matinee idol.

Helpless, I watched him play on her loving, innocent nature—hiding his true till Olga no longer could resist him. How I suffered—prayed for her—raged with jealousy—and dropped to the dregs of despair.

That night—my revolver. "Goodbye, angel-heart," I whispered and—THEN! Out on the lawn—I saw Raignon take her—my wife—in his arms. "I can't let her live in that disgrace," I cried. Slowly I raised my revolver—carefully I took aim—and . . .

What did John do? In that awful climax, did he kill Olga to save her from disgrace with Raignon? Or did he murder that cad—an act which would blacken him forever in the eyes of his wife—of society—of God?

What almighty miracle could have come to solve this pitiful tangle of helpless human destinies? You must read for yourself BECAUSE I LOVED MY WIFE—the true, heart rending story of a man who wheeled his way through hell in an invalid's chair—and what he finally found at the very brink of oblivion.

Comprehensive

"By and large" has about the same meaning as comprehensively, on the whole, or everything considered. For instance, Mark Twain says in "Old Times": "Taking you by and large, you do seem to be more different kinds of an ass than any creature I ever saw before."

Saw End to Invention

It is one of the legends of the patent office, but cannot be absolutely authenticated, that an official offered to resign from the patent office many years ago because he thought everything had been invented. However, Commissioner of Patents Ellsworth in his report to congress dated January 31, 1844, said: "The advancement of the arts from year to year taxes our credulity and seems to presage the arrival of that period when human improvement must end."

Still in Doubt

Believe it or not, but we recently overheard a conversation in a theater lobby wherein one woman asked another if her husband went out much at night and the reply was, "I don't know, but I'll ask him the next time I see him."

Spanish Dance

The fandango is danced by a man and a woman, clad in one of the dances is 6/8, but the figures are very lively and the music is supplied by castanets in the hands of the performers, and by a song which is accompanied on the guitar. Sometimes the music is stopped, whereupon the dancers also stop and remain rigid until it is resumed. When one couple is tired, another immediately takes its place and the music and the dance go on as before, with no interruption.

Exhausted Bees Die

Forty millionths or about one-half the weight of the bee is the usual load of nectar. It is noted that drowning is a common fatality among bees, the cause being that the insects become so tired while at work that they fall into lakes or rivers. Fragrant flowers, of the apiary, when the honey gather or bumps into the hive or drops to the ground in front of it, are caused by this same exhaustion. Many bees after developing routes on which to carry nectar are insufficient enough to rest on the journey back to the hive.

Oldest Trees in Europe

Between Loch Rannoch and Loch Tay is Glen Lyon, the longest glen in Scotland, which stretches its mysterious beauty from Loch Lyon over 30 miles. Many a tourist in Perthshire has rushed past it, little knowing that he was missing a haunt whose loveliness would cheer him long after more notable places had become dim in his mind. There still it "the Pack Crooked Glen of the Great Rocks." The place is rest with history and legend, battles of kirks and crosses which go back to the earliest days of Celtic Christianity. Its yew trees exhibit to be the oldest authentic specimen of vegetation in Europe.

Stage Versions Differ

Both versions of the play "Macbeth," by Shakespeare, are given—with the ghost of Banquo appearing in the banquet scene, and without it. The Ben Greet Players, producers of what is known as pure Elizabethan drama, do not show the ghost at the banquet table, as this is a deviation from the true Shakespeare. Other companies, having in mind the dramatic effect of its appearance, show the ghost of Banquo, with weird lighting effects.

Publicity's Value Well Known to the Ancients

More than 3,000 years ago, according to the London Morning Post, the Egyptians devised innumerable methods of bringing their names before the public; and by inscriptions, by historic monuments, and by the literature of the period, they left to posterity the records of a complete and systematic scheme of advertising.

In certain respects they made even more extensive use of publicity than does the present age. In the reign of Tutankhamen, doctors, unlike the modern practitioner, were allowed to advertise their remedies; and one of the more subtle methods used to attain this end was to compel patients on swallowing specific medicines to cry out, "A really excellent remedy proved a million times." The art of repetition was thoroughly understood by Egyptian publicists; and it was customary to stamp wine jars with the word "Good" thrice repeated. Similarly they were well aware of the value of disguised advertisements; and experts now declare that the temples of ancient Egypt were in nearly every case built to advertise the power of Egypt's rulers. They were covered with accounts of victories achieved, and records of cities conquered.

REV. J. WHITCOMB BROUGHER, JR.

BAPTISTS TO WELCOME FORMER PASTOR

A great service is to be held at the Baptist Church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Then the church will welcome back its former pastor, Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Jr. who is now pastor at Glendale, Calif. Mr. Brougher is visiting his father who is pastor of Tremont Temple. When Mr. Browne, the present pastor, learned that Mr. Brougher was to be in Boston he at once invited Mr. Brougher to come out to Winchester and preach to his former parishioners. Mr. Brougher was delighted to do this as it would give him an opportunity to meet his host of friends.

His sermon topic will be "Don't Drift—Row." Before his sermon he will discuss the following prelude topics: 1. Is a painted face a sign of a decaying civilization? 2. Is crime as prevalent in the West as in the East? 3. Is home life more ideal in New England than in California? 4. Will motion pictures ever be an influence for morality?

It will be remembered that Mr. Brougher served as acting pastor of the Church in the spring of 1927 and that the church extended an enthusiastic and unanimous call to him to become its pastor. After spending the summer in California, his physicians advised him that he should remain in California and not expose himself to the rigors of the New England climate until his health had been fully recovered. With much regret, he was forced to decline the call, and the church was inexpressably disappointed, because he had shown himself to be such an indefatigable worker and leader.

Since then, Mr. Brougher has been very successful as pastor of the large First Baptist Church of Glendale, Calif. Even on stormy nights, for they do have such weather in California, the church is crowded and often on pleasant days many are turned away.

A graduate of the University of Redlands, where he was also prominent as an athlete and a debater, and of Newton Theological Institution where he won high honors, he has developed into a strong preacher and pastor. He is in great demand in the West on all programs, not only religious but also secular. For example, during May 1930 he was toastmaster of the famous Los Angeles Breakfast Club which meets every Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock and calls together over 1000 men.

On Sunday morning, he will preach in Tremont Temple, Boston.

Mr. MacKinnon joins Canadian Industries Ltd., after a long experience with E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., Inc., as assistant manager of the Boston office. With his family he is to make his future home in Montreal.

MRS. ANNA HERRINGTON SANDERSON

Mrs. Anna Herrington Sanderson, widow of Charles E. Sanderson and a resident of Winchester for 67 years died early Monday morning, March 9, at the home of her son, Edmund C. Sanderson, 2 Dix street, following a ten days' illness with pneumonia.

Mrs. Sanderson was the daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Anna (Bates) Herrington, and was born in Boston in 1850. When 13 years of age she came to Winchester where on June 13, 1876, she married Charles E. Sanderson, proprietor of a successful hardware business, first located on Main street on the site of the present Colonial Filling Station and later occupying a store in the White Building adjacent to Knight's Pharmacy. The Sanderson home was on Main street where the Metropolitan Garage now stands. Mr. Sanderson died in 1900.

Mrs. Sanderson was a woman of keen business instincts, and for 30 years it was her custom to spend the afternoon in the office of her son's electrical contracting establishment where she made many friends, not only among residents of Winchester but also among out-of-town visitors whose business brought them to town. She was happiest when assisting some young person to become established in life and several successful men and women owe much of their success to her motherly interest and sound advice. She was a member of the First Baptist Church and one of the oldest members of the Society here.

Surviving are a son, Edmund C. Sanderson, with whom the deceased made her home, a sister, Mrs. Alice Anthony of Everett, a grandson, Edmund Whitford Sanderson, and a great grandson, Edmund Whitford Sanderson, Jr., both of Winchester.

Private funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the late residence with the Rev. Henry E. Hodge, former pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the present pastor, Rev. Benjamin Patterson Browne. Interment was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Virginia Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Martin of 94 Church street, Winchester, to Lieut. William H. Buracker, U. S. N., of Luray, Va., took place Wednesday, March 11 at 4 o'clock, in the private chapel on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bishop at Rancho Sante Fe, high in the hills of Southern California, a setting of indescribable beauty.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attended by Miss Laura Kimball of Brookline and Gloucester. The groom and his friends in dress uniform added a colorful touch.

Mrs. Buracker is a graduate of Abbot Academy, and the Garland School of Homemaking. Lieutenant Buracker is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, class of 1920 and received his masters' degree in aeronautics at M. I. T.

After the first of April, Lieutenant and Mrs. Buracker will reside in Coronado, Calif., where he is stationed with the Naval air force.

RIXFORD—CARRIER

The marriage of Miss Virginia Phoebe Carrier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wade Carrier of 14 Lloyd street and Dr. Henry Covington Rixford of San Francisco, Cal., took place on Tuesday afternoon in the Ripley Memorial Chapel of the First Congregational Church. It was a 4 o'clock ceremony with the pastor of the church, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D.D. officiating. Miss Lucy Wilcox played the wedding music and a setting of palms and Easter lilies lent the chapel added charm.

Miss Carrier was given in marriage by her father and was attended by Miss Olive Nelson of Quincy and by her sister, Miss Ruth Hayward Carrier of Winchester. Dr. Ashton Graybiel of Los Angeles, Cal., was Dr. Rixford's best man. Ushers were Dr. David Wallwork of Wollaston and Dr. Wyatt Simpson of Florence, Ala.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin crepe and a tulle veil with a cap of duchess lace and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of Easter lilies. Miss Nelson wore pale green net with hat to match and lace mitts and carried spring flowers. Miss Ruth Carrier wore a frock of white crepe de chine and carried an old fashioned bouquet.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parish house, the bride and bridegroom receiving unassisted. Decorations for the reception were palms and spring flowers and Miss Wilcox' trio played. Following a honeymoon spent motoring to Yosemite National Park, Dr. and Mrs. Rixford will live in San Francisco where they will be at home after April 1.

The bride was graduated from Winchester High School with the class of 1922 and following her graduation from the New England Deaconess Hospital Training School in 1926, was associated with the office of Dr. Elliott Joslin in Boston.

Dr. Rixford, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Emmet Rixford of San Francisco, received his A. B. from Leland Stanford University in 1925 and was graduated from the Leland Stanford Medical School with the class of 1929. After serving as house doctor at the New England Deaconness Hospital he spent the past summer in the British Isles attending clinics given by a group of outstanding American surgeons, of whom his father was one. He is now surgeon in the San Francisco Emergency Hospital Service.

HARRIS S. RICHARDSON NEW CHAIRMAN OF SELECTMEN

Harris S. Richardson of Mt. Pleasant street was chosen chairman of the Board of Selectmen at the first meeting of the newly elected Board, held Monday evening in the Town Hall.

Mr. Richardson has been active in town affairs for the past five years, having served in that time as Selectman for the past two years and previously as a member and chairman of the Finance Committee. He is widely known through his connection with the town's social and fraternal life, being president of the Calumet Club, a director of the Country Club, past president of Rotary, Master of William Parkman Lodge of Masons and a member of Winchester Royal Arch Chapter. He served as chairman of the Winchester Tercentenary Committee having charge of the town's impressive celebration of the Founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and is proprietor of Richardson's Market, one of Winchester's longest established business houses. He is a native of Vermont and a Harvard man, class of 1910.

FROM THE CHIEF OF POLICE

Chief William H. Rogers of the Police Department has requested the STAR to warn those in business in Winchester of the activities of a gang of hold-up men who have been operating in this section of late, hold-ups attributed to them having been reported in Everett, Revere and Medford, among other places.

Chief Rogers suggests that as little money as possible be kept in store registers, especially during Saturday afternoon and evening. He further states that the hold-up men are bad actors who will shoot at once and to kill.

PUBLIC WELFARE AGENT ASKED TO RESIGN

At last Monday's meeting of the Board of Public Welfare Mrs. Joseph Ryan of Cliff street was elected chairman for the coming year. At the conclusion of the meeting Miss Caroline Butters, the Board's agent and secretary, was asked to tender her resignation. In response to a request of Miss Butters the Board refused to give its reasons for asking her to resign, and Miss Butters in turn refused to tender her resignation. What the next move will be is the subject of much conjecture.

OPENING SESSION OF TOWN MEETING HELD

Appropriations Exceed $800,000—Unusual Debate

The opening session of the annual town meeting, held last evening in the Town Hall resulted in appropriations totaling $851,966.34 and some of the sharpest debate heard on the Town Hall floor in years. Not for some time have personalities been so freely indulged in as was the case last night, and those who anticipated the usual dull first meeting routine were pleasantly disappointed.

In general the appropriations with which the meeting spent almost the entire evening were accepted by the delegates without question, the voters being content to be guided by the recommendations of the Finance Committee, ably represented by Mr. Carr, its chairman. When there were differences, the committee was sustained with the exception of the instance relating to street beacons where the delegates voted $1,377.75 instead of the $893 recommended by the financeers, the extra money being for the installation of flasher beacons at the junctions of Main street and the Parkway, the Parkway and Washington street and Washington street and Swanton street.

The Town's Safety Committee recommended the installation of the beacons and arguments for the project were voiced by Mr. Vincent Clarke, Mr. Titus, Mrs. McDonald and Mr. Guild. Mr. Carr, Mr. Farnsworth and Mr. Laraway, spoke in opposition. A standing vote was necessary and the beacons were carried by the close vote of 94 to 73.

Following the opening of the meeting with its swearing of town officers and reading of the warrant by Moderator Hayward, Mr. Carr spoke of the necessity which the Finance Committee had encountered of figures found to be in its judgment not absolutely necessary to avoid a $3.50 raise in the tax rate.

Under Article 1 the reports of Town Officers and the Finance Committee were received and placed on file, and the subject matter of Article 2, relating to the conduct of the meeting, was indefinitely postponed. Under Article 3, $81,034 was appropriated by transfer from the excess and deficiency account to meet the payment of the Town Debt, and under Article 4 it was voted to transfer unexpended balances of appropriations heretofore made to the excess and deficiency fund.

This done, the meeting settled down to its consideration of the long Article 5 and for a time appropriations slipped by easily.

Under that referring to the Fire Department, Mr. Fay moved to amend the Finance Committee's motion by raising the appropriation from $46,390 to $47,490, the extra money to be used for the purchase of new hose and to partition off the telephone desk at Fire Headquarters to ensure the accurate receipt of telephone alarms. Mr. Carr and Mr. Laraway spoke in opposition and Mr. Richardson voiced the Selectmen's opinion that while both items were desirable they could be dispensed with this year.

The meeting sustained the smaller figure, and things moved along until the insurance appropriation disclosed a very real difference of opinion between Mr. George Tompkins of the Insurance Committee and Mr. Carr of the Finance Committee on the matter of the amount of the town's insurance which should be allocated to mutual insurance companies. The debate was sharp and Mr. Tompkins offered an amendment to the Finance Committee's motion under the article, which was lost, while Mr. Laraway was amazed at what he termed "politics in insurance." Mr. Tompkins was very insistant that an agreement had been reached by his committee and the Finance Committee in the matter of insurance placing, while Mr. Carr stated that no agreement had been made.

When the article referring to the appropriation for public welfare was reached, Mr. Huckins took the floor and offered as an amendment to the motion calling for $21,200 the stipulation that $1700 be designated as the salary of the Department's agent and that it be the sense of the meeting that Miss Caroline Butters be retained in this capacity.

Mr. Huckins spoke at some length upon the friction which he stated exists in the Board of Public Welfare and told the meeting that the other members of the Board had asked Miss Butters for her resignation which he believed was not for the best interests of the town.

He read telegrams from Stockton Raymond and Mrs. Marion Powers, former members of the board, praising Miss Butters and urging her retention by the town. The speaker was outspoken in his denunciation of the attempt by his fellow board members to force Miss Butters to resign and urged the meeting to accept his amendment as a testimonial to the splendid work she has done.

Mr. Laraway was emphatically in favor of the amendment and aroused considerable amusement when he called upon Heaven to pity the woman who must work for two other women. Mr. Richardson stated that the Selectmen were unanimously of the opinion that Miss Butter's work had been at all times well done and for the best interests of the town. Mr. McLaughlin favored dispensing with Miss Butter's services and securing those of a local girl. He and Mr. Laraway differed materially upon the merits of some of Mr. Laraway's real estate and its occupants. The meeting was showing signs of impatience and when the vote on Mr. Huckins' amendment was put it was easily carried.

UNUSUAL SERVICE AT SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Friends of the Second Congregational Church will be privileged this Sunday evening to attend a most unique service which is to conclude the observance of the 25th anniversary of the Society in the Highlands. This service includes a visual and choral program, entitled "The Holy Church Throughout All the World," arranged and conducted by Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University who is bringing the B. U. Choral Art Society to Winchester to participate.

Professor Smith received his musical training in Boston, Chicago and Oberlin, and has had a wide experience as a conductor, having directed the New York Symphony Orchestra, the chorus of 400 at Chautauqua, N. Y., through which he has given the world as Elijah, Messiah, Samson and Delilah and others, directed as guest conductor massed choirs in Columbus, Ohio, St. Petersburg, Fla., New Haven, Conn., and has directed music, pageantry and art at three World and International C. E. conventions, at three World and International Sunday School conventions, also at the General assembly of the Presbyterian Church, International Congregational Council, and has directed and dramatized on three continents and in over 500 different towns and cities. He is now director of Fine Arts in Religion at B. U.

The Choral Art Society has been in existence for eight years and is composed of picked students at Boston University who take chorus for regular credit. Its personel is international, one member coming from New Zealand, another from Bulgaria while the American singers are scattered over a wide area.

The Society is to sing music by Naylor, Horatio Parker, Grieg and Christiansen, closing with the impressive "Lord Our God Have Mercy" ("Gospodi Pomoliu") from the Russian Church ritual. This selection is most dramatic and represents in music the lowering of the cross very slowly, and then in its raising again to supreme position which takes place in the Good Friday ritual. Esquisite pictures are to be shown at the close of service and synchronized with music.

REV. JOHN P. SULLIVAN

Rev. Fr. John P. Sullivan died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, yesterday. He had been a curate at St. Catherine's Parish, Charlestown, and for five years previously was at St. Mary's Parish in this town. His death followed an operation.

Before coming to Winchester he served at St. Mary's Church, Foxboro, and upon leaving his post here, went directly to Medford as curate.

He leaves his father, three brothers and a sister who is a member of the Order of St. Joseph at Framingham.

Father Sullivan's body will lie in state in St. Catherine's Church, Charlestown, Sunday afternoon and a solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated there at 10 o'clock Monday morning, following a mass for the children at 8 o'clock.

ACE FORD LEFT MONDAY FOR TRAINING CAMP

Horace Ford of Kenwin road, proprietor of the ice cream and candy shop on Thompson street, left Monday for the Tampa, Fla., training camp of the Cincinnati National League baseball team to discuss a salary difference with President Weil of the "Reds."

The star infielder, who has steadfastly refused to take a 10 per cent cut in his pay checks, received a telegram from President Weil last Friday night, asking him to come to training camp at the expense of the club for a conference. To many this looks like a concession to Horace, and those in the know believe that Manager "Dan" Howley has informed the "big boss" that the "Reds" inner defense will not be so hot without the Winchester boy to plug that big gap around the keystone bag. There are few better performers around second base than modest Horace.

The latter is making the trip to Tampa by automobile, and expects to arrive at training camp the end of this week. He is accompanied by Mrs. Ford.

"EARTH'S WORK IS O'ER, AND REST FOREVER DOTH REMAIN"

(Written for The Winchester Star)

O Death, thy wings are oft times dark, and gloom
Rests on the visage when thy hand is laid
On the half opened flower which e'er must fade
Beneath thy touch, in all its first fresh bloom:
Because, O thou messenger of doom
Even thou thou fairest that thy hand be stayed
Even thou thou fairest that thy heart be swayed,
And mortal loveliness o'er come the tomb,
But to the ripe fruit comest thou smiling,
Death,
A welcome reaper to the mellow grain,
Whose golden treasure bendeth at thy breath,
And faileth but a thousand-fold to gain,
And wondrous sweet thy voice which sayeth saith

COMMENTS ON MR. LOUIS M. LYONS' EDITORIAL

In the Boston Sunday Globe
March 8, 1931

To the Editor of the Star:

"The fanatical crusader for a cause is a familiar town meeting figure. In one suburb an ardent dry used annually, before prohibition, to move that the Town Clerk be appointed a committee of one to notify Senator Lodge that the town favored prohibition. The Moderator, not intending to have the meeting snarled up in prohibition debate, and being, moreover, a convinced wet, invariably ruled this out of order on the ground that it was not in the warrant. If it were brought up next time, under the article for appointment of committees, he would rule it out of order as being a national, not a local issue. But the crusader had his chance to get in a stroke for his cause."

Winchesterites must recognize these two citizens, they are never on the same side of the fence, especially on school houses. According to the above article their views of the 18th amendment should be added.

"A bit of burlesque sometimes punctures a proposition that could not be argued down. In a swiftly-congesting suburb, some of the town planners brought in an article to prohibit certain less desirable forms of livestock within the village zone. Roosters were the particular target of the movement. A red-headed plumber rose in opposition and made certain broad observations on the fundamental facts of life as they used to be when he was a boy. He didn't know how things were now, they might have changed. This biological contribution set the meeting in uproar and saved the roosters of the town."

The above is far from the truth if the paragraph refers to Winchester. See Town Report 1924, Page 57, Article 20. This very unjust legislation was sponsored by a young attorney just lighting out in Winchester politics. He lost his case, but I suppose, he collected his fee as is the custom with those birds.

Our town planners had nothing to do with the article except have a laugh. However, he made such a good impression on the Moderator and influential office distributors that he has since risen to the highest office within their gift, namely, chairman of our Finance Committee whose solemn duty is to advise that small group of town meeting members how to spend a million dollars extracted from a much larger group of real taxpayers who sit by and dig.

Going on with the letter, as "Bob" Emery says—as to a "red headed plumber" I have lived in Winchester more than 40 years and attended as many town meetings as anybody living or dead and never saw a red headed plumber in our meetings. We have plumbers with sparsely covered heads and with heads well covered with BROWN hair, with silver among the strands, either of whom has demonstrated many times their ability to get their point of view across "in REAL town meetings." "YES" we have no red-headed plumbers in town.

Yours truly,
J. A. Laraway

FINAL FRESHMAN ASSEMBLY

On Friday, March 6 the Freshman Assembly, conducted by Mrs. Phelps held their final session for this season at Lyceum Hall from 7:30 to 10 p. m. Twenty-five couples were in attendance. The patronesses were Mrs. Joseph Butler, Mrs. Lester Gustin, Mrs. Charles Main, Mrs. Clifford Mason, and Mrs. Henry Sawyer. Leavitts' six piece orchestra furnished the music. Refreshments were served during the evening. Miss Margaret Kenerson and Mr. George Davidson were the winners in the lucky number dance.

Mrs. Emmons J. Whitcomb, accompanied by Grace Hastings of New York City, sailed on Monday for Bermuda on the Pan America of the Munson line. Her stay on the island is for a fortnight at the Hamilton Hotel.

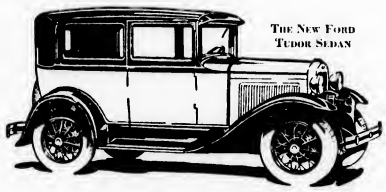

More than 73,000 miles in a New Ford

THE substantial worth of the new Ford is reflected in its good performance, economy and reliability. Its stamina and endurance are particularly apparent in sections where bad roads and severe weather put a heavy extra burden on the automobile.

In less than a year a new Ford Tudor Sedan was driven more than seventy-three thousand miles over a difficult route. The operating cost per mile was very low and practically the only expense for repairs was for new piston rings and a new bearing for the generator.

The car carried an average load of 1200 pounds of mail and was driven 250 miles daily. "The Ford has never failed to go when I was ready," writes one of the three mail carriers operating the car. "The starter did the trick last winter even at 34 degrees below zero. The gas runs about 20 miles per gallon. At times I pull a trailer whenever I have a bulky load."

Many other Ford owners report the same satisfactory performance. Every part has been made to endure — to serve you faithfully and well for many thousands of miles.

MUSIC GARDEN

The March meeting of the Music Garden was held Monday evening, the 9th, at the home of Mrs. Ida M. Belichon on Governors avenue. There was a goodly attendance.

At the business meeting the matter of delinquent members was considered; also delinquencies in notifying hosts and hostesses about individual attendance. Details in regard to the approaching guest night were also discussed.

The musical program featured the works of Sir Arthur Sullivan, the eminent British composer. Selections from his well-known and from his lesser known compositions were offered, resulting in one of the most attractive presentations of the season.

There is no doubt that the time devoted to studying the life and works of the great composers brings much profit as well as pleasure to our members. We hope that this policy may be pursued with vigor.

The program follows:

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

A meeting of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce was held at their office, 5 Common street, Thursday evening, March 5. Subjects of importance were discussed.

Our attention was again called to the development of that area of Winchester located west of Cambridge street. It has been said that this territory has no equal, in all the Middlesex County, for residential purposes. Such being the case we feel that our town should protect itself so that we may have the largest financial revenue possible from this property. Streets should be laid out in such a way and located so as to prevent small and undesirable developments that would be detrimental to any portion of the property.

It is known that the town of Lexington would like to co-operate with Winchester in this development thereby serving a double purpose beneficial to both towns. If a street could be built from Ridge street to connect with a street in Lexington the result would be very beneficial to this territory and would be decidedly beneficial to our town in finance.

Our Chamber is informed that there is to be a public hearing at the Office of the County Commissioners in East Cambridge on March 27.

As this is a very important matter and may mean much to our town we hope that those interested will endeavor to be present and express their opinion.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

On Tuesday, March 10 the Ladies' Friendly Society held their monthly meeting in the Unitarian Parish House. Following the board meeting held in the morning a St. Patrick's luncheon was served at 1 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Alexander and Mrs. Henry C. Davis.

The business meeting was held at 2 p. m. with the president, Mrs. Arthur G. Robbins in the chair. Mrs. Robbins was pleased to tell the ladies of recent gifts to the Society, a gavel for the president's use, a pair of floor lamps and candelabra for the ladies parlor.

Miss Louise Day accompanied by Mrs. Abbott was enthusiastic received with her unusual group of soprano solos.

Mr. Robert C. Dexter, chairman of American Unitarian Association Board of Social Relations gave the afternoon's address on "Taking the Risks of Peace." To hear Dr. Dexter quietly expounding the fundamental causes of all wars was a great inspiration. He pointed out that if all nations with their people truly accepted the fine value of their religious beliefs there would be no desire for war and he showed the necessary steps to take slowly to make wars an occurence of the past generations.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

We can learn a great deal from children at play. For they show all the temperamental ups-and-downs, all the bad little tricks and the saving graces that we grown-ups betray. Looking on, we see all the lessons that are learned, and the punishments meted out; and we sagely declare that the punishments are right, for little-folk ought to be good-natured and serene and unwavering and not run to cover at the very first sign of trouble.

And we? Why, if some Winchesterite slips or forgets or is cross or sarcastic or something, instead of being tolerant and kind and forgiving, we straightway think of ourselves and our "dignity," and the poor little offense looms big and important. And we go gray pouting, never bearing in mind the philosophy that looks so healing and wise where little folk are concerned. We call it something more dignified, more grown-up than "pouting," but it is the act that counts, and not the name.

And what makes us so foolish, so sensitive, so childish? We do not want to have to measure every word and act and feel that someone stands ready to be aggreived or offended or something. We do not want to be welcomed and warned and feted. Today and snubbed and chilled and starved tomorrow, and left dumbly wondering what in the world could have happened to bring about the change. We want associates, friends and the closest of all to be certain and grown-up all the while. And wanting so much, why don't we return in kind, and aim to be comfortable in all our relationships? For that is the secret of much of the happiness that comes to self and is passed along.

Eugene Bertram Willard

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

Last Saturday evening over 200 members and friends were at the club to witness the exhibition billiard match between the famed "Willie" Hoppe and the renowned Welker Cochrane, two of the best players in the country. Mr. Robert A. Reynolds introduced the two players and announced a 200 point 18-balk line match, a 25 point three-cushion match and an exhibition of fancy shots. A special table had been set up in the dance hall for this evening and raised seats provided for a thorough enjoyment of the exhibition by everyone.

Mr. Cochrane took the straight billiards in three runs, Mr. Hoppe getting away to a bad start and coming up for difficult leaves. He appeared, however, in a fair way to win the match until he failed to drive his ball out in a delicate shot. His best run was 106 and Mr. Cochrane ran 136 for high. Hoppe came back in the three-cushion match and ran out after a fine exhibition of some very difficult shots. The exhibition of fancy shots was interesting, both players taking part and entertaining the gathering. It is now planned to have the two players at the club early next fall, when they will stage a two-day exhibition.

Highest single string with handicap Mrs. Gallocher, 116.

Highest two-string total, Mrs. Barnard 165.

Highest two-string total with handicap Mrs. Perry, 207.

There will be a ladies' afternoon bridge party at the club on Tuesday, March 17, starting at 2 o'clock. Mrs. R. E. Lincoln will be in charge.

The annual winter bowling tournament closed this week, and the bowling dinner will be held on Saturday evening, March 21 at the club house at 6:30 p. m. This dinner is given by the ten teams standing lowest in points won. There will be an entertainment and the prizes will be awarded the winning teams and individuals in the tournament.

Harry A. McGrath wins the club championship this year, his high average of 113.20.54 for the season being the best recorded in the tournament. He also took the high three-string total for the tournament, piling up 389 in one of his matches.

The standing of the teams in the tournament is as follows:

SPRING BOWLING STARTS AT CALUMET CLUB

Next Tuesday evening, March 17, the annual spring bowling tournament opens on the alleys of the Calumet Club with an entry of eight teams of five men each. This tournament follows the usual winter tournament which closed last week.

Contested by seasoned bowlers who have just finished the winter tournament, the spring rolling promises to be about as good as the club has witnessed thus far. The schedule will continue each April and attractive prizes are announced for the four winning teams together with six individual awards. Team prizes are all on points won and individual prizes are for average, best three-string total with and without handicap. Handicaps based upon this year's performance give a very equal rating to all.

Cassina

The leaves of the cassina, a type of holly tree, are rich in caffeine, and, properly prepared, make a palatable drink. The tree grows along the coast from Virginia to Texas. The beverage is made from the dried leaves, but is brewed more like coffee, by boiling for two minutes or percolating for five minutes.

GUANTANAMO, THE LOS ANGELES AND MT. VERNON

Four world powers approved the "passport" that permitted the U. S. Navy "Los Angeles" to visit Guantanamo, Cuba, and the Panama Canal recently. A treaty prohibits the use of the big airship in military maneuvers, and a "special dispensation" by Great Britain, Japan, Italy and France, the other signers of the treaty, was necessary to allow it to call at the winter quarters of the scouting fleet in Guantanamo, and to continue to Panama to take part in the joint war games of the entire United States fleet.

Guantanamo Naval Station, the Los Angeles' first military port-of-call, is Uncle Sam's sentry of the Caribbean, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Not strongly fortified enough to be a second Gibraltar, it is, nevertheless, strategically located on one of the largest and finest harbors in the West Indies.

Not a Tourist Stop

Despite its location near the far eastern tip of Cuba, at the crossroads of the main routes to the Gulf of Mexico and the Spanish Main, Guantanamo is virtually unknown except to the blue jackets and officers of the Scouting Fleet, who assemble there each winter during target practice maneuvers. No tourist cruises include Guantanamo Bay because the Naval Station cannot be visited by civilians without special permission, and the other two towns on the bay, Caimanera and Boqueron, offer no tourist sights. It is a closed port for foreign men of war, but merchant ships may enter by an arrangement with the U. S. Naval authorities.

The matter of a "passport" for the "Los Angeles" seems a bit involved when one considers that permission was obtained from Great Britain, Japan, Italy, and France to have the airship visit a patch of United States territory owned by the Republic of Cuba. Guantanamo Naval Station is not an American colony. It is a desolate, sandy peninsula, part-of-call, a long piece of bay—an area about half the size of the District of Columbia—which is rented from Cuba for $2000 annually, or less than the average rent for a Park avenue, New York, apartment.

Guantanamo Naval Station is entirely under the jurisdiction of the Navy Department, and the only dwellings and other facilities of the station are connected with the activities of the fleet.

Disappointing Appearance

From the decks of the warship that brings the American Jack Tar for his first visit to Guantanamo, the Naval Station is a disappointing place. White frame outhouses on the coral cliffs along the waterfront are backed by cactus-clad, brown-green hills. In the foreground a few docks and corrugated iron buildings reach a short distance into the blue waters of the bay. Big oil tanks, the most conspicuous features of the landscape, send down from the sides of the hills innumerable, winding red and black pipes that look like the arms of an octopus through the shimmering heat waves of glaring white coral roads and gray iron roofs.

Guantanamo Bay is a magnificent harbor, four miles wide and 10 miles long. Here is water deep enough, sheltered by the hills from hurricanes for the entire United States Fleet. Now and then the sharp fin of a shark can be seen. Pelicans drift overhead with their air of aldermanic dignity, and fishhawks and man-o-war birds are forever circling against a sky of most incandescent blue.

Ashore the Naval Station reveals a number of surprisingly pretty palm shaded walks and roads, while the officers' quarters of the regular fleet are evergreen with vines, flowers, and other tropical vegetation. There are hospitals and club houses and canteens, most of which are used only when the fleet is anchored in the bay. On the flat land ten baseball diamonds have been laid out for the use of the fleet and, in addition, the ship-weary sailor can find tennis grounds, handball courts, bridle paths, and an outdoor moving picture theater. Here, too, is one of the largest Navy rifle ranges. At the edge of the reservation Cuban ice cream venders set up their stands, and newcomers are brought to sample their wares—to the delight of the "initiated" who have had their baptism of goats' milk ice cream!

Water Brought in Boats!

Caimanera, across the bay, is a motley collection of shabby frame houses, some of them built on piles over the water. It is the terminus of the railway line from the Cuban city of Guantanamo and other parts of central and eastern Cuba. Down this line drinking water is brought in tank cars, unloaded into tank boats, and brought across the bay to the Naval Station, for the reservation has nothing but uncertain cisterns, which are speedily exhausted in the dry season.

When, in 1741, Guantanamo was a British base of operations against the Spaniards in near-by Santiago, one of the American colonials on the staff of Admiral Vernon, the British commander, was Lawrence Washington, brother of the first President of the United States. Lawrence Washington later named his fine home along the Potomac "Mt. Vernon," in honor of his old commander, and the name remained after the place became the property of George Washington.

WHEN MEN TURN AND WALK STRAIGHT

(Written for The Winchester Star)

A just and perfect man
Finds favor in God's sight
But not such joy as wrong-doers can,
Who face about and travel aright.
Oh, God, grant us what we need
Dry up our tears, excuse our grief
Divine pardon too concede;
For we intend to forsake the ways
To which we too long have clung;
And we have learn't to sing God's praise
Which was so long unsung.

Not since the mass meeting which sought to persuade the School Committee to change its decision to dismiss Edward E. Thompson as principal of the high school has a public servant been so championed on the Town Hall floor as was the agent of the Board of Public Welfare last evening. In the face of so much positive testimony it seems difficult to believe that the "other members" of the Board would seek their agent's resignation for purely personal reasons and without cause. While it really is none of the public's business and the Star does not believe in airing squabbles occurring in town boards we feel that those on the Board of Public Welfare who voted to remove their agent owe it to themselves and to the town to state the reasons which prompted their action.

Apropos to Mr. Carr's statement that he never heard of a street being taken incorrectly over the telephone at fire headquarters we might state that we were present in the central station when just such an error occurred, due to noise both outside and inside the building. We sympathize with the Finance Committee in its efforts to save our money, but from daily visits to the fire station we believe that housed-in desk should be installed.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

We note four absentees for the meeting of March 12. This is a considerable improvement over the previous week and we anticipate that the final percentage will be high.

President Loring Gleason has been ill during the past week, confined to his home with severe attack of tonsillitis. We have missed his genial presence and valued counsel and hope that his convalescence is at hand.

Vice-President Hindes ("Doc") was in the chair during Loring's absence—that is he was in the chair while not fulfilling his function as song leader. Add to the above that "Doc" is charged with procuring our entertainment features and one can readily understand that he has had a busy day.

It was good to have our chief musician "Jim" after his return from an outing in Southern seas. "Jim" is evidently in prime physical condition and the singing on Thursday was of that good quality in which we take pride.

As to the entertainment hour, it was movie-day for us under the direction of producers Ralph Bonnell and Irving Symmes. Due to transportation delays, the film on which Ralph and Irving had set their hearts was not available. However, they did not fail us. Two reels were secured and their display brought to us a very pleasant half hour. We beheld a pictorial representation of a canoe trip along the 2,100 mile stretch of the Yukon River. This journey consumed four months time and was a revelation of the grandeur of our northern domain.

Also we were introduced to the thrills of a typical English steeplechase with several slow-motion pictures of mounts (and dis-mounts) taking the hurdles.

The final reel was a Grantland Rice production featuring sports appropriate to each month of the year.

The Club is grateful to Ralph and Irving for their efforts.

Next week, Thursday, we are to listen to "Jim" McGrath's explanation of the whys and wherefores of his trip to the sunny South. As to whom and what he met during his absense—well of course, "Jim" is discreet, yet what he will have to say is bound to be worth-while, so it looks like a splendid opportunity for a 100 per cent attendance.

Percentage of attendance for March 5—92.86 per cent.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The regular meeting and election of officers was held last evening at the home of Regent Ambrose. Saturday afternoon the State Charitable Committee will meet at the home of its chairman, Mrs. Handschumaker in Cambridge.

Saturday evening the State Guild will meet at the Women's City Club to complete plans for the birthday banquet.

THE LIFE AFTER DEATH

(Written for The Winchester Star)

Man's mind cannot faint conception form
Of the wonderful sphere of the life after death
But when we drop our tenements of clay
And robes of immortality put on
The veil will be withdrawn, and men may gaze
Upon the dazzling splendor of God's throne
And behold the living streams, amaranthine flowers;
The Tree of Life, with rich and varied fruits
The seraph-choirs, whose songs of lofty praise
Resounds through the sacred realms of bliss.
And all of beautiful and bright the life after death contains.

INDIA HAS ONE OF WORLD'S MOST COMPLEX GOVERNMENTS

What is India—the India of weeks of conference table discussion in London?

India is a peninsula, not a political unit; rather the most amazing conglomerate of states in the world, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The bulletin outlines the geographic and governmental status of the area which is the home of one-sixth of all the inhabitants of the world.

Almost a Continent in Itself

On the map, says the bulletin, India seems only a small projection from the huge bulk of Asia. But its 1,542,000 square miles of area (without Burma) make it more than half the size of the United States of America. The lofty Himalaya Mountains, arching across its northern frontier, fence it off from the rest of Asia; and the seas on its two other sides complete its isolation. Into this huge, detached triangle are crammed 300,000,000 people—more than two and a half times as many as dwell in the United States—who represent many races and who speak some 200 different languages. From its sea level, tropical south to its lofty, snow-capped north, India runs a gamut of climatic conditions. Thus in size, population, isolation, and diversity of human material and climatic aspects, India might almost be considered a continent in itself.

Governmentally, the peninsula is a veritable crazy-quilt of presidencies, states, provinces, protectorates, tribal areas, and foreign patches. The native states, covering a large part of the area of the peninsula, are not British governed, but are considered to be a part of the British Empire. Some fragments of territory are owned outright by foreign nations. These include approximately 200 square miles of French territory in five separate colonies, along the east and west coasts; and 1461 square miles of Portuguese territory in four areas on the western side of the peninsula.

A Matrix for 500 Native States

A map of India showing in red the territory wholly governed by Great Britain, and in lighter shade the native states, gives a good picture of the general governmental situation. British India—the directly British governed territory—is a matrix like the dough of a plum pudding; embedded in the British "dough" and cemented together by it like the large and small bits of fruit in a pudding, are more than 500 native states of varying degrees of importance and independence.

Although there has been much written of a "Dominion status for India" and "Indian self government," the discussions in London of possible governmental changes have related almost wholly to British India—the irregular territorial matrix which is subject directly to British law.

British India embraces about 70 per cent of the area and approximately 80 per cent of the population of the peninsula. This scattered British realm is equal in area to six times the area of Texas, while the population is twice that of the entire United States. This territory which Britain governs directly is divided into 14 provinces. (Burma, at present classed as a part of British India, is the 15th province). Eight of the provinces in the peninsula are large enough and populous enough to be comparable to important nations of Europe. Thus, the smallest, Assam, is larger than Greece; while the largest, Madras, is almost as large as, and considerably more populous than Poland.

The governors of these eight important provinces (and Burma) are appointed by the British King-Emperor. The five chief provinces of the peninsula are: Assam, Bengal, Bihar and Orissa (combined), Bombay, Central Provinces and Berar (combined), Madras, Punjab, and the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh.

Double Governments

The governmental machinery of the provinces as well as that of British India as a whole is probably as complicated as that of any state in the world. The chief executive of British India is a Viceroy or Governor General appointed for a five-year term by the British crown. Assisting him is an executive council of seven members also appointed by the crown for five years. Three of these are Indians.

Attached to the central government is a Lower House or Legislative Assembly and an Upper House or Council of State. Both of these bodies the Governor General has an absolute veto; and furthermore he even has the power under certain circumstances to enact a bill himself if either or both houses reject it.

The governmental system in the important provinces is known as "dyarchy." The governors with their executive councils, appointed by the crown, concern themselves with all "reserved" subjects—law and order, land, income tax, etc. On the other hand there are ministers and a Legislative Council to take care of the "transferred" subjects. These are for the most part local matters such as public health, education, excise taxes, etc. In their limited sphere, the ministers are responsible to the provincial government.

Comparable to U. S. Territories

The six minor provinces of British India are administered by the central government somewhat as the territories of the United States are administered. They are the Northwest Frontier Province, British Baluchistan, Ajmer-Merwara, Andaman and Nicobar Islands, Coorg, and the Delhi Enclave. The latter, embracing the official capital of India, is comparable to the District of Columbia in the United States.

Great Britain has come into possession of the territory that makes up British India in various ways. The nucleus was taken over from the British East India Company. To this has been added territory gained by force of arms, by purchase, and by cession.

The complexities in India life that arise from its intricate governmental fabric are added to a still more staggering tangle due to religions and castes. Thus in some of the provinces it has been necessary to stipulate the numbers of representatives that can be elected by the different religious groups. A demand by the Sikhs for more representatives after the Hindus and Moslems had reached an agreement practically deadlocked the London Conference.

Native States Picturesque

It is in the native states, which would be only indirectly affected by a new governmental pattern for British India, that the picturesqueness of India is found. In the 500 odd states every shade of sovereignty exists from practically absolute monarchy to almost complete dependence. In the greatest of the states such as Hyderabad, Mysore, Kashmir, Gwalior and Baroda, the ruling princes or maharajas are virtually kings in their own right. They maintain their own armies, collect their own revenues, and have the power of life and death over their subjects. Some of them lead veritable Arabian Nights existences, dispensing personal justice, riding on richly caparisoned elephants, living in palaces far more sumptious than those of European kings, and maintaining extensive harems. Great Britain in no wise interferes with their local government and is represented at their courts only by residents who are little more than diplomatic envoys.

Great Britain has treaty arrangements with the rulers of the Indian states whereby they agree not to send representatives to each other or to enter into alliances except with Great Britain, in or out of India; and whereby they carry on all foreign affairs through Great Britain. It is in such tenuous ways that some of the more independent states have become a part of the British Empire. There is a greater measure of control over some of the less important states; and some pay an annual cash tribute to the central government.

If the governmental picture of the Indian peninsula is to be complete the wholly independent states of Nepal and Bhutan in the Himalaya Mountains must be considered. A treaty between Great Britain and Nepal provides that neither shall interfere with the internal or external affairs of the other. Bhutan has agreed to be guided by the advice of the British Government in its external relations. To the country Great Britain pays an annual cash subsidy.

A "30-INCH SHELF" OF LETTERS FOR ADMIRAL BYRD

One of the most unusual "libraries" any explorer has received was that given to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the night of February 23, at Detroit. There, before school superintendents from all parts of the country attending the Department of Superintendence Convention, the aerial conqueror of both poles was presented with 10 handsomely bound volumes of letters, a tribute from the school children of America.

When the National Education Association suggested that school children write letters to Admiral Byrd it was planned to bind the best of these letters in a single volume, and give this volume to Admiral Byrd when the explorer addressed the superintendents at the Detroit convention. The response to the suggestion was so instantaneous, and so overwhelming, that it was decided to bind all the letters received in a unique set of books, a "Thirty-inch Shelf" of the enthusiasm of American youth for exploration, and as their tribute to Admiral Byrd.

Some 4500 letters, selected by teachers from more than 40,000 the children have written, were received in Washington up to Feb. 10, and were sent to the binders. Since that time letters have continued to pour in, and these will be collected and bound into two additional volumes, although not in time to be presented at Detroit. The letters, which range from personal notes on composition paper to neatly typed essays on the value of exploration, are being bound by States, Ohio, so far, is in the lead. Gold-lettered, morocco binding is being used, and the complete series will be added to Admiral Byrd's already large collection of Antarctica.

In addition to the bound volumes of letters Admiral Byrd will be presented with models of his ship, "The City of New York," handsome scrolls illuminated in the manner of old manuscripts, drawings, and other work of student artisans.

The States sending the largest number of letters, in their order, follow: Ohio, Illinois, New York, Louisiana, Texas, Michigan, Kansas, New Jersey, Maine, Iowa, Montana, California and Pennsylvania. Every State in the Union is represented.

IF you take advantage of the opportunity to borrow 50% on your service certificate.....

AND IF you have a family or other dependents.....

WE RECOMMEND that you pay up the loan when convenient, or at least that you pay the annual interest charges.

Otherwise the effect of your borrowing will be a loss of nearly half of the value of your certificate. For example: if your certificate is for $1000 you may now borrow $500; the interest ($22.50 this year, $23.62 next year, etc.) is charged against the balance due you; and therefore, if you do not pay any interest charges you will only receive $714.03 when the certificate matures in 1945.

Solving Today's Problems

There is enough good sense and enough inventiveness available to find the answer to any practical problem which now baffles men anywhere—Collier's Weekly.

Workmen's Compensation

The first legislation on the subject of workmen's compensation in the United States was a co-operative insurance law in Maryland in 1902. However, this law was declared unconstitutional in 1904. The first compensation acts were passed in 1910, but several of them were held unconstitutional—notably that of New York, by the famous Ives decision. The New York constitution was then amended and another law passed. Congress in 1908 passed a law providing for a plan of compensation for accidents incurred by industrial employees of the United States.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

The decision in the libel case against an esteemed exchange reaching the Paragrapher's desk seems to prove that a newspaper has a legal right to criticize and condemn the public acts of an official. That is a just decision and is entirely consistent, not only with the constitution, but with the spirit of the times. The Paragrapher might cite in the Star another case where a defeated aspirant for office threatened to sue a local paper for the loss of the salary of the office because the paper had opposed his election and contributed more or less to his defeat. The suit was never prosecuted. The disappointed candidate's counsel probably convinced him that he was making a fool of himself.

We agree with that Winchester dominie who deplores the language engaged in by street cowbies and even by Winchester young men who would resent being called rowdies. The users of this vile language have absolutely no consideration for themselves or others and put on an "if-you-don't-like-it-don't-listen" air when using bad language.

Our good townsman, A. Waldo Rockwood of Cambridge street has recently returned from a sojourn in Florida and while he thinks Florida is a grand place—especially at this season of the year—no town he ever visited can take the place of dear old Winchester, which everybody agrees, Winchester, is a good place wherein to live 365 days of the year.

We know a lot of fellows here in Winchester who would not make much of a show of themselves over being engaged, the way they do now; if it came after wedlock.

A full-bearded man living in Winchester recently had his beard shaved off, showing a clean face for the first time for a number of years. At the dinner table his three-year old granddaughter noticed it, gazed long with wondering eye, and finally exclaimed, "Grandfather, whose head you got on?"

True, we have poverty in Winchester but nothing to be compared with the poverty found in many other communities. For instance, in a town less than a dozen miles from Winchester a young woman was seen plodding through the snow and slush in her bare feet and inquiry established that she had no shoes to wear and that she had been barefooted most of the winter. In this part of the country such cases are not common but when discovered do tear at the heart-strings of sympathetic men and women.

On a Winchester street a young man struck a match on his thumb nail. We thought this fool practice had been done away with a long time ago. A few years back a well known Winchesterite lit a match by striking it with his thumb nail and made a slight burn. In 24 hours a bad case of blood poisoning had set in and physicians had a hard time of it to save his life.

A man here in Winchester gets up and writes verses when he can't sleep. Insomnia must be an awful thing.

There is nothing big about a bigot.

Some men here in Winchester blame satan for their mistakes. They ought to blame satin.

In the case of the Winchesterite devoid of the virtue of patience we suggest that he watch the cat at the hole where the mouse is expected to come forth.

A Winchester girl leaped over a lot of slush
Some fool's overshoes and a fellow who is dense.
Then he wondered at her angry glance
And why she left him standing there.

Once upon a time in the remote past women were so modest that they wouldn't display on clothes lines the garments that they now show on the street in warm weather.

The Winchesterite over 50 thinks the smart aleck of 17 is the most asinine idiot in the world. But that is because the older Winchesterite has a poor memory.

A parrot hasn't the advantage of a human being. Before it can talk its tongue has to be split. We know folk here in Winchester who are born with a tongue loose at both ends.

"This glorious old country of ours hasn't gone to the dogs," remarked a well known Winchester man. "Children still think parents are enemies and cranks and spoil-sports." But not so much as of yore. The parents are seldom at home.

Any Winchesterite who lays a corner-stone has something to cackle about.

LET US MEDITATE MORE

(Written for The Winchester Star)

A period of meditation, when busy day begins
Its never ceasing round of hasting ear
When man must meet with toil pain sins
And through them all his burden must bear
O then to arm us for the strife to be Faithful to death, why not a period meditate
And when softly melt
Climbs the high heaven with solemn step and slow
When the sweet stars, unalterably bright,
Are rising forth the Almighty's praise to own to bow;
O then, while far from earth human thoughts would flee,
Why not spend in meditation a period with God!

GIRL SCOUTS NOTES

The Mid winter Girl Scout Rally took place in the Town Hall on Saturday, March 7. There was a large, appreciative audience of parents, friends, brothers and sisters of Scouts. Commissioner Hall welcomed this audience and expressed her pleasure that its size and character represented the interested loyalty of Winchester to its Girl Scouts.

The program was as follows:

Drum and Bugle Corps ..... Anita Wilson, Drum Major

Mrs. John Phelps, Acting Chairman

Awarding of Merit Badges ..... Commissioner Hall

Deputy Commissioner Mann
Mrs. Curtis Waterman
Commissioner Metropolitan Division

Address .....

Drum and Bugle Corps

Pageant "The Making of a Golden Eaglet"

Presentation of Golden Eaglets

Mrs. Curtis Waterman

Song "Girl Scouts" and Brownies' Marching"

Court of Awards: Mrs. Harold Farnsworth, Chairman; Mrs. John Phelps, Mrs. Preston Corey

The Drum and Bugle Corps made a splendid appearance with their orange ties, orange hat cords and shiny bugles. They formed on the floor of the Town Hall and played well, and with enthusiasm. Separate calls were played by Edna Hanlon, Virginia Besse, Norma Godfrey and Elizabeth Philbrick. Drum solos were splendidly rendered by Alice Welch and Margaret Plumer. It really thrills one to hear these girls drum and bugle.

We constantly hear the expression that we live in a "machine age." This truly was the case on Saturday. A specially constructed machine operated by Brownies, who looked like magical little elves, turned out Scouts from "Tenderfoots" to "Golden Eaglets." This machine looked like a giant coffee grinder, and at the turn of a crank produced the "evolution" of a Scout."

The first batch to be ground up was a group of girls of all nations, who, after being examined by the brown gnomes, were pushed into the magical chamber and emerged as "Tenderfoots." From then on, the process continued from Tenderfoot to Second Class, then First Class, and then to Golden Eaglets.

The Second Class Scouts were typified by Bugler Elizabeth Phillips who played the call to colors, and all saluted the flag. They were returned to the machine, and then the ingredients were put in for the merit badge material—the work of a First Class Scout. "Pioneers" emerged with dignified stride. Artists in blue smocks and black berets set up their easels and went to work; two young "musicians" played their violins; "campers" transferred us to the atmosphere of the woods, and audience and Scouts sang the camping songs.

Brown Owl Goodwin demonstrated first aid in resuscitation; four athletes representing tennis, riding, hockey and skiing appeared. The First Class Scouts, bearing a huge trefoil—the Scout emblem, and the climax of the afternoon was reached. Four Scouts marched to the front of the platform, and remained at attention while Mrs. Curtis Waterman, Commissioner of Metropolitan Division, after a brief address of congratulation conferred upon them the "Golden Eaglet" awards. This title is the highest honor which can be paid to a Girl Scout. To obtain this, a girl must have been given the letter of commendation and in addition have won 21 proficiency badges. It signifies thorough work, real achievement and unswerving loyalty in Scouting. These four young eaglets are Margaret Nash, Janet and Carolyn Nichols, and Anita Wilson, the drum major of the Bugle Corps.

The ceremony of investing these Golden Eaglet Badges was carried out in a dignified manner, befitting the importance of the occasion. The Eaglets, in turn, saluted Mrs. Waterman, then Commissioner Hall. This is the first time in the history of Girl Scouting in Winchester that this honor has been conferred on a Girl Scout. Credit is not only due to the girls themselves for meriting this honor, but also to the splendid leadership of Commissioner Hall and her captains who have kept this goal ever present in the minds of the Scouts and have helped them on to achieve it.

One hundred and fifty-five merit badges were presented, 15 second class and one first class, and one five year service stripe was presented to Doris MacElwain.

Marguerite E. Loftus

Monday afternoon the Drum and Bugle Corp played at the Fortnightly Woman's Club, and a pageant, "The History of the American Flag" was presented by 15 Scouts. Wednesday evening, at the request of Mrs. Ambler, president of the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association, the Flag Pageant was presented for that association.

The mounted troop will start riding Saturday, March 21, and ride every Saturday morning until May 30.

The hospital course will resume its classes on Saturday afternoon, March 14.

ARABIA'S BLANK SPOT CROSSED

The recent crossing of the Roba el Khali, the great sandy desert of southeastern Arabia, by Bertram Thomas, opens up an area that has been wholly unknown to the world's geographers and map-makers, and which has been the subject of only the haziest legends, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Unknown Area at Old World Center

During the past 600 years, while explorers from western Europe by land and sea have been enlarging the known world in wider and wider circles around Arabia, says the bulletin, almost a third of that great peninsula, lying practically at the center of the Old World, has remained unseen by white men. In fact, so desolate has the great desert been found to be by the few adventurers who have pushed to its well guarded edges, that it had been seriously questioned whether natives have been able to penetrate into its heart since the time, probably many thousands of years ago, when climatic changes gradually made it into a sea of almost sterile sand.

The Great Southern Desert covers approximately 390,000 square miles of territory. It is a vast ellipse which is roughly 800 miles across from east to west, and 600 miles from north to south. This area, since the penetration of Central Africa, the Sahara, and central Australia, has constituted the largest blank spot on the world's maps outside the ice-covered wastes near the poles.

Guarded by Both Nature and Man

All around this Arabian no-man's land, the forces of civilization have played: steamers traverse the Red Sea, the Indian Ocean, and the Persian Gulf; airplanes plying between Egypt and India have flown for years a few hundred miles to the north; great pilgrim caravans and desert armies have crossed the peninsula near its center—but always north of the dread sandy waste. Loosely organized political units hem in the desert area, with boundary lines hazy. On the north and west is the territory of the greatest Arabian State, the Kingdom of Hejaz and Nejd. On the southeast is Yemen. The Hadramaut, a narrow coastal strip under British protection, touches the desert on the south. The crescent-shaped, independent State of Oman, also a coastal territory, curves around the eastern and southeastern edges of the desert.

Both Nature and man have guarded the Roba el Khali against explorers. Mountains rim it on the east and south and secondary deserts hem it on the north. The main part of the Southern Desert has been assumed to consist of a vast waste covered with sand dunes; but before this region of shifting sands can be reached, a six-day journey must be made—in the south and east, at least—over an almost sterile sandstone steppe. Water supplies are hardly anywhere in reach for a final dash into the sandy desert.

All around the outer rim of the desert area are tribes that have had had practically no contact with outside civilization, and that are even independent of control from the nearest states. They guard their few wells and water holes jealously and in most cases look upon travelers from the outside world as meddlesome trespassers meriting death.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Last Saturday 21 Boy Scouts reported for the first of two hikes that are being held in preparation for the spring court of honor to be run off at the Town Hall on Saturday evening, March 28. The day was a beautiful one to spend in the out of doors and these Scouts took full advantage of the weather in passing the all important out of door tests required of every Scout.

George Dotten, Americo Marrone, and Howard Streeter were present from Troop 1; Troop 3 sent Alan Breed, Clement Thompson, Earnest Thompson, Richard Leghorn, Paul Wentworth, Robert Millikan, Albert Wilson, David Fitts, David Grosvenor and Albert Grosvenor, while Harris Richardson, Norman Clark, Frank Higgins, Robert Howe, Dean Carleton, Charles Rounds, Robert Graham, and Robert Higgins came from Troop 6.

The morning was spent in gathering fuel, building fire places, and similar preparations for the preparation of the noon meal. The following upon fire cooking was done: steak, chops, potatoes, corn bread, omelet, twist, hunters stew, sausages, tea and coffee. Tests were thereby passed in first and second class cooking and cooking merit badges.

After the food had been disposed of several Scouts attempted the tracking test which is to track a half mile in 25 minutes. None succeeded in passing which was not due to the dinner, however, as everyone at this point felt fine.

The hikers then organized into two sides and played "Capture the Flag" and then had a beautiful snowball fight with honors about even. At 4 p. m., they returned home to look forward to the next hike to be held a week from next Saturday.

The Winchester Scouting authorities wish to make it clear that all citizens of Winchester are invited to the Court of Honor on the 28th and hope that a large number will be present in the Town Hall on that date at 7:45 p. m. The presence of a large number of parents and friends is an inspiration to the boys participating and a fitting tribute to the quality of the work that they are doing. Mark your calendar today and plan now to be present. You will be pleasantly surprised at the entertainment afforded by the Scouts.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The March meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Lawson, 296 Washington street on Friday, the 20th at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Belichon, director of Christian citizenship will have charge of the program. Members and friends cordially invited.

"18th Amendment a Boon to Childhood and Youth"

So says Joy Elmer Morgan, Editor National Association Journal.

"There is not the slightest foundation for saying that conditions are worse in the high schools and colleges since the adoption of the 18th Amendment. All the facts I have ever seen show just the opposite. High school enrollment has increased from 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 since 1920. Many young people have been brought into high schools who never could have had a chance with the saloon competing for their father's dollars.

"Undoubtedly many of the additional 3,000,000 come from homes of the poorer classes. The ones who drink represent the insignificant minority.

"I have talked with hundreds of school men who almost invariably tell me that the newspaper reports of drinking among high school pupils are either exaggerated or without foundation. The school men with whom I have talked recently tell me that conditions are steadily improving. Next to the establishment of the Christian church and the founding of the common school the coming of the 18th Amendment has done more for the welfare of childhood and youth than any advance in the history of civilization."

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

Joe E. Brown in "Going Wild" and "The Lion and the Lamb," an Oppenheim story, with Walter Byron, Carmel Myers and Raymond Hatton in the cast, will make up the double feature program that opens a seven day engagement at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. "Going Wild" is even funnier than Brown's previous hits. "Going Wild" is a farce built around an airplane race. Brown is a newspaper reporter, broke and out of a job, who is enroute to Florida with a companion, Lawrence Gray. Brown, through a mistake in initials, is taken for the author of a book on aviation, and the whole town is at the station to greet him. As may be imagined, Brown takes it very big, the only fly in the ointment being that he is eventually challenged to a race by a real pilot, Walter Pigeon, and because he has fallen for the charms of Laura Lee, he is forced to go through with it. Brown is a riot in his part and received great support from Lawrence Gray, Laura Lee and Walter Pigeon.

"The Lion and the Lamb" is an exciting mystery drama that Oppenheim writes so well. It presents Walter Byron as a society man who gets caught in the toils of a gang of crooks. The action is thrilling with a climax that is a hair-raiser.

"Men on Call," starring Edmund Lowe and "Today" with Katherine Dale Owen and Conrad Nagle as the featured players, is the program that ends its run at the Mystic on Friday. "Men on Call" is a story of the Coast Guard with Lowe cast as a woman hater who changes his mind.

HEAVY STORM HIT WINCHESTER

Actual Damage Here Light in Comparison With Other Communities

Winchester was visited by the most severe storm of the winter last Sunday, the weather including during the day and evening just about everything in the catalogue, snow, sleet, hail, a drenching rain, lightning, thunder and a tremendously high wind which was particularly in evidence during the late afternoon and early evening.

While the storm was by no means pleasant and resulted in more or less damage about town, it also precipitated two inches of rainfall, according to the measurement at the North Reservoir and resulted in raising the three reservoirs on an average two-thirds of a foot.

The high wind was responsible for much of the damage done hereabouts, a good part of the town being plunged in darkness off and on during the evening as the result of a pole being blown down on Main street near Richardson street and a short circuit in the wires on a pole at Main and Hemingway streets. Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell was sent to prevent injury at the last named location while Patrolman Clarence Dunbury mounted guard at the fallen pole. Traffic up and down Main street had to be detoured.

Lights at Police Headquarters were out on two occasions during the evening and at the Second Congregational Church, where a service in observance of the 25th anniversary of the Society was in progress, the auditorium was plunged in darkness. Candles were finally obtained to ensure the conclusion of the service.

Patrolman Clarence Dunbury reported a foot of water on Swanton street from Holland street to the railroad bridge as early as 7 o'clock in the evening. The sidewalk on the south side of Oneida road was badly washed out and there were several bad places reported on Cambridge street near High street. The walk around the new park in process of construction on upper Main street was entirely under water and the Aberjona overflowed its banks in several places between the center and the Bacon street bridge. There was a bad washout on Glenwood avenue from the overflow of Russell Brook and several stores in the center, including the Winchester News Co., E. C. Sanderson, G. Raymond Bancroft and the Star Office had either water or sewage in their cellars. Men of the Highway Department were busy most of Monday pumping the sewage out of the cellar of the News Company on Thompson street. Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn stated that the schools stood the deluge well, a leak in the high school roof being the only casualty reported.

Householders all over town reported water in their cellars, and at 9:45 Sunday evening the Fire Department was notified of a rather serious condition at the home of Mr. C. N. Eaton at 37 Foxcroft road. The firemen found upon arrival that water was pouring into the cellar of the Eaton home, and it was necessary to bank the house with ashes and build a dam of sand to stop the flood. This done the men of the Highway Department put a pump in operation and pumped out the cellar.

The men of the Highway Department put in a busy night and policemen were also kept on the jump. Early in the evening the traffic lights went out and it was necessary to get lanterns to light the beacons. Ignition trouble stalled many cars about town.

Superintendent Harry W. Dotten of the Water Department was much pleased at the increase in the water supply due to the storm and stated that Town property about the reservoirs had suffered little. When returning to his home during the height of the afternoon storm he saw a flock of some 40 or 50 geese flying low over the house in the direction of Medford. Monday morning on the ice of one of the reservoirs he picked up a dead sea gull which had evidently been beaten down and killed by the storm.

On the whole the damage done to trees about town was not heavy, though branches were broken here and there. A big limb was blown from a tree on Common street about 10 o'clock Sunday night, requiring attention.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Four actors have become actors for the sake of a play. Ina Claire, Frederic March, Mary Brian and Henrietta Crosman are the actors and the play in which they act the parts of actors is "The Royal Family of Broadway" which comes to the University Theatre on Sunday next for a four day run. "The Royal Family" is the intimate, amusing and at times hilarious presentation of a mythical family of reigning performers on the American stage.

Those who have laughed themselves into a state bordering on apoplexy at the unroariously impossible antics of Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown in such plays as "Gold Diggers of Broadway" and "Hold Everything" can have a slight conception of what would happen to patients unlucky enough to elect themselves inmates of the "health" institute which the two run in cahoots, as Dr. Winnie O'Neil and Jo Jo, in "Sit Tight" the companion feature. There is an exciting love story, too, in "Sit Tight" which runs its rough course, not because of, but in spite of the pseudo-physicians in charge.

"Inspiration" which starts Thursday, stars Greta Garbo. The story concerns a beautiful model of the Paris studios who gives up her circle of wealthy admirers for the love of a provincial student.

An entirely new and different atmosphere is provided for Clara Bow in "No Limit," the companion feature. In this play of big city life, Miss Bow is seen as an usherette in a great movie palace.

THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH BEGINS THE CELEBRATION OF ITS 25TH ANNIVERSARY

The intervening years between 1906 and 1931 were appropriately bridged last Friday evening when the Second Congregational Church began the celebration of its 25th birthday as a church organization, by holding a good old fashioned social in the assembly hall of the church. It was gratifying that so many of the members and friends of the church attended to participate in the happiness of the occasion.

The assembly hall was artistically decorated by Mrs. R. Snyder, Mrs. A. Belville and Mrs. T. Webber in the pastel tints with crepe paper and beautiful flowers. In one corner of the room stood a table in the center of which was a surprise in the form of a large heart shaped birthday cake, baked and presented for the occasion. Surrounding the cake were 25 large yellow candles in crystal holders, representing the 25 years of the church history. The cake was cut later in the evening by Mrs. John E. Whittley and each guest was privileged in receiving a piece of the birthday cake.

The first part of the evening was enjoyed by everyone in a time social way renewing old acquaintances and meeting new friends. A short entertainment was enjoyed. Miss Jean McLellan, for many years interested in the church at the Highlands, sang several favorite songs, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Macdonald. Mrs. Marion Taylor then gave a most interesting historical sketch of the church as she knew it from the beginning of its history, emphasizing the good work done by the church in the past and giving a most hopeful outlook for the future.

Mrs. Rony Snyder contributed the more up to date part of the program in terms of 1931 by showing several humorous reels on the screen from her motion picture projector.

Moving pictures of a different type were then shown on the screen in form of shadowgraphs depicting "Lochinvar's Ride" by Scott and "The Height of the Ridiculous" by Holmes. These poems were read by Mrs. Harry Goodwin and acted in shadowgraph in unique fashion by Misses Olive Robinson, Winnifred Thompson, Flora Richardson, Margaret Copland, Laura Tolman, Mrs. Farnham and Isabel Copland. Both displays were very interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Much credit for the success of the evening is due to the committee in charge, Mrs. W. Scott Farnham and Miss Margaret Copland.

Sunday, March 8

Further observance of this 25th anniversary period was made on Sunday, when at morning service, the Rev. D. Augustine Newton, D.D., lovingly remembered by many Winchester friends as long-time pastor of the First Congregational Church here, preached a very inspiring sermon, bringing in a narrative of the early beginnings of the religious movement in this community, 25 years before the actual church organization of the present.

Dr. Newton made reference to many names, well-remembered by our older residents—names, most of whose owners have now left the places they filled so splendidly 50 years ago, and through whose devotion and efforts the seeds were planted which grew into the present church organization. Dr. Newton told of the first cottage prayer-meetings, followed by the forming of a thriving Sunday School, which met in the building which is now the Winchester Highlands Chapel; then of the organization of the Bethany Sewing Society; then in 1886, of the incorporation of the Highlands Bethany Society as a religious body, which soon built for itself a church home the Union Chapel on Cross street, at a total cost for land and building of $2400. In March, 1906, the Society became the Second Congregational Church of Winchester and the Rev. C. A. S. Dwight was installed as the first resident pastor. It is the anniversary of this event which is now being celebrated.

There was a very large attendance and after the service Dr. Newton was warmly greeted by many of his friends and former parishioners from all parts of the town.

During the Sunday School hour, the secretary of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association, Rev. Ivan S. Nowlan, spoke in a most intimate and helpful way to the junior and senior departments and his assistant, Miss Odegard, held the entire school, but especially the younger members, charmed with her rendering of one or two of the stories of the Bible.

The evening service was well attended considering the baffling weather conditions. Dr. Chidley presented a most worth-while address to a group of about 40 people who had braved the storm, and come out in all the down-pour from above and the rivers of water under foot. It is regrettable that so many who wanted to come to this service were unable to do so, and thus missed this splendid sermon. The Rev. A. L. Winn brought greetings from the Baptist Church in the center, and the Rev. W. H. Smith brought those of the New Hope Baptist Church.

The church choir, assisted by Mrs. Simpson of Somerville, sang at both the morning and evening services. Mrs. Simpson also sang two beautiful anthems as solos.

This first week of anniversary observation has been attended with every evidence of pleasure and satisfaction on the part of the church members and friends, and it is certain that the services of the second and last week will be no less enjoyable.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Let us be looking forward with eager anticipation to Monday, March 23, when the Fortnightly will celebrate with great pride its 50th anniversary. Our guests of honor will be officers of the State Federation, Mrs. Frank B. Bennett, First Vice President; Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, Second Vice President; Mrs. John H. Kimball, Third Vice President; Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Azel A. Packard, General Federation Director; Mrs. Harold J. Johnson, District Director, and a goodly number of our own past presidents.

We are also inviting the presidents of the seventh and eighth districts to rejoice with us on this occasion. Miss Mary Fitch is in charge of the decorations and Mrs. Anita McGaragle, Chairman of the Art Committee, is director of the program, which is a pageant, depicting in several episodes the important movements which have been inaugurated by the club and showing how the club has carried out the aims of the founders "to become an organized social center for organized thought and action."

The Clubhouse Fund Committee has arranged for the presentation of the motion picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships." It will be given at the Town Hall Friday evening, March 27, at 8 o'clock.

The picture shows an actual cruise after whales starting from New Bedford and going to the Carribean seas. It gives a vivid and thrilling story of the early whaling days in New England, providing an entertainment depicting the most picturesque and romantic industry America has ever known. It was this picture which gave Clara Bow her first opportunity at the age of 15. [illegible]

Characters were presented by Mrs. M. C. Fowler as the mandarin, Mrs. R. A. Reynolds as Koong-See, the daughter, Mrs. B. R. Gage as Chang, secretary to the mandarin, Mrs. M. H. Hartlian as the [illegible], and Mrs. H. M. Ferguson as the incense bearer. Each and every role was played in a manner which [illegible] [illegible] but artistic [illegible]

At the conclusion of the prologue Koong-See explains to the "Most Noble High Born and Exalted Audience" that when the Incense Bearer is seen to pass, they may know that a fragment is ended and that the next fragment is about to appear.

The seven fragments treat of the love of Koong-See for Chang, which thrives as a green bay tree despite many obstacles, chiefly among which figures the interference of her honorable cruel parent.

Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini contributed the vocal selection, "A Chinese Lullaby" taken from the play "Far East West." This was chosen as the theme song and was sung at the beginning and conclusion of the presentation. Mrs. Ghirardini wore a magnificently embroidered coat of white silk with a lavish display of jewels, including a headdress of pearls. Mrs. David Kydd was the piano accompanist.

Miss Jean Fowler, born in China, read nursery rhymes about the "Willow Pattern."

A great deal of thanks and appreciation are forthcoming to Mrs. West and Mrs. Hartlian for a most unusual and enjoyable afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. West, of Winchester, contributed generously from their own collection of Chinese objects of art. Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fowler, also of Winchester, who for a period covering several years lived in China, exhibited many valuable presentations by the Emperor of China to Mr. Fowler's father for distinguished service during the Boxer Rebellion.

Mrs. David Kydd, now of Lexington, who has resided in the interior of China for several years, lent very choice antiques.

Miss Margaret Winn of Winchester, a former missionary in China, exhibited rare pieces of linen, brass, bronze, necklaces and jade.

And ah! the tea—real Chinese tea! Real Chinese rice wafers! Real Chinese ginger! Served in a style that breathed of the Orient. And what is more, the audience was all chat-chat-chattering at once, it sounded very much like the Chinese language.

Regular Meeting

With the president in the chair, the regular meeting of the club was called to order at 2:30 p. m. on Monday, March 9.

After the report of the secretary and standing committees, the president asked for suspension of the by-laws in order that the Nominating Committee might give their report ahead of time. This report was received with enthusiasm and approbation.

MEDITATIONS OF A LAYMAN

By Eugene Bertram Willard

Those of us who have occasion to visit a public hospital and especially those of us who visit many public hospitals have the greatest respect for the members of the nursing profession be they professional nurses or ambitious young women in training. . . . It does not matter which of these self-sacrificing young women are ministering to human ills in the wards at the Whidden Memorial hospital in Everett, the Massachusetts General Hospital, Children's Hospital, the North Reading Sanatorium or the State Infirmary at Tewksbury, these young women are giving their lives on the highest possible level and I know of no work more [illegible] outside of the ministry and priesthood than that of a nurse in a hospital.

Mrs. Forbes in her "Secret of the Sahara," tells how in one place they came perilously near the end of their resources and their powers of endurance. The going was arduous and they were weary with the length of their way. Yet there seemed no end to the desert sands. "Then," she says, as they crossed a low range of hills, "we almost fell over the [illegible] cliff into the soft palm sand of the oases before we realized it was there. This happens in more places than the Sahara. Especially is this true in the nursing profession. On the ward where the young nurse in training is beset with great obstacles, she finds unexpected supplies set at her feet, tumbling on them sometime before she realizes they are there.

Under the [illegible] sort of human sickness as we meet it in the wards of a public hospital the Almighty has [illegible] [illegible] being can wish for a thing, can desire it; but only strong, vigorous minds with great purposes can do things." And well may our hospital nurses sing with Alice Dudley:

'Tis [illegible]
[illegible]
And do the task that's [illegible]
And leave results [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

The funeral of Mrs. Katherine Tansey, wife of John J. Tansey, who died Friday, March 13, took place from her late residence, 81 Nelson street, Monday morning with a requiem high mass celebrated in St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke. There was a large attendance and many beautiful flowers. Bearers were James J. PHYSICAL EDUCATION THEME OF PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION AT HIGH SCHOOL

The Parent-Teacher Association of Winchester High School will hold a meeting in the auditorium of the high school, Tuesday evening, March 24 at 8 o'clock. The subject for consideration will be "Physical Education and Health." In order to present to the parents and guardians of the school's student body the many interesting phases of the matter the captains of all the teams will be present in uniform. Each one is scheduled to have a few words to say. Kenneth West, president of the Athletic Association, will preside.

The Association is to be favored with an address on "Play and Recreation" to be delivered by Mr. Ernst Hermann, director of the Sargent School of Physical Education of Boston University. Mr. Hermann has direct contact with this phase of public school activity because of many years' experience in charge of the recreation work in the cities of Newton and Somerville. His message will be well worth hearing.

Another feature of high school work will be given by the school's orchestra.

The Hospitality Committee has planned especially attractive refreshments.

All parents, guardians, and friends of high school students are invited to attend. The program will be both instructive and entertaining.

WALTER C. HARTWELL

Walter C. Hartwell, former circulation manager of the Boston Globe, died Tuesday morning, March 17, at his home on Yale street. He had been a resident of Winchester for nearly 20 years.

Mr. Hartwell was born in Hillsboro, N. H., Dec. 17, 1860, the son of Dr. Charles L. and Harriet N. (Beard) Hartwell. His education was received in the Hillsboro schools and at the high school in Washington, N. H.

He came to Boston in 1880 and entered a mercantile business at 25 Summer street with the firm of J. P. Ellis & Co., where he remained a year, later being engaged as bookkeeper for J. A. Cummings & Co. at 252 Washington street.

Mr. Hartwell began his service with the Globe in April, 1882, as clerk and later became assistant circulation manager, which position he held for many years before assuming the manager's duties. Ill health forced his retirement in August, 1925.

Besides attending to his duties at the Globe, he conducted a successful stationery business in Quincy, from April, 1898, to May, 1903.

Mr. Hartwell came to Winchester in 1913 from Somerville where he had made his home previously for 24 years. In 1880 he married Lottie M. Gibson of Hillsboro, N. H., who survives him.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in the late residence with the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment was at Hillsboro, N. H.

BAPTISTS WELCOME MR. BROUGHER

A large congregation, in fact the largest yet in the new building filling practically every seat, came out last Sunday evening to welcome their former acting pastor, Rev. James Whitcomb Brougher, Jr., now pastor of the First Baptist Church at Glendale, Calif.

The song service was conducted by Mr. Harry C. Sanborn assisted by a large chorus of young people, and the congregation joined heartily in the singing.

The pastor, Rev. Benjamin P. Browne, extended a most cordial welcome to Mr. Brougher, and assured him that it was a great pleasure to invite him to preach again in his old pulpit.

Mr. Browne then called on Daniel C. Linscott, who had visited Mr. Brougher in his church in Glendale, to present him, which he did in happy vein. Mr. Brougher responded and assured his many friends that he had enjoyed serving the church, and that he still held them in strong affection.

Miss E. Lillian Evans, soprano soloist of the church, sang by request, "Just As I Am" by Nevin, and "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again" by Effinger, which were rendered beautifully.

Before taking up his sermon on, "Don't Drift—Row," Mr. Brougher answered four prelude questions, the last one of which was, "Will motion pictures ever be an influence for morality." As Glendale joins Hollywood and Mr. Brougher is acquainted with many of the producers and theater managers, his handling of this question was very interesting.

After the service most of the congregation waited to greet Mr. Brougher personally.

FIRST ADJOURNED SESSION OF TOWN MEETING HELD

Twenty-one Articles Disposed of

One hundred and eighty-three town meeting members disposed of 21 articles in the warrant at the first adjourned session of the Town Meeting in the Town Hall last evening. The meeting was particularly uninteresting and toward the close the noise occasioned by the delegates and non-delegates in leaving the hall made it next to impossible to hear what was going on. Perhaps on the whole this was just as well for if more could have heard the subject matter under discussion, there might have been some wholly unnecessary argument since there were few in the hall who knew enough about the articles under discussion to speak upon them intelligently.

The meeting opened at 7:50 and under Article 5, unfinished at the opening session, appropriations totalling $78,312.50 were made as follows:

Treasurer's Department	$ 425.00
Unclassified Account	3,425.00
Water Construction	35,000.00
Water Maintenance	34,000.00
Workmen's Compensation Law Expenses	2,460.00
	$78,312.50

In appropriating $35,000 for water construction Chairman Carr of the Finance Committee pointed out that it would be possible to reduce the amount asked for, $35,000, to the smaller figure because of the fact that it had been deemed unnecessary to construct a proposed pipe line on High street to Ridge street this year.

Water maintenance was however increased from $32,500 to $34,000 when Mr. Kendall succeeded in getting a motion through the meeting to appropriate $1500 additional to clean out certain mucky places on the eastern side of the North Reservoir, looking to purify the water and increase the storage capacity. Mr. Carr opposed the increase and Mr. Larned questioned the economic value of the proposed work. Mr. Larned and Mr. Rich supported Mr. Kendall while Mr. Sanderson voiced the opinion of the State authorities that the project is of questionable value.

Mr. Kendall succeeded in convincing the delegates of the desirability of doing the work and the appropriation was carried by a vote.

Twenty-five hundred dollars were appropriated under Article 6 to be expended by the Board of Public Welfare for the relief of certain aged persons, there being no debate.

Article 7 having been disposed of at the previous meeting, Article 8 was next considered and under it the Selectmen were empowered to employ a town engineer, and to fix the measurers of wood and bark with the number, not to exceed eight persons.

Under Article 11 Robert F. Gould was elected as town director to serve in co-operation with the Middlesex County trustees for county aid to agriculture in the work of the Middlesex County Extension Service.

The reports of the Insurance, Tercentenary, Increased Water Supply, Waterways and Manchester Field Memorial Committees were received and accepted insofar from any recommendation which necessitated votes being made, this action taking place under Article 12. It was also voted under this article to establish a committee of five, to be appointed by the moderator, to inquire into the advisability of co-ordinating certain activities of individual town boards, looking to increased efficiency and greater benefit to the town. Provision was made for report by this committee at the next annual town meeting.

Under Article 13 it was voted to have periodic audits of the town's accounts under the supervision of the Director of Accounts in the Department of Corporations and Taxation. Chairman Carr of the Finance Committee pointed out that favorable action on this article and that providing for the committee to investigate the co-ordination of town boards should not be construed as a criticism of present town officials. Rather it would be an attempt to aid them.

The meeting then reverted to Article 12 for the report of the Committee on Increased Water Supply, made by Mr. Russell, who stated that the time would come in the near future when we would have to have more water than at present system can supply. His committee had investigated many possibilities for increasing the present supply of water, but had at present nothing definite to offer except the belief that the town should join with the Metropolitan Water System if there is any other way to secure the needed water.

The subject matter of Article 14 was indefinitely postponed and under Article 15 a committee was authorized to be known as the Easterly Boundary Committee to look into the advisability of securing certain land in Medford and Stoneham so adjacent to developments in Winchester as to seriously affect them.

Mr. Davidson took the floor under Article 16 and spoke at some length upon the life and service to the town of the late Forest C. Manchester. Under the article he moved that a memorial to consist of a large boulder with a suitably inscribed bronze tablet be placed at the entrance to Manchester Field to commemorate Mr. Manchester's efforts in securing the playground for the community, and that the sum of $1000 be appropriated out of revenue to this end. The motion was passed unanimously.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

On Wednesday evening, March 11, the Rev. J. Harold Dale of Billerica preached the sermon at the regular mid-week service at the Second Congregational Church. Coming from a neighboring church, co-operating in the same field of service in the Woburn Association, his appeal was very earnest for more consecrated work in the Christian life.

On the evening of Friday, March 13, was held the 25th annual roll call supper of the Second Congregational Church, celebrating the actual anniversary of the birthday, for it was about 4 o'clock on March 13, 1906 that the church officially came into being. After a very enjoyable turkey supper, the pastor, Rev. John E. Whitley, announced that among other guests present were Mrs. Henry, ever a kind friend of the church, and also a good friend and neighbor, Mr. Joseph McLellan, who had, the day before, reached the age of 88. Regret was expressed that Mr. Hale was not present at the guest table this year.

Mr. Whitley announced that he had received a birthday gift for the church —a check for $500, which was to be applied on the rapidly diminishing mortgage. Thanks and appreciation are due the donor for his kind thought and act.

The church roll was called by the clerk, Mr. A. A. Belville, the members responding individually with scripture selections.

The pastor read three of the many congratulatory letters which he had received—one from Mr. James S. Allen, one from the church in Burlington, and one from Mr. E. B. Robinson of Holyoke, whose father was the first superintendent of the Sunday School which started here 50 years ago in the present railroad station.

Another guest of the evening was Mr. George S. Tompkins who brought the greeting and congratulations of the First Congregational Church in the center. The next guest speaker was Secretary Sewall of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, an organization which has been a factor in helping this church to get upon its feet. Mr. Sewall brought the greetings of two good friends, Dr. Paige and Dr. Emery, after which he gave a splendid talk, offering "Have Something Before You" as a good watchword for the church.

It gave Mr. Whitley great pleasure to announce the unexpected and welcome arrival at his home that day of President Nadal of Drury College, 1st in the Ozark Hills in southwestern Missouri. This was the college from which Mr. Whitley first graduated, and the pastor's happiness in having President Nadal as guest at the roll call was reflected in the faces of the people present. The college president spoke briefly and very interestingly, telling that they still sing at Drury Chapel from hymn-books which Mr. Whitley presented to them a few years ago.

The address of the evening was given by the Rev. David Fraser of West Somerville, who voiced some powerful thoughts, well worth remembering. He spoke of the great friendships and experiences of church life and said we should realize our opportunities and privileges, and their responsibilities. Congratulations on the progress that had been achieved in the past, wonderful work by united efforts and singleness of purpose, Mr. Fraser said the past is but the prophecy of what the future may be, and urged reverential, attractive, and helpful services to make the church, not a social, not an educational, but a spiritual institution.

This part of the evening's program was closed with the united singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer.

There followed a social interval, after which was given a very clever performance by a young man from Harvard Law School, Mr. Perry, who is an accomplished ventriloquist. Not a little interest was added to his act by the generous explanation afterwards of "how it was done," and his display of the construction of the accompanying dummy.

This pleasant evening marked another step in the series which have united to make memorable the quarter-century mark in this church's history.

Sunday, March 15

Last Sunday was a day of special opportunity for the people of Winchester Highlands to enjoy the unusually interesting services both morning and evening in connection with the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the church. It is not always possible to obtain the services of a man so prominently active and necessarily busy in the service of the church at home and in missionary work, as Rev. D. Brewer Eddy, D.D., of the church reps favored to hear a message from Dr. Eddy at the morning service. Dr. Eddy took as his text God's promise to Joshua, "Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you," emphasizing in his sermon the fact that man must be willing to take the initiative then by loosing his spirit within the limits of God's clear message, the people will be led to perfect leadership to the promised inheritance. A man, a cause, God surely on the side of that cause, is all that is necessary to write the history of the world, and Dr. Eddy certainly laid the great responsibility for America's future in Christian leadership, on the individual rather than on the organized groups of people. Very fine music was rendered by Mrs. Simpson of Somerville, as soloist and by the church choir.

ROTARY CLUB OF WINCHESTER

Three absentees were recorded at the meeting of March 19, one of whom has made up for his absence.

President Loring Gleason was at his post today after his recent indisposition Loring puts all the blame on "Doc" Sheehy. "Doc" looks wise and says nothing. Draw your own inferences. At all events we were more than glad to see Loring in his accustomed position once more.

It was not so pleasant to learn of the recent death of Past District Governor Thomas F. Kenney of Worcester. We remember "Tom" as a genial energetic official, always on the alert to promote the interests of Rotary in general and of his District in particular. Rotary has suffered a distinct loss and Rotarians a kind friend.

We have to announce that a new member has been admitted to our club in the person of G. Dwight Cabot, assistant treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company, who has been elected to represent the classification "commercial banking." We are indeed glad to welcome Dwight to our ranks and are confident that another good Rotarian is in the making.

The spring conference of the 1st district will be held at Providence, R. I. on April 13 and 14. Our club should send a large delegation and now is the time to make your plans to go. Business of vital importance to the district will be transacted. There will be able speakers for our entertainment and instruction and other entertainment features have been amply provided. This splendid opportunity to extend one's knowledge of Rotary and Rotarian friendships, should not be overlooked.

As announced last week our good friend "Jim" McGrath, Rotarian and musician extraordinary spoke before the club at this meeting. We feel certain that the unusually large attendance was due to the desire of his friends to greet "Jim" in his capacity as a speaker. None were disappointed Although "Jim" insisted that he was selling transportation, yet the fact that they were being regaled by an entrancing tale of a dream travel and pleasant lands abroad, was not lost on his listeners. The club extends its thanks for this interesting travelogue.

The entertainment committee is planning another outstanding feature for our next meeting, which none of us will want to miss.

Percentage of attendance for March 12—89.28 per cent.

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs under date of March 16 has reported favorably on Senate Bill No. 302 which seeks to amend Chapter 254 of the Acts of 1930 by locating the bathhouse, to be built in this district, on the Mystic River south of Craddock Bridge in Medford instead of at Sandy Beach on Mystic Lake in Winchester. At a hearing held before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs in January a strong sentiment was expressed against the construction of the bathhouse at Sandy while representatives of Medford asked that it be built on the Mystic side that city. The bill now goes to the Legislature for final action which it is felt will be favorable.

BOSTON MUTUAL LIFE

Had Gratifying Increase of Insurance in Force, Assets and Surplus in 1930

The Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company had premium income of $3,017,379 and investment income of $539,876 in 1930. It closed the year with an increase in net surplus and a substantial gain in assets and in outstanding insurance. This sound and progressive growth, which included a successful year in every department, is noteworthy because for business in general, 1930 was a year of depression.

The company's present statement, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1930, is its 31st annual report. It includes a summary of the progress made in 25 years since 1905. Admitted assets in 1905 were $387,979, while at the close of 1930 they were $10,876,267. The company's net surplus at the end of 1905 was only $35,571, but at the end of 1930 was $579,269. The insurance in force, 25 years ago, was $9,204,978 at the close of 1930, the insurance in force was $68,336,292. Although the growth of the company has been steady from the beginning, yet the growth in the past ten years has greatly outstripped the growth of the preceding 21 years. In these past ten years, the amount of insurance in force and the admitted assets have more than doubled the premium income and investment income are almost three times what they were in 1920, and the surplus is more than five times the surplus of 1920.

The mortality record of the company has been good. It has enjoyed an exceptionally good experience in the matter of death claims from suicide, its loses from that source in 1930 amounting to only one per cent of the whole number of losses. Its investments are confined almost exclusively to first mortgages on real estate, to high-grade bonds and loans secured by its own policies. From these assets, an average return of 5.81 per cent was obtained in 1930, a very satisfactory return, indeed, considering the extent to which low interest rates prevailed in 1930.

The company has a field force of over 550 and transacts business in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

Announcement has been made of the nominating committee which will prepare a list of officers for the Calumet Club for the coming year. The committee includes Messrs. Arthur W. Dean, Ernest D. Chase, C. Harold Smith, Forrest L. Pitman and Walter E. Chamberlain.

Miss Eleanor Ives of this town is taking part in the Vincent Club show the Vincent Woodoos, which is being staged today and tomorrow at the Arlington Theatre in Boston. Mrs. F. L. Higginson, the former Betty Bird of this town, is the lead girl in one of the skits.

Mr. Thomas A. Barnard of Wedgemere avenue the first of the week sailed on the S.S. Britannic for a three weeks' cruise to the West Indies and to Mexico. M. and Mrs. Leonard D. Draper and Mr. Leonard D. Draper, Jr., of Highland avenue, also sailed on the Britannic.

BOY SCOUT

Instruction in Scout tests and preparation for the next Court of Honor occupied most of this week's meeting. In picking the team for the "Chair- and Handkerchief" game, the troop found that size isn't everything if the little fellow is clever at dodging between the legs of the bigger ones.

Albert Wilson's Lions won the patrol good-turn contest when they spent a morning giving headquarters a thorough spring cleaning. The Panther Patrol's good turn brought them in a close second.

Remember that next week's contest is firelighting, both bow and drill and flint and steel. Each patrol may enter as many men as desired, so bring all the firemaking sets available.

Troop 3 is anxious to find the present location of the old Patrol shield on which was engraved the name of the patrol winning the contest each year. If any older Scouts know where it now is, will they please write to Freeman D. Miller, 28 Crescent road, Winchester.

A SERMON TO YOUTH

"The Voices of Your Future Self" at First Congregational Church Sunday Morning, 10:30

At the First Congregational Church next Sunday morning, Dr. Chidley will preach a special sermon to youth on "The Voices of Your Future Self." He will speak on work, play, love and worship, as the voices which call to youth, and which youth must answer in one way or another.

These special services, for young people of high school age and over, have always met with an enthusiastic response, and it is expected there will be a large number of young people at the service next Sunday morning.

"MY IRISH ROSE"

St. Mary's Alumnae Please in Annual Show

St. Mary's High School Alumnae attracted a large audience to the Town Hall Tuesday evening when they presented their annual show, this year "My Irish Rose" a sparkling three act comedy by Walter Ben Hare. A dress rehearsal of the production was given last Saturday afternoon for children, the whole being under the personal direction of Miss Ann Matilda Gurney.

"My Irish Rose" proved to be just the right entertainment for a St Patrick's evening, and was well done by a carefully chosen and adequately coached cast. Briefly the plot dealt with the difficulties which befell the affianced lovers Rose Creigan and the wealthy Dublin artist, Maurice Fitzgerald, when the latter inherited a fortune and title. Lady Agnes Barricklow attempted to break off Maurice's engagement with Rose in order that she might win his fortune and title, trying to make Rose believe that Maurice was engaged to his own sister who was a stranger to Rose.

Even after Rose and Maurice were married Lady Barricklow continued her efforts, trading upon the fact that Maurice was going to Belfast to aid Rose's brother, Terry, at the same time Lady Barricklow was leaving, having been ordered from the Fitzgerald home by Rose.

A duel was narrowly averted when Rose left for a grand ball with her brother whom Maurice mistook for a rival suitor. Introductions, however, cleared up the misunderstanding and the final curtain found everyone happy.

From first to last, Tuesday evening's performance moved swiftly. The cast included many experienced actors and the new comers were carried along nicely in the atmosphere of confidence engendered by the old favorites. The play abounded in witty lines and humorous situations which were made the very most of by the young actors.

The work of the entire cast was so well done that it is difficult to single out individuals for especial praise. Susan McPartland was excellent as usual in the role of Rose, and was ably supported by Thomas Travers as Maurice. Special mention should be made of Joseph Cullen's portrayal of the not-too-keen English tourist, Archibald Pennywit, while Roy McGrath as Colum McCormack and Helen Doherty as Pegeen Burke, also contributed some splendid character acting. The remaining members of the cast, Helen Carroll, William Callahan, Loretta Donnelly, Harry Boyle, Mary Roache, Mary DeLaurier and Vincent Ambrose were entirely adequate to the parts they portrayed and contributed their share to the excellence of the production.

Between the acts of the play candy was sold by a group of younger girls, and following the show there was dancing with music by Joyce's Orchestra. Matrons for the dancing were Mrs. William R. Carroll, Mrs. Martin Roach, Mrs. James McGrath and Mrs. Elizabeth Travers. Ushers were Howard Ambrose, Thomas Fahey, Charles McCarthy, Walter Drohan, John Flaherty and Irving Reardon. Officers of St. Mary's Alumnae Association, of which Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt is spiritual director, are Susan McPartland, president; Esther Callahan, vice-president; Katherine Kelley, secretary; and Mary Roache, treasurer.

Following is the cast and the summary of the play:

The management of the Strand Theatre in Woburn wishes to inform its patrons in Winchester through the Star that as a result of the recent affirmative vote it will open its motion picture shows on Sundays.

Sunday "movies" in Woburn have been the subject of a bitter controversy and had been prohibited, following the receipt by the Mayor of protests from the clergy of the city.

A poll of the city, recently held disclosed the fact that a majority of citizens favored motion pictures on Sunday and as a result a license to this end has been granted the Strand by the Mayor.

METCALF UNION CABARET MOST SUCCESSFUL

Those who attended the annual cabaret dance, held last Saturday evening in Metcalf Hall under the auspices of the Metcalf Union of the Unitarian Church, were unanimous in voting it one of the most enjoyable young people's parties given in Winchester this year.

Decorations of green and white, in honor of St. Patrick's Day, added a festive note and made the hall especially attractive. A cleverly conceived canopy of streamers hid the ceiling and large green shamrocks, decorated with gold, were hung on the walls. Huge bas-kets of shamrock vines were placed at the front of the stage and tiny shamrocks covered the drop curtain. Red and blue footlights glinted upon the gold on the shamrocks in a most effective manner. Tables with decorated crepe covers were placed entirely about the sides of the hall, and even the ices served had a shamrock design in the center.

An unusually good entertainment program was presented by Miss Priscilla Sawyer, dancer, and Mr. Alden Symmes, soloist. Miss Sawyer, a pupil for several years at the Braggiotti School of Dancing, danced a spirited Irish jig and a Spanish number, both in appropriate costume. Mr. Symmes, well known locally as an entertainer, sang two groups of popular songs. Both entertainers could have prolonged their acts indefinitely.

During the general dancing the eliminution dance was won by Miss Jean Livingstone and Andrew Skilling. A multi-colored spot light was thrown upon the dancers, the effect being very pleasing. Matrons for the party were Mrs. Dwight B. Hill and Mrs. Arthur S. Kelley.

Socially and financially the affair was most successful, reflecting much credit upon those having the arrangements in charge. The committee wishes to express its appreciation to those older members of the Unitarian Church who interested themselves in the efforts of the young people and contributed toward the success of the party.

WINCHESTER WOMAN WARNS OF REDS

A warning against a "well-arranged, well-financed" attempt to convert the school children of the United States to communism was sounded Wednesday at the state conference of the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Archibald C. Jordan of Highland avenue, speaking before 500 women attending the afternoon session in the Hotel Statler, declared that the young pioneers, youthful communistic organization, have been ordered by communist leaders to recruit schoolmate friends to the cause.

Asserting that the young pioneers "believe in no God, and are taught to hate and despise all Christians and the things we consider necessary for the progress of civilization," Mrs. Jordan said no more important work confronts the D. A. R. than to combat this attempt to lure boys and girls away from faith in their country.

The conference which opened Wednesday continued through Thursday.

WINCHESTER INTEREST IN WOBURN SHOWER

Miss Margie P. Lynch of 11 Scott street, Woburn, widely known in Winchester where she has been for some years employed in the office of Edmund C. Sanderson, electrical contractor, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home last week Thursday evening by a group of more than 100 friends, in honor of her marriage to Charles E. Murphy, also of Woburn, which is to take place on April 8. House decorations were most attractive, and an enjoyable entertainment program was presented by talented guests. The bride to be was the recipient of many beautiful gifts and graciously expressed her appreciation. A buffet luncheon was served during the evening.

The Fire Department was called at 1:11 last Saturday afternoon to put out a grass fire in the rear of the residence of Mr. Albert Lawton at 111 Pond street.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

"Ex-Flame," a modernized version of "East Lynne," with Neil Hamilton, Marian Nixon and Norman Kerry as the featured players, will divide the headline honors with "Captain Applejack," starring Mary Brian, which opens a run of seven days at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. The plot of "Ex-Flame" is still that of "East Lynne" but presented in a thoroughly modern manner. The lovely young bride who, because of her jealousy of her husband's attentions to an ex-flame of his, leaves her home and is in turn found in a compromising situation. There follows the life of the heart-broken young mother, who, forced to give up her child so that he may not be smudged by her scandal, throws herself into the gay life of two continents to forget. And then there is the tremendous climax when she returns to her old home, this time to kidnap her own child.

"Captain Applejack," in which Mary Brian is supported by John Holliday and Kay Strozzi, is a brilliant screen presentation of the celebrated mystery-romance that took Broadway by storm several seasons ago. John Holliday is cast as the scholarly Englishman who longs for red-blooded adventure and gets more than he expects. Through a series of exciting events he not only finds himself a man who must protect his aunt and pretty ward from a dangerous band of cut-throats, but a swashbuckling pirate of the high seas as well, if only for a night. The story is breezy and unusual, presenting a combination of mirth, thrills and romance.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"The Devil to Pay," with Ronald Colman, and "Stolen Heaven," starring Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes, is the special program that opens a seven day run at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. The story, with the zip and go of witty lines, concerns certain important episodes in the life of the Hon. Willie Hale, wayward son of Lord Leland. As played by Ronald Colman, he is presented as the kind of chap every man would like to be—and, too, the sort that most women would choose. Gay, and clever at getting out of scrapes, a devil with women, happy-go-lucky in any situation, the role fits Colman as if made for him. Loretta Young, Myrna Loy and Ernest Torrence head the supporting cast.

Miss Carroll in "Stolen Heaven" is cast as a discouraged and world-weary girl whose one good deed saves Holmes from the clutches of the police. Holmes, as sick of life as she is, proposes that they go on one last fling before seeking death. They plunge into a mad round of pleasure that brings them to a surprising climax.

It seems to the STAR that the Town should make some regulation to have peddlers, canvassers, etc., identify themselves in some way before they are permitted to go from house to house about town. Every week the police receive numerous complaints from householders who have been alarmed by people who have called at their homes and whose appearance and actions have not been such as to inspire confidence. We are told by the police that the town has no by-law to cover this situation and the authorities have little on which to work in their attempt to cope with undesirable persons who visit town in the guise of tradesmen. Residents should not hesitate to telephone the police whenever anyone who is at all suspicious calls at their home. The authorities are more than glad to investigate all such individuals.

The removal of grade crossings throughout the State, now that the work seems lined up and ready for action is coming up for considerable discussion. Among other things heard tending to further delay the start, is the theory that the elimination of these crossings is prompted more by a desire to eliminate their inconvenience than from a point of danger to life. This point appears rather to add to the necessity of the elimination than to belittle it, for the danger hazard is one which cannot be easily disposed of, and the convenience point is a feature which is receiving much attention from every community. Eight minutes is but a minute period in many affairs, but it is a long wait in traversing a space of fifty feet. Nevertheless that is the length of time it took us to reach the south side of Main street from Converse place on Wednesday evening, when a jam of automobiles, trucks, electrics and busses filled the thoroughfare from the center to beyond the Parkway and blocked the crossing at that point. Through the courtesy of officer Beeran we finally succeeded in turning out onto Main street. With such a condition existing at this season of the year and it exists daily, what may we expect during the summer? The point of convenience seems well worth considering along with the danger element, and we could not but help wondering while we sat for eight minutes in Wednesday evening's jam what the fire apparatus would have had to do had a call been turned in from that section.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

At noon, instead of the usual church school hour, a special program was arranged, each class of the school taking part by song or recitation. Mr. Kendrick, a former superintendent of the school, gave a short talk. An ever welcome guest on this occasion was the Rev. Arthur E. Whitley, who has always been interested in Sunday School work, and who spoke a few words to the children. The hour was in charge of Mr. John McLean, superintendent of the school, and Mrs. Rory Sayler, assistant superintendent.

As a fitting climax for the day and also for the whole 25th anniversary celebration of the church, a very beautiful visual and choral program entitled "The Holy Church Throughout All the World" was conducted in the evening, by Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University and the Boston University Church Art Society. The voices so beautifully blended and the charm of the anthems and hymns so well rendered impressed the listeners with the realization to what an extent music in all countries of the world is essentially a part of the worship of the Lord, in beauty and holiness.

The pastor of the Second Congregational Church Rev. John F. Whitley, has worked very hard that this 25th anniversary of the church might be appropriately celebrated and he deserves great credit for his efforts in bringing to the church such a helpful and inspirational program, so much enjoyed by all the members and friends of the congregation.

SENATOR WARREN'S POSITION

His Committee Did Not Err in Charles River Basin Recommendation

March 18, 1931

To the Editor of the Star:

In an editorial that appeared in the Boston Herald of March 12, 1931, it was stated that the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs had recommended to the Legislature a further expenditure on the Charles River Basin of "Another Half Million;" those citizens of Winchester who happened to see this editorial must have been impressed by its import and led to believe that the committee, of which I am chairman, had not used good judgment in disposing of the request of the Metropolitan District Commission for a further appropriation of $1,370,000 for the development of the Basin. This editorial, erroneous as it was, demands a brief explanation so that your readers, many of whom are my constituents, may rest assured that the committee did not err in disposing of the commission's recommendation but on the contrary grasped the present situation of the Basin proposition and handled it in a manner that should meet with the approval of the cities and towns that have contributed under the original bill, and also in a manner that does meet with the approval of Mrs. James J. Storrow who gave $1,000,000 to make this meritorious project possible.

When the Metropolitan District Commission during the years of 1929 and 30 made a study for the development of the Basin as required by the Act of 1929, it was found that a much larger sum of money would be needed to complete the project than that already provided, so the commission instead of proceeding with the work and then applying to the Legislature for such further appropriation, decided to withhold action, report conditions to the next Legislature, and let it decide whether or not there should be an additional expenditure of $1,370,000.

After the hearing upon this recommendation it was my conclusion that no more money should be raised for this project, a sum of $2,005,000 had already been added and many action now taken should in some manner provide for an immediate settlement of the question of further funds and authorize the commission to proceed under the original bill with the money already appropriated. The committee finally agreed to this view and recommended an amendment to the Act of 1929 which would remove the required minimum fill of 225 feet along the Boston shore of the Basin and leave its width to the discretion of the District Commission, the result being to make possible to proceed with the development and complete it without any further appropriation.

When the Herald was informed of its obvious error it agreed to make amends as far as possible, and the next morning published another editorial which acknowledged its mistake and expressed its regret in the following words:

"A $520,000 Error

The sound advice, 'Verify your quotations,' should extend to citations of figures. Unfortunately we failed to consult official sources yesterday before writing in relation to the Charles River Basin bill. Relying on the data in an evening contemporary of hitherto unimpeachable reputation, we stated that the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs had requested $495,000 more than the original bill provided. That is an error of $520,000, for the bill adds nothing at all, but lops off $25,000. Senator Charles C. Warren, who has been chairman of the committee for the last seven years, objected to the request for a larger sum and his colleagues agreed with him.

Whether the State should now go ahead with all of the contemplated improvement is still a question, of course. It may be said at least that Senator Warren and his committee have set an example by revising their program downward at a time when many legislators have favored more liberal expenditures."

Thanking you for publishing this letter I am

Very sincerely yours,
Charles C. Warren,
Senator Sixth Middlesex

FIRST ADJOURNED SESSION OF TOWN MEETING HELD

Chairman Richardson of the Selectmen introduced a motion under Article 17 to appropriate $200,530 to indemnify Frederick Fitzgerald for expenses not already taken care of and incurred as the result of injuries sustained while he was acting as a member of the Fire Department. This also was passed without debate.

Mr. Worthen championed a successful motion under Article 18 which appropriated $4,365 to be expended by the Water and Sewer Board for the purpose of correcting certain existing bad conditions occasioned by the overflow of Upper Mill Brook. Mr. Laraway spoke in opposition, but his objection was not sustained.

Under Article 19 it was voted to make certain changes in the by-laws relating to water rates, etc., making it possible under certain conditions which were specified to collect water rates more often than heretofore.

Article 20 had to do with an amendment to the Zoning by-law and on motion it was introduced and briefly explained by Mr. Parsons seeking to restrict the use of vacant lots of land in which no can not be employed for purposes detrimental to the neighborhoods in which they are located. The motion further provided authority for the commissioner to enforce the law and was passed unanimously, even though Mr. Parsons admitted that it would not prevent the erection of another water tank in a residential neighborhood. The final section of Article 20, having to do with modification and repeal of the by-law, was, upon motion by Mr. Parsons, laid upon the table until such a time as it is possible to learn definitely of certain State laws which may bear upon it.

Article 21 was indefinitely postponed and the subject matter of Articles 22, 23 and 24 was considered as one. Briefly these articles dealt with certain amendments to Section 147 of the Building Laws making it possible to alter existing old dwellings in one-family zones into two-family houses, defining the type of garages which may be constructed under or attached to dwellings or other buildings, and to modify the existing provisions for erecting business buildings in the business section of the town.

Mr. Laraway believed that no one knew enough about the proposed amendments to pass upon them intelligently, and wanted action postponed so that they could be printed and read by the voters. His wishes were disregarded and after Building Commissioner Dinneen had spoken in favor of the proposed changes and Chairman Hopper of the Planning Board had pointed out the unfairness of the present laws the amendments were carried.

Building Commissioner Dinneen also championed motions under Articles 25, 27 and 28 which sought to amend certain sections of the Building Laws with reference to establishing standards for boiler and storage tank construction to prescribe sizes, lengths materials, strength and capacity of piping for gas and to provide for the use of suitable devices to automatically shut off the supply of gas to the main burner of gas stoves, etc. when the pilot light is extinguished.

Few in the hall knew what these articles were all about and less than that few seemed to care. Everyone appeared perfectly willing to take the Building Commissioner's word for the desirability of the changes in the Building Laws and the motions providing for them were passed without debate.

A motion was entertained that the meeting adjourn until Monday, March 23, but Mr. Larned thought that the articles dealing with school matters should be postponed until April 6. He and Mr. Tucker differed upon the School Committee's wishes in the matter and Mrs. McDonald pointed out that the Policeman's Ball is scheduled for the April date mentioned. A motion to consider the school articles at last night's meeting, introduced by Mr. Larned, was defeated, and the meeting adjourned until Monday evening, after indefinitely postponing action on Article 29.

MR. CRAUGHWELL AND "THE TOWER"

To the Editor of the Star:

I desire to inform my constituents and other taxpayers through the columns of the Star my reason for opposing the removal of the water tower from its present location to a location on Jefferson Road in Fellsdale. I shall now proceed! If we remove the tower, that suggests that it will be further eastward than it is at the present time, and certainly it suggests that it will be in a direct line, so to speak, with the Lawrence Observatory. We shall then have two unsightly structures dominating the eastern horizon and we gain nothing. From a standpoint of beauty it certainly will not be so conspicuous from the various sections of the town, but remember the inhabitants of Symmes Park and Fellsdale will have an excellent opportunity to observe the water tower if it is removed to the place now contemplated; namely, at the end of Jefferson road adjacent to the Medford line. Now then, readers of the Star, listen to the words that were printed in the supplementary report of the Symmes Park Water Tower Committee and delivered to the Town Meeting members.

Winchester erected a water tower in its Symmes Park residential district. Reading acted in a similar manner this year by erecting a plain black towering stand-pipe on Bear Hill, close to the Wakefield line. Its materials, strength and capacity of piping for gas and to provide for the use of suitable devices to automatically shut off the supply of gas to the main burner of gas stoves, etc. when the pilot light is extinguished.

Few in the hall knew what these articles were all about and less than that few seemed to care. Everyone appeared perfectly willing to take the Building Commissioner's word for the desirability of the changes in the Building Laws and the motions providing for them were passed without debate.

A motion was entertained that the meeting adjourn until Monday, March 23, but Mr. Larned thought that the articles dealing with school matters should be postponed until April 6. Residence Liability Insurance Message

The mail man who slips on your steps—the delivery man who trips over a box, the neighbor who leans against the loosened railing on your porch, even the visitor whose injury is caused by a foot caught in the edge of your rug, all look to the occupant of the house for reimbursement of hospital bills and other expenses.

Surely every householder, whether owner or tenant, should carry liability insurance. The cost is small, only $5.00 per year in most locations for a private residence.

PASSION MUSIC AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

A great treat is in store for the music lovers of Winchester. On Thursday evening, April 2, at the Unitarian Church John Sebastian Bach's "Passion Music According to St. Matthew" will be performed by a chorus of over 60 trained voices. This music, so appropriate for Holy Week, will appeal not only to those who have a critical ear for great music but also to those who accept music as an integral part of their devotions.

The chorus has been trained by Mr. Zoech, organist and director of the First Church in Boston, and by Mr. John P. Marshall, organist and director of the Winchester Unitarian Church. Mr. Zoech will preside at the organ here and Mr. Marshall will direct the chorus.

Among the soloists will be Mr. George Boynton, tenor, so well and favorably known in this town; Miss Mae Murray, contralto, and David Blair McCloskey, bass.

Preceding the rendering of this music, Mr. George Hale Reed the minister of the church, will conduct a brief devotional service.

Tickets (which, of course, are free) may be obtained from Miss Mason at the church office any morning between 9 and 12. Seats will be reserved for ticket holders until 7:50 on the evening of the performance after which hour the non-ticket holders will be admitted up to the seating capacity of the church.

THE LAYMAN IN THE PULPIT

Mr. Coles F. Tompkins, a successful Massachusetts business man, will appear in the unusual role of a preacher at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening, beginning a series of special Lenten services which continue every night at 7:45 until April 3. Mr. Tompkins is a layman in the pulpit, entirely sincere and without either the tricks or the devices of modern professional Evangelists. Marked success has attended all his work both in business and in church.

Mr. Tompkins accepts only a limited number of engagements and insists that the church receive his services without pay because he devotes most of his time to his remunerative business. The Winchester church counts itself fortunate in being able to bring Mr. Tompkins to this community.

The music will be led by Mr. William McEwan of Boston, well known radio singer, who has traveled for several years with the well-known "Gipsy" Smith and with "Billy" Sunday. Besides his radio work he is often heard in Tremont Temple, Park Street Church, Broadway Baptist and other metropolitan churches.

Those who are interested in the layman's point of view and who want to hear a straight-shooting business man speak his mind, should not fail to attend the meetings of Mr. Tompkins.

WINCHESTER POLICE BUSY WITH PLANS FOR BALL

With the receipt of the charter of incorporation from the State the members of the Winchester Police Relief Association, Inc., are now loading all their efforts toward the success of their annual ball which is to be held on Easter Monday evening in the Town Hall.

Already the town has been partially canvassed in the sale of tickets and officers of the association announce with pleasure that the affair will be opened promptly at 9 o'clock and music tickets for the affair.

Officials of the Mystic Lake Casino have been secured to provide the entertainment and to lend to the affair. The association expects that at least a thousand persons will be present during the course and there will be numbers to please every one on the program. Save the date, April 6.

MRS. MARY E. HARGROVE

Mrs. Mary E. Hargrove, a former resident of Winchester, died Tuesday evening in Woburn at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Kenney, 17½ Hart place.

The deceased, who had been in poor health for some years, was a native of Ireland, but spent much of her life in this country and was a long time resident of Woburn. She was the widow of Robert E. Hargrove and leaves besides Mrs. Kenney, two sons, three sisters and a brother.

The funeral took place from the late residence this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Anthony's Church, North Woburn. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

TEACHER'S CLUB TO PRESENT JEAN GROS' PUPPETS

The Winchester Teachers' Club is presenting Mr. Jean Gros' Punchinello Puppets in the Winchester Town Hall, Friday, April 10. The afternoon performance will consist of "Cinderella" and "Punch and Judy." It will take place at 4 o'clock. The tickets for children will be 25c and for adults 50c.

The evening performance will be at 7:45. "David Copperfield" and "Punch and Judy" will be the attractions. Tickets in the evening will be 75c for the main center section. All others will be 50c. Tickets will be on sale at the schools and the Winchester Star Office, March 25.

Valuable Food Experiments

The value of laboratory experiments in the field of foods is pointed out by Lawrence H. Baker in Hygeia Magazine. In natural forms the substance that benefits the human body is often mixed with harmful impurities that may retard its action when taken into the human body.

As soon as a plant or animal tissue is found to yield a substance possessing medicinal value, scientists and the atom chasers seek to isolate the active principles and to reduce them to the utmost simplicity.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Guests of honor, officers of the State Federation and past Presidents of the Club, Presidents of the seventh and eighth Districts and club members will celebrate on Monday afternoon the Golden Jubilee of the Winchester Fortnightly. We are honored by the presence of Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, Jr., first vice-president of the State Federation, representing Mrs. Carl Schrader, who is unable to be with us, together with Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, second vice-president; Mrs. John H. Kimball, third vice-president; Mrs. Herman A. Harding, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles S. Wetherbee, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles L. Fuller, clerk; Mrs. Frederick S. Davis, treasurer; and Mrs. Azel A. Packard, general Federation Director, as well as Mrs. Nathaniel Smith, Director of the Seventh District, Mrs. Harold P. Johnson, Director of the Eighth District; and Mrs. Philip H. Terrell, past director of the Eighth District. Our Past Presidents are also our much honored guests and it is especially delightful to have with us Mrs. Pleasantine Wilson, not only one of our Past Presidents, but also one of the founders of our club. Invitations have been extended to daughters of our Past Presidents.

The program of the day will be opened with a luncheon for the officers of the State Federation, the Past Presidents of the Fortnightly and the present officers of the club at the Winchester Country Club at 12:30. At 2 o'clock at the Town Hall there will be a reception to these guests and the regular meeting of he club will commence at 2:30. The feature of the program is "A Special Edition of the Fortnightly News," a pageant of achievements of our club. Under "editorials" and "leaders" pictures and stories of outstanding movements inaugurated by the club as well as interesting and valuable work accomplished by the committee will be illustrated. Not only will there be many club members in the cast but children from our schools will show what the Fortnightly has meant to education in the town. The Fortnightly Glee Club will provide the finale with both solos and ensemble numbers of music known in the 59 years of our club life. At the close of the program there will be an hour for old friendships and memories to be revived during which refreshments will be served. Both before and after the program many will find pleasure in viewing an interesting collection of articles commonly used and admired in the period of the founding of the club.

The General Committee for the Golden Jubilee consists of Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, Mrs. Idabelle Winship, Mrs. Beatrice Dabney, Miss Mary Alice Fitch, Mr. Ruth French, Mrs. Mabel H. Gage, Mrs. Myrtle L. Hodges, Mrs. Lillian Howe, Mrs. Alice S. Jenkins, Mrs. Anita S. McGarangle, Mrs. Mary E. Siedhof, Mrs. Esther A. Stidstone, Mrs. Ada von Rosenvinge, and Mrs. Mary W. Warner. Miss Mary A. Fitch is director of decorations and Mrs. Anita S. McGarangle in her capacity of chairman of the Art Committee is in full charge of the program of the afternoon.

Much interest has been aroused for the musical and farcical skit to be staged in picture shows by the Sea in Study, where the Clubhouse Fund Committee is having it during the afternoon and evening of Friday, March 27 in the Town Hall. In addition to board members, a long list of entrepreneurs promising to assist both in and out of the club are giving their time and support to make this project a success.

In addition to its thrilling nature, the picture shows one of New England's former important industries. This course for whales was staged in the last of the old whaling vessels and outfitted by real fishermen. It was also Clara Bow's first appearance in pictures at the age of 15.

LOCAL CURTIS BOYS TO BE GIVEN A TREAT

The Curtis Publishing Company, publishers of the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal and the Country Gentleman, in conjunction with the management of the Metropolitan Theatre, have arranged a special program for the P.J.G boys at the Metropolitan Theatre, Saturday morning. These boys represent the local sales force for Curtis and will attend the show under the supervision of Richard Riley, local agent.

Among those planning to attend are David Riley, Arthur Hills, Parker Blanchard, Richard Masters, David Chamberlin and William Meek.

Pigeon That Won Fame

Unquestionably the most famous bird of the World war was Cher Ami, credited with saving Major Whittlesey's "Lost Battalion." Released with a message on October 21, 1918, at 2:35 p. m. during intense artillery action, Cher Ami delivered a message 40 kilometers distant in 25 minutes and was the only pigeon to get through the enemy's fire. Although wounded in the breast and the leg which carried the precious message was shot away, the fine tube, still intact, hung to the exposed filaments. Later he crossed the seas with the doughboys on the Olympic transport and died in June, 1919, from the effects of the wounds.

Now Almost Forgotten

The earliest sampler in existence is dated 1643 and is in the Victoria and Albert museum, South Kensington, England.

Iceland Sagas

The Flateyjarbok is a collection of sagas, once preserved in the island of Flatey, Iceland, but now in the Royal library in Copenhagen. It was written in 1380-1395 by two priests of Iceland and is one of the main sources for the belief that the Norsemen discovered America.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The Association against the prohibition amendment a propagandist organization, estimates that the present drink bill is about $2,848,000,000. But, even taking the figures of that wet organization as a basis, we find that the present drink bill is almost a third less than it would have been except for prohibition. Other students of the problem, including Colonel Woodcock, give a much lower estimate of the present liquor bill than that given by those interested in the reinstatement of the liquor business. As to the relative credibility of these estimates there is this to be said: The liquor business has been driven under cover. It no longer occupies the best corners and the most public locations. When some retailer, or some line of chain stores, will abandon the busy streets, convenient corners, and public locations and seek back alleys and barred doors as a means of increasing its sales, we may believe that bootleggers and speakeasies can sell more liquor than the open saloon. Moreover, in the liquor business is ever reinstated, will it stay where it is, in back alleys and behind barred doors, or will it again seek the busiest corners and the best business locations as it used to be? If it seeks the best business locations, what will be its purpose, to enable it to take in less money or take in more money?

SALVATORE DE TESO

Salvatore De Teso, widely known among the town's Italian residents, died at his home, 19 Olive street, last Saturday evening, March 14, following a month's illness.

Mr. De Teso was 50 years of age and a native of Italy. As a young man he came to this country and for the past 20 years had made his home in Winchester, being employed at the gelatine factory of the J. O. Whitten Company on Cross street. Surviving are his wife and eight children.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church. Rev. Conrad J. Quirbach was celebrant, Rev. Fr. William J. Clarke was deacon and Rev. Fr. Hugh Maguire, chaplain at the House if the Angel Guardian, Jamaica Plain, sub-deacon. The remains were escorted from the residence to the church and from the church to the cemetery by the Christopher Columbus Society, of which the deceased was a member, and by a band. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

SOLICITOR ORDERED OUT OF TOWN

Police Headquarters was notified early last Sunday morning by the Sexton of the Episcopal Church that a man was at the church who had been there several times soliciting for a society, thought to be fictitious.

Patrolmen James P. Donachey and Joseph Derro went to the church and brought the man in question to the station house where he gave his name as Joseph Gerrier and his address as 20 Dover street, Boston. After being questioned by Chief Rogers the man was released and ordered to remain out of Winchester.

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

LETTERS FOR BASKETBALL AWARDED AT HIGH SCHOOL

With the completion of the current basketball season at Winchester High School varsity and second teams letters were awarded to eligible boys and girls last week. Neither the boys nor girls were able to win any championship, but Stoneham was the only Middlesex League club the boys were not able to break even with and all in all the locals' showing was about as good as one could expect under existing conditions.

The girls won only from Melrose, and here again little more could be hoped for. Winchester basketball teams are largely composed of players with an average of two years' experience. The clubs against which they compete are made up of youngsters who have been playing real basketball from their entrance into Junior High. The latter players simply know more and have played more basketball than the Winchester players, shoot better and have a better grasp of the fundamentals of the game. The local boys have had to do much of their practicing in the evening while the girls have entirely too little time in the gymnasium to stress both fundamentals and team play.

As a result Winchester has been on the losing end much more than its supporters enjoy, but as we see it no one blames attaches to either the coaching or players. Basketball is a game that takes a lot of playing and under present conditions in the high and Wadleigh schools there is neither time nor opportunity to get the necessary practice.

Following are the letter players:

LOCAL BOY A PLAYWRIGHT

Mr. Basil B. Burwell of Winchester who has already won distinction as an actor with the Ford Hall Players and as a member of the student body of Whitehouse Academy of Dramatic Arts in Boston has developed a new talent which promises to lead him far in his chosen profession.

Mr. Burwell has just written a play "Candles Flicker," which was produced at the Whitehouse Academy on Thursday evening, March 19. The play is to be given at Damon Hall, Newton on April 9 and at the Barn in Boston on April 10. Later it is to be presented at Longwood Towers.

"Candles Flicker" is a costume play of the period just preceding the French Revolution. Six characters portray the story. Mr. Burwell himself will direct the production at Whitehouse Academy. In the other presentations of the play Mr. Burwell will himself play the part of "Jack" Brayton.

WILL SPEAK AT PORT OF BOSTON

At the next meeting of the Propeller Club of the Port of Boston to be held Tuesday evening, March 21 Mr. Richard Parkhurst, secretary of the Boston Port Authority, who has been a member of that board since it was authorized by the Legislature, will speak upon "The Activities of the Boston Port Authority." Mr. Parkhurst will discuss many questions of interest pertaining to the future of the Port of Boston.

The Propeller Club is a national affair and has port clubs at all ports on the Atlantic and Pacific. Mr. Frank E. Dresser of this town is secretary-treasurer of the Port of Boston and is one of the national board of governors. A number of Winchester men are members of the organization, including Frederick B. Craven, Rasmus K. Miller, Charles F. Dutch, Frederick S. Hatch, Frederick Fish and Remington G. Plummer. Messrs. Craven and Dutch are members of the board of governors.

MARIBEL VINSON TO DEFEND CROWN

Miss Maribel Vinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Vinson of High street, is to defend her title as United States ladies' figure skating champion, at the Boston Arena Saturday evening in the skating tourney sponsored by the Skating Club of Boston for the convalescent home of the Children's Hospital. The Radcliffe girl has but recently returned from Europe where she finished fourth in the world's championships, held in Berlin, after winning the British crown at London. Maribel has held the United States ladies' championship for the past three years.

HORACE FORD SIGNED

Little time was wasted in signing Horace Ford, veteran infielder of the Cincinnati National League baseball team, after the latter arrived at the "Red's" camp in Tampa, Fla., last week-end. Ford refused to accept a 10 per cent salary cut this year, preferring to attend to his ice cream and candy business in Winchester to playing ball at the figure offered by President Sydney Weil of the "Reds." The latter evidently satisfied Horace, and quickly.

English or Dutch?

"Punch" believes the word "whoopee" was introduced into America by the early English settlers. Probably the word was. Whoopee was. And then the early Dutch settlers brought over some more of it, and traded it to the Indians for valuable real estate at the mouth of Hendryk Hudson's interesting and esteemed river.

KEENLY INTERESTED IN VIKING'S FATE

Winchester Man on Previous Sealing Expedition with Ship

Few hereabouts have been more interested in the tragic fate which befell the steamer Viking, wrecked by a blast Monday night off Horse Island on the northeast coast of Newfoundland, than Paul G. Eberle of Stevens street who in 1914 was a member of a sealing expedition in which the wrecked auxiliary barkentine participated.

Mr. Eberle did not sail on the Viking in 1914. He had been graduated from the Marconi Wireless School and was attached to the steamer Neptune, one of Admiral Pearcy's ships, as wireless operator. Both boats were included in a fleet of sealers which sailed out of St. John's, N. F., through the Straights of Belle Isle for the sealing grounds off the Labrador Coast.

Besides the Viking and Neptune there were included in the fleet the Terra Nova, one of the steamers used in Scott's Antarctic expedition, and the steamer Southern Cross, which went down while on the sealing trip in 1914 with all of the 170 souls on board. Only a life belt picked up off the coast of Scotland remains as a grim reminder of the ill starred vessel.

Sealing, according to Mr. Eberle, is at best a very hazardous business, and is considered much more dangerous than Arctic exploring. In this connection he recalled the death of 75 members of his expedition who were lost in a blizzard while sealing. He stated that the dynamite, which destroyed the steamer Viking, is a part of the equipment of every sealer, and is generally carried in the wheelhouse to blow up ice jams which either hamper a ship's progress or hold it a prisoner in the frozen wastes.

MISS AVERY'S NINTH LECTURE

In the lecture on March 11, Miss Avery spoke on two subjects, the "Situation in Poland" and "Today's Challenge to Education."

The situation in Poland is interesting because after the war it was virtually three countries under Russia, Germany and Austria, with three different languages. The Polish people have much ability and have been famed in music and art, but they have shown no skill in government. But the Pole is a good fighter and during the World War his chance came in the independence movement started in Celicia. After the war Poland had a difficult time bringing the different peoples together and cruel and often brutal methods were used but good has come out of evil for today Poland has schools and clinics and hospitals where formerly there was nothing.

Speaking on education Miss Avery talked about the progressive school saying that its theory was based on the individual's maximum development by means of interest. At first we had pioneer experiments, but now we have began to know the difference between competent and incompetent instruction. The great lack now in the progressive school that is not really progressive seems to be that of discipline and a sense of teamwork and it does not make the child love hard work. These qualities are the basis of all life and its problems and never has a sense of spiritual responsibility been needed as it is today.

On March 25, Miss Avery in closing her lecture course for the season will speak on "Spain's Predicament" and the "Activities of the League Outside of Peace."

POLICE AND FIREMEN CALLED TO GET DOG OUT OF WEDGE POND

Early Sunday morning both police and fire headquarters received numerous telephone calls from excited householders who reported a dog in danger of drowning in Wedge Pond. Patrolmen James Farrell and Joseph Derro were sent from police headquarters and the ladder truck and life saving boat were dispatched from the central fire station.

Arriving at the Pond the men found the dog, an Irish terrier, had broken through the ice about 90 feet from the shore and was unable to extricate himself. The animal's head was just above the ice, but his piteous cries could be heard for some distance from the Pond.

The life saving boat was quickly manned by Firemen Walter Skerry and Harry Brown who worked their way out toward the struggling dog, in the icy water. Twice he went under, but each time he saved himself, and as the boat got to within six feet of him, the dog succeeded in rolling out onto the ice and making his way ashore. The firemen had nothing to do, but go about and paddle ashore, much to the amusement of the big crowd which had gathered on the bank.

THE MISSION OF HOPE

(Written for The Winchester Star)

Hope bids the storms of life lie cease,
The troubled breast of man to calm;
And in the wounded heart she pours
Religion's healing balm.
Hope's hallowed influence cheers life's hours
Of stark sadness and of gloom.
She guides us through this vale of tears,
To joys beyond the tomb.
And when our fleeting days are o'er
And the last hour of life draws near,
With still unwearied wing Hope hastes
To wipe the falling tear.

Petticoat Days Gone

A New Jersey farmer flagged a passenger train with a burlap bag and saved the train from being derailed by a break in the rails. Thus the burlap bag supersedes the petticoat of other days.—Atlanta Constitution.

Daughter a Blessing

To a father waxing old, nothing is dearer than a daughter; sons have spirits of a higher pitch, but less inclined to an enduring fondness.—Euripides.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Lovers of talking pictures are wont to make special note of each Ronald Colman picture. Nor will they be disappointed when they see his latest vehicle "The Devil to Pay," a sophisticated comedy drama by Frederick Lonsdale, that comes to the University for four days starting Sunday. In "The Devil to Pay," as a scapegrace prodigal son who is by no means welcomed on his return to the parental roof, Colman has to win his father's forgiveness; broke, he sets out to win an heiress, not for her money, but because he loves for the first time he has to win over too, the girl's ambitious father who insists upon her marriage with a Grand Duke. These are sufficient handicaps it would seem, even for a character in a screen play.

"The Painted Desert," the companion feature starring William Boyd brings to the screen for the first time backgrounds that had never been seen by a white man until a little more than a year ago. Dinosaur Canyon, located on the Indian Reservation in Arizona, forms the remarkable setting for much of the action in this sensational production of the old West.

In a characterization akin to his "Wolf of Wall Street," George Bancroft thunders his way through the fast-action, dynamic-drama episodes of his newest picture "Scandal Sheet," which starts Thursday for three days. His credo is "If it's news it gets printed, no matter whom it hourts." After a series of events in which Bancroft stops at nothing to get choice morsels of news before the public, he at last becomes ensnared in a "yarn" of his own making. Clive Brook, Kay Francis and Regis Toomey are featured in the cast.

"New Moon," the adaptation of the New York stage success, with Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore in the leading roles, will be the companion feature.

The Valley of the Kings

The Valley of the Kings is located on the west bank of the river Nile, opposite the towns of Luxor and Karnak, which are close to the site of the ancient city of Thebes. The location is in upper Egypt, about 320 miles south of Cairo.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

There are a lot of folk in and out of Winchester who propose to live a selfish life, to do just about as they please without being responsible in any way to duty. There is but one way whereby one can do this, namely, paying no attention to religion and leaving God out of the picture altogether. As a result, all the lives of these folk are beset with a multitude of annoyances and cares which they cannot account for, but which in the final analysis are simply the results of folk living for themselves, and not for God.

The beginning and end of duty—the principle which should guide us all, if we are willing to give up the hopeless task of living by whim—is self-control. That name is commonly given merely to the power of controlling one's temper—of preventing oneself from breaking out into a fit of passion. But it is fair to apply it to the whole art and practice of controlling our whims and fancies—of giving up what we would like to do now, because duty—that is, the claims of others, or our own better self—says we must not. If we can once set up in our hearts and mind a throne, and put conscience upon it—the work is begun.

STRAND ATTRACTIONS

No more poignant, human, dynamic drama has come to the screen in years than in "Once A Sinner," which with "Fair Warning" from the story "The Untamed" by Max Brand will comprise the double feature program next week at the Strand Theatre, Malden. Dorothy Mackaill is featured in "Once A Sinner" and the story revolves around a beautiful girl who has sinned before marriage, and insists on telling her husband-to-be of her past before she marries him. By a strange turn of fate, later, with the young husband's invention perfected, the money to finance it comes from a corporation headed by "the other man." Doubt and suspicion enters the mind of the youthful inventor which brings a tremendous series of scenes, with the young wife insisting that her past belongs to her and to her alone.

What has been acclaimed as one of the most thrilling and at the same time one of the most fascinating screen entertainments recently produced is "Fair Warning," featuring George O'Brien. O'Brien is back again in his follower's favorite type of role, that of a fighting, hard-riding Westerner. In his newest role he portrays the role of "Whistlin'" Dan Barry, a man close to nature with an uncanny control ever wild animals.

MR. COLES F. TOMPKINS

LAST WEEK OF SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICE

The special Lenten services featuring Mr. Coles F. Tompkins, a business man in the pulpit, now being conducted at the First Baptist Church, are attracting wide-spread interest. Tonight a delegation of 50 is coming from South Framingham to attend the evening service.

Possessed of a rare stock of humor Mr. Tompkins sparkles with mirth in the midst of speeches characterized by genuine earnestness. He is modern in that he scorns the tricks of professional evangelists and simply squares away to his sermon like a business man deeply concerned with a proposition.

On Friday night "Young People's Night" will be observed, with special groups in attendance. Mr. Tompkins will speak on "The Advantages of Disadvantages."

"My Real Estate Sermon" is the mysterious topic Mr. Tompkins announces for Sunday night. He specially invites all real estate men, home owners and tenants of Winchester to get a business man's view of religion. On Sunday morning Mr. Tompkins addresses the men of the Everyman's Class at 9:30 and at morning worship he speaks on "The Transforming Vision."

The services will be held week nights next week at 7:45. "Who Runs the Church?" is the question Mr. Tompkins will answer on Tuesday night. On Monday night he speaks on "Misfits, or Square Pegs in Round Holes."

WINCHESTER GIRLS AT LONGWOOD

Winchester's representatives in the annual women's national indoor tennis championship matches at Longwood failed to put any of the aspiring tennis players out on the whole did well enough in such admittedly fast company.

Louise Packer won her first round match from Mr. Edward K. Nash of Boston 6-3, 6-2. She was defeated by the Cambridge left hander Marjorie Sachs in the second round, 6-3, 6-1. Mary Cutler lost to the experienced Mrs. Benjamin Cole of Andover in the first round, 6-1, 6-2.

Mary and Louise drew a bye in the first round of doubles and won their second round match from Mr. Cole dinely and Miss LeBontillier, 9-7, 6-8, 6-1.

In mixed doubles Louise and "Charlie" Wadsworth won their first match, but Helen Bidwell and "Larry" Trowburn were eliminated in their opening start. Mary Cutler and "Bill" Packer dropped out of the running along with Louise and "Charlie" in the second round matches.

K. OF C. NOTES

On Palm Sunday, April 29 Winchester Council, No. 210, K. of C., will hold its annual communion breakfast after the 8 o'clock mass in Waterhall Hall. The committee has secured the services of J. D. DeCelles, D.D., for its principal speaker on this occasion. Hardy Brothers of Arlington will do the catering.

The Church of the Epiphany was completely filled last Sunday morning when Bishop Henry K. Sherrill visited the Winchester parish to administer the rite of confirmation. Bishop Sherrill, who was also the preacher at the service, was assisted with the confirmation class by the rector, Rev. Truman Heminway.

CALUMET NOTES

One of the most enjoyable smokers of the season is anticipated this Saturday evening when former president Ernest Dudley Chase will present his unique and much in demand travelogue which is illustrated with 1300-000 movie photographs taken in Sicily, Italy and France.

The entertainment committee has been for some time trying to arrange this date and announces with considerable satisfaction that Mr. Chase will "positively appear in person" to explain and show his pictures.

These motion picture views are not those usually taken or shown in connection with orthodox European travel talks. An artist himself, Mr. Chase sought for and found the out of the ordinary pictures of old world life while the films which he has of familiar places are so taken as to present an entirely different aspect. No one will want to miss these pictures and the entertainment committee anticipates a record attendance. The usual Saturday evening luncheon will be served.

Mr. Milan sustained a severe bruise on the head but continued to work at the laundry. Later he returned to his home.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER

March 26, 1931

Since the last school referendum on Feb. 3, the School Committee, with the co-operation of many interested citizens, has been earnestly seeking to formulate a plan, which will command the support of two-thirds of the voters, in order to provide the much needed secondary school accommodations. The Committee have previously advocated a school on the Main street lot to accommodate grades 7, 8 and 9, believing it was the best solution of the problem. However, despite the repeated strong support given this plan by the Town Meeting members it has on three occasions failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote on referendum. Clearly the need for additional accommodations to replace the inadequate facilities of the Wadleigh School and the over-crowded High School is so great that some other plan, if reasonably satisfactory to the Committee, should be offered for the approval of the voters at the present town meeting.

Many citizens who have previously opposed a school on the Main street lot have indicated that their chief objection has been that the plan did not adequately provide for the present High School. Consequently all suggestions which have been recently considered have been designed to meet this objection.

Plan to Enlarge the Present High School

The School Committee proposes, therefore, that the present High School be enlarged and that concurrently with this action a new building be constructed to accommodate grades 7 and 8, now housed in the Wadleigh School. The addition to the High School would be in a unit containing a modern double gymnasium with adequate shower and locker facilities and an assembly hall designed to seat about 700. The present gymnasium and assembly hall with some additions would provide space for a modern cafeteria, new class rooms and study halls. With these additions the present High School would be adequate to accommodate at one time the present four High School grades (9-12 inclusive) until the enrollment reaches or exceeds 700. When that enrollment will be reached cannot, of course, be definitely predicted but based on previous enrollment statistics it probably will not be for at least six or eight years.

Building to House Grades 7 and 8

At the same time that action is taken to enlarge the High School the Committee proposes that a new building be constructed with modern facilities, including a gymnasium, to accommodate grades 7 and 8. Such a building should be located on a lot that will provide adequate playground space and permit of future additions for growth and to accommodate grade 9 when the enrollment in the enlarged High School exceeds 700.

Proposed Site for the Building to House Grades 7 and 8

Several sites for this building have been proposed and considered by the Committee. The two that seem most generally favored at this time are described briefly below:

(1) The Country Day School Lot on Pine Street

The Country Day School lot resembles the Main street lot in its topography and was reported on favorably some years ago by the State Board of Education. Both lots are flat with two levels, separated by a steep 20' embankment. In both instances the upper level would be used for the school building, and the lower level for the playground.

Advantages and disadvantages of the Country Day School lot are listed below.

Advantages

1. It is on a fine established attractive residential neighborhood where a large school building may adversely affect real estate values.
2. It has a narrow frontage on Pine Street; any further addition would necessitate acquiring adjacent property.
3. It is not on a car line, requiring a walk in stormy weather.
4. It is not easily accessible for some children from the east side, particularly towards the Strathmore Road.
5. It is removed from the civic center.

(2) The Main Street Lot

As in the case of the High School and the Country Day School projects, it is proposed to reduce to a minimum the immediate taking of land in the Main street lot. For this reason, and due to the fact that the building as now planned will be a smaller building than the three year building previously suggested, it is proposed to omit the Ripley property from the present taking.

The advantages and disadvantages of the Main street lot are listed below.

Advantages

1. It is near the civic center.
2. It is near the High School making it possible for the two schools to use some facilities in common.
3. It is near the new Library.
4. It is near Manchester Field.
5. It is on a car line missing the available in stormy weather.
6. The building can be set back approximately 90' or 95' from Main Street, so that noise from passing trade will be minimized.
7. It provides a playground of about 2½ acres.

Disadvantages

1. It is on a much traveled main thoroughfare.
2. The combined numbers in this school and the High School make a large group concentrated in a spot having heavy traffic.
3. A considerable expense in grading the playground.
4. Subject to some additional noise from railroad.

Cost

The cost of the proposed enlargement of the High School and the erection of a building to accommodate grades 7 and 8, on either the Country Day School lot or the Main street lot, would be about $300,000 exclusive of equipment and grading.

Tax Rate

The proposed program would involve an increase in the tax rate for the present year of approximately $0.80. During the year in which the equipment is purchased this might be somewhat increased. Thereafter, it would gradually diminish as the bonds are retired and interest charges reduced.

Conclusions

The School Committee earnestly urge the citizens of the Town to unite in concerted action which will provide for enlargement of the High School to correct the present overcrowded conditions and to provide modern and adequate facilities for the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades. No more serious school problem has ever confronted the Town, and the Committee very much hope that by concerted and whole hearted co-operation, the plan proposed, even though not meeting the wishes of everybody, may, for the benefit of the school children, be accepted.

LEGIONNAIRES ENJOYED TRAVEL TALK

A large group of Legionnaires with their guests gathered last evening in the Headquarters of Winchester Post, 76, and thoroughly enjoyed a most interesting travelogue, given by Dr. Clarence E. Ordway and profusely illustrated with superb motion pictures taken by him while rambling about Europe this past summer. The pictures covered France, Italy and Austria, among other places, and those which portrayed a motor trip over the Alps were particularly fine. The veterans proved a most appreciative audience, and voted the entertainment one of the best the Post has had for some time.

Members of the B. ton Hockey Club, representing the United States in the amateur championships at Crafenew, Poland during the past winter, were guests of the Post and spoke of their trip across and of the hockey tourney.

Commander Wash Grindle presided at the Post's business session, at which it was voted to support a baseball team this summer and to appoint a committee to handle the necessary details. It was also voted to add the sum of $500 to the Post's reserve fund. Following the travel talk refreshments were served.

TO STAGE MOCK TRIAL

One of the most unique entertainments Winchester has had the opportunity to enjoy in many years is to be staged in the Town Hall on the evening of Saturday, April 25, when the Comrades' Class of the First Baptist Church will sponsor a Mock Trial with what can only be announced at this time as a real "all star" cast. A more definite announcement of details will be made in the Star at a later date, and will be sure to arouse much interest in the affair. We are told this is to be "something different."

Winchester High School commenced baseball practice this week Tuesday when candidates reported to Coach Manstield and Captain Robinson for preliminary work. Besides "Robbie" the letter players are "Olie" Lee, "Kingfish" Smith, "Stutz" DiMinico, "Hickie" Procopio and Ralph Ambrose.

Maynard. Our guests from the State Federation included Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, Jr., Mrs. John H. Kimball, Mrs. Henry Hildreth, Mrs. Charles G. Wetherbee, Mrs. Charles L. Fuller, Mrs. Nathaniel E. Smith, Mrs. Harold P. Johnson, and Mrs. Philip H. Tirrell. Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, President, presided over the table and the Fortnightly was further represented by the officers, Mrs. Idabelle H. Winship, first vice-president; Mrs. Ada von Rosenvinge, second vice-president; Mrs. Beatrice M. Dabney, recording secretary; Mrs. Lillian P. Howe, corresponding secretary and Miss Eleanor Hudson, treasurer.

In these very happily chosen phrases, Mrs. Hayden expressed the sentiments of the Fortnightly on this occasion:

To its founders and in greetings may it say
"Born with ideals firm and strong."
To its Past Presidents
"You are the ones who have carried me along."
To the State Federation Officers
"With your wise counsel I'll higher climb Together we'll travel to heights sublime."
To all
"Today my heart rings out with glee
On this my Golden Jubilee."

The luncheon arrangements were in the hands of Mrs. Mary E. Siedhof and its great success is due entirely to her sympathy and indefatigable patience and work.

SECOND ADJOURNED TOWN MEETING SESSION HELD

Sunday Sports Beaten—Action on Water Tower Urged, "But Not This Year"

High Street Alterations Voted

One hundred and ninety delegates carried on through the second adjourned session of the annual town meeting Monday evening in the Town Hall, disposing of three of the much discussed articles in the warrant; namely those dealing with Sunday Sports, the removal of the Symmes Park Water Tower and the alteration of High street. Only the school articles remain to be discussed at the next session which is to be held on Monday evening, March 30.

The meeting just past was another rather tedious session, and when Moderator Hayward announced a five minute recess in order that the delegates might to some degree revive their flagging spirits many availed themselves of the opportunity to slip unostentatiously from the hall. Only a few more than the necessary quorum remained to finish up.

Article 29, inserted in the warrant to see if the town would accept the so-called Sunday sports law, was quickly disposed of. Mr. Linscott, reporting for the committee who have been studying the matter, stated that its members had voted 4—1 to recommend that the town should not vote for Sunday sports, feeling that it would not be for the best interests of the community to do so. He added that the cheque of the town as a whole opposed the adoption of the bill and that few towns comparable to Winchester were finding any great demand for commercialized Sunday sports. Mr. Horne, reporting for the minority of the committee, felt that it is manifestly unfair to permit the rich to play golf and prevent the poor from enjoying baseball and football. He hoped the town would adopt the bill. There was no further discussion and upon the motion of Mr. Rowe the meeting voted to indefinitely postpone action on the article.

Mrs. McDonald introduced a motion under Article 30 to postpone action on the sidewalk article which dealt with an amendment to the by-laws providing for the election of the Finance Committee from town meeting members, two from each precinct. The motion was seconded and on the motion of Mr. Taylor Articles 21, 22 and 23, all relative to schools, were not acted upon and laid over together at the next session on March 30.

VOTERS OF PRECINCT 1

Tomorrow, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, in the George Washington School, an opportunity will be given for every citizen in Precinct 1 to express his or her views, and to get such information as may be available, regarding the school situation.

A friendly discussion will be helpful to make the special town meeting members who must vote on this question next Monday night at Town Meeting.

GROWING POPULAR WITH YOUNG PEOPLE

Each eve shows the Cedar Crest's (on State road between Stoneham and Reading) growing popularity. Dainty sandwiches and salads are served. Dancing enjoyed and Corinne personally chaperons.

Mr. Richard Parkhurst, secretary of the Boston Port Authority, speaking before the Propeller Club Tuesday evening in the Boston Yacht Club's quarters at Rowe's Wharf, emphasized the fact that the Port of Boston is a growing port with increasing potentialities. The Army engineers' report shows an increase in tonnage from approximately 14,000,000 short tons in 1922 to 19,000,000 tons in 1929. The Port Authority is aiming to retain and increase coastal and intercoastal business, comprising about 80 per cent of the commerce of the port, and to materially increase the import and export trade.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Second Lieutenant Marshall Fay visited town Saturday and again Tuesday to make a call upon his father, Robert E. Fay of Park avenue, via airplane. He made a similar visit last fall, much to the excitement of some residents, who protested because he gave an exhibition of his ability to handle a plane over their house-tops. This week the Lieutenant selected an area over the Fells along the east side ridge, and he treated Winchester people to an exhibition of fancy and stunt flying which they should remember for many a day. Just where he expected to land in case of a mishap was probably settled in his own mind but was a decided question to his spectators. He gave a fine show Saturday, but nothing to that of Tuesday, when he brought out a new, fast plane. "Bob" says Marshall loves flying, and after watching his antics until we were very nearly a good subject for a heart specialist, we are inclined to agree with him.

BOWLING DINNER SATURDAY EVENING

The annual winter bowling dinner took place at the Calumet Club on Saturday evening with one of the most enthusiastic gatherings in years. Fred Scholl catered and the banquet was everything which one might expect as a result of Fred's endeavors in the culinary line. Attractive menus, music and an hour and a half entertainment placed the company in a most receptive mood for the awarding of the 33 prizes to the skillful winners.

Following the dinner, president Harris S. Richardson opened the ceremonies and the awarding of prizes was made by chairman Harry A. McGrath of the bowling committee, who, by the way, was the honor man of the tournament, taking the highest individual average with 113.20-51, a figure unsurpassed at the club.

The entertainment was furnished by a number of well known artists, including Estelle Fox, "Billy" McDermott, the McCabe Sisters, "Friskella" and Charles Shepard. The far famed "Buddy" Shepard was master of ceremonies.

This year's tournament closes with the following teams and individual prize winners:

The program of entertainment for the afternoon was arranged and produced by the Art Committee which is as follows:

Art Committee
Anita S. McGranahe, Chairman
Marion C. Andrews ..... Ethel E. Bond
Blanche S. Barnard ..... Frances C. Breen
Elizabeth S. Cox ..... Mary G. Gilbert
Faye H. Lefavour ..... Edna L. Morgan
Rita K. Morgan
Edith M. Riddle
Mary W. Russell
Lillian C. Smith
C. Elizabeth Speedie

From the delighted observations and congratulations overheard, it is safe to put in print that a more fitting program or one more perfectly executed would be almost impossible to devise.

The promptness, precision, and attention to detail as well as the ability displayed by each participant is a matter on which the Fortnightly may well be congratulated and which will bring long lasting admiration and respect for the club members responsible. This same success was just as evident in the prompt and efficient serving of refreshments by the Social Committee under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Farnham, subchairman. The members of her committee are Mrs. Estelle R. Little, chairman, Mrs. Grace Aceltine, Mrs. Mildred M. Ayre, Mrs. Esther Comin, Mrs. Gertrude E. Cox, Mrs. Pauline Hudson, Mrs. Edna Mitchell, Mrs. Anna L. Norton, Mrs. Nettie M. Richardson and Mrs. Maude S. Taylor.

The tea were served by Mrs. Dana Wentworth, first Vice-President of the club; Mrs. Ada von Rosenvinge, second vice-president; Mrs. Beatrice M. Dabney, recording secretary; Mrs. Lillian P. Howe, corresponding secretary; Miss Eleanor Hodson, treasurer and Mrs. Gladys R. Wilson, Federation Secretary.

The cakes were passed in old silver cake baskets of the period loaned by various members of the club.

It was interesting to note the lovely table cloth on the center table loaned by Miss Mary A. Fitch, who was also responsible for the decorations and most interesting display of articles of the "eighties," many of which she also personally loaned and the lovely center candelabra loaned by Mrs. Anna S. McWolf. Through Mrs. Vincent Clarke, we were able to display the wedding dress of Mrs. Pullan in our selection of articles.

The Anniversary General Committee consisted of Mrs. Christine E. Hayden, chairman; Mrs. Beatrice M. Dabney, Miss Mary Alice Fitch, Mrs. Mabel B. Gage, Mrs. Myrtle L. Hodge, Mrs. Lillian P. Howe, Mrs. Alice S. Jenkins, Mrs. Anita S. McGranale, Mrs. Mary E. Sedlhof, Mrs. Esther Stidstone, Mrs. Ada von Rosenvinge and Mrs. Idabelle H. Winship.

Members are reminded that on Tuesday, March 31, the Fortnightly is invited to go through the interesting and model building of the Salada Tea Company, and afterward enjoy bridge and tea in their delightful recreation hall. The "Fortnightly News" is sponsoring the trip and any information about same will gladly be supplied by members of the "News" board. All those joining the expedition are cautioned to be at the Stuart street entrance of the building, located on the corner of Stuart and Berkeley streets, at precisely 1:30 p. m. as the tour through the building will commence promptly. Bridge will be played from 2 to 3:45 p. m. and tea will be served.

We are reminded that our annual meeting with luncheon and program is coming on Monday, April 13. Mrs. Mary Carr is in charge of the luncheon arrangements. The program will be announced at a near future date.

Everything is in readiness for the motion picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships," which is being shown tonight in the Town Hall by the Club House Fund Committee, of which Mrs. Helen I. Fessenden is chairman. This picture, starring Clara Bow, depicts vividly the days when the whalers sailed out of New Bedford, taking the audience in the last of the whaling vessels to the whaling grounds with a veteran crew and showing intimate glimpses of the lives these old salts lived while pursuing their hazardous calling.

MRS. ANN FRANCES DOHERTY

Mrs. Ann Frances Doherty of 31 Grove street, widow of Michael J. Doherty, died Monday, March 23, at the home of her sister, Mrs. George W. McClellan, 15 Webster street, Arlington. She had been removed to her sister's home from the Winchester Hospital about a week before her death and had previously been for nine weeks under treatment at the hospital.

Mrs. Doherty was born in Winchester 59 years ago, the daughter of Michael E. and Mary Ann (Byron) O'Leary. Her girlhood was spent in Arlington, where she made her home with her grand-parents, following the death of her mother.

At the age of 15 she returned to Winchester and in 1910 married Michael J. Doherty of Winthrop, Rev. Fr. Nathaniel A. Merritt performing the marriage ceremony.

Following her course at Winchester High School and before her marriage she was employed in the Educational Department of Little, Brown & Co., publishers, at their Beacon street office, and after Mr. Doherty's death in 1926 she re-entered their employ, remaining until her final illness.

Besides her sister, Mrs. McClellan, she leaves her father and four children, Julia Ann, Mary, Paul and Agnes Doherty, all of Winthrop.

The funeral was held Thursday morning from the McClellan home in Arlington and was followed by a requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery, West Medford.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE WOMEN'S GUILD

The annual meeting of the Women's Guild of the First Congregational Church was held Tuesday afternoon with 130 ladies present, including 30 guests.

Mrs. Scales presided over the business meeting and the Secretary's report mentioned some of the things they have done this year such as building another class-room and decorating the rooms with pictures, making 20 more uniforms for the Junior Choir and generally enlarging the parish house equipment, including another silver service.

President Mrs. Florence R. Scales
1st Vice President Mrs. Maurice F. Brown
2nd Vice President Mrs. H. E. Gage
Secretary Mrs. James Sowell
Treasurer Miss Elise Belcher

Dr. Chidley spoke on "Black and White," an address growing out of experiences on a recent trip south. He pictured the desolation of many of the homes of black and white people in North Carolina and Tennessee, and said that practically the only bright spot in the lives of these people was the church. He emphasized also the loneliness of people both North and South, not only for human companionship, but for some contact with God, and said that the Christian Church had a great opportunity today in ministering to people who felt the need of friendly contacts.

Then followed a social hour around an attractively decorated table where Mr. Morgan and Mrs. Nowell served frappe.

SUICIDE RUMOR GROUNDLESS

The police were notified Monday that a woman who had been making her home in Winchester addressed several letters to friends stating that she was going to commit suicide. She disappeared soon after her breakfast and could not be located.

A thorough search for her was made by the police who even lowered the water in the ponds about the center, thinking she might have drowned herself. Later the missing woman telephoned a friend in town saying she was well and happy. She refused however to tell where she was.

The town's vote to erect a memorial to Forest C. Manchester at the entrance to the playground bearing his name leads one to wonder just how proud that public spirited gentleman would be of his namesake if he could see the present condition of the field. The erection of the memorial is a nice thing to do and something which ought to be done, but there surely are many interested sports' followers who believe after all these years that money spent on the playground right now should be expended to put the field in condition for what it is supposed to be. The town should speedily adopt some sort of comprehensive plan to recondition Manchester Field, and if it does not seem feasible to do the work all at once, do a bit each year until the job is done and the playground once more a thing in which the community can take pride. The advent of girls' athletics and the physical education program which is required by State law in the public schools triples the present use of the field and naturally makes the wear and tear correspondingly greater. Each year the playground is used more and more, yet it is many years since anything has been done toward renewing the playing surface. The Park Board is not asleep to the situation and this year asked for a small sum to make a beginning on the diamond, which is one of the worst in the Mystic Valley. This modest sum the Finance Committee did not see fit to recommend, and we are told their refusal was prompted by the thought that the money is not sufficient to do much of any good. If the committee is sincere in its stand, and we have no reason to believe it isn't, we may expect its members to support a comprehensive plan to recondition the playground, and make it a good modern athletic field. Surely it ought not to be difficult to evolve such a plan, and if the reconditioning program is carefully carried out, its cost should not prove burdensome. An up-to-date athletic plant would be a great thing for Winchester, and some serious thought toward providing one should be done if the town is to keep pace with neighboring communities. How fine it would be to have at the present time on Manchester Field the memorial stadium and locker building that the late Robert A. Sherman and others wished to erect not so long ago.

ROTARY CLUB

There was but one absentee recorded for the meeting of March 26. This is the best home attendance in many months. Also eight visitors joined us at this time.

After luncheon "Jim" Quinn took the floor to plead the case of the boy who is being deprived of his college education because of circumstances connected with the present business depression. There are many such instances in the country at large and the condition is by no means unknown right here in Winchester.

While it is a simple matter for most of us to view the situation with complacency it should be borne in mind that it is a tragedy in the life of many an ambitious youth. The time is at hand when this great republic of ours must fight to retain its preeminence among the nations of the earth. We cannot prepare for the struggle by neglecting the education of our young people. We must not only provide the education; we must see that our boys and girls get it. "Jim" thinks that our club should do something about it. Remember that deeds alone will avail and that Rotarians must be doers in order to live up to their pretentions.

In this connection we wish once more to call attention to our Educational Fund. This fund is supported by voluntary contributions of our members. It would seem most fitting that such contributions as have been suggested should be forthcoming at this time. Will that family treasure chest stand another pinch?

Our guest speaker at this meeting was Comdr. James A. Alger, Chief of Staff of Eastern Division, United States Coast Guard. Commander Alger is a resident of Winchester and our members were much pleased with this opportunity to become better acquainted with him.

The speaker outlined for us the development and duties of the Coast Guard service. Instituted in 1790 through the initiative of Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the Treasury under George Washington, it has functioned with great efficiency and small publicity under the caption of the Revenue Cutter service until 1915 when, just prior to our entrance into the World War, it was designated "United States Coast Guard." Contrary to popular conceptions it has a great variety of duties aside from aiding in the enforcement of the 18th amendment. In time of war it automatically becomes a part of the Navy and has seen service in every war since the Revolution. It aids in guarding the seal-fisheries in Bering Sea. Since the ice-berg disaster involving the S.S. Titanic it has formed a large part of the ice patrol in the North Atlantic. Then is the Coast life guard service and other arduous duties too numerous to mention here.

The club is obligated to Commander Alger for his courtesy in making arrangements to address us. From our point of view it was very much worth while.

Once more we remind you of the spring conference at Providence, April 13 and 14. For reservations consult the secretary, and this should be done by April 1.

Attendance percentage for March 19, 1931—93.10 per cent.

Luke Fournier, a widely known and universally respected resident of Woburn who died at his home yesterday morning, was the father of Mrs. Caroline Coakley of this town. The funeral will be held from his late residence, 11 Border street, at 8:15 Monday morning with requiem high mass in St. Charles Church at 9:30 o'clock.

SAN JUAN, OLDEST CITY UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG

When President Hoover visited the City of San Juan during his Porto Rico-Virgin Islands cruise, he will be paying his respects to the oldest city in the New World under the American Flag. Also, the Chief Executive will be seeking rest in the place that Ponce de Leon, Spanish explorer, left to seek the "Fountain of Youth."

San Juan, the capital of Porto Rico, was a settlement half a century before St. Augustine, Fla., the oldest town in the 18 States, came into being, and a full century before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Despite San Juan's age it is a thoroughly modern metropolis of some 111,000 people. Skyscrapers peer over the old Spanish fort that pretends to guard the entrance to its magnificent harbor. Bustling traffic fills its narrow downtown streets, and a network of modern bus lines carry hundreds of commuters to work from its suburbs daily.

Old and the New

Many monuments survive from the old regime of the Spaniards, who held the island continuously from 1509, a few years after Columbus discovered it, until 1898. Moss-grown forts, with thick walls and stone sentry boxes, flank the modern City of San Juan. Convent and cathedral, presidio, rowdyhouse, and hand-paved military roads that wind over the entire island of Porto Rico—all of these are ancient Spanish works.

Contrasting sharply with them are 5 and 10 cents stores, huge flying boats of the mail and passenger lines, and pretty Porto Rican girls in one-piece bathing suits gamboling on the beaches.

American rule has checked disease and brought a measure of prosperity to Porto Ricans. Since the United States took over the island the population has grown from about 900,000 to 1,544,000. And all of these people are crowded into an area a third less than that of Yamoudis Passengers on modern air liners can see how crowded the island really is, with tiny huts standing in every nook and cranny and clinging even to the hilltops to save level space for crops. Children fairly swarm. The death rate is down 23, and the birth rate 39, per 1000.

Merging of Small Farms

Porto Rico, like other parts of the world, has undergone great economic changes in the last two decades. From 1910 to 1920 the census shows 17,000 small farms were merged into the big plantations. This is simply the result of the modern tendency of agriculture everywhere to enlarge the unit of its operations. As land rose in price, small holders sold out and took jobs on the bigger plantations.

Fresh meat is scarce in Porto Rico. Much land that was once devoted to stock raising has been turned over, in recent years, to the cultivation of pineapples, citrus fruits, sugar, and tobacco. Even the food of the common people—rice, beans, and dried codfish—must be imported.

Viewed as a big farm development the island is prosperous. But the plain truth is, its 1,544,000 people, who mostly work for wages, cannot subsist now on the kinds of things the land produces, and to live on imported food is costly.

Migration has been tried, but so far with little success. Too often it is the educated youths who leave—an element the island needs. So Porto Rico is a problem. Under its ancient social order, deaths from disease kept the balance between population and food supply, but now all that is upset.

Keeps All Its Tax Money

Porto Rico occupies a favored position among American dependencies. Although it is protected from foreign invasion by the United States it pays not a cent to this country for this or any of the various services rendered it. It may make its own tax laws, and retain all local revenues, including customs, income tax, and internal revenue, which, in territories, go to the Federal Government. In addition, Porto Rico recently received $1,000,000 for roads, made available by a special Congressional relief fund. Most important of all, Porto Rico products may be exported to the United States without paying the tariff.

Like New York City, Porto Rico's capital, San Juan, is built on an island, an island that is separated from the mainland at the eastern end by only a narrow channel of water. The island curves protectingly around its harbor like Presque Isle at Erie, leaving a wide entrance at the western end. San Juan has been called Oriental-Spanish in aspect. The old Spanish part of the city has flat, chimneyless roofs, jutting balconies, grilled windows (without glass), cubical patio gardens and pastel-shaded plaster walls. The larger modern sections of the city, and the suburbs on the mainland, boast of wide asphalt boulevards, magnificent marble government buildings, modern high schools, theaters, and churches.

DIAMONDS HELP TURN INDUSTRY'S WHEELS

Does your family own between $150 and $200 worth of diamonds?

If so it holds its average share of United States wealth in these precious stones. The most recent estimate places the value of diamonds owned in the United States at a figure exceeding $4,000,000,000.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society tells of recent changes in diamond movements and of even more marked changes in methods of mining and handling the gems.

Diamond imports fell off in 1930 along with most other imports, says the bulletin, but even with a reduction of approximately one-third from the peak importations of the preceding year, more than half a million carats of diamonds valued at over $20,000,000 entered the country.

Not All Diamonds for Adornment

One reason why diamond importations held up better than the importations of some other commodities even in a year of depression is that not all diamonds are destined to shine forth from jewelry that adorns men and women. More than one-half the world's production of the stones, in quantity, is used in industry, many in ways surprising to the layman. Some form bearings for watches, chronometers, electric meters, and other accurate instruments and laboratory apparatus. Some, in which tapered holes are drilled, are used for drawing fine wire of platinum, silver, gold, and rare metals. Much of the wire used for filaments for electric and radio bulbs and other delicate apparatus is drawn through diamonds.

Other industrial uses for diamonds are as drills for glass, porcelain, and similar hard substances; turning-tools for lathe work; engraving points and as cutting edges for rock drilling and sawing. For industrial purposes only the less nearly perfect and less valuable stones are used. More than half of the diamonds mined find their way into industrial use; but the value of these "working diamonds" is, of course, very much less than the value of the "patrician diamonds," used in jewelry.

U. S. Chief Consumer

Africa looms large in the diamond industry. Eighty-five per cent of all diamonds produced come from that continent—about half of them from South Africa. The United States is the world's greatest diamond-consuming country. Normally it absorbs nearly the cumulative of the entire South African output.

If all the diamonds produced in the world in 1929 and 1930 were combined into a single cube it would have been five and a half feet across each face—a city tall block as tall as the average man and weighing more than a ton and a half. If the rough stones could have been brought together and dumped into bushel baskets they would have filled two dozens of them heaped up.

Surface Fields Grow in Importance

In recent years a wealth of the gems has been literally scooped up from the earth in the regions of alluvial diamond deposits. Until this change in mining methods came about the greater part of the diamonds had been mined for decades by laborious digging to great depths in the "pipes" of extinct volcanoes. Then came the slow work of separating the stones from earth and rock.

From one of the old "pipe" diamond mines near Pretoria, South Africa, opened in 1890 more than 130 million loads of blue clay have been dug, making a hole more than 1000 feet deep—a veritable man-made chasm that could swallow up some of the world's largest and tallest buildings. From this vast amount of material from a single mine 30 million carats of diamonds have been extracted, valued at more than 162 million dollars.

The outstanding diamond fields of the alluvial kind are those discovered only a year or so ago in Namaqualand, in the northwestern corner of Cape Province, South Africa. The diamonds occur in the loose sands of the sea-shore and a considerable area is being mined by the Government of South Africa. The mining consists in scooping up the sand in steam and electric shovels, loading it on to flat cars, and transporting it to a plant where the gems are sifted out. In the first year, more than $2,000,000 worth of diamonds was recovered.

Peculiar Oyster Shells Mark Diamond Deposits

The average weight of the seashore diamonds is unusually high. The largest so far discovered weighed 85 carats. A peculiarity about the Namaqualand diamond deposits is their occurrence along with the shells of a certain prehistoric oyster. This oyster shell has been a convenient marker for prospectors; when a sand deposit contains the shells, diamonds are sure to be there also.

Two theories as to the origin of the Namaqualand diamonds are that they were washed down into the sea from interior mountains and covered with sand; and that they were thrown up from the bed of the sea by a volcanic upheaval ages ago.

Diamonds have been found in all of the continents, but in none in such quantities as in Africa. Other sections of Africa besides South Africa contributing diamonds are Rhodesia, Tanganyika, Angola, Belgian Congo, and the Gold Coast. One of the earliest known sources of the world's diamond supply was India, and a few of the gems still are mined there.

A STUDY OF MRS. MARY BAKER EDDY

Written by a Clergyman—An Interpretative and Wholly Friendly Biography

By RALPH O. BREWSTER
Former Governor of Maine

A half-century before Einstein, a frail New England woman declared, "there is no ... substance in matter," and on that cornerstone established a religion that soon encircled the globe. Proclaiming an unlimited supply for every human need, she anticipated by several decades the new economics of bursting granaries and teeming factories with their devastating floods of things for which a world emerging from centuries of limitation finds itself so woefully unprepared. In a century of material marvels, seemingly without limit, she declared the "superiority of spiritual over physical power" and forecast this century when the things of the spirit and the mind are more and more recognized as supreme.

In 1875 the world saw old faiths shattered by the impact of material science. Religious leaders were seeking vainly to stem the tide of materialism that everywhere was rampant. Honest and earnest men were trying to reconcile reason and religion and striving to put the new wine of science into the old bottles of traditional creeds. It was left for a lone woman, calmly to announce that people were entirely justified in expecting a religion that would work. Cities were greatly reminded that the founder of Christianity had chief emphasis on works and not on words and proclaimed that men should be known by "their fruits." Pragmatism had found a new disciple.

It required far more courage in 1875 than today to declare that there was no quarrel between religion and science, but that Christianity was science and built on fundamental and immutable laws. The world, has moved steadily from the maze of speculation as to creeds and natural sciences toward the unity of the spirit.

With none of the assets of prestige or influence or worldly power, ridiculed, persecuted as have been few individuals in the last three centuries, despised and rejected of men, a seeming outcast and failure past middle life, this frail woman lived to see thousands throughout the world rise up and call her blessed and hundreds of temples built as monuments to the new significance and truth given to many human lives. Christian Science has many marvels to its credit, but the most marvelous demonstration of its power and its truth is the life of Mary Baker Eddy.

The exhaustive files of the Mother Church were made fully available for the first time for a sympathetic study of the life of one of the most remarkable women of the last century by a biographer not of the faith. Rector of an Episcopal parish in New York, Dr. Powell he might to his task the fruit of a life-long interest in the new view of life that Christian Science represents. Sweeping over the earlier and formative period, he discriminatingly devotes himself to the revealing episode of her later life as the world became conscious of her power.

Wisely was one outside the faith selected for the task. The "other worldliness" to use a favorite phrase of the author of the Christian Scientist is apt to make him oblivious of the viewpoint of those outside the faith. The terminology even is apt to be disconcerting to the uninitiated.

This biography, though well read outside, to make Mary Baker Eddy better understood by the world at large. Its meticulous document is sure also to end the controversies of other days, but the footnotes are happily many half of the page and so do not disrupt the mesh flow of the narrative.

The author comes out somewhat in the dilemma, so to the scientific mind of Christian Science and the life of its founder with which the routine churches are necessarily untouched. One begins to detect that this is why the scholarly Dr. Powell has left the Episcopal Church. Yet it is well that the record should be thoroughly cleared in every line of a life that is significant and adequate sense of its towering activities, but also because of its profound influence on the life and thought of the world.

As science, religion, economics and even medicine move steadily in the direction of the revolutionary promises advanced by Mary Baker Eddy when Darwinism was rife and Ernest Haeckel was propounding a purely materialistic solution for the riddle of the universe, it is altogether desirable that a trained biographer and scholar should sympathetically compile an account of a life in many respects unique while he may still consult with many who were privileged to know this extraordinary woman at first hand. This work is of the world and for the world in a language the world can understand.

It may be hoped that these many ample sources may be made available for a far more extensive study by one who shall bring both the training of the writer and the spiritual synthesis of a student of Christian Science to reveal in consistently more detail the inner meaning of this life for the benefit not only of present and future disciples of this new-old religion captured throughout the globe, but also for a world that is increasing in stature because it knows the reason for the faith and joy that is rather frequently manifested by Christian Scientists in a world distraught by increasing cares.

Disciples of intellectual integrity will desire to read this volume and ponder properly to appraise the significance of this life of one of the great religious leaders of the modern world. —[Boston Herald.

Sergt. Insp. John J. Clark of Boonsey of the State Constabulary has been in Winchester this week recovering from a slight operation performed on one of his eyes last Monday. A painful injury which he sustained more than a year ago necessitated the operation.

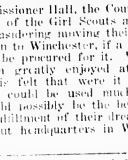

THE PASSION ORATORIO

The final arrangements for the performance of the St. Matthew Passion music by Sebastian Bach by the combined choirs of the Winchester Unitarian Church and the First Church, Boston, on Tuesday evening, April 7, at 8 o'clock have this week completed. The list of soloists will be as follows: Miss Louise Hay, soprano of the Winchester choir; Mrs. Harriet Price, contralto, of the First Church choir; Mr. George B. Lynton, tenor; Mr. David Blair McClosky, baritone; Miss Margaret Starr McLain, pianist; and Paul Fedoroisky, violinist. Mr. William Zeuch, organist of the First Church, will be the organist, and Mr. John P. Marshall, conductor. The combined choirs of 60 voices will be supplemented by 25 girls from the Simmons College Glee Club, who will sing the part usually given to a boy choir.

The melodies of the chorales will be printed on the program and the congregation will thus participate in the performance in the traditional manner.

The Passion oratorio, which is founded on the events preceding and including the Crucifixion, was intended for a church service for Good Friday night. Bach wrote five, the St. Matthew being universally considered the greatest. It was first produced at the St. Thomas Church in Leipzig on Good Friday afternoon 1729 with a small choir and an inadequate orchestra, and was not heard again until Mendelssohn revived it in Berlin 100 years later. Now it is performed all over the world. Although the Passion has been set to music many times, no music has ever been produced which tells this story with such sincere piety, such truth, and such touching pathos. While the music rises to great dramatic heights, revealing Bach as one of the greatest dramatic composers, yet it never departs for a moment from the dispersing mood of Good Friday. The living man in Christ is dealt with and all anticipation of his triumph is ignored. Many of the masters of music and many of the world's leading conductors have called the St. Matthew Passion the greatest of all musical masterpieces.

The Winchester Unitarian Society cordially invites all who are interested to attend this musical service. Seats will be reserved for ticket holders until 7:50 p. m. after which any of the public not holding tickets will be admitted to the seating capacity of the church. The tickets may be obtained without charge from the church secretary, Miss Frances Mason, at the church office any morning between 9 and 12.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Commissioner Hall, the Council and Captains of the Girl Scouts are seriously reconsidering moving their Cedar Hill cabin to Winchester, if a suitable site can be procured for it. While it has been greatly enjoyed at Cedar Hill, it is felt that were it here in town, it could be used much more, and would possibly be the beginning of the fulfillment of their dream of a Girl Scout headquarters in Winchester.

At the conclusion, Mrs. Hayden was presented with a beautiful sterling silver sandwich plate.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

The Winchester Scouting authorities are hoping to welcome a large audience of parents and friends of Winchester Boy Scouts at the Town Hall next Saturday evening, (March 28) at 7:45 p. m. at which time and place, the second Court of Honor of the year will take place.

The following contests are scheduled: Inspection, Fire Lighting, (flint and steel and bow and drill) Morse and Semaphore Signaling, Scout Equipment Race, and Chair and Handkerchief game.

Following these contests, awards will be made of Scouting insignia to those Scous who have passed tests since the last Court in December. Many of the Scouts have been working hard during this period and these awards should be many and will go far in determining the Troop to win the Court.

Troop 3 won the last Court by a comfortable margin and its members are out to repeat their triumph but Troop 1 remembering its victories of last year, is planning to have something to say about the winner on Saturday night. Neither of these Troops will have a walk away, however, as Troop 6, younger than its rivals, already has many tests to its credit and will unquestionably score many more points.

Don't forget the time and place. Plan now to spend the evening with Winchester's boyhood.

Thirty two Scouts went on the hike to Camp Gleason last Saturday. This is the largest number to go on any hike this year and lacks only a little to be classed as a record number for all time.

The following were present from the various Troops:

Troop 1 Elliott Rhindell, Robert Woodford, Herbert MacDonald, Howard Streeter, George Dalton.

Troop 2 Truman Hemingway

Troop 3 Sargent Hill, Foster Boardman, George Welsch, Allan Bissell, Charles Rounds, Kirby Thwing, Richard Leghorn, Henry Hill, Albert Wilson, Robert Wallace, David Hill, Paul Wentworth, David Fitts, Clement Thompson, Albert Grosvenor.

Troop 6 Dean Carleton, Robert Emery, Jacob Chitel, Norman Clark, Harris Richardson, John Sexton, Albert Gaum, Sherman Dodge, Robert Graham, Robert Hamm.

Tests were passed in nature, tracking, fire lighting, cooking and cooking merit badge. After the tests were out of the way, a game of "Capture the Flag" was in order and this concluded the days' activity.

The next hike will be held on April 4 when the Scouts will go to Shaker Glen.

Troop 3

"Bob" Armstrong was elected to membership in the troop at the meeting on Monday. We hope he is going to be another good Scout and hard worker.

The flint-and-steel firelighting contest ended in a tie for first place between the Eagle and Lion Patrols. Albert Grosvenor and "Bob" Millikan took the points for the Eagles, David Grosvenor and Albert Wilson placing for the Lions. David Fitts brought the Panther Patrol in third, winning first place in one contest, and fourth in the second. Paul Wentworth made the fastest time of the evening, but the scribe's points don't count for any patrol, so all he got was the satisfaction.

There will be no contest next week that will need preparation in advance, but we shall have informal patrol contests, and impromptu boxing matches. Everyone is advised to wear sneakers.

The Troop will meet at the church at 7:20 Saturday night, before marching to the Town Hall for the Court. All men in running contests be sure to bring sneakers and everyone bring firelighting and signaling equipment. Be in uniform and be on time.

WEEK-END FIRES

The first call of the past week-end for the services of the Fire Department came at 1:15 last Saturday afternoon when the men were called to put out a grass fire on Appalachian road. At 2:25 there was a second grass fire on Allen road. At 6:45 p. m. there was trouble with an oil burner at the residence of Mrs. Flora N. Beggs, 6 Madison avenue.

Only one run was necessary Sunday there being a grass fire at 11:10 a. m. at the rear of the Highland Auto service station on Cross street.

While answering an alarm Monday morning from Box 7-7--145 at 10:56 a. m. for a woods' fire off Ridge street, Combination A broke down at Knight's corner in the square. Just what hanpened isn't known but the clutch, flywheel, universal housing and shaft were damaged and the grand old machine, purchased in 1912 literally rained parts as it rolled along Church street. The Central Station was notified and Engine 3 started out to do the latter being towed back to quarters for repairs.

At 11:23 in the forenoon the department was called by telephone to put out a grass fire on Fletcher street.

A. P. WELBURN TO TAKE ON OLDSMOBILE

Our townsman, A. P. Welburn of 9 Ridgefield road states that after making a thorough investigation of the low priced cars, he decided that the Oldsmobile offered the greatest value for the money of any car in its price class, and since he has taken on the account in conjunction with his Cadillac-LaSalle business in Malden, he reports a large number of sales made by his organization and some of these new cars have already been delivered to Winchester people. He is looking forward to a big year with this moderately priced high quality car.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

A meeting of the officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce was held at their office on Wednesday evening, March 18. Matters of importance as related to the civic affairs of the town were discussed. Our directors take much interest, representing all portions of the town.

It was voted to hold the annual dinner and meeting on Thursday evening, April 16. The price of the dinner tickets to be $1.

It was unanimously voted to favor the removal of the electric cars from our streets by the substitution of buses.

The subject of protecting and preserving for residential purposes the one third area of Winchester located west of Cambridge street by the laying out of streets in such a manner and location so as to insure the largest financial revenue for our town treasury, was again discussed. Our town possesses, on the east and west sides, some of the most remarkable residential property to be found in Middlesex County.

It is the opinion of many people who go up onto Ridge street to see the beautiful sunsets, that there should be a road connecting our town and Lexington, for go where you may, the scenery here is of the highest type. The owners of that large property wish the town to co-operate with them in its preservation for the best residential purposes. The Chamber is much pleased with the outlook, for the authorities of Lexington are much interested, and under the guidance of our County Commissioners we expect high grade results. The one great factor which interests the Chamber is in obtaining the largest possible financial revenue for our town, as time goes on, by a wise development of this property.

It was felt that the laying out of a continuation of Wildwood street up through the valley to Ridge street would eventually open a large valuable residential property.

MARJORIE DANFORTH WINS SILVER TROPHIES AT METROPOLITAN SHOW

Miss Marjorie Danforth of this town had a field day at the indoor horse show sponsored by the Metropolitan Driving Club at the Charles River Speedway last Saturday afternoon and evening.

Marjorie won two silver trophies in the riding competition, winning the event for riders not more than 14 years old and also the big open event for riders under 20 years. She also won a cup with her saddle pony, Boiling Over, and shared first place with Miss Eleanor Ward in the event for pairs of saddle ponies.

Boiling Over took the blue in the event for ponies over 13.2 hands, and Marjorie's Silver Crest was the winner of the class for saddle horses under 15.2 hands. Silver Crest finished fourth in the open event for saddle horses and his young mistress drove W. J. McDonald's Myra Grey to a third place in the class for trotters, driven by girls under 18 years of age.

Miss Gladys Marchant's Lois Dare won the event for ride and drive horses, and Harry Good's team of grays won the competition for teams of three hunters, his bays finishing fourth. Harry's Whiz was second and Miss Constance Greco's Greylight, third, in the heavy and middleweight hunters' class.

TWO MOTORISTS CHARGED WITH DRUNKEN DRIVING ON CAMBRIDGE STREET

At 4:30 last Sunday morning Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell of the Police Department took into custody Leo F. Anderson of 30 Dunster street, Cambridge, whom the authorities charged with driving his Chevrolet sedan on Cambridge street while under the influence of liquor. Anderson appeared in the District Court at Woburn Monday morning when his case was continued until Monday, March 30.

A telephone call at 8:15 Monday morning called Patrolmen James P. Donaghey and John E. Hanlon to Cambridge street again and this time three men were taken into custody. One of the group, John E. Larson of 23 Hayes street, Cambridge, was arrested by Patrolman Donaghey on the charge of driving a Ford sedan, registered to Karl Henry Larson of 954 Main street, Woburn, while under the influence of liquor. The other two members of the party, taken into custody by Patrolman Hanlon, were Angelo Daniels of 22 Hayes street, Cambridge and Henry Larson of Woburn. Both were released, but John Larson was arraigned in Woburn Court Monday morning. His case was continued until this morning.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The March meeting of the local union held at the home of Mrs. Lawson was largely attended.

Mrs. Bolton director of christian citizenship gave an interesting and instructive talk on our duties as citizens. The ladies were delighted to have as their guest, Rev. J. W. Thompson, who gave a very helpful talk.

The candlelight service in charge of the president, Mrs. Friend gave a good idea of work being done in the following departments: Scientific temperance instruction, Power mission publicity, Soldier's and Sailor's, our pastors and Sunday School work.

Plans were discussed for assisting the state bazaar which will be held in Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple on April 10. The members were urged to contribute food, candy and nuts to that table will be in charge of Middlesex County. A social half hour followed the meeting. The hostesses assisted by Miss Doris Lawson, Mrs. Stanley Lawson and Mrs. Charle Gaming served a delicious collation.

"PLAYGROUNDS VITAL WINCHESTER NEED," SAYS SPEAKER AT P. T. A.

"Playgrounds under expert guidance are a vital need in Winchester," declared Mr. Ernest Hermann, head of the Sargent School of Physical Education at Boston University. Mr. Hermann addressed a meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday evening and presented to the large gathering a concrete program which gained a very sympathetic hearing.

"The American home environment of our children has undergone a great change. The fathers of today," the speaker continued, "do not take the time necessary for the proper guidance of their children. Since this is so, the least the parents should do is to give their boys and girls a proper substitute. This they can do in the way of playground recreation under supervision. Brain power, physical and mental health, the right kind of play, and the correct use of leisure time can all be given the growing generation in the modern playground properly equipped."

In view of the present interest in an improvement of local secondary school facilities, Mr. Hermann's reference to the standard set by the national leaders of education was of particular interest. "A junior high school," he declared, "should be placed on grounds of at least ten acres. For the senior high school 20 acres are considered the proper standard. Many communities are living up to these requirements. Some are going ahead of them. A new junior high school in Newton is being placed on grounds of 12 acres. Baltimore has recently built a senior high school with 40 acres surrounding it.

"The youngsters must have room for their motor-outlets. There is always a danger of too much supervision. The right kind of guidance is what is needed. Games should be turned over to the boys. The time is fast approaching when the coach will not be on the football field. This step has practically been accomplished in New York State."

The first part of the evening's program was conducted by the students of the school. Kenneth West, president of the Athletic Association, presided. He introduced each of the varsity captains, who had a few words to say in regard to the many athletic activities. Those who spoke were: Carolyn Nichols, field hockey; Donald Emery, football; George McCormick, cross country; Loretta Carleton, girls' basketball; Wilmer Smith, boys' basketball; Mabel Tompkins, girls' tennis; Richard Riley, boys' tennis; Roger Newell, track; William Robinson, baseball. At the close of this feature of the program, Mr. Grindle, Principal of the high school, pointed out that seven of the student captains were almost consistently on the honor roll in scholarship.

Mr. Waters, president of the Association, called attention to the fine work being done by the two coaches, Mr. Mansfield and Miss Centervall.

The meeting closed with a social hour given over to refreshments and a general good time.

TOO MUCH PIE

Last Sunday evening a young man appeared at Headquarters and complained that he had been assaulted by a resident of Washington street on that grounds that he had thrown a pie against the latter's car which had just been polished.

While the police were checking up a few details of the story the owner of the car in question complained to the authorities of a gang of boys who were making a disturbance in front of his house.

Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman Clarence Dunbury went to the address named and learned that a group of youths whom Patrolman Dunbury had previously seen on Washington street had smeared pie over a parked machine at Washington and Nelson streets.

Patrolman Dunbury had noticed a group of young fellows come out of Rogers' Bakery on Washington street near Swanton street and stop at the automobile parked at Nelson street As the policeman approached the youths took to their heels, and succeeded in eluding Patrolman Dunbury at the Town Hall.

When Officer Dunbury returned to the automobile its owner informed him that the youths had plastered it with lemon pie. The policeman rounded up four of the boys said to have been responsible and succeeded in straightening out matters between them and the irate owner of the machine.

DRIVER OF TRUCK INJURED

James N. Smith of 6 Westley street sustained injuries to his left arm about 10:20 Monday morning when a Ford truck, the property of Richardson's Market, and which he was driving south on Main street and into Washington street was in collision with a Ford sedan, driven by Oliver J. Dunbar of 278 Main street, Malden, and owned by Annie Dunbar of the same address. Dunbar was driving south on Washington street and was entering Main street at the time of the accident.

MARIBEL VINSON AGAIN CHAMPION OF U. S.

Miss Vinson, a student at Radcliffe and recently returned from a successful European trip which included winning the British skating crown, finished in front of a classy field, including Mrs. D. F. Secord of the Skating Club, New York; Dr. Hubla E. Berger, U. S. F. S. A., New York; and Virginia Badger of the Skating Club, Boston. Maribel also skated under the colors of the Boston Skating Club.

SECOND ADJOURNED TOWN MEETING SESSION HELD

Under Article 34, the long awaited water tower article, the meeting warmed up a bit. Dr. Blaisdell, reporting for the Symmes Park Water Tower committee, gave a most comprehensive summary of that committee's findings and offered the motion that $5000 be appropriated from revenue to take down the tank, and that $30,000 be appropriated by bond issue to relocate it near the southerly end of the south reservoir and provide the necessary water mains, etc. Mr. Burton moved to substitute for Dr. Blaisdell's motion a motion that it be the sense of the meeting that the Symmes Park Water Tower be removed. Mr. Carr immediately moved to amend by adding the words, "but not this year," and the amendment was carried by the hair-line vote of 83—81. The sense of the meeting vote was then passed as amended, 138—6. Dr. Blaisdell then took the floor and once again offered his original motion. Mr. Worthen, however, felt that action at that time would be detrimental to the article, and offered the motion that the subject matter be indefinitely postponed, which motion prevailed.

Action under the article did not move as smoothly as this report might indicate. There was plenty of oratory, and in all about two hours were consumed by the discussion. Messrs. Marchant, A. K. Comins, Burton, Blaisdell and Arthur Hale championed the removal of the tank while Messrs. Carr, Worthen, Carleton, Richardson and MacDonald felt that no action should be taken this year, since the appropriation involved was so heavy as to seriously affect action upon the schools, which all felt must be taken at once.

Mrs. Woodside was surprised that in all the discussion of the Symmes Park Water Tower no mention had been made of the gasometer off Cross street in the North End and felt that a committee ought to be appointed to consider its removal. She felt that for every dollar spent to remove the water tower a dollar should be appropriated to remove the gas tank. There was no direct opposition expressed to the moving of the tower, the concensus of opinion seeming to be that now is not an auspicious time to undertake the project.

Under Article 35 it was voted to authorize the town to make an agreement with the Metropolitan District Commission for the care and control of the land along the river bank between Bacon street, Fenwick road and the footbridge south of Wedgemere Station.

Articles 36 through 45 had to do with street layouts, building lines and street alterations, the meeting voting in all instances to accept the recommendations of the Selectmen. Appropriations were as follows:

Arlington Street (layout)	$1,500.00
Nelson Street (layout)	250.00
Salisbury Street (layout)	1,200.00
Semoen Road (layout)	5,500.00
Washington Street (Alteration)	1,625.00
Wedge Pond Road (layout)	2,500.00
Wendell Street (layout)	5,300.00

The subject matter of Article 45 was indefinitely postponed, but the closing Article 46, aroused considerable debate. This article was inserted to see if the town would appropriate money for the reconstruction and relocation of High street, and under it the Selectmen introduced a motion to appropriate $47,000 together with sums to be allotted by the Division of Highways of the Department of Public Works and the County Commissioners for the repair and alteration of High street.

Mr. Richardson of the Selectmen and Mr. Carr of the Finance Committee championed the motion on the grounds that through the interest of the State the town can get a very desirable job done on High street for a fraction of what it would cost the town to do the work alone. Lexington is willing, it was pointed out, to do the necessary work on its end to make the street a through way to Massachusetts avenue in that town.

There was plenty of opposition. Mr. Vinson was most emphatic in his disapproval, and did not believe that the County Commissioners will join in the [illegible] project. As one owning two-thirds of the land affected from the Country Club up he did not believe that property owners in that section should have something forced upon them which they do not want.

Mrs. McDonald failed to see any sense in the scheme to make a boulevard of a street up a steep hill which her automobile had difficulty in making, even in second speed. She caused something of a sensation when she admitted that the plans for the High street alteration had not been submitted to her for approval while those of the proposed through way from Winchester to Lexington at Wildwood street had. Mr. Guild occasioned much laughter when he wanted to amend the Selectmen's motion by adding the words, "but not this year," and Dr. Blaisdell felt that if the town is sincere in its desire to economize, it might well postpone its action on High street until another year.

Dr. Gilpatric felt that High street should not be made a through way and believed that people would not build homes upon a boulevard. He spoke of specific instances where building depends upon the town's action on the roadway. Mr. Arnold was rather noncommittal in stating the Chamber of Commerce's position in the matter and his remarks could hardly be aligned either with or against the project. Mr. Vinson, in speaking again, challenged the proponents of the scheme to produce a single property owner in the district affected who favored the proposed alteration.

Calls for the question prompted Moderator Hayward to ask for the vote and the Selectmen's motion was carried on an aye and nay vote which it seemed strange that none of the opponents of the measure doubted.

The meeting then adjourned at 11:10 o'clock.

TELEPHONE EXCHANGE TO BE ENLARGED

The N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. has petitioned the Selectmen for a permit to make a substantial enlargement to its present exchange building on Washington street. It is reported that the Company plans an addition nearly the size of its present building, together with extensive alterations and improvements. The addition will be made at the rear end of the present structure. New glass, limestone trim and other substantial alterations and improvements will make a most attractive building—one which will be well in keeping with the beauty of the recently erected Baptist Church adjoining.

ANNUAL REVIEW WEEK AT THE UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Following its usual custom the management of the University Theatre announces the annual review week, March 29 to April 4. The votes sent in by our patrons have been carefully checked and the pictures listed below were found to be the most popular.

"Min and Bill" the picture based on the widely read novel, "Dark Star" and featuring Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery heads the program for Sunday. Min and Bill are two happy-go-lucky waterfront characters, who take love and laughter where they find it. A beautiful young girl Min has brought up is the only person sacred to her and when her happiness is threatened there comes a climax of drama such as you've rarely seen. "Manslaughter" with Claudette Colbert is the companion feature.

"Common Clay," the talkie version of the Harvard prize play by Cleves Kinkead starring Constance Bennett and "The Laughing Lady" featuring Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook are included on Monday's program.

Tuesday's program will consist of "Grumpy" that delightful comedy romance starring Cyril Maude and "The Big House," the drama of penitentiary life and prison riots with Chester Morris, Lewis Stone, Leila Hyams, Wallace Beery and Robert Montgomery.

"The Divorcee," the story of one woman who dared to defy society's conventions, starring Norma Shearer and George Arliss in "The Green Goddess" will be shown Wednesday. "The Green Goddess" tells the story of a group of English people stranded in the wilds of the Himalayas and completely at the mercy of a tribe of uncivilized idol worshippers and their cruel Rajah.

Lon Chaney's only talkie, "The Unholy Three" will be shown Thursday. Ziegfeld's world famous stage success, "Whoopee" starring Eddie Cantor completes the program.

Friday's program includes Greta Garbo's first talkie "Anna Christie" adapted from Eugene O'Neill's great play and Ann Harding in "Holiday."

On Saturday the two pictures that received the greatest number of votes will be shown, and for that reason the first show will start at 11 o'clock in the morning so that everyone will have a chance to see "The Dawn Patrol" with Richard Barthelmess and Ronald Colman in "Bulldog Drummond." The program will be continuous from 11 with four shows starting at 11; 2:30; 4:30; and 8. The first 500 children will be admitted for ten cents on Saturday morning only.

Latest News and short subjects will be on every program. Seats may be reserved for occupancy after 5 o'clock. Additional earphones have been installed in the orchestra loge (reserved section) and may be reserved by telephone.

FROM THE WINCHESTER HOSPITAL ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

Everyone in Winchester is interested in our hospital and training school, it having the support of the many organizations of this town, but few people know of the Winchester Hospital Alumnae Association.

Starting in November, 1920, with a membership of ten, we have increased to an active membership of 40.

In the ten years of existence the usual Alumnae spirit of taking care of those who have in any way needed assistance has been observed.

During the year of 1928 one of the rooms in the new wing of the hospital was furnished by this Society and in 1929 part equipment for one of the classrooms was given.

Our object for 1931 is to send a delegate to the National Nursing Association convention at Atlanta, Ga., and to equip a reference library for the student body. To this end we have pledged ourselves and hope to have the support of the friends of the Association in our future undertakings.

WINCHESTER WOMENS' REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Womens' Republican Club will be held Wednesday, April 1 at 2:30 p. m. at Association Hall. This will be the annual meeting and a new ballot will be voted upon, also annual reports will be given by the different officers and chairmen of committees.

The speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. H. H. Richardson whose subject will be "The Why and How of Wild Flower Preservation" with stereopticon views. This should prove very interesting as well as instructive. Elford Caughey, harpist, a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be the soloist of the afternoon and we are looking forward with much pleasure to hearing him. After the program tea will be served by the social committee. Let us all boost our club by each bringing a friends who might be interested in becoming a member.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Anderson of Montreal, Quebec, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Eileen Cameron, to Mr. Charles Winslow Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Edwin Jennings of Church street. The marriage is to take place early next month in New York.

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS

To Have One Week Vacation

The Somerville Players will reopen Monday April 6 with that brilliant Belasco comedy, "It's A Wise Child."

Mr. Luttringer feels that a weeks' rest will improve the players and give them renewed vigor for the spring season. Holy Week is always a poor week for the licitimate stage, so why waste a good play and tire ones actors. This vacation is welcomed by the entire company.

The box office will remain open and tickets can be had at all times for "It's A Wise Child." Don't forget the re-opening date, April 6.

ESSEX
THE FINEST PERFORMING SIX HUDSON EVER BUILT
Competes with the LOWEST in Price . . . Challenges the FINEST in Quality

Essex is the only low-priced car that follows the motor design of the highest-priced cars in using light-weight moving parts and in engine speed

This design enables Essex to develop more power at the same motor speed and the same power at a lower motor speed than the "Low-Speed" cars. It permits greater power in proportion to weight, better balancing of crankshaft loads, improved bearing lubrication, more efficient cooling and enables Essex motors to outlast low-speed engines.

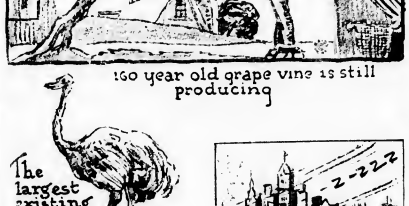

Essex introduces fine-car style and Super-Six smoothness to the low-priced field. It is strongly built to assure lasting satisfaction and enduring dependability. It challenges the performance of any six and matches the economy of cars most noted for low operating cost. It gives you Rare Riding Comfort for the first time at its low price.

SHOULD NOT PASS UNNOTICED

March 25, 1931

To the Editor of the Star:

The unfavorable reference to Felsdale made by the chairman of the Finance Committee at the last Town Meeting ought not to pass unnoticed. What the chairman of the Finance Committee, as an individual, thinks or says of Felsdale and its management is of no great interest or importance at the present time; but that he should, in his capacity as the spokesman for the most influential board in our town government, gratuitously offer the sense of fair play and justice of many residents of Winchester who are familiar with the facts regarding Felsdale is another and a more serious matter. With one exception, the writer is the oldest resident of this section and is fully acquainted with the progress of this development.

In 1919, or thereabouts, the present owner acquired the property just in time to prevent what, probably, would otherwise have resulted in its undesirable development. At that time this tract was a most unattractive place containing swampy land, a great deal of undesirable, ragged growth and, generally, of unpromising appearance.

It was the intention of the new owner to make of this as fine a development as is to be found in this part of the country. To that end he made a thorough study of many outstanding and successful developments throughout the East, and his architect spent some time in England on a similar mission. At first no attempt was made to sell land but all efforts were devoted to clearing the land, installing proper drainage systems, building roads, etc. In all 4680 feet, or nearly one mile, of roads have been constructed to sub-grade, through both swamp and solid ledge, at a cost exceeding $15,000. These roads have also been maintained at considerable additional expense. Although still classed as private ways the roads are open to the public and have been used constantly, for several years, as a convenient connection between Highland Avenue and South Border road. They have been a benefit to many residents of Winchester. It is not often that a town has the use of such excellent roads without expense to itself.

Having become thoroughly interested in the owner's plans for the development of Felsdale I purchased the first lot and built my own house thereon in 1925. Several other houses were built subsequently and, finally, in 1929, real progress was shown by the construction of four houses, all of which were started before the erection of the water tower. Since that time only two houses have been erected as several people who intended to build here decided not to do so because of the tower. In all, there are 10 houses now in Felsdale, with an assessed valuation of $142,825, which gives the town an annual income of about $3000 over and above the large tax paid by the owner of the estate.

The Town of Winchester is a residential community and its principal income is derived from tax upon real estate. It should do everything in its power to aid the progress of such a development as Felsdale. In that connection the debate on the floor of the Town Hall at the last Town Meeting was most encouraging. All indications certainly point to the removal of the tower next year, and when that is accomplished I confidently believe that building activity will be resumed here on a larger scale than ever before.

The Star learns that while Patrolmen James P. Donaghey and Joseph Derro of the Police Department were searching about Black Ball Pond for a supposed suicide on Monday they became engaged in an argument as to whether or not fish could live in the contaminated water. Patrolman Donaghey wagered there were fish in the pond, Patrolman Derro bet there were not. "Jim" Johnston, who was with them, wouldn't commit himself beyond the belief that there might be a few "suckers" there. The trio had gone only a few yards along the banks when they came upon a line pickered at a point near St. Mary's Convent. Unfortunately the fish was dead, but Patrolman Donaghey claimed its presence proved his contention, while Patrolman Derro averred a dead fish didn't count. Mr. Johnston refused to settle the argument and in the end all bets were called off.

Leonard Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Mr. Snyder, who is a junior at Harvard was one of a number of young men who each year offer their services to Sir Wilfred Grenfell. He illustrated his talk with motion pictures.

Summing It Up

The best cure for a bad depression, anybody knows, is to go deliberately forth and try to help with ones sympathy the gloom of somebody else.

Named by Englishman

The town of Hampton and Hampton Beach derive their present names from the earl of Southampton, one of the leaders of the Virginia company, and a friend or patron of Shakespeare. The name was probably abbreviated to "Hampton."

John S. Tsang of 15 Linden street, driving a Ford truck owned by Carter & Young Company of Main street, reported to the police that as he was headed north on Highland avenue near Mt. Vernon street struck a bicycle and knocked its rider, David H. Ward, 12, of 80 Walnut street to the ground. Tsang stated that the boy had turned his bicycle sharply and that it was only the quick action of the truck driver that prevented him from running over the boy. Ward was not injured although he had a narrow escape. Tsang told Traffic Officer Lloyd Cox that he could not help his being damaged.
